Greek Proposal Accepted by Molotov

Open Conference To All Questions On Peace Treaties

Adoption of Two-Thirds Rule in Voting Assured

By A. L. GOLDBERG

Paris, Aug. — (AP)—Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia agreed today to a Greek proposal to open the Paris peace conference to all "questions pertaining to the draft of peace treaties."

In supporting the Greek motion, Mr. Molotov proposed that the rules of procedure of the conference be amended to include the statement that:

"The conference may place on its agenda at the request of any delegation the question of amending to the draft of peace treaties."

The motion was made by Constantin Apostolos Dendias, Greek radio to London, who said that the conference should be thrown open to any peace question not now on the agenda. Before Mr. Molotov broke the motion was opposed by Masha Piladi, Yugoslav and Andrei Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, member of the Ukranian delegation, who declared the proposal was a "disguised form" of bringing up the disputed question of a simple majority as against a two-thirds majority rule for voting in the conference.

The Greek proposal asked that the decision placing any new matter on the agenda be by a simple majority vote.

Mr. Manuilsky said article 18 of the United Nations charter required a two-thirds majority for voting. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs and chairman of the session, opposed the proposal, said that Mr. Manuilsky's interpretation of the U. N. article was "correct."

"This is only a recommending article and I think it should not be altered everything and send it back to the finish," the four-star general told Dr. Evatt.

Mr. Molotov's amendment permitting the conference to discuss all questions relating to the peace treaties was adopted in a harmonious atmosphere.

A Polish proposal that each country be admitted on an equal footing to all conference committees was defeated, 11 to 5, in the first test vote held to fix the rules committee.

The United States abstained. Russia, Yugoslavia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Ukraine, White Russia, France, Britain, India, Norway and New Zealand voted "yes." Belgium, Brazil, Canada, China, Ethiopia, Greece, The Netherlands, South Africa and Luxembourg voted "yes."

Oshawa Girl Dies In Car Accident At Glenora

Picton, Aug. 1.—An automobile accident late yesterday afternoon claimed the life of ten-year-old Eleanor Dinsmore of Oshawa, Mlivin McKinnon of Cape Breton, N.S., was admitted to Prince Edward County hospital here, and four others had a miraculous escape from death.

The car in which the party was riding went out of control on a corner on the Lake-on-the-Mountain, ripped down a fence and turned over several times. The top was caved in and the body crushed into a mass of wreckage.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon-ard Ditchburn, Oshawa, former residents of Picton district, the girl had been visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton-Monroe, who reside at Glenora, east of the town. She was riding in the front seat of the car along with the driver of the car, her uncle, Harold Munroe, and Miss Eileen Hurrie, of Oshawa.

In the rumble seat were Mrs. A. Hurrie, Leighton Moore and Melvin McKinnon. Mr. McKinnon suffered severe scalp lacerations and concussion but his condition is favorable. The others escaped with bruises and cuts.

Constable was visiting in the district, having been a shipmate of Constable Evans at Picton. He was both serving in the R.C.N.V.R.

Constable Earl Marvin investigated and intimated that a charge would be laid against the driver of the car. No inquest will be held, Coroner Dr. D. S. Lightball stated.

Pity the War Crimes Justices—They Just Sit and Sit and Sit

By HAL BOYLE

Nuernberg, Aug. 1 (AP) — Sitzkrieg Kelly had nothing on the eight judges of the international military tribunal.

He never sat for eight months on a bench without a working day off. The judges have.

Since last Nov. 20, no member of the tribunal has been absent from the courtroom in the case of humanity versus 21 men and a few Nazi gangs. Martin Bormann, Hitler's twilight deputy, believed dead but lurking still is absentia.

The 21 men are Goering and Hess and other prominent executioner of the Swastika. Hanging over them is the made more remarkable by the fact that the judges from Britain, the United States and France are all in their elder years. The two Russians are the freshmen of the bench in point of age.

They sit in winds towards an expected verdict in September some 1,500 persons and nine electronic translating machines are still kept busy turning justice's wheels grind.

The transcript of testimony and arguments now runs about 14,000 pages, and is increasing at better than a hundred pages a day.

Indicative of the falling world interest in the trial has been the small-paced drama is the shrinking size of correspondents from 300 newspapermen representing 23 countries to 75 men and women from eight countries. Britain has the largest representation.

There were 240,827 words of news copy filed the day Justice Robert Jackson, the American prosecutor, made his opening statement. On July 1 the daily file dropped to 7,200 words. Throughout the trial it has averaged about 65,000 words.

UNION PROPOSES WAGE INCREASE ON INSTALMENT PLAN

General Increase Of 15½c Payable In Three Instalments Starting With 10c

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)— The national advisory committee of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) today proposed settlement of the steel strike on terms of wage increases totalling 15 1-2 cents-an-hour, payable in instalments, and further upward adjustments should the cost-of-living index continue to rise.

The union's original demand was for increases of 19 1-2 cents.

The proposal was placed before the Commons Industrial Relations Committee by H. Mitchell, Canadian director of the union. The committee is seeking an interim, or 18-day strike which has affected some 15,000 workers at plants of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., Sydney, N.S.

The union committee said its wage proposals, which were linked with proposals on hours, vacations and union security, would have to be submitted to the union membership for final acceptance. The advisory committee was prepared to recommend them if it had assurance they would be implemented without modification.

What It Would Cost

The proposals:

Wages—A general increase of 15 1-2 cents an hour payable in three instalments—10 cents retroactive to April 1, 1946; 3 1-2 cents effective Oct. 1, 1946 and 2 cents effective April 1, 1946. A monthly adjustment, commencing January, 1947, of one cent per hour for each point advance in the cost of living index (July 1 is 23.6 points) and of the differential by which Sydney rates now get five cents an hour less than Ontario steelworkers.

Union security—the Rand formula, under which all employees must be subject to union dues but membership in the union is voluntary. The union originally asked a union shop which would require all employees to join the union.

Hours—A 44-hour week effective April 1, 1946, with the originally asked an immediate 40-hour week.

Vacations—One week after one year's service; two weeks after five years and three weeks after 25 years. The original request was two weeks for all employees.

Yugoslav Delegation Opposed to Compromise Solution on Trieste

Paris, Aug. 1 —(AP)— The Yugoslav delegation served notice at the peace conference today that it would not accept the compromise solution on Trieste.

The foreign ministers council recently expert established Trieste as international territory under United Nations authority. The U. N has not accepted the responsibility, however.

Edvard Kardelj, Yugoslav vice premier and spokesman for Premier Marshal Tito's peace conference delegation, attacked the so-called "French line" of demarcation between Italy and Yugoslavia.

UNION MOTORCADE NOW IN OTTAWA TO MEET GOVT.

Delegates Will be Picked From 500 Representatives to Meet Industrial Com.

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)—To the wail of a bagpipe, more than 500 Ontario representatives of unaffected labor unions marched on Parliament Hill this morning to give voice to demands for hikes in wages and better conditions.

Shortly before, at a mass meeting in a nearby park, they had selected 20 from among their numbers to sit in on a meeting of the Industrial Relations Committee of the Commons.

There C. H. Millard of Toronto, Canadian Director of the United Steelworkers of America, placed the union's latest proposals for settlement of the strike before the committee.

Representing 50,000 striking followers of the Canadian Congress of Labor, the representatives were led by Mr. Millard at their mass meeting that after two weeks of investigation the stage now was set in the committee for labor to make recommendations which will be the basis for settlement of the steel dispute.

Not Trade Union

Mr. Millard said "labor has not been taken into partnership nor has it been consulted by government agencies. Employers have had undue influence on the actions of the government."

He said "we will make recommendations this morning that will pave the way for real wages." Given the increase was given, they want an insurance policy that they won't be eaten up by the rising cost of living."

Want a Decision

George Burt, Canadian Director of the United Automobile Workers of America advised the members to single out the members of parliament for their committee. He urged them to demand that the strikers would not leave until a satisfactory basis was reached.

Mr. Burt said that "some committee members represent opposite interests to those of the unions and they are using the leaders of the union to be undemocratic."

He urged the union representatives to impress on the members of parliament for their constituencies that each striker was wholeheartedly behind the strike.

DREW STRESSES LABOR TOPICS AT PORT STANLEY

Premier Says Ontario Government Believes in Rights of Labor

Port Stanley, Ont., Aug. 1— (CP) — Premier Drew of Ontario's newest labor issue last night when he addressed the Progressive Conservative party's Western Ontario Associations' rally here.

He said the government has no desire to see Confederation has gone more to ensure collective bargaining and to guard the rights of labor than this government.

"We believe in the rights of labor. We believe in the establishment of strong union organizations."

He added that "never on any occasion has this government intended to destroy the rights of labor of any union. Any time we sent provincial police into a strike it was at the request of municipal authorities that they needed assistance or were to enforce the laws of the land — not at our own discretion.

"I can assure you that as long as I am head of the government all laws, whether they be Dominion, provincial or municipal will be enforced regardless of who the offender shall be."

Mr. Drew said labor-relations Premier Drew said his government had been given a mandate to "keep Ontario strong," and that he would not hesitate to use any method threaten the development and expansion of the province.

"Proud though we are of Ontario, we are first of all Canadians," he said. "We want the strength of this province to be the sheet anchor for the rest of Canada. We want other provinces to have the full benefit of development and we are willing to pull them if necessary forward at top speed.

"However, we will not enter into any agreement that is going to limit our own possibilities of development since the beginning. Ontario has favored a free competitive system and a bandle national and international affairs."

Twelve Chinese Out Of 300 Ambushers

Peiping, Aug. 1 (AP)— The United States Marine Corps today announced that an estimated 12 Chinese were killed among the 300 who ambushed a marine convoy Monday southeast of Peiping.

The Corps has placed marine casualties at three dead and 13 wounded.

Yenan radio claimed today that the clash, which it called a new ambush, actually was an attack by more than 60 marines and 90 Chinese government troops on a village, compelling Communist soldiers "to defend themselves."

Marine patrols travel the Tientsin-Peiping highway, every third day to protect the route for convoys necessary to marine forces at United States executive headquarters in Pieping.

COMMONS BEGINS STUDY OF 12 BILLS TO AID VETERANS

Pensions Act Amended And More Generous Treatment to be Given Vets of First War

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)— The Commons yesterday began study of the first of 12 bills which eventually will form part of Canada's veterans charter and also devoted two hours to discussion of the shortage of farm implements in the west.

The first veterans bill to come before the House was one amending the Pensions Act and suggested changes in treatment of veterans of the First War.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South) served notice he would renew efforts to have the Veterans Department agree that a veteran should not be denied a pension because of a pre-enlistment disability if he was accepted for enlistment by the service.

Other speakers included A. J. Brooks (CCF-Battleford), Hon. T. (Ted) L. Tenisecoats, T. J. Bentley (CCF-Swift Current), Hyacinthe Cardin (SC-Acadia), and Rev. J. H. Matthews (CCF-Kootenay East).

The discussion on farm implements arose on a motion by Peter Wright (CCF-Melfort) that the House adjourn to consider the urgent matter of the shortage, which he said had been created by massive exports resulting from the desire of producers to take advantage of higher prices in export markets.

Wants Provision Removed

In the veterans discussion, Mr. Green said he had sought in the Commons to have Veterans Committee removal of the provision under which veterans were denied pensions on the grounds they were suffering from pre-enlistment origin. He would renew his attempts when the bill reached committee stage.

He also urged that the veterans' organizations be included to all government jobs not under the Civil Service Act, and that preference in employment in crown companies, and that the bill should compel civilian employers to grant wider preference to returned men.

Mr. Brooks said parliament should take steps to provide for the future the question of building homes for older veterans who have had no one to look after them. Canada owes a debt to those who have served and had many old soldiers in destitute circumstances.

Mr. Pouliot suggested a check-up of each case of pensioners of the First War of the First Great War to determine that the money was going to those who needed it and reserved it. Pensions were paid to the legal representatives of the departed and those who could not earn a living.

Mr. Bentley said the C. C. F. party would accept the veterans legislation in principle but would like to see some provision made for the rehabilitation of those who had become disabled.

Mr. Cardin said the C. C. F. party would accept the veterans legislation in principle but would like to see some provision made for the rehabilitation of those who had become disabled.

Mr. Matthews said the C. C. F. party would accept the veterans legislation in principle but would keep an eye on its operation and suggest any changes it thought to be necessary.

Night Club Orchestra Sweats Through Five Weeks With Owners as Audience

Philadelphia, Aug. 1. (AP)— The night club was "jumpin' with jive" but for five weeks the seven-piece orchestra had no audience.

The musicians sweated out the nights as though the paying customers were in the closed Coronet restaurant for the supper show— because the owners "like music".

Tomorrow night the club opens for business and and Jules Lavan's band "takes a powder"— to look for a new job.

Owners Joseph Fine and Dan Geroan have had themselves $3,000 in the hole time, old and new, since they bought the Coronet on July 2.

They closed the club the same night but found themselves with an orchestra contract signed with the former bosses.

"Sure," Joe Fine said, "we won't be re-opening until August 1st. It was okay for a while to go around. Let's make a settlement."

Lavan held out for five weeks' pay.

"Okay," said Fine. "If like music, so we'll have music—every night on contract schedule."

So it was "play or be paid."

And every night Fine and Geroan sat, with a few pasteboards, drifted in sat and listened.

"No hard feelings," Fine said. "It's just that I like music."

Kingston Hardware Heaviest Loser; 7 Stores Damaged

Fire Originates From Short Circuit in Wiring on Truck

Kingston, Aug. 1. (CP)— One of the worst fires in Kingston's history swept through the downtown Clown, Ltd., hardware store early today and caused damage estimated by Fire Chief Victor Brightman at between $800,000 and $1,000,000.

The Chief said the estimate included smoke and water damage to several neighboring stores in the Princess and Bagot Streets section, the business district's business district.

The walls of the five-storey main building of the hardware company still are standing but the stock of hardware, sporting goods appears to have been destroyed. Only items saved were two partially-burned fur coats and a few articles of china which came through the fire unscathed in the Princess Street show window.

Covered by Insurance

D. M. Chown, president of the company, said his business, including warehouses in the city, is covered by a blanket fire insurance policy and he will be able to make an accurate estimate of damage until he has had determined what stock was in the store at the time of the fire.

Firemen said the structure probably would have to be re-built. Repair work was said to be out of the question.

Flames, which in the second serious fire in about three years in the block, in the winter of 1944 a fire in the Woolworth store, in the same block as the Chown building, caused loss of $150,000.

In Business 100 Years

The Chown firm has done business in Kingston for nearly 100 years. For a number of the two branches but eight years ago the business of Edwards, Chown and Sons and A. Chown were amalgamated into Chown Ltd., with D. M. Chown as president.

The Chown store, a four-storey, honey-stone on "L" with openings on two streets. The hardware property surrounded the hour's Drug Store, Coats' Jewelry Store and the United Cigar Store and Restaurant.

Firemen worked from an extension ladder to fight flames which leaped from the roof of the Coats' Store. Officials of the company estimated loss at $50,000.

Two Firemen Injured

Two firemen were slightly injured as they battled the blaze. One was knocked unconscious when he was caught in a back draft explosion during early stages of the fire and returned to the job after hospital treatment. Another was treated for a sprained ankle while working on a roof.

At times the flames reached 100 feet into the air and dense clouds of grey and black smoke swirled across the business district. Firemen took five hours to bring the blaze under control.

At noon today Fire Chief Brightman said he expected it would be three hours before he could send his men home.

Typewriter Gremlin Causes Labor Dept. Much Embarrassment

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)—There was fairly general agreement in certain sections of the labor department today that a mistake had been mistaken for a zero at a more unpropitious moment.

It happened sometime during the mechanical process of making public the decision of the National War Labor Board approving a 10 cents—let us repeat, 10 cents—an hour increase for employees of the International Business Machine Co., Ltd., of Toronto.

The decision came out two days ago, just about the time the headlines were proclaiming that figure as the point beyond which Donald Gordon, Prices Board Chairman, had said general increases should not go. That was what Mr. Gordon said, and, by a happy coincidence, that was the figure the Board had set.

But out came this announcement and the zero in the 10 was a nine. The recommended raise was not 10 cents but 19 cents.

In at least one strike-bound plant workers began to rumble "why should they get 19 cents when the union had anything but 10 cents would start inflation. That reaction undoubtedly was not in Business 100 Years

Hurriedly but belatedly, the labor department put out a corrective yesterday. then began looking for the flaw in the machine.

A board official put it down to "just a little indistinct blur" which fastened itself to the zero in the 10 on the mimeographed copy of the decision. The guilty party, he said, was obviously a typewriter."

Mr. Gordon was not immediately available for comment.

Food Prices Edge Forward in Italy

Rome, Aug. 1 —(AP)— Publication of terms of the proposed peace treaty has contributed to the upward trend of prices and wages in Italy, disrupting Italy's economy.

Signs that the government's efforts to control prices were slipping a notch or two are unmistakable.

They range from an edging forward of food prices and wages to a rise in some stocks. For instance, on the Milan stock exchange shares recently jumped 500 lire a share (about $2.00) to 2,800 (about $2.00) during the last month.

Housewives are getting less food for their money. Olive oil is selling at 900 lire ($2.36) on Rome's black market, up 100 lire from a week ago. Bread costs more cheese and coffee are slightly higher.

Il Globo, under the headlines "Hunger and Fear," said that "prices are condemned and asked how, with the end of U.N.R.R.A. Italy can continue to pay for purchases of food.

Children Help Swell Fund For Needy Ones

Business is really booming at the corner of Dundas and Victoria Avenues at a little after noon today and run by a number of the neighborhood children, where lemonade and limeade are sold.

The stand opened on Wednesday and the youngsters are stopping to serve their eager customers.

"Why, we sold two whole bottles of lime before noon," the lemonade girl said with pride. "There is only a little pitcher of the lemonade left, too." Another one happened to explain that there would be lots on hand for the afternoon customers.

Selling their wares for a nickel a glass, the children plan to operate until, in the words of one child, "we run out of their new money; at least five dollars." The total proceeds are to be sent to the Toronto Star Fresh Air Fund and a gaily colored sign with pictures of some of the children to benefit by the fund is placed before the stand, ideally situated under cool shade trees.

The proprietors of Belleville's newest business are Bobby Jeffery, Ann Jeffery, Dick Jeffery, Bobby Langdon, Larry Langdon, Laura Jeffery and Carol Ann Berry.

Drove Motor Car While Licence Was Suspended

For driving while his operator's license was under suspension, Albert Marsele of Shannonville was fined $25 and costs in Magistrate's Court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills on Thursday morning.

According to Traffic Officer Samuel Irvine who investigated, Marsele had been involved in a motor accident on the evening of July 12th., being subsequently charged with careless driving and with driving while his license was under suspension. The fines and costs was the penalty levied on the careless driving charge. The accused pleaded guilty in both instances.

"I take an exceedingly poor view of persons who drive in defiance of Highway Department regulations," stated Magistrate Wills when he fined the fines.

Traffic cases took up most of the morning court proceedings with two contested charges of careless driving being heard. The charges arose out of the same accident occurring at Jones Creek on July 20th., in which Leo Hamilton and Don Valleau were involved.

Charges of arson against William J. Prince, Moira, were again enlarged for one week.

Fire Situation In New Brunswick Much Improved

Moncton, N.B., Aug. 1 (CP)— Under considerably higher humidity, the forest fire situation in New Brunswick early today was better than at any time during the last month, provincial forest service officials declared.

A heavy fog during the night and early morning helped to check the fires, nearly dormant in places.

While the situation was not appreciably cheerful, it was nowhere as dangerous as Tuesday last night indicated. Some local residents spent a sleepless night.

A tour of the whole fire front disclosed that increasing humidity as the night progressed helped keep down the flames. All over the area, covering more than 30 square miles in Kent and Westmorland Counties, there were only more than a dozen active blazes at midnight. However, the fires were still burning slowly or smouldering in the ground, ready to flare up if a strong wind arose.

UNION PROPOSES

Mr. Millard said the union was "no longer interested in wage trading" and added at another point "We must urge and insist that the subsidiary and branch plants of the three companies in big steel should be included in this settlement."

Must be Retroactive

In support of its revised wage program the union declared that its steel prices were advanced $5-a-ton April 1. Evidence before the committee indicated that at that time there was general expectation on the part of the Steel Co. of Canada and the Prices Board of a 10-cent rise in wages.

"If the steelworkers claims had been settled April 1, they would clearly have been entitled to an increase of at least 10 cents on that date and from that date," he said. "Thus the first point in the settlement of the wage issue must be an increase of 10 cents-an-hour retroactive to April 1, 1946.

"The situation today is not at all what it was on April 1. Since April 1 the cost-of-living index has risen by at least 5½ points to July 1 and it will undoubtedly stand even higher today."

"Therefore, in order to preserve the purchasing power of their pay envelopes the workers ought to have at least 15½ cents per hour to compensate for the increase in the cost-of-living," he said.

Mr. Millard recalled that Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, had asked the union to be given a breathing spell in which to get ahead with production, for a postponement of wage increases which would put pressure on the price ceiling. He told the committee in that regard the union suggested the Relations Board be empowering until late in the year the increase in compensation for advances in living costs since April 1st.

Mr. Millard told newspapermen: "We feel this is our final and best offer. We feel it is fair and reasonable and ought to find favor with the committee, the government and the public."

The union leader said while his union would agree to get its claims to the fires, nearly dormant in places.

While the situation was not appreciably cheerful, it was nowhere as dangerous as Tuesday last night indicated. Some local residents spent a sleepless night.

A tour of the whole fire front disclosed that increasing humidity as the night progressed helped keep down the flames. All over the area, covering more than 30 square miles in Kent and Westmorland Counties, there were only more than a dozen active blazes at midnight. However, the fires were still burning slowly or smouldering in the ground, ready to flare up if a strong wind arose.

Palestine Plan Well Received By British Press

London, Aug. 1 (Reuters)—The British government's Palestine plan generally was received well by the British press today.

Some papers criticized the fact that the United States, which was part author of the plan and accepted, is not to take a more active part in the administration.

The London Times Said: "The plan plainly offers substantial advantages both to Jews and Arabs in the matter of their most serious consideration. While it leaves the prospect and effective self government and real progress to both communities and removes each of fear of domination by the other, it does not prejudice the ultimate evolution of the country as a whole."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian said: "... it slightly better than as at first thought, but still there are still grave objections."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said: "It must be realized that neither side should accept the plan in the overt or covert beliefs that it will be a springboard towards its larger aspirations. The plan might have good farther towards partition than it does."

The Conservative Daily Mail: "Both the Jews and the Arabs now have the chance to prove the claim they have always made — that they can govern themselves with wisdom and responsibility."

The Liberal News Chronicle: "The utmost speed should be used in seeking to bring the Jewish and Arab representatives together for a conference on the plan in the hope that an amicable settlement can be reached."

The Labor Daily Herald: "The plan does not attempt to fix the destiny of Palestine. What it does first and foremost is to provide a machinery and in particular an immediately ahead a conflict between the two communities can be allayed by their own decisions and the interests of mankind as a whole."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express: "Will the Jews and the Arabs accept the scheme? Asking that acceptance, will otherwise governments and in particular the United States take part with us in enforcing a plan to which the Jews or the Arabs object? Unhappily the United States is so far committed as part of the prospective burden of administration and maintenance of order."

OPEN CONFERENCE

Britain, in opposing the Dutch proposal, said the rights of every country would be safeguarded by final consideration of every resolution on the general session floor. The French said having all committees composed of delegates from all countries would be too cumbersome.

Meanwhile, an Australian source said that delegation might consider Soviet Russia's claim to $1,000,000,000 reparations, as written into the present drafts.

The Australian source said Dr. Evatt probably would propose a fact finding commission to draft a bill of particulars showing how Soviet Russia arrived at her claim for damages.

Canadian sources said several small conciliation silos are taking a serious view of treaty proposals for Italy to cede the Briga and Tenda border areas to France.

Mr. Byrnes' proposal, which calls for a two-thirds majority on all major matters, carries the proviso that any motion which receives a simple majority but fails to get two-thirds majority margin shall be sent to the Big Four Foreign Ministers with a request that it be given further consideration.

Mr. Byrnes has stated that any motion which receives a two-thirds majority would have the support when it comes up for consideration by the ministers.

If the Byrnes proposal is not approved, the Big Four plus the Australian delegation would be able to block any changes by the conference in the provisions of the peace treaties on which the Big Four Foreign Ministers are agreed.

This would mean that decisions of the conference would be limited to those sections of the treaties on which the ministers were unable to agree at their last two meetings here.

Among the disputed sections are the matter of Italy's frontiers and the treatment of the Danube; the Greek-Bulgarian frontier; the Czech-Hungarian frontier; Italian reparations to Greece, Albania and Yugoslavia; questions of economic access to Balkan nations; and a series of economic provisions.

The treaty drafts, as prepared by the ministers, were made public Wednesday. They parallel a section on which the ministers failed to agree and on which they were unable to agree. The treaties are with Italy, Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary and Romania.

Foreign Minister Molotov said yesterday that a simple majority rule would place the "Anglo-Saxons and their satellites" in the minority."

Claims Document Harsh

Rome, Aug. 1 (AP)— The Italian delegation declared last night that the proposed Italian treaty presented to the Council of Conference in Paris was a harsh document "endangered the security and independence of the nation."

A communique issued by the cabinet after a five-hour session said the document "would seem unusually and painfully impressed by the harshness of the draft treaty compiled without consulting the Italian government on essential questions."

The cabinet was particularly concerned by the territorial questions, about the economic clauses which imperilled the possibility of Italy's economic development."

Published in Abridged Form

Bucharest, Aug. 1 (AP) —The proposed peace treaty for Rumania was published in abridged form yesterday, with newspapers forbidden to print editorial comment.

The reasons for these restrictions were not given.

Editorial comment generally would be favorable, but some of the comment indicated Rumania would try to obtain better economic terms and a reduction of reparations.

BEVIN HAS TIRED HEART

London, Aug. 1 — (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Bevin, prevented by illness from leading the British delegation at the Paris peace conference, is suffering from a heart ailment, his political friend said last night. Although "it is not serious," he needs steady progress towards recovery. For treatment, he is unlikely to resume work "this week or next."

UNION MOTORCADE

In cars placarded with signs bespeaking labor's "just demands and need for higher wages," they were out bright and early to join their confrere for lining the "rank and file" version of strikes in Canadian industries.

Their first mass meeting was called to pick delegates they believed would most ably represent minister St. Laurent, labor minister Mitchell and the Industrial Relations Committee which is inquiring into the strike at three basic steel plants.

Their move on the capital was prompted, by the statement of Mr. Justice W. D. Roach of the Ontario Supreme Court, Industrial disputes commissioner in the current steel strike, that the labor leadership was a "dictatorship" and that the wage increases than the 10 cents an hour spoken of by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, in appearances before the committee. They also want a cut in working hours and other benefits.

C. S. Jackson, international representative of the Electrical Workers, told reporters "we will remain here until our demands are satisfied and if they are not we will, then we will stick around until they are substantially met."

He and George Burt, national president of the Association of Workers, were on hand early to greet the delegates. In a prepared press statement, Mr. Burt said "the rank and file certainly was consulted by labor representatives and as it is utterly impossible to take Ottawa to the rank and file we have succeeded in bringing the rank and file to Ottawa."

Among those arriving were Harry Hanson, Welland; George Bennet, St. Catharines and Jack Scherer, Kitchener.

The explanation of a strike consisted of some 30 cars carrying 150 men and union officials and at least 300 more delegates were still to come.

They went directly to the city's tourist information bureau where arrangements had been made to billet the men in hotels and tourist homes.

With Toronto delegates forming a nucleus, the motorcade gathered token forces from Windsor, Hamilton, Chatham, Peterboro, Kitchener and other places where strikes are in progress and stopped at Kingston last night to attend a large meeting, union officials said.

Unions represented in the delegation are United Electrical Workers, United Rubber Workers, United Automobile Workers, United Steelworkers and International Union of Mine, Mill and the Smelting delegates.

Ten Burned In Liner Fire, 1,060 Imperilled

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 1 —(AP)— The liner Duque de Caxias, pride of the Brazilian transport fleet, was towed slowly toward this port last night after a boiler explosion set her afire, killing 10 sailors and nine passengers and imperilling 1,060 other passengers. The 11,000-ton ship, built in 1944 by the American liner Orizaba, was devastated by flames broken out six miles off the coast. The 28-year-old veteran of 12½ was served in the invasion of Sicily and in Pacific campaigns and had helped succor survivors of the British liner Athenia, first victim of German submarines in the Second Great War. She went to Brazil on lend-lease.

Destruction Prevented.

Several passengers were injured before the British merchantman Dover Hill and Brazilian warships saved them. Three submarine chasers brought 672 survivors to Rio de Janeiro and the Dover Hill was expected to dock before midnight.

The 300 crew members of the Duque de Caxias remained aboard and with the help of 17 warships, three merchantmen and two planes, beat down the flames and kept them from eating to the oil stores. The navy said that prevented destruction of the vessel.

The ship sailed late Tuesday for Naples carrying many Portuguese for Lisbon, a port of call, and a number of Italian priests and nuns and crews of Italian ships interned here during the war. It was the largest of Brazilian transports, was built at Philadelphia and rebuilt at Tampa, Fla.

The passenger list was one of the largest ever to sail from Rio, and an unconfirmed report had it that more than 20 had been killed.

TALKS WITH TRUMAN

London, Aug. 1 — (CP)—The Evening Star said Prime Minister Attlee had an "important" trans-Atlantic telephone talk with President Truman today "to discuss a number of questions arising out of his talks on Palestine" with State Secretary Byrnes of the United States in Paris.

Deputy Minister Of Public Works For Ontario Dies

Toronto, Aug. 1 — (CP) — R. A. McAllister, deputy minister of public works for Ontario since 1937, died early today of a heart attack.

A native of Cobourg, Ont., Mr. McAllister was in business in Windsor, Ont., before becoming district engineer of the Department of Highways at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., in 1924.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Gauley of Sault Ste. Marie, and two sons, Thomas and Daniel.

Claims "Iron Curtain" Phrase Plagiarized From Goebbels' Article

Moscow, Aug. 1 (AP)— The Communist Party newspaper Pravda asserted today that Winston Churchill plagiarized the expression "iron curtain" from Paul Joseph Goebbels, German Propaganda Minister who died in the ruins of Berlin.

"The term 'iron curtain' was used first by Goebbels in an article published Feb. 23, 1945, in the weekly Das Reich," the Pravda article said. "He (Churchill) adopted somebody else's expression without naming the author and he is a plagiarist rather than an initiator."

The British wartime Prime Minister made the phrase memorable in an address at Fulton, Mo., last March. Mr. Churchill referred to censorship and other restrictions which he said prevented the western world from ascertaining conditions in Russia and Russian-dominated countries in eastern Europe.

$30,000 Reward For Arrest, Conviction Of Slayers of Negroes

Monroe, Ga., Aug. 1 (AP) — Rewards, posted by private organizations for the arrest and conviction of the men who shot four Negroes to death near here approached the $30,000-mark today. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced in New York last night that it offered $10,000 matching the reward by Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia shortly after the July 25 lynchings. The C.I.O. National Maritime Union added $5,00 0in honor of 6,000 merchant seamen who died in the Second Great War.

9 Russians Sentenced For Total of 62 Years

Moscow, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Seven men and two women were sentenced to prison terms totalling 62 years today on charges of accepting bribes for apartment space and for the sale of railroad and boat tickets.

Tass news agency said that many other similar cases were pending.

N. A. Ignotova, woman chief of the housing section of the Kirovo district of Moscow, received the heaviest sentence — 10 years. She was convicted of accepting bribes from various persons, some of whom are willing to pay thousands of rubles for rooms and apartments in crowded areas.

REJECTS U. S. PROPOSAL

Moscow, Aug. 1 —(AP)—The Russian Foreign Office announced today it has rejected a United States proposal for formation of a Russian, American and British joint commission to study economic restoration in Hungary.

The foreign office said in a statement published in Izvestia that the Hungarian government could do the task better. It asserted it was "altogether untrue" that the Russian army lived on the country.

Traffic and Safety

Traffic accidents in Ontario have increased by more than 53 per cent, and fatalities in traffic by 49 per cent over last year. This is the statement of the Hon. George H. Doucett, Minister of Highways. The death toll to the end of April this year was 158, which, means an average of eleven more deaths a month than last year.

Violent deaths are distressing and should stir the entire public to the need for the greatest care possible at all times.

The minister's own words in respect to the situation are: "The tragic waste of life and health is due in the vast majority of cases to impatience, preoccupation, and poor judgment on the part of motorists and of people on foot."

By this the citizen, whether motorist or pedestrian, has a means of measuring himself up to his responsibilities in connection with the use of highways and roads. No one should forget these three causes, given as the source of "the vast majority" of accidents. A year's toll is appalling in the number of people who lose their lives and of the many more who suffer injuries which may cripple them, put them and the country to great expense and loss, besides causing the greatest destruction of material wealth when motor vehicles are cracked up or are in collision.

Hon. Mr. Doucett's list of the chief causes in the great majority of cases should be recognized by each and every one and put himself to the test to see how truly he can say that in respect of none of these will he leave himself blameable, by "impatience pre-occupation and poor judgment." If all will endeavor to satisfy what is required of those who drive motor vehicles or use the roads on foot, the tragic list will dwindle greatly and motoring will be more enjoyable without the blight of tragedy and damage.

The motorcar and motortruck are a part of modern civilization and motorists and pedestrians are acquainted with the ordinary precautions in safety. Unfailing alertness pays rich dividends in safety but all must co-operate since while many may strictly follow the regulations and exercise common sense and caution one person may upset this carefulness of others and cause an accident.

Shipbuilding

Among the many efforts of Britain in getting back to a peacetime basis is to be noted the activity of the shipyards which are more active now than they have been in a quarter of a century. It was four years after the First World War that the yards were busiest and then the nation was endeavoring to establish the losses of the war 1918. At the present time there is about one and three quarter million tons of shipping under construction, including 193 steamships and no fewer than 187 motor ships. It is stated that the tempo of construction is more than half of the shipbuilding taking place in the known world. Figures for Russia, Germany and Japan are lacking.

Britons have been the great commerce bearers of the modern world, they have in this way built up great merchant fleets and have done a vast amount of development in exploiting trade across the world. The unit which the world is coming to be owes no little of its development to the enterprise of the British people on the seaways of the world.

British enterprise continues after the major and wearisome effort of the late war. Britain's merchant shipping will be on all the seas, widening the bounds of civilization and extending her great commerce.

Britons have been shipbuilders for generations. They built sailing ships for ages; they build modern ships and will continue to be in the forefront of shipbuilding and trade that moves in ships.

Her shipyards are symbols of the enterprise of Britain on the seas.

What Fire Means

In this period if ever the greatest care should be taken about the home in respect to fire. Fires at this time are extremely disastrous for they wipe out property which has meant shelter and which has housed furniture and clothing and stores and all the possessions of occupants — all this in a day when there is a shortage of a very acute character in supplies and replacements. Restoration of burned property will be very difficult or impossible what with an overwhelming demand for new housing and shortage of materials of many kinds.

Everyone realizes that there was a great backlog of work which accumulated during the war years and that even before Christmas there is the urge for expansion in this post-war period. Demands are therefore heavy in everything necessary for construction of a home or a business property.

Fate is Character

In his address to the French people, Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared that the greatness of a nation lies first of all within itself and not in the circumstances in which it may be placed.

He called for a new outpouring of courage under all the temptations of fatigue. Like a ship that puts out to sea having hardly touched port, so must his country, having emerged into freedom, face once more the necessity of struggling. "It is the eternal burden and greatness of France," he said, "not to cease trying, for her to cease trying would mean to disappear."

His address concluded with the question: "Where is the future?" And with the answer: "It is within us."

One hears here, from another land and under different circumstances, the same plea to look inwardly for strength that made great the words of Winston Churchill in England's hour of trial. There is here the perception of the truth that under all the trials of environment, the real testing is within. It is the theme of George Meredith's lines:

> In tragic life, God wot,
> No villain need be. Passions spin the plot:
> We are betrayed by what is false within.

It remains true for nations, no less than for individuals, that fate is character.

—Montreal Gazette.

They'll Learn to Like 'Em

The Japanese, we learn from the motion picture industry's Public Information Committee, are to be allowed to see about 60 Hollywood productions this year — and they are not to be allowed to cut off the happy endings. The point is that Japanese playgoers traditionally have liked tragedy, even suffering. Japanese exhibitors before the war substituted "happy endings" sometimes saccharine conclusions—even allowing the pictures to end with their plots all snarled up. This, we learn, was a concession to the national policy of pseudo-asceticism. But now, like 'em or not, they are going to get the happy endings.

To some, this may appear to be cruel and unusual punishment for a defeated foe —considering that in some of the pictorial denouements we have seen. But, on the other hand, maybe that revelling in abuse, unhappiness, and domination is what was responsible for the subjects of the Emperor. Maybe Hollywood is doing Nipponese a favor. Anyhow, the producers are getting about $200,000 a month out of it and they can afford it.

Newspaper Facts

According to one source, a paper called the 'Gazette' was published as early as 1457 AD in Nuernberg, Bavaria — The scene of the current Nazi Trials.

Hitler's personal standard, the silken black swastika surrounded by golden eagles, which the Fuehrer boasted would one day fly over Buckingham Palace, is now in London. It adorns a wall at the "Germany Under Control" exhibition in Oxford Street, together with Doenitz's personal standard, a gaudy emblem of black crosses encircling a golden eagle.

GRANDPA WISDOM

A grandpa, as I've often said,
Must know how fishing lines are thread,
And how the leaders should be tied
So minnows show their silver side.
For tiffee are matters of concern
To little boys who want to learn.

A grandpa, worth the name, must know
The proper way a boat to row.
He may be wise in business terms,
But he must know the place for worms
And how to fix them on a hook
Attractive to the fish to look.

A grandpa won't amount to much
If with the bass he's out of touch.
If he's forgotten where they lie
And where to cast a frog or fly,
Some other man who knows will be Considered wiser far than he.

Mrs. G. Ira Wills and three children of Port Arthur, Ontario, are spending a few days here with relatives.

Mr. Jasper Nolan of Detroit, Mich., is visiting Belleville boy, is home on a visit.

Police Magistrate O'Rourke of Trenton has left to spend some time in California.

40 YEARS AGO

August 1st., 1906

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schuster of Pittsburg, Pa., are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. A. Schuster, Dundas Street.

Mr. Schuster is a well-known old Belleville boy.

Mr. D. Sherwood Green of New York City, and formerly of the staff of the Belleville Daily Sun, is renewing acquaintances in town.

In a baseball match at Wellington yesterday afternoon the team of that village defeated a team from Bloomfield. They are the battery boy "Copper" Jordan and Tilly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Pratt of Portland, formerly of Belleville, are spending a vacation here.

One thing many Bellevillians would like to see is the river dredged so as the steamers could come up the river and dock at the lower bridge. The thought of the long walk to the wharf keeps many a weary soul from enjoying a sail on the bay and the cool bay breezes these hot days would bring.

50 YEARS AGO

It is many years since there were so many campers along the shore of the bay as there are at present.

M. Halpin, wife and three children were sailing near Massassaga Park yesterday afternoon when a squall struck the boat and capsized it. With the assistance of some of the guests at the hotel and the almost superhuman efforts of Mr. Halpin, they were all saved. It was a narrow escape as the children are all infants.

It is being noticed in Belleville when she approached the new grenoilitte crossing which is being laid on the market square. Her mind was soon made up and gathering up her skirts she boldly waded thru the fresh cement much to the enjoyment of the bystanders and to the consternation of the contractor employed on the job. The mud, she thought, was certainly deep.

Decide to Seek Scientific Data On Control System

By MAX HABBELSON

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—The United States Atomic Energy Commission turned to its science experts today for an answer to the controversial question as to whether a data control system is necessary to prevent the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes.

The 12-member scientific and technical committee, made up primarily of atomic experts, was called into session to tackle this question in the hope that it might break the deadlock between Russia and the United States.

The delegates decided to seek scientific advice after yesterday's three-hour closed session of committee No. 2, at which Soviet delegate Gromyko again insisted that a system of international inspection, as proposed by the United States, was unnecessary.

After it became apparent that little progress was being made toward reconciling the divergent views on control, Mexican delegate Luis Padilla Nervo suggested that the scientists might be better qualified to say what controls would be best.

His view was supported by French delegate Alexandre Parodi, who offered a proposal that the scientific and technical committee be asked to make a report on the quantity of control —how control could be affected, i. what danger and what specific means would be required. Meeting closed.

Prof. H. A. Kramers of The Netherlands, chairman of the scientific group, said that the task probably would require two or three weeks. Today's meeting was closed.

Most of yesterday's meeting was devoted to an elaboration of Russia's views as to what controls were needed to back up the Gromyko proposal for an international convention outlawing the production and use of atomic weapons.

In response to requests that he expand on his previous statements, Mr. Gromyko made these points:

1. That Russia is counting primarily on "effective international operation" to guarantee that no violations of the proposed treaty ban on the production of atomic weapons.

2. That, under the Soviet plan, each signatory state would agree to "unlimited access" to obtain severe punishment for the violation or to report violations.

3. That Russia favors international sanctions, if necessary, to punish violators through supplies of the security council.

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

Freedom of Press And Conference

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Hats off to the rules committee of the Paris Peace Conference for its action in voting to allow the press free access to proceedings of this meeting which is important to the rehabilitation of Europe and consequently to world stability.

It was stated Secretary Byrnes of the United States who made the motion for freedom of the press and radio treatment for the parley. He was immediately supported by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. It hasn't been often that the American and Soviet attitudes have been identical. Immediate agreement on any subject, and so this was a notable occasion, it was particularly noteworthy because Molotov has been a stickler for censorship of two of the world's powerful countries, the press and radio.

And the significance of this? Well, freedom of the press is the most accurate barometer there is by which to gauge the freedom of the people concerned. If there is no freedom of the press there is no freedom. They are right.

It is to be hoped that the present peace conference—and subsequent conferences—will throw a bright light on the secret and reported many foreign conferences that probably have been had to go down into the mines and dig out the facts that are buried. We got. And we had to move a lot of dirt to get at the ore.

The Yalta and Potsdam conference of a generation ago was a failure, largely because Russian and British delegations declared for open sessions, while the French and Italians, and Japanese favored secrecy—and they meant secrecy! President Truman and Prime Minister David Lloyd George were on a fight for open sessions and some concessions were granted, but for the most part it was the talking on the side.

Conference communiques were issued but they were what was good for us to know. The American press delegation's arrangements were very helpful. For the most part, however, we received no private information which we had built up over the years. This reporter had a good friend on one of the delegations was indeed lucky.

Roosevelt Close Quebec as Place For Conference

Washington, Aug. 1 — (AP) — Welshpool, Campobello Island, N.B., Aug. 1 (CP)— Some hitherto unrevealed details of the Churchill-Roosevelt war conferences at Quebec were given today in unveiling on this tide-beaten Bay of Fundy island of a memorial cairn to the most illustrious son—Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The memorial was presented with high representatives of Canada and the United States on an honor guard of the late President's favorite service—the navy—in attendance at the simple pile was unveiled. The guard had been drawn from the American and United States destroyers riding in the bay at Welshpool, Campobello Island.

Many of those present had been on the island something more than 10 years ago when Roosevelt had spent a couple hot dogs to his island neighbors and in the course of which the first Atomic conference of the war was held.

Churchill was present with the late President's family service—and, by attendance at the simple pile was unveiled. The guard had been drawn from the American and United States destroyers riding in the bay at Welshpool, Campobello Island.

The disclosure of the war conference details were made in a message from Prime Minister Mackenzie King read by Resources Minister Glen.

Suggested by Roosevelt

The meeting which it had been Mr. Roosevelt who first thought of, was held at the latter's summer conference with Mr. Churchill. It was recalled he had visited Lord Tweedsmuir at the citadel when he was Governor-General at Quebec and had chosen it as an ideal place for a war conference.

Mr. King quoted Mr. Roosevelt being made to restore peace along the Canadian border. Mr. Roosevelt had worked.

"To myself," Mr. King wrote, "in the intimacy of our [illegible] friend, there is much of consolation that the life of the Canadian delegation to the peace conferences at Paris will be able to join with representatives of our own and other nations in furtherance of his policy of the good neighbor, a good neighbor of both the United States alone, but of all countries."

Mr. Roosevelt and her family and their continued association with Canada and Campobello Island, Mr. Mackenzie King said, Jacobite song: "Better loved ye cannot be, will ye no come back again...."

Today, children, I offer you a tonic for the heart—there is not anything it merits that designation. Moreover it can do no harm in any case. QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Food Source of Iodine

What foods are the principle sources of iodine, and do foods contain enough to supply the iodine the body requires for health? (Mrs. Ger. H. Ker)

Answer—Fish from the sea, shell fish such as lobster, clams, oysters, shrimp, Irish moss, and vegetables planted in soils laid on the best sources of iodine. In my opinion most people get insufficient iodine in food and drinking water and should supplement the little they do get with regular daily ration—for detailed information send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing (not by clipping this paragraph) for the pamphlet "The Iodin Ration."

Plus Flesh

I'm 14 and self-conscious about my weight. Last time I was weighed at school I weighed 138 pounds. I am tall for my age (5 feet 5 inches) but my legs are too large — heavy — they're chapply — too big. My family have lots of faith in you—mother has a great book of clippings from your articles. Please tell me what diet. (N. T.)

Answer—No, Nanette. It would be dangerous to your health to reduce your good looks to reduce your weight. It may be that your weight requirements are 138 pounds. 138 is not an ounce too much for a girl of your stature. You know the ideal woman 65 inches tall weighs 118 lbs. of pounds added "health, good looks, longevity 'n' everything. Just keep yourself well nourished. Get sufficient daily exercise—walking, hiking, bicycling, swimming, tennis, dancing, calisthenics. If you will write again, inclosing a stamped self addressed envelope and your mother's approval, I'll recipe you. In the meantime if you city who will redistribute your weight for you. But I advise all who think they are overweight or too stout to attempt to reduce by starvation unless under the personal supervision of a physician—and this applies to girls not yet old enough to vote.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Is food cooked in aluminum utensils injurious to health?

There appears to be no positive evidence that the cooking of foods in aluminum vessels is more injurious to the health than food cooked in utensils of iron and copper.

The U. S. Public Health Service, the American Medical Association and several other scientific and health organizations have expressed the opinion that aluminum is not harmful in the quantities that are found in the stomach with food cooked in aluminum utensils.

Foods cooked in aluminum vessels, however, should not be cooked in vessels of iron or copper, undoubtedly dissolve small quantities of the metal. A trace of aluminum may dissolve from a freshly scoured utensil but not appear in the form of aluminum hydroxide after the food is taken. Aluminum compound. It has not been established that these compounds are deleterious to the health. Numerous experiments tend to prove that aluminum salts and other aluminum compounds in food are excreted through the walls of the stomach or into the blood. It appears that the body absorbs very little aluminum taken into the stomach with foods cooked in aluminum utensils. Aluminum, like iron, copper, tin and other metals in cooking utensils, is slightly poisonous when injected directly into the blood, and it is probable that very large quantities of aluminum vessels is more injurious to health. Apparently all aluminum taken into the body is carried off with the feaces except under unusual conditions.

In the ordinary process of cooking food the body does not seem to be attacked sufficiently by aluminum and heavy metals in objectionable amount of soluble salts. Duplicate chemical tests are necessary to show the presence of aluminum even in the juices of acid fruits and vegetables cooked for several hours in aluminum utensils.

It should be borne in mind that aluminum regularly occurs in foods. Some vegetables as food and frequently is present in drinking water. The quantities used up from aluminum cooking vessels are small compared to that in foods.

"Aluminum," says the U. S. Public Health Service, "is considered a metal of low toxicity, and we are not acquainted with trustworthy data which indicate that any danger may be attributed to the use of cooking utensils."

It may be safely said that at the present time the overwhelming weight of evidence and testimony supports the contention that health is not adversely affected by eating food cooked in aluminum-ware.

Sparrow Lake Bush Fire Now Under Control

Toronto, Aug. 1.-(CP)-A bush fire threatening the Sparrow Lake resort town of Port Stanton, 80 miles north of Toronto, was brought under control early today after it flared and came within two miles of the resort.

The community's entire population aided fire rangers from Parry Sound in the battle against the fire which burned through about 1,000 acres of land in the township, mostly covered with scrub and blueberry bushes.

Three other fires in the Parry Sound and Muskoka districts, in the same general area, were reported out of control while another four fires are being "held" and are not yet definitely in check. Ontario Lands and Forests Department officials said 14 other fires are burning in various sections but these are under control. About 200 men are fighting the serious outbreaks.

Weeks of continuous dry and warm weather has made the fire hazard extremely high, officials said, and appeals were issued to those intending to spend the Civic Holiday weekend in northern areas to use every precaution against fire.

In the Sudbury district various bush fires were reported under control but reports were alert for further outbreaks. The Sudbury area has had no rain for 13 days.

Court 'Reluctantly' Dismisses Charges

Chatham, Aug. 1 — (CP) — Charges of supplying liquor to three girl companions aged 10, 12 and 13 years, laid against three youths of nearby Bothwell, Ont., Wilfred Sheppard, Richard Hewitt and Donald Taylor, all 18 years of age, were "reluctantly" dismissed here Tuesday because of Canadian court rules on the admission of evidence of juveniles.

At the close of the hearing Magistrate C. S. Woodrow of Sarnia, Ont., expressed regret that since the two youngest girls would not be sworn their evidence could not be considered to corroborate each other's stories. Because o fthe rules of evidence Magistrate Woodrow said he was forced "reluctantly" to dismiss the charges.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Mother-in-law to be Addressed near what she says and I ask her to repeat) . . . my son is such a fine young man and so polite. Can anything be done, M.

Is it possible that your son knows how cruelly rude this girl is? Many young people are so busy she addresses you who are being so good and generous in providing a home for her and your son? If not, I think you should make him realize it. Also, the antagonistic name-problem for her, perhaps deserves the latter's ignorance (in spite of the college education she has had) and you will pay no more attention than she has paid in the past to your plea for kind, even decent consideration.

My advice is that you don't give this ill-bred and bad-mannered girl the privilege of addressing you by your first name.

Only those who deserve this friendly privilege any more than she does the "daughterly" privilege of calling you "Mother". She should address you as "Mrs. Hogan", and you should see to it that she gives you at least that courtesy . . . for she has earned the privilege of addressing you by a more informal name.

Candles on Banquet-Table Should Be Lighted

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Are candles on a banquet table supposed to be lighted or not?

The candles on a banquet table should be lighted. If the candles are not to be lighted they should not be used in the table-setting.

A Meal on the Porch

Getting out of the house's over-heated atmosphere is something everyone at this time of year, those who have worked out a way to do it, have found it the sweetest and enjoy the feeling hugely. The porch, particularly if it is screened, is a most pleasant place to enjoy a meal. If there are trees near the house the family may prefer to gather there for supper.

The tray system is excellent for porch or garden meals. Have a tray for each person with the necessary plates, glasses or cups and utensils arranged on a card or serving table with the food. This arrangement makes it easy for each member to help himself. The trays can also be prepared in the kitchen and each one can carry his to his own preferred spot.

It adds to the gala mood if on occasions, days each member is allowed to give his suggestion for the menu featuring his favorite food. This is done in many families for birthdays or other special celebrations, but there is no reason why it should be confined to these.

When preparing a menu for outdoor eating it is well to remember that the male members of the family will fall in with the plan with much more enthusiasm if the whole course is served on one plate and the servings are very generous, as fresh air stimulates appetites.

The home economists of the Dominion Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Agriculture suggest the two following Supper Porch menus with recipes.

Potatoes in Green Peppers

Number 2

Potatoes in Green Peppers

3 large green peppers
3 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
3 cups grated cheese,
3 cups sliced cooked potatoes

Wash peppers, cut in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Parboil, uncovered, in salted water until tender but not soft, about 5 min. Fat, add flour and blend well. Add milk, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add salt, pepper and cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add potatoes and heat over low heat until hot. Serve in green pepper cases. Six servings.

Gingerbread Peach Shortcake

1-2 cup fat
1-2 cup sugar
1 egg
2-4 cup molasses
1-4 cup sour milk or pastry flour
Or 2 1-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1-2 teaspoons baking soda
1-2 teaspoon cloves
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
Cream fat until fluffy, gradually cream in sugar. Add beaten egg and molasses and beat well. Mix and sift dry ingredients, and add alternately with the water, combining lightly. Bake in a greased cake tin in a moderately slow oven 325 degrees Fahrenheit, for 50-55 minutes. Makes gingerbread 8 x 8 x 2 1-2 inches, or tiny cut-steel heads.

We're on the menu once more, and so, now that one can travel again for pleasure, beautiful furtrimmed travel coats are back. Creamy, oatmeal-colored tweed with big collar and bands of lynx-dyed fox, cut with full back and easy sleeves is a typical smart travel coat, splendid over suits and lovely with soft prints or pastel crepes.

Hurrah for the designer who has worked out a foundation hat—an open-crown, peaked felt affair—which he sells with a wide variety of snap-on trims that include jeweled flower bands, taffeta ribbon loops, and fabric bands to match or contrast for summer, and felt for fall.

The eternal drama of black and white is emphasized in a dinner dress made with square-necked bodice of black crepe and a full circular skirt fashioned of alternating bands of black and white taffeta. Tube of white rim the neckline, which extends into broad-shouldered cap sleeves.

BEAUTY By HELEN JAMESON

To Straighten Fast Manicure

In mid-Summer, many a woman wishes she could wait a few hours for her hands, give her toenails a rest. The hard-working housewife, clipping out six or seven smiling days as she pursues her job of dishes, laundry, shopping, bed-making and answering doorbells is in no mood for toenail grooming.

That woman is the sister who wears sandal shoes that they shame their poor hostess, is proved by the fact that she is the one who awaits his turn at the chiropodist's office there are curves women sitting around looking miserable and unhappy. Between these two girls, it's the worst years for twinging toes. At the age of eighteen a girl doesn't know that she has feet. After fifty a woman usually comes to her senses, decides to give her feet a break, takes pains to find shoes that conform to the shape of her feet and provide ease and comfort.

A foot specialist learns much by looking at shoes that have been worn. When the rear of the tan spreads slightly, it's proof that the foot comes down heel first, a habit that does not make for good posture or easy balance.

Danger lurks in shoes that do not give the heel sufficient space for movement. If the big toe turns inward beyond a certain point, there may be an enlargement of the joint, inflammation or pus. Then a bunion is the way may call for surgery. There is also a chance of developing a hammer toe, which may have to be removed by means of the knife.

During the summer season, especially, the feet require daily bathing and a ten-minute friction with mineral oil. They are confined in stuffy cloths that excite the sweat glands. Chemical deposits left by perspiration are irritating to the flesh, cause scratching and burning.

Tired, painful feet cause awkward movements that are ruinous to graceful posture. They bring on fretfulness, a state of depression or nervousness, make one inefficient at the job in hand, and are a real drawering in the busy marts.

Properly-designed shoes that are amply long and wide, that are snug at the heel and instep and that provide support, help the feet to carry on. When they are neglected, they are crying out against abuse. It just isn't fair. It's been the case for years, by walking on tip-toes. This practice gives spring to the step, makes the feet feel young again.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

His Girl Friend Has Him "Going"

Answer: Be clever!

One can't help wondering, sometimes, why people don't do a little more direct talking to each other. Why they'll let a situation run on and on, getting more confusing and unhappy every day, when a little plain speech might easily clear things up in a few minutes, or at least show them where they stand.

Here, for example, is a man whose girl friend is leading him a merry chase, two-timing him by a fare-ye-well. His girl flashy aware of what she's doing and they have to do a hair-wit if he wasn't, since her technique is anything but subtle—but does he say? Does now, sister. Fun is fun, but enough is enough, and it's high time to get this thing settled one way or the other. Is it me you want, or this other guy? You'll have to make up your mind, but fast, because I'm not going to dance on the end of your string any longer."

No, he won't. He keeps on letting her get away with murder and merely writes to complain that she's got him "going around in circles."

Here his story:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"About five months ago I started to go with a girl, and as time went by I fell very much in love with her.

"I used to drink quite a bit before I met her, but when she told me to quit drinking I did so, even had a telephone put in her home so we could keep in closer touch with each other.

"A month ago we became engaged. We got along fine, but every time we went out, someway seemed to bother her. I would always ask me what it was, but after getting me all curious, she wouldn't tell me. Last week I asked her where her diamond ring was. She lied, and would not tell me. So I put two and two together and found out she had let another fellow hang it to wear.

"I was broken-hearted about this, Miss Fairfax. That's one thing I thought she would never do. I need clothing and such things myself, but I never thought of myself. I simply got her what she wanted, and I did without. I tried in every way possible to show her I really loved her. I surely have been happy with her.

"Last night she told me she didn't love me now as well as she used to. She said she liked the fellow she gave the diamond to better than me. Before I took her home, she said she loved me better than him. What kind of a love affair would you call this? I'm going around in circles trying to figure it out.

"Mixed-up"

Well, it's time you got off that merry-go-round and started walking in a straight line, brother. I think you'd better do as I suggest, and tell your girl friend she has got to make a choice and stick to it—and mean business when you say it. No shilly-shallying.

And personally, I think if she chose the other fellow, you'd be the lucky guy. If she gives away her engagement diamond to another man—and by the way, did you ever get it back? —you'd probably find her making a present of her wedding ring to somebody else. That gal is my idea of someone you'd be much happier to have in your past than in your present or future.

Of course it breaks your heart to discover that someone you've loved, and put your faith in, is not worth it. That's a heartbreaking experience for anyone to have. But it's better to have her break your heart now, while you're still a kid, than to give yourself and find some one who'll mend it for you, that to continue this empty relationship to the point where she ruins your life as well.

So brace up now, and assert yourself. Let this girl understand that you're not going to have her make a fool of you, and whichever way things turn out it is likely to be for the better.

Pretty Pedal Pushers

Jersey flannel trousers with striped blouse

By VERA WINSTON

PEDAL-PUSHERS have become fashionable wear at resorts and in the country and some designs have new little touches to make them distinctive. For instance, this pair of cuffed pedal pushers made of navy flannel have a separate cornelette belt with a white string lacing. Worn with them is a striped jersey blouse in yellow and navy, with winged sleeves and a melon neck, a nice contrast to the straight, boyish pants.

Woman Major Visits War Bride Daughter

Winnipeg (CP)—The conception of war did not exist a month ago for Mrs. Ward Campbell, first woman to hold the rank of major in Britain's Auxiliary Territorial Service.

As a representative of the Overseas League, Mrs. Campbell flew here by airliner from London to visit her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Campbell, of Winnipeg, and to confer with provincial prisoners-of-war committees on the question of "next of kin" parcels.

"For five years," Mrs. Campbell was an officer in the First Aid Nursing Yeomanry (F.A.N.Y.), a Red Cross work involved driving ambulances and instructing. She said it was really an achievement on the part of women when they were allowed to transport ammunition in addition to manning staff cars and ambulances.

Former Champ Swims For Fun

Winnipeg (CP)—Since she was in her early teens Winnipeg's Margaret Taggart could never keep her feet on the ground—she always had them in the water, and that's how she managed to win several swimming championships back in 1939.

Now 23-year-old Margaret has taken to the air—at least she works for an airline company, and swims for a full-fledged flier one of these days.

The top-ranking local swimmer, who six years ago won the 100-yard and 220-yard Canadian Junior Women's championships and also the Quebec provincial title for 100 yards free style, retired from active competition in 1943 because "I seem to have lost interest."

She said she times her practices and does not enter meets to be coached to that perfection which is necessary for championship performances.

Margaret is continuing her hard training at swimming meets have been cast aside for a more varied sports program which includes golf, tennis and basketball.

She explained that one of the chief drawbacks to being a champion swimmer is the problem of keeping one's figure slender when always prone need to eat a special "diet" pops up.

Combines Shipped to Yugoslavia, Also Tractors, Trucks, Penicillin and Clothing

By R. J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A late-spring sun beat down upon a Croatian farm village, chasing the last memories of war out of the Yugoslavian mountain valleys, as the strange, huge machine grew under Anton Hatali's flying fingers.

Each part was taken reverently from the great pile of crates just received from the faraway land known as Canada and put into place. It became a wonderful self-propelled combine harvester.

Anton Hatali had put together the first of 19 combine harvesters given to war-torn Yugoslavia by Canada. Today they are harvesting wheat grown from Canadian seeds. The 51,000 tons of grain they produce will make 64,000,000 loaves of dark bread.

Hatali's story was told by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in cable reports from the many lands where Canadian money and Canadian food and Canadian industrial products are helping to rehabilitate war-shattered economies.

The U.N.R.R.A. cables were turned over to The Canadian Press so that Canadians will learn, the organization said, what they have a right to know.

This is the story of the Dominion's world-wide arm of mercy:

Yugoslavia:

Besides the 19 combines, 200 tractors, "hundreds" of plows, drills, reapers, more than 3,000 trucks, all produced in Canada by Canadian workmen and farmers. The first penicillin ever received in Yugoslavia for civilian use came from Canada, as did 8,000 tons of clothing, footwear, soap and 13,000 tons of meat and fish.

China:

The first Canadian supply vessel put into Shanghai last November. Since then, more than 65,000 long tons of Canadian wheat have been milled in Shanghai and shipped to China's critical famine areas. A long-range contribution was eight 150-kilowatt power plants for shipment to interior cities. Twenty-four thousand Canadian railroad ties will replace vital internal communications.

Albania:

Wheat, wheat flour, cocoa, oats, spaghetti, threshing trucks and spare parts.

Nine ships delivered more than 54,000 tons of bread cereals, chiefly oats. Meat products, fish, soap and other supplies also came from the Dominion. Thirty-six combines went to Italian farmers. A ton of medical supplies saved many lives.

Ukraine:

The first shipment of Canadian canned meat arrived at Odessa Dec. 13, 1945. To mid-May, total shipments of meat were about 5,000,000 pounds, almost one-third of Canada's total 30,500,000-pound food shipments to the Ukraine. In addition, were received 268,000 pounds of vegetable seed and 1,600,000 pounds of grass seeds.

AUSTRIA:

Up to July 1, 5,700 tons of oats were received from Canada. Nine thousand tons of Canadian wheat were distributed in Vienna and awaiting distribution are grain drills and tractor-driven plows. Other supplies were 1,000 motor vehicles, 2,500 tons of seed wheat, 1,888 tons of seed oats, 968 tons of maize seed and 236 tons of field peas.

Byelorussia:

Herring from Vancouver packed in natural oil is preferred locally to tomato sauce. Those and other Canadian canned goods were widely distributed. A $200,000 penicillin production plant was the biggest item in Canada's program of medical aid. Some 57,000 tons of Canadian supplies have been received to date.

Poland:

Through June, 23 vessels from Canadian ports discharged 131,763 tons of Canadian supplies at Polish ports, augmented by surplus Canadian war materials from Britain.

Czechoslovakia:

Second only to Britain in pre-war days as a purchaser of Canadian flour, Czechoslovakia last year received a Canadian credit of $19,000,000 for the purchase of goods.

Greece:

Reports are incomplete, but Canadian assistance has been a large factor in the country's drive to recovery.

C.I.O. Director To Give Proposals To Settle Strike

By JACK WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 1 — (CP)—C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) today will place before the Dominion Industrial Relations Committee his organization's proposals for settlement of Canada's steel strike.

It had been expected the committee would receive the latest union settlement formula yesterday, but the morning and afternoon sittings were occupied with statements by Mr. Millard of the union's case and replies to questions given by Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, and Justice W. F. Rose, committee lawyer, in the steel dispute.

Mr. Millard appeared to have used the union's case to Mr. Gordon as the basis for the proposal to be made to the committee today. Mr. Gordon had told the committee that an increase in steel would set the Canadian wage pattern and that, if it were much in excess of 10 cents-an-hour, it might destroy price control.

"It may or may not be that 10 cents-an-hour is the limit the steel manufacturers can afford to raise wages at the present price level," Mr. Millard said. "We do not believe so. In any case, had we been able to have first hand information, had the companies co-operated and had the Prices Board invited representations from our union as well as from the companies, the 'necessity for economic action' would in all probability never have occurred."

The union also took issue with Mr. Gordon's contention that the steel increases would involve general. There was no uniformity in the Canadian wage structure and a wage increase which was fair and reasonable for steel might not apply to other industries which had different labor costs and profit positions. The Prices Board chairman had also overlooked the effect of increased wages in increasing production.

Workers now were feeling the effect of increased living costs, as a result of an easing of price controls, and reduced income through shorter working hours without any increase in hourly rates. The result was that they were able to buy fewer goods than before. The union's statement of evidence of Justice Rand was also based particularly at the commission's references to the National Advisory Committee of the U.S. W.A. as a "dictatorship" and "oligarchy." Justice Rand's and the plan followed by the union had deprived the rank-and-file worker in the plant of the opportunity of expressing an opinion on compromise offers.

How Lamprey Eels Kill Great Lakes Trout

By S. B. Dicklsmen, in The Sault Ste. Marie Star)

There have been many conjectures concerning the scarcity of lake trout in Lake Huron and other Great Lakes, and the years when we were fishermen have given up, or moved, into Lake Superior. In recent conversations with fishermen and others here about the fishing game and the out of doors we find that the chief cause of the disappearance of trout in these lakes is due to the Lamprey Eel.

Some 30 years ago, as Dan McDonald says, lakes trout was the largest commercial catch of any of the species. As years passed this catch kept getting less and less, until today in the North Channel of Lake Huron there is no longer any commercial trout fishing as the stock has been depleted from tons to pounds. Just what is the reason for the depletion of this species? This last Winter the Ontario Government appointed a commission to find the cause. "I am not sure this commission has ever been named, nor am I sure they need go into the cause of the scarcity of trout in the waters mentioned.

Around 50 years ago Fisherman caught the odd trout with a lamprey eel attached to it. This lamprey was just an eel-like fish, about five inches long, and thick as a lead pencil, with a round mouth much larger than its body, and teeth slanting backwards. This mouth grabbed the trout and sucked its life blood. As years passed the lamprey got much bigger and more plentiful. Some of these lamprey's grew to 14 inches in length.

For the past years there has seldom been a lift of fish that were free of lampreys, and these same parasites stayed with the parent fish until it died. It is quite apparent that it is not a case of finding the cause of the loss of the trout so much as to what can be done to rid the waters of these parasites.

This lamprey is a salt water fish, and the increase in the waters of Lake Huron could be accounted for by the fact, that in Europe it is known as a stone sucker, due to the fact that it lurks in stone echoe in shore, and in this way saves itself from being washed away by the tides. The lamprey also attaches itself to the bottoms of boats and pontoons and came into Lake Huron after the Welland Canal was built.

In England it is used as bait for cod fishing in the North Sea, and many fishermen claim it is the best bait to be had for this kind of fishing. The cod feeding on it may be the reason it is protected in Britain, and only allowed to be taken in certain seasons. It could be that the fish in the North Sea are larger, and it instead of the lamprey eating the fish as in Lake Huron. Even in the North Sea it attacks cod and haddocks. Tho' they attack other fish they prefer the trout as they have no scales to contend with.

It would seem that the only way to get rid of these parasites is to catch them where they breed. They leave the lakes in the July and swim up our creeks to start a re-generation is what is apparent on the subject say. When McCreights Dam on the Mississagua River went out a few years ago the bottom of the pond was covered with lampreys, and in creeks near the Sault we hear they are very plentiful in July. It seems this would be the time and place to attack them.

The lamprey is already in Lake Superior and a commission has been appointed to investigate. All fishermen could co-operate by sending them all the information possible to aid them in ridding the waters of these pests or Lake Superior will be in the same boat as is Lake Huron.

Farm Implement Home Market Need Recognized

—Howe.

Ottawa, Aug. 1 (CP)—Attention Minister Howe said in the Commons Wednesday the government "fully recognizes the needs of the home market for farm implements and was taking care of that market to a "higher degree" than any other consumer commodity.

Mr. Howe said farm implements had the highest priority as regards materials and the industry was operating at capacity, subject to limitations imposed by the current strike in steel plants.

The Minister spoke after Percy Wright (CCF—Medicine Hat) urged the House to discuss the "serious" shortage of farm machinery in Western Canada and charged that the situation resulted from heavy exports which were depriving Canadian farmers of needed equipment.

Mr. Wright moved a motion when the Commons opened to adjourn ordinary business at the House. His motion was supported by C.C.F. Social Credit and some Progressive Conservative members. Forty-five members rose to vote for the motion. Only 30 votes were needed to pass the motion.

Mr. Howe said Mr. Wright had pictured Canada as a "great reservoir" of farm machinery, shipping equipment to all parts of the world, the disadvantages of Canadian farmers.

Actually, Canada was a deficit nation as far as farm machinery was concerned and consumed far more than it produced, despite the fact production in that industry had doubled since 1939.

The United States was exporting farm equipment to Canada, said Mr. Howe, because of the principle of equality of exercise which governed the trade agreement. The quotas from the United States were based mainly on the amount Canada had shared in making supplies available to the devastated countries of the world.

Referring to shipments to Argentina, Mr. Howe said that South American country was a Canadian market.

As far as shipments to U. N. R. R. A. were concerned, that international organization was purchasing farm machinery in an effort to stimulate production in famine areas and help solve the world-wide food shortage.

Shipments to Britain had been maintained throughout the war for the same purpose—to assist food production.

Treasure Stolen at Beaches

Toronto, Aug. 1 — (CP)—Apparently it's as much as your life's worth to go swimming at Toronto beaches. Swimmers at an east end beach had their trousers stolen last night and had to go home in their bathing trunks. Nothing Against Jockey Keane Says ICRA Head

Toronto, Aug. 1—(CP)—James Hefferling, chairman of the Ingersoll Canadian Racing Association, said Wednesday there is "nothing against" Robert Keane, 20-year-old Toronto jockey whose suspension with two others was ordered by the State Racing Commission at Miami, Fla., Tuesday.

"We extended the fullest cooperation to representatives of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Association" of the United States, Mr. Hefferling said in a telephone interview from Fort Erie, Ont. "Keane gave me an affidavit relating to the case and I turned it over to the T.R.P.A. There is nothing against Keane. He was offered a certain sum to participate in a fixed race, pretended to accept and then went and rode honest."

The suspension followed T.R.P.A. charges that Keane and two other jockeys — Leonard Loveridge of Tampa, Fla., and Vincente Nodgre of Havana — were involved in attempting to fix the fifth race at Tropical Park at Miami last April 17. The three were told to appear for hearing Sept. 17 to show cause why their licences should not be permanently revoked.

Detained as Spies, Say U.S. Officers Released by Reds

Berlin, Aug. 1 (AP)—Capt. Harold Cobin and Lieut. George Wyatt, United States military officers who were released Tuesday night by the Russians, said Wednesday they had been detained in the Soviet occupation zone for 27 days on the allegation that they were spies.

The two, who vanished almost a month ago on an unauthorized trip into the Soviet zone, said they had been held for most of the 27 days at Russian headquarters in Potsdam.

The Russians had denied knowledge of the whereabouts of the pair.

Cobin and Wyatt, who related their experiences at a press conference in the presence of United States army and air intelligence officers, said the Russians had treated them well but had questioned them almost daily and at great length in an attempt to ascertain whether they were secret agents.

At one time they were officially charged with being spies, and signed statements denying the charges, they said.

The officers said they were arrested July 4 at Oranienburg, 20 miles north of Berlin, where they said they went to try to visit the former German concentration camp of Sachsenhausen. Both asserted they were unaware of reports that the Russians now are using that camp for political prisoners.

2 Strikers Fined In Charges Of Intimidation

Hamilton, Aug. 1 (CP) — Two striking steel workers were fined in two separate cases of intimidation against wives of men who refused to join the Canadian Congress of Labor strike of the Steel Company of Canada. The charges were made early in the day when the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.C.O.) began picketing the Hamilton basic steel industry.

William Lewis, 36, of suburban Burlington, was fined $50 and costs or $21.35 costs, or two months. John Anderson, 35, of Hamilton, was ordered to pay a fine of $20 and $17.75 costs or serve one month. Both men were given over to keep the peace for a year by Magistrate T. A. Burbidge.

Complainant against Lewis was Mrs. Murray McMaster, also of Burlington Beach, whose husband had made a trip home from the plant by riverboat the day after the strike started. Mrs. McMaster told Lewis' her child and her husband did not come out of the plant and stay out, his boat might be tipped over and her body found at the bottom of Hamilton bay and that one of the three McMaster children might disappear.

Lewis in the witness box said he had been sent to give Mrs. McMaster a message. He said he was told to tell her husband to stay either in or out of the plant.

Mrs. Evelyn Morden stated that Anderson told her husband he did not tell her husband out of the plant; she and her children would not let his children play with hers and children were instructed to stop her from and told her she was going to Alabama with Anderson after the strike at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.) in his car. Mrs. Morden said Anderson told her she was not the court the was not going to Alabama, would carry on his threats.

John Oster of Burlington, also charged, told the court "those Mrs. Morden started she was just antagonized the charges should be dismissed."

Anderson's statement that he would bring $20 on down from Algoma is a clue to the often exaggerated character of the intimidation.

Magistrate Burbidge ruled that there was an attempt to intimidate which he said constituted an offence.

"This was a very feeble and futile attempt at intimidation," the magistrate commented. "It is not a very serious case."

Restaurant Owner Faces 4 Charges

Toronto, Aug. 1 (CP)—Harry Bobkin, 30, downtown restaurant proprietor, Wednesday, was committed for trial on four charges of assault, assault and beating a police, aggravated and attempted rape. He had pleaded not guilty.

The charges were laid after police investigation of the complaint of a 24-year-old married woman employed by Bobkin as a waitress. She told the court that she remained after work June 27, the day she was hired, to discuss wages and hours of labor.

Bobkin struck her in the mouth and tore her dress off, she said. She had escaped by throwing her body against the door and had been found lying on the street one leg badly torn by the glass.

40 Kegs Removed From Ruins, Found

Clinton, Ont., Aug. 1 —(CP)— Forty kegs and 25 cases of beer were removed Sunday from the ruins of the Hanover Transport Company warehouse here within a few hours of its destruction by a $100,000 fire, police said today with the announcement that the kegs of beer had been recovered.

"Moochers," said James MacLaren, company superintendent.

Police said they had to visit about 10 Clinton homes before the missing 40 kegs were rounded up. More leg-work is in store for them. Constable Gordon Cook, who said the 25 cases of beer still are "scattered" around town.

Police said they had not decided whether post fire theft charges would be laid but that the "moocher-community-wide game of "finders-keepers" will be further investigated.

Canadian Wrens Demobilized After Four Years' Service

Canada's girls in navy blue, the Wrens, are all returning to civilian life. Active service duties of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service came to an end on Wednesday, July 31, and such Wren uniforms as may be seen across Canada during the coming weeks will be those worn by Wrens on demobilization leave or exercising their right to wear the uniform for 30 days after finally leaving the service.

LOWER LEFT—

With a kit bag on her shoulder and a smile on her face, Leading Wren June Whiting, of Belleville, Ontario, is seen as she arrived overseas for duty in the United Kingdom. For a considerable period the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service had a thousand Wrens serving outside Canada in Newfoundland, the United States and the United Kingdom.

UPPER LEFT—

Scrubbing decks was one of the less romantic duties which Wrens undertook while serving their country. The two girls pictured here, Wren Chris Greig, of Montreal, and Wren Sally Hawkins, of Charlottetown, are giving a final polish to the floor of a Wren residence in Ottawa as the building was vacated to return to civilian uses.

UPPER RIGHT—

Wrens did many jobs which had previously only been done by men. In this picture Canadian Wrens in a signal tower high above the harbor at St. John's, Newfoundland, are seen sending a message to a warship by means of Aldis lamp. The winter winds howling around their lofty signal platform must have made home seem a long way away to Wrens Marian Wingate, of Victoria, B.C., and Margaret Little, of Kingston, Jamaica.

LOWER RIGHT—

The first atomic bombs had fallen and so had Japan when this picture of the Wrens saluting His Excellency the Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, was taken on VJ-Day in Ottawa.

By BOSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Aug. 1 — (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada plans to speak Friday before the Plenary session of the 21-power peace conference in the Senate Chamber of Luxembourg Palace. It will be his first major address to the conference and will be made sometime after 4 p.m. G.M.T. (11 a.m. E.D.T.) when the session begins.

The Canadian premier and advisory, have been preparing for several days on the text and it likely will sum up the Canadian position in regard to several major questions facing the conference.

Since the conference opened Monday Mr. King has been almost constantly at Luxembourg Palace attending sessions in the morning of the procedure committee and the Plenary sessions in the afternoon.

Delegates Attend Glittering Soiree At Opera House

By MEL MOST

Paris, Aug. 1 (AP)— Delegates to the Peace Conference attended a glittering soiree last night at the city's famed opera house that lasted well into the early hours of the morning.

All approaches to the vast Place De L'Opera were jammed by crowds of spectators as limousines containing delegates and their parties drew up before the renaissance building.

Within the ornate auditorium, where the delegates witnessed a performance by the Paris Opera Ballet Company, nothing but evening dress was seen from the orchestra pit to the fifth balcony above which hung the flags of the 21 conferring powers around the inside of the dome.

The royal box was occupied by the presidential party, headed by Georges Bidault of France dressed in a dinner jacket. Otherwise there was no place of honor, but the entire first tier of loges was set aside for the delegates, with one loge for each delegation.

Newborn Babe Carried In Shopping Bag For Hospital Treatment

Baltimore, Aug. 1 (AP)—A 22-year-old mother, carrying her newborn baby in a shopping bag walked unescorted into hospital yesterday and was placed under doctor's care. The mother told astonished hospital attendants she was born at her Baltimore home without medical aid. The mother, wrapped the boy up, placed him in the bag, and hailed a motorist to drive her to hospital where she handed the bundle over to a nurse saying "Here's my premature baby."

Iron and Steel Industry Will Not Be Nationalized

London, Aug. 1 (CP)—Reuters news agency last night quoted "reliable sources" as the effect that the British Labor government had decided against the complete nationalization of the iron and steel industry.

Because of the difficulties encountered in inducing experienced industrialists to serve on a national administrative board for the industry, the government instead would acquire a controlling interest in the industry which then would be administered by a board of governing members, owners and trade unions, the news agency said.

Legislation would be introduced in parliament under which the government would provide a substantial share of the £100,000,000 ($400,000,000) which the British iron and steel federation estimates will be required to modernize the industry. The federation already has stated that it can provide half of this sum.

Memorial Cross Of Granite Unveiled

Casselman, Aug. 1 — (CP) — More than 2,000 residents of this Russel county area gathered last night as Defence Minister Abbott unveiled a granite cross bearing the names of district men killed during the Second Great War.

"No words can express our gratitude to those who died for their country," Mr. Abbott said. "The names of these heroes will be forever engraved on the hearts of the people of Canada."

State Secretary Martin said Canadians must prove by their conscientious to the tasks of peace that their sacrifice has not been in vain."

House of Lords Rules Adultery No Excuse For Murder

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 1 — (CP)—Verbal provocation — even an admission of infidelity by a wife or husband — does not justify "fatal violence" save in the most exceptional circumstances, the House of Lords has ruled.

The opinion was expressed when the House gave its reasons for rejecting the appeal of Leonard Holmes, convicted and sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his wife, Peggy Agnes.

When the case was heard at Nottinghamshire Assizes last February, the trial judge, Mr. Justice Charles, instructed the jury that the fact the accused's wife had admitted being unfaithful to him was not sufficient provocation to justify a verdict of manslaughter. The Lords upheld him in this.

"It is enough to say that the duty of the judge at the trial, in relevant cases, is to tell the jury that a confession of adultery without more is never sufficient to reduce an offence which would otherwise be murder to manslaughter, and that in no case could words alone, save in circumstances of a more extreme or exceptional character, so reduce the crime," said the opinion written by Lord Simon.

"Only once very special exception had been recognized and actual flashing of a spouse in the act of adultery. But it had been slightly laid down that the exception could not be extended."

In leaving a slight loop-hole for verbal provocation, the opinion said that "one can imagine in these days at any rate words of a vile character which might be calculated to deprive a reasonable man of his customary self-control even more than would an act of physical violence.

New Arms Cache Found at Tel Aviv

Jerusalem, Aug. 1 — (CP) — British military authorities were reported today to have found a new arms cache in Tel Aviv containing hundreds of grenades, revolvers, mortars, mortar bombs and other weapons, as a house to house search of the all-Jewish city went into its third day.

About 3,250 Jewish immigrants who attempted to enter Palestine illegally were reported on a hunger strike meanwhile in Haifa, where they are being detained aboard ship.

The refugees, who arrived without certificates of admission during the last two days aboard the ships Hagganah and Habayri Halvri (Hebrew Warrior), demanded that they be allowed to disembark at once.

Two Meetings Cannot be Held At Same Time

Paris, Aug. 1 — (AP)—Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, put the 21-power peace conference here on notice today that the U. N. Assembly meets in New York Sept. 23 and that the two meetings "simply can not be held at the same time."

"It must open Sept. 23," he said at a press conference. Any other postponement (of the once-postponed) Assembly meeting) would be very difficult because of our administrative machinery. It is the responsibility of this peace conference to recognize that we must start on schedule . . . many important questions must be settled."

Mr. Lie expressed belief, however, that the peace conference would be concluded before the date set for the assembly meeting. He said he had talked with most of the delegations here.

He will go to Geneva Friday on his tour in which he is discussing United Nations affairs with national leaders.

Broader Houses Converted To Become Dwelling

Normal, Ill., Aug. 1 — (AP)— The housing shortage poses no problem for an elderly Normal couple, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carter. Forced to move from a converted Pullman coach when it was sold, Lesher bought two used chicken brooder houses. He joined them end-to-end behind his daughter's house, built in windows and doors and divided the two rooms, a living room-kitchen and a bedroom, now nearly papered and fluffily curtained.

To Be Formed in Belgium

Brussels, Aug. 1 (AP)—Camille Huysmans, 75, Socialist and Minister of State, agreed today to form a left-wing coalition cabinet, apparently ending the three-week political deadlock. Former Premier Achille Van Acker and Paul Henri Spaak, chairman of the Paris Peace Conference rules committee, previously declined.

U. S. Treasury Can Buy and Sell Silver at 90.5c.

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)— President Truman yesterday signed legislation authorizing the United States Treasury to buy and sell silver at 90.5 cents an ounce.

The measure, a compromise of original House and Senate proposals, not only releases government-owned silver for sale but also gives silver mines a 19-cents-an-ounce increase on their production.

Government stocks of saleable silver amount to about 125,000,000 ounces. The Treasury has other silver but it is either on the open market or used in coins, or used as backing for paper currency.

Use in industry, including manufacture of such things as photographic supplies, silverware, drugs and dental supplies, totalled about 91 million last year.

London, Aug. 1 (CP)— An automobile being pursued by a police car at 70 miles an hour through London's streets crashed through the railings outside the Houses of Parliament early today and hurtled down 12 feet into the House of Commons "Speaker's green." One person was killed.

The crash interrupted a long Commons debate on the traffic code.

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 1— (AP)—Hailstorms and cloudbursts ruined vitally-needed Bavarian crops Tuesday and sent bomb-weakened buildings in Munich crashing into the streets, killing six persons.

Walking

(New York Times)

This peak season for most outdoor activities is the off-season for walking. As a general rule, the walker is not one who is in need of the excellent advice which the doctors give us annually at the time: "Don't overdo it." His name rarely if ever figures in the list of summer casualties under sunstroke, heat prostration or third-degree sunburn. On hot days—at all times of year the seasoned walker is not a-walking; he can usually be found sitting under a tree in some cool spot, probably with a book which he has brought along with some vague notion of improving his mind.

He may find that just sitting under a tree is so pleasant — he very soon abandons any idea of trying to improve his mind — in this weather—that he asks himself why he ever takes the trouble to walk at all. "Were it not better done as others use," he begins but breaks off there, for he knows from years of experience that when the first cool weekends of September arrive he will again be tramping over the back roads of Westchester or Rockland County or along the reaches of the lordly Hudson.

Ones Feet on The Ground

For the present it seems more profitable to think about walking than to walk. It is time to pay heed to the ancient wisdom of the East: "It is better to walk than to run, it is better to stand than to walk, it is better to sit than to stand, it is better to lie than to sit."

The first thing that strikes one about walking is that the word is directly related to the idea of progress, of getting somewhere. Says the Concise Oxford Dictionary:

Walk, v. I. & t (Of men) progress by advancing each foot alternately never having both off ground at once.

You are required to make progress when you walk and you are required to keep at least one foot on the ground. These are two very wholesome requirements for these times.

From The French

The French word for walking has some remarkable connotations. The Latin language, from which French is almost wholly derived, had half a dozen words for walking, depending on what kind of walking it was, but the French only "took" the verb marcher from the same root as narteau, meaning hammer. It was "pounding" along the old Roman roads which probably fixed the word in the language.

Today marcher means "to walk," "to function" or "to make progress." A Frenchman, marching cross-country, may note with annoyance that his watch has ceased to work, but he may think with satisfaction that his business is marching very well. He will greet a friend with a cheery "Tout marches!"

Soul of a Journey

The reason why the walker continues to walk in the face of all the difficulties that modern means of locomotion have put in his way is because walking is a journey. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote an essay "On Going a Journey" and it is true, as he says, that the stage coach "the ship in which the real writer is to adventure," is the real vehicle for a journey. There, for the philosopher who follows a rough trail to a high place for the sake of view, or for other, "

The walker "going a journey" alone will probably wish to be written down the Abner Beans Lisbon (one who loves his fellow-man, but he is bound to agree with Hazlitt:

"Give me the clear blue sky over my head, and the green turf beneath my feet, a winding road before me, and a three hours' march to dinner—and then to thinking! It is hard if I cannot start some game on these lone beaths."

Black Care Rides

That is the whole business in a nutshell: the walker "goes a journey" in order to think. "We start some game," to refresh his stock of shopworn ideas— perhaps on occasion to give the slip to a certain dark thy known in the ancients as Atra Cura or Black Care.

It was the Roman poet who left a monument more enduring than bronze who wrote, "Behind the horseman sits Black Care." In the Augustan Age Black Care rode behind the Roman knight on his horse and with the Roman senator in his litter. Black Care rides today in a luxurious limousine. She slips aboard the great plane about to start a dash to the other side of the world. Without an advance reservation she travels on any trip of the Twentieth Century Limited.

Black Care is essentially a rider, not a walker. She may set out with the walker "going a journey" but after an hour or so she usually gets discouraged and disappears somewhere in the woods.

Inflation Hits Elephant Market

Durban, South Africa (CP) — One of South Africa's veteran showmen, William Pagel, whose circus is known throughout the sub-continent, is complaining that the cost of elephants has gone up with the cost of living.

Before the war, he says, young elephants, about 4 feet 6 inches tall, could be bought for £75 ($300) each; they now cost £75 for each foot in height.

"I searched far and wide throughout India for a good elephant, but these I could have bought would have cost me a fortune," he says.

He did, however, buy seven Himalayan bears and six tigers which are expected at his Durban headquarters soon. In East Africa he found elephant prices more reasonable and bought seven of them together with two hippos and two pink pelicans.

Pair of Tame Crows Bring Back Bill Taken From Milk Bottle

Marmora — Even crows may acquire the "service with a smile" is the best policy," according to John Hall, of Lingham Lake, who recently owning John left a dollar bill and two dimes in the milk bottle for the milkman to collect for payment of tickets the following morning. But the milkman tapped at the door to report that there was no empty milk bottle there containing no ticket or cash. Looking around, John noticed a dime in the back verandah and another on the ground but there was no sign of the dollar bill.

On Monday morning he had occasion to visit his garage and saw Alphonse Clement pair of tame crows there. That didn't mean much to him at the time but when he saw them on the railing of the rear of his house as he finished his breakfast, he began to think and he set quickly. He placed a piece of paper in the neck of an empty milk bottle and set the bottle in the customary place. "Bring back my dollar to me" he hollered at the present crows and went inside.

He came out a few minutes later expecting to see the crows still perched where he had spotted them but they were out of sight. But there was the dollar bill on the verandah unspelled. That's as true as you're living says John to all sobernes.

Here's How Money is Actually Made

(By Jamet B. Keith, Writing From Ottawa—The Farmer's Advocate)

It's no accident that the coins in your pocket make a pleasant jingle-jangle when they rub together. Every one of them was given a ringing-test before it left the Royal Canadian Mint at Ottawa. If it had failed to ring true it would be dropped upon an iron block and would have been classed as "dumb" and melted down for re-coining.

All the coins used in Canada are manufactured at the Mint, a large stone building overlooking the Rideau River. Surrounded by a high spiked fence, it is constantly guarded by men of the R.C.M.P. They are fortunate enough to secure admission finds that it is an interesting and very special kind of factory.

Employees at the Mint must change every morning into special working garments, place their own clothes in a locker, fasten it and deposit the key with a foreman. The metal to be worked on during the day is weighed on scales registering to one-hundredth of an ounce before it is sent to the various workrooms. At the close of the day the floors are swept and the dust burnt so that any small particles may be recovered and weighed in. Each workroom must be able to account for every fraction of an ounce of metal before the locker keys are released.

In making coins, as in baking a batch of cookies, the first step is to measure out the ingredients. The recipe for our one-cent pieces calls for copper, tin and zinc; nickel comes, quarters and 50-cent pieces contain copper as well as silver. Five-cent pieces, as their popular name implies, are made of nickel.

The ingredients for coins are mixed together, and melted by an electrical process which achieves a temperature of over 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Then the molten metal is cast into bars about two feet long, two inches wide and half an inch thick. These bars are sent to rolling mills where they are pressed into long strips the exact thickness of the coin to be made.

Next comes the cutting process. The strips of metal pass through machines which punch out coins at the rate of 450 a minute. Bright shiny little discs fall into containers below. The leftover metal, looking like a sheet of dough after cookies have been cut out of it, is melted down to be used again.

The shiny discs are first carefully sorted, and any imperfect ones discarded. Only then are they ready for shipment to such pressure that they are quite hard and must be softened up in order to take a good impression in the coining presses. So they are placed in a special furnace until they are red hot, and then quenched suddenly into water. They are now ready to receive an impression on each one coin of the realm.

All the finished coins are sent to an examining room where they are subjected to various tests. They are weighed on delicate machines which automatically reject those that are too light or too heavy. They are given the ringing test. The edges are examined carefully for burrs, cracks or notches. Any coins found to be light or heavy, discolored, "dumb" or in any way imperfect are destroyed in a defacing machine and remelted.

The good coins are delivered to the Mint Office where they are automatically counted by machines which will handle 4,000 pieces in three minutes. They are then placed in cloth bags, ready for shipment to various banks across Canada.

All the gold mined in Canada is sent to the Mint. There it is refined, and most of it is made into gold bars weighing 400 ounces. Looking very much like big shiny bricks, they are worth $15,000 each. Some gold is set aside for jewellers and dentists.

The Royal Canadian Mint was established in 1908. Before that time, all Canadian coins were made in England. With a staff of about 200, the Mint now turns out over 100 million coins a year. As a nation we should never have to say we are "short of change."

Senator Bilbo's letter to the News said:

"I have just read an editorial in your paper of July 5, 1946, under the title 'National Action' in which you advocate that the Senate refuse to honor the wish and will of the majority of the voters of a commonwealth of this union by refusing me a seat in the United States Senate this fall because you do not like my views.

"I am thinking seriously of introducing a bill to outlaw and suppress the publication of the Miami Daily News because I don't like your views at all."

"Yours truly, Theo G. Bilbo, U.S.S."

Announces Drive To Wipe Out Dens, Nests in Montreal

Montreal, Aug. 1 —(CP)— Montreal police department disciplinary board yesterday refused to accept the resignation of Capt. Arthur Tache as head of the city's morality squad and ruled that he must face charges of serious breach of discipline, Deputy Police Director Alfred Belanger announced shortly after the board was convened.

Belanger said the board had ruled that Capt. Tache was to be considered suspended from his post as from last Monday. He said the board's consideration of Capt. Tache's resignation lasted only a few minutes.

Tuesday, less than 24 hours after his appointment to succeed Capt. Tache, Lieut. Gabriel Piche announced he has launched a concerted campaign to wipe out gambling dens and underworld nests in Montreal once and for all.

The new anti-vice drive apparently got under way Tuesday night with some of Lieut. Piche's 42 morality enforcement officers and men raided a "bolito" house on East-Central City Hall Avenue arresting 33 persons and seizing or attaining a quantity of equipment.

Those taken into custody, including one alleged keeper, were scheduled to appear in court Wednesday.

Capt. Tache was suspended Monday and he announced soon after that he had submitted his resignation which was accepted the suspension, but altered his decision Tuesday with the statement that he could not be responsible for approving it.

Meanwhile, Louis Bercovitz, 38, who had admitted that he shot and wounded Jerry Davis last Thursday, was in the cells awaiting preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering Davis.

Fox said the man was Robert Horner, a 46-year-old barber, and the dead woman was Gertrude (Jerry) Horner, 32.

He said the two had been separated but that Horner was seeking a reconciliation.

The Ruhr: Goat Pasture?

As Big Four Showdown Approaches, the Riddle of the Future of German Ruhr is Will it be Industrial Region or Grazing Ground for Goats?

(By James P. O'Donnell, after visit to Ruhr, for Newspaper Magazines, New York)

The symbol of the political and economic impasse in Europe today is not the iron curtain—it is the riddle of the Ruhr. In the Dantean awfulness of the once pleasant Rhineland valley the faint heart-beat of Western European industrial civilization just barely thumps with a loud, systolic murmur.

Last December, at the time of the winter solstice, the most striking visual picture was the Ruhr man emerging grimy from his pit in early afternoon, crawling through the mammoth stalactite rubble-heaps of the miner's diet and the stedman's sledge, sweatingly wields the scythe, the harrow, and the rake. The goddess Ceres has replaced the great god Krupp. Food has become sacramental. Right in the very heart of the black area are burgeoning crops of barley, oats, rye, and wheat. The browsing barley and the blue-green, waving, shoulder-high wheat march up to the factory portals of the now silent Bochumerverein Stahlwerke. At the very pithheads of the Helene mines in Essen emerging miners bump into grazing Holstein cows and nanny goats.

Grazing animals are everywhere—atop the mines, grubbing in the rubble, and along every highway. Along the Schneidweg built by Napoleon on the high road to Berlin, along Hitler's Autobahn fetch skirts the Ruhr to the north and west, the lanes between the carriageways have become grazing grounds. No single blade of grass will reach maturity. Along the embankments in the evening the Ruhr man and his wife, with baby sickle what the sheep cannot reach. This hay will feed the rabbits and the goats soon will feed them. Only thus will they escape the fate of Nebuchadnezzar. All these animals have a sacrificial air, as well they might have. As for the nanny goats, an observer with any kind of a memory cannot help but recall it was but one year ago certain American policy-agers were advocating converting Germany into a goat pasture. This could become true—and brought Anglo-American policy in Europe to the very brink of disaster.

The Ruhr valley, which God meant to be the corridor between the picturesque Rhineland and lush, verdant Westphalia, did not seriously enter the industrial picture until the latter half of the nineteenth century. It was planned. Under the benevolent industrial despotism of the armament kings, and inspired by the Bismarckian Reich, the Ruhr laborers were Germans first and workers second, the Ruhr did not sium up. Almost every miner and steelworker had his little cottage, and the cottage had its little garden. Today more than half the Ruhr population still have their little garden plots. Now in these "victor gardens" they fight the battle for existence.

The Irish potato symbolizes this battle. Not only in the desert gardens but in almost every rubble plot, on every village green, and between abandoned railroad tracks, potatoes have been planted. The crop will not be what it might have been. Two many of the healthy seed potatoes were eaten last winter.

The Ruhr miner's life is dismal—as the British have even allowed the Germans to pick up all the cricket fields which were laid out here.

It is the quest for the potato which drives tens of thousands of Ruhr people—in long, long processions—walking, bicycling, hitchhiking—every weekend. And not only over the weekend. When the ration dropped dramatically this spring, absenteeism in the mines and plants rose sharply (25 per cent among miners, higher elsewhere). The Ruhr man found that he earned enough paper money in three days to pay for the rationed articles he was allowed to buy. He spent the rest of his time scrounging around the countryside just outside the Zonal line with the computerized well-fed miner has a wife and usually three to four children to consider. To have an agrarian grandmother down on the farm is as important today as it was the pre-grandmother was during the past twelve years.

The German word for food, with that stark realism the language sometimes achieves, is "Lebensmittel—the means of life. The basic ration for the average Ruhr man today is 1,030 calories a day. For the ex-concentration camp inmate it is 1,430; for the heavy worker, 1,765; for pregnant women, 2,150; and for "very heavy worker, miner," 2,944. . . . is the proletarian elite, but only 275,000 of Ruhr workers are miners.

But there is no black market in food. The German farmer is not hoarding. The Ruhr just doesn't produce enough. On June 25 the last accumulated food reserves ran out. The British have already imported more than 1,000,000 tons of food into their zone. The winter barley is already being harvested, the rye comes late in July, the wheat late in August, and the potato in September. But unless the 675,000 tons of food allocated by the Combined Food Board arrive from Canada and the United States, there will be starvation this summer.

The battle for food has eclipsed the battle for production but here, too, the picture is equally desperate. Last year the British launched the battle for coal. By stupendous effort, output was pushed up ijist over 4,000,000 tons per month by the end of 1945. It slumped badly at the time of the great British cabinet, but has now crept back to about the 4,000,000 mark. The British soon found what they suspected from the beginning—there was no basic economic plan for stepping up the black gold. Getting pits operative again involving the shattered transportation system. Most pointed toward restoration of the steel industry which meant reviving the 1,001 ancillary industries to clothe and service the Ruhr man. And to produce enough export coal to pay for the necessary food imports cried out for an over-all economic plan for Germany and Western Europe.

The British always regarded the Potsdam protocol as stillborn, but the American remained unconvinced until the Russians broke it up in April and threw it in Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay's face. Now the Americans wants a decision—and quickly —on the highest level.

In the former Krupp mansion in Essen, the coal experts of the North German Coal Commission labor as they have for months. The latest plan they have come up with is a drastic one. Of the 4,000,000 gross tons mined monthly, only a little more than 2,000,000 are net merchantable. But 4,000,000 tons monthly have been shipped from the Ruhr. The extra 2,000,000 came from stockpiles, but in June the stockpiles ran out. For July, the commission prepared a quiet, portentious announcement. Instead of all shipments to Western Europe, and of most of the shipments to Italy in front of his store. The 1877 depression washed him out, but five years later he had another store in Indianapolis, where he held weddings in the front window. Five years more and he had enough capital to move on to Chicago, rent a building at State and Jackson, and open The Hub. It was April 1887, he was 40, and life was just beginning.

He had $17,000 and promptly put one fourth of it into advertising, that announced "A Tornado! A Whirlwind! A Cyclone!" On opening day he threw 100 overcoats off the roof to crowds below, Clerks released balloons containing coupons redeemable with merchandise. In 1888, when he lost an election on Grover Cleveland, he sewed a card of wood he had lettered in full-length suit—as advertised. Police roped off the crowds. He broke even the first year; all 97 years since The Hub—whose name he later changed to Lyton's—showed handsome profits. One by one he saw Marshall Field, Potter Palmer, Levi Leiter, and the other merchant kings gathered to the bosoms of their ancestors, until he was the only one left of the fourteen State Street pioneers. Lyton had an uncanny business sense. At the peak of 1929 prosperity he sold his store for $7,000,000. At the bottom of the depression, he bought it back cheap.

Lyton still goes to the office every morning, no weather is good. His typical costume is a gray suit with matching spats, a maroon and white tie, a gray handkerchief in his breast pocket, and a flower in his lapel. He reads sales reports with a magnifying glass. Often he has downstairs to walk through the store, talking to customers, and turning out unnecessary lights. He is hard of hearing, but his voice is strong, and occasionally he bursts into unexpected song. He eats just about what he likes, and looks forward to the annual banquet of the State Street Seniors, all of whom are his juniors. "You're only as old as you think," says Henry Lyton.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was sitting on the front steps with pop waiting for the supper bell to ring for dinner and Mr. Sprollins came up. He gave a conversation in his button hole and swinging his arms, saying to pop, That's the kind of a site I love boy; a father and his son busily chatting socily together man to man, or boy to boy, as the case may be. It's the only thing that makes me regret I've always remained a batchelor, he said.

How right you are, pop said. There's nothing like having a boy around the house to make a man realize what a house must be like without a boy around it, and in it, and through it, and up and down it, he said; and Mr. Sprollins said, Yes, that's what I mean. How can a man ever grow old as long as he has a little boy to play with, and romp with, and renew his youth with every day? he said.

By gollies yes, pop said. You should of seen the 2 of us just a few minutes ago, wrestling together in the front hall like a cuppls of bear cubs. I'll bet I lasted at least 8 minutes, although I may be exaggerating a little because when your breath has been put out you're not quite sure whether you've sprained your back or not, time seems to pass a little more slowly than normally. We had some grand football practice the other day, too, back in the yard. I know I lasted a full 10 minutes at that, because I looked at my watch when we started, and it said exactly 9 o'clock, and it stopped at precisely 10 after 5 when it fell out of my pocket just after I scraped a hole out of my pants leg and the skin off my knee. Yes sir, I hung on for a full 10 minutes, and after an hour's rest or so and a good hot bath, I was able to enjoy my dinner almost as if nothing had happened, he said.

Yes yes, it's hard on us poor batchlers, Mr. Sprollins said.

And he kept on going looking kind of doubtfull.

Temperatures Affect Miners' Efficiency

London (CP)—Observations on miners working in the coalface in Great Britain showed that men employed in seams where the temperature was 65 degrees Fahrenheit had a working efficiency 41 per cent less than those of men working in a temperature of 60 degrees.

Other experiments showed that excessive cold lowers efficiency. Men assembling the links of a bicycle chain in a temperature of 30 degrees took 12 per cent longer than in a temperature of 63 degrees.

Nurses on Strike, Protest Dismissal

Kempsey, Australia (CP) — A three-day strike by 17 hospital nurses put this little town in New South Wales on the Australian front page.

The nurses protested dismissal of 35-year-old Sister Pauula Swift who with another member of the nursing staff travelled 500 miles by Sydney to parade with placards criticizing conditions at the small Kempsey District hospital.

When the hospital board announced Sister Swift's dismissal other nurses left their wards and sat it out in their own quarters until patients sent a petition asking them to return to their work.

While a state conciliation commissioner, flown to Kempsey, looked into the dispute, the nurses tended their patients on a voluntary basis. Conditions in the hospital returned to normal when the hospital board suspended their order dismissing Sister Swift.

Jubilee of the National Trust

Many overseas visitors, now in their seventies, will remember the early celebrations with doubtless marks a pilgrimage to the Lake District, home of the poet William Wordsworth, where Brinsop Court, Herefordshire, was born and formulated at least three of his immortal works. Here, too, is the orchard still contains a direct descendant of the famous tree from which an apple fell to the head of many other of England's greatest intelligence. As property of the National Trust has passed as sacrosanct to all at home and overseas interested in preserving England's heritage, for new members and donations, in a few years donations have amounted to forty-one thousand pounds and there is an impressive list of new applications for membership, in recognition of the Trust's work for the nation, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced to recommend to Parliament the making of a pound-for-pound grant in connection with the appeal to double its proceeds.

From The Stone Age to Peter Rabbit

As survey of the Trust's activities touches on all periods of England's historical and literary development, with numerous links with overseas. At Avebury, Wiltshire, it preserves one of the most important Stone Age sites in Europe. It owns considerable stretches of the Roman Hadrian Wall across Northern England. At Blickling, Sussex, it owns the site from which, as the Fayeux Tapestry shows, King Harold set sail for Normandy. The Trust owns almost the whole of the historic meadows at Runnymede, where King John signed the Magna Carta. The Tudor period treasures include the George Inn at Southwark, the only surviving galleried inn in Central London, and a house in Kent, known as St. John's Jerusalem, once belonging to the Knights Hospitallers. At Swanage, Morley, Norfolk, the Trust has land once belonging to an ancestor of Abraham Lincoln. The property was handed over two years ago in the presence of John Winant, the U.S.A. Ambassador.

Quebec House, Westerham, enshrines memories of General Wolfe's early years. Last year the Trust acquired Juniper Hall, Box Hill, which associates first with Madame d'Arblay and distinguished French emigres from the Revolution period. Four years ago, Lord Astor gave his famous house at Cliveden on the middle Thames "to be applied to promoting fellowship and goodwill among the English speaking nations." The House has many U.S.A. associations and the Canadian military hospital in the grounds has been presented to the government as a memorial to the Canadians who fought in the war.

One of the most widely visited houses belonging to the National Trust is Clouds Hills, the Dorset cottage where Lawrence of Arabia lived after leaving the R. A. F. and which is kept exactly as during his lifetime. At Burwash, Sussex, the Trust owns three hundred acres including "Batemans" home of Rudyard Kipling, who has so graphically described its "discovery." The House was left to the Trust in 1940 by Mrs. Kipling. In the Lake District, nearly four thousand acres, mainly in the memory of Beatrix Potter, creator of "Peter Rabbit," have become one of the district's leading sheep breeders. The above are only a few of the properties which includes nine hundred properties, more than doubled in the past seven years and now stands at a record area of over fifteen hundred acres, while forty thousand acres are under covenant "against industrial or housing "development" by the Trust, otherwise left in the hands of owners. The management of these properties costs money, and millions must be maintained and old buildings adapted to modern conditions. Hence the appeal, and full support is expected to be self-supporting. The British National Trust has issued an appeal to all at home and overseas interested in preserving England's heritage, for new members and donations, in a few years donations have amounted to forty-one thousand pounds and there is an impressive list of new applications for membership, in recognition of the Trust's work for the nation, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced to recommend to Parliament the making of a pound-for-pound grant in connection with the appeal to double its proceeds.

Durocher's Strategy Backfires As St. Louis Cards Beat Dodgers To Even the Crucial Series

Bobby Feller Hurls One-Hitter to Defeat Boston Red Sox 4 to 1

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Sport Writer)

Los Angeles — If Leo Durocher's Dodgers whose unorthodox strategy and managerial moves have made them a game out of top in this year, saw his latest bit of strategy backfire on him yesterday as the second-place St. Louis Cardinals belabored southpaw Joe Hatten and two successors for 15 hits and a 10-9 victory over the National League leaders.

The Card triumph evened the "crucial" series between the two contenders and once again the Brooks lead stands at 2 1-2 games with the rubber contest to be played today.

Before the important three-game tussle, Durocher announced he would switch from his original pitching nominee, Hatten to Rube Melton, a non-winner up to then, to work the opener if Eddie Dyer's selection was Howie Pollet, the Card's ace.

Leo's luck appeared more pronounced than ever when Melton, having one of his rare good days, outpitched Pollet Tuesday night to skyrocket Brooklyn's lead to 3 1-2 games. And with Hatten, fully rested, on tap, the experts were ready to award Durocher another "A" for astuteness.

So what happened? Hatten got his ears pinned back, and Murray Dickson, recently elevated from relief roles, held the Brooks at bay while his Redbirds pounded out their biggest hit total in four weeks.

Kurowski Leads Assault

George (Whitey) Kurowski, sore old Dodger killer, once again led the assault with a triple and two singles to drive home runs and score another thus accounting for half his team's runs.

The other tussle partly overshadowed Bobby Feller's scintillating one-hit pitching exhibition against Boston Red Sox as he registered his 20th victory by twirling Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory.

Four triumph gave Feller another line in the record books as it tied Addie Joss' major league standard of seven one-hit games, set when hurled for the Indians, Oddly enough, it was Bobby Doerr, who once batted on May 31, 1938, spoiled Addie's bid for a no-hitter, who got Boston's only hit, a clean single in the second inning. Feller already owns two no-hitters.

Detroit Tigers replaced New York Yankees as Boston's closest rival by defeating the Senators 6-0 to wrest second place from their victims by one percentage point.

Claude Passeau pitched the third-place Chicago Cubs to an 8-1 victory over New York Giants while Gordon edged out the case-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1.

Cincinnati Reds downed Philadelphia Phillies twice, 4-3 and 5-0 and Chicago White Sox scored three times in the ninth inning to come from behind and defeat Washington Senators 4-3.

Lord Montgomery's First Conference Of Chiefs of Staff

By WILLIAM ROSS
(Canadian Press War Writer)

London, Aug. 1 (CP Cable) — Commonwealth chief of staff and their high-ranking assistants will attend Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's first conference as chief of the Imperial General Staff in mid-August, The Canadian Press learned today.

Maj.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Canada's chief of the general staff, is to arrive about Aug. 8 and with others will participate in a two-day conference with the chief the conference is to take.

Instead of sitting around a table and theorizing, Lord Montgomery plans, for the first time in the history of chief-of-staff conferences, to put generals to the field work.

The high-ranking officers will spend some time at Camberley planning a river-crossing battle for an army group, then adjourn to the Thames river to "fight" it. For officers of the Indian, Australian, and New Zealand armies, Thames is to be Burma's Irrawaddy river and for the British and Canadian chiefs it will be the Rhine.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George B. Carver, Sports Editor

SACOS behind the five-hit hurling of Ian Hunter entered the Belleville Softball Association finals last night when they turned back the starry Mountain View nine in their second straight win of the two-of-three series. SACOS pushed over three runs in the first, and after that both teams battled even with the SACOS scoring one in the sixth. SACOS had to call on their conventional late innings combination to send over five runs in the ninth to clinch the pastime. Lionel Baker singled and his run on Ian's apple and drove out a scorching homer to deep left centre in the ninth. Sword clicked for a three bager in the first to clear the pops-lated sacks for three runs. SACOS will meet the winner of the Point Anne-Flashes series.

If it isn't anyone, but the grapevine has it on excellent authority that one "Red" Carson has been struck dumb by Dan Cupid, and will take off from the dock of bachelordom on the sea of the Benedicts come late August. "Red's" home-run record on Lake Ontario considerably after W-Day in August. Congrats, Red, on first fifty years are the worst.

Farley Faulkner, a bit irked at no takers to his challenge of a week ago to any bowler anywhere to better his fifteen consecutive strikes, went on to register a 12 game of 2500 a side stepped out on the Bowl-O-Drome alleys the other night and shattered his own mark a considerable margin.

He rolled fifteen games for a total of 4229, a game average of 281 1-3. His high game score was 279 and the low 186. He rolled 3 games for over the 300 mark.

Strange sounds of rasping, and creaking accompanied by loud whoops like those made by a seal after a 100-mile swim are echoing from sundry places in the district these days. There's nothing to be alarmed at. It is merely the softball squads of the Rotund Rotarians and Kiwanians Lions are readying themselves for the annual diamond tilt which takes place at Centennial Park, come Friday evening at 7.30 sharp.

The game is attracting wide-spread interest, and many a joint is being massaged skilfully with snake oil, axle grease and what not. The Kreakling Kiwanians, its reported by the Rotary Gazette have sent out cries for help to all parts of the world, and no doubt some strange faces will be seen in their line-up. On the other hand the Riverside Underground has it on good authority that one of its scouts has developed a new "slam bam" a distinct improvement on the one that shattered itself and the spectators at the last meeting of the two teams.

Trenton and Tommy Coldsen's SWACOS softball colleen teams meet in an exhibition game in Madoc on Monday as part of the program of the Old Boys' Reunion of that village which starts Saturday and lasts through till Tuesday. George Polmanter and his stable of leather-pushers are also on the card, as is a neat array of harness horses.

The first annual Bay of Quinte Golf Tournament has been arranged for and will be played on the links of the Bay of Quinte Country Club on August 13. The tourney will attract players from clubs in Belleville, Picton, Kearwatha, Kingston and other places in the district. Twenty prizes will be given in the handicap classes and the 18-hole matches will start at 9 a.m.

The Brooklyn Dodgers will conduct a baseball school for players between the ages of 17 and 21, inclusive, at the veterans of World War II at Sherar Field in Welland, Ontario, on August 12, 13, and 14. It will be the only school which the Dodgers will hold in Canada this year.

The school will be directed by Dick Fischer, veteran scout who has discovered a number of outstanding players, including Stan Rojek and Eddie Basinski. Fischer will be assisted by Jim Ferrante, who made the New England territory for the Dodgers a productive one and by Herb Thormahlen, who gained fame a few years ago as a southpaw pitcher for the Dodgers and for the New York Yankees.

Players should bring their own uniforms to the school. All other equipment will be furnished. The sessions will start at 9 a.m. each day.

Referee Ernie Powers, senior official of the Ontario Athletic Commission, will come to Belleville to referee the joust between Tour Morgan and Les Henning this Friday night in the Arena. Manager Walter Gerow assures especially the single and husky Powers to handle his mauler because as Gerow says "its liable to be an extremely wild struggle and we want to have an experienced man on the job."

Henning and Morgan have a real feud to settle this time. Few of the weeks back Morgan was on the thin end of a side of beef over since the Lindsay grappler started screaming for a chance back at the big boy from Brooklyn. But in the meantime Henning has climbed to the "champ" and has neatly side-stepped the racing Tear. That is he did until last Friday night when Morgan caught him outside the ring and hit him a haymaker just for "fun".

A fine (and perhaps rugged) battle looms up in the semi-final when Karl Kringler Davis, hooks up with Warren Bockwinkle. The latter is tough and ruthless but the Davis boy has his way around in any ring. Bunny Dunlop is in for a busy evening also when he tackles the fast coming young Mike Sharpe.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL

We have heard about a horse winning a race and dying, but how many turfgoers remember when a Derby jockey breathed his mount home first? This actually happened on June 4, 1923, in a steeplechase event at Belmont Park and it made every first page in town. A 30-year-old novice, F. Heyes, who never before had ridden a twinner, suffered a heart attack while taking his horse, Sweet Kiss, over the final jump. The rider slumped, draped over the horse's neck and though everyone present regarded that as peculiar, none dreamed of so tragic an ending.

Only Two Ontario Players Left In Quarter Finals at Edmonton

By HERB JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Aug. 1 — (CP) — No one ever dreamed it could happen but it did and today 2 of Ontario's hottest threats were blasted out of the fourth round of firing began in the 1948 tournament for the Canadian amateur golfing crown.

Victims of the upset storm which annihilated the third round play were all old links masters—Phil Farley, Wisnock, Whyte from Toronto and Jack Nash from London. They fell before the giant killing of Henry Martell, runner-up for Black's crown in 1938 and such fellows as 1939 titleholder Gordon Taylor of Montreal; Rudy Horvath the unpredictable Hungarian from Winnipeg's Howard Bennett, longdriving Jim Hunter of Calgary and Alex Love.

Looking over this favorite-riddled field at 9 sped toward the quarter-finals this afternoon and the semi-finals tomorrow morning thought they could see another Taylor, Bob Kirk in the Ontario District League and Galt kept in the running for the Intercounty title with a 3-2 win over Guelph 5-2.

Veteran roundsman Don Semeses scattered six hits and struck out nine batters to pitch the Saints to victory. Second sacker Marrack collected three hits in five trips for the Galt nine as St. Catharines racked up a total of 15 safeties.

Two successive squeeze plays in the top of the ninth caught the Guelph infield flat-footed and gave Galt two additional runs to put the game on ice. Bob Smith, hard-hitting Guelph right-fielder got three safeties in two singles in four trips.

Intercounty baseball began in two circuits with Listowel topping Mount Forest 13-10 in the first of a two-game total-point final series for the Western Ontario A. A. championship. Listowel Rangers scored five unanswered runs to defeat Brantford 5-4 in the Intercounty semi-finals.

In the junior divisions Whitby's Lakeshore League nine shut out Oshawa 5-0 to progress to Kitchener 8-5 in the Intercounty loop.

Edmonton, Aug. 1 — (CP) — Deep in the fever of its first golf tournament in its history golf-minded Edmonton is engaged in the delightful business of trying to pick the winner of the 1948 Canadian amateur before the finals Saturday.

Becomingly engrossed in the possibilities of the question ourselves, we went direct to the source, to the golfers who are battling out the decision over Mayfair's rolling, treelined and river-bordered fairways.

But we must confess that it wasn't a very conclusive research. In fact we became so bewildered by the contention that we just had to conclude as Alberta's favored Henry Martell said — you never can tell.

Before winding up with "But you never can tell," Martell said Toronto's Phil Farley or Toronto's Jack Nash "should" and smacked on Mayfair's tough par 72. Defending champion Kenny Black said nothing.

Next came Gerry Canning, 17-year-old ex-caddie from Kitchener, Ont., who Monday won the Canadian junior title. At the moment of the interview he was still in the senior tournament, having knocked off Calgary's R. J. DeBoeck 6 and 5. Gerry said: "You can't pick the winner in a tournament like this — there are too many good ones. But I'd say offhand Henry Martell or Phil Farley."

Questioned on his own chances, Gerry just smiled and said: "Well, you never can tell."

No sir, you never can tell.

♠A K 5

WEST EAST
♠10 8 6 3 2 ♠Q J 7

SOUTH

Sitting west, your opening lead is the ♠3. Dummy in the north plays the king. If your partner has the ace, however, he is likely to obstruct your future traffic.

Suppose east heedlessly discards his seven spot on that first trick. The next round of spades will use up the dummy's ♠9, and then has the third round with his remaining fiececard.

By now any side entries you may have had are probably gone, and there you are with two good spades that you die on the vine. It is a situation that east could have avoided.

Your first lead was obviously a fourth best from a bull of at least four spades. East could see the distribution from the bidding. On that first trick he should unblock by throwing his jack or queen.

In that way he is in a position to get out of your way. He can dump queenie on the second trick when dummy takes that one. Then you can take the third trick with your ten and run two more.

Instinctively many players are afraid to give up a high card unnecessarily. But those who refuse to count seem to have no trouble declining when such an unusual discard is advisable.

After all, there are only 13 cards in each suit. The opening lead tells what else the leader may have. With that he can in the dummy and his own hand, partner can tell what declarer has.

You can wield -quite a sock when you learn to unblock.

$30,000 BETTING COUP UNCOVERED BY INVESTIGATORS

Tuttleton's F.B.I. Says Sinatra Affidavit Is Bar Commonest, Son of War Admiral

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Aug. 1 — (AP) — A sight-seeing investigation by the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, which is based in Hemphidler today after the alleged discovery of a $30,000 betting coup at Rockingham Park, on a horse which Tuttleton's F.B.I. charged had been run as a "ringer" the past eight months.

Spencer Drayton, the former Federal Bureau of Investigation man who now heads the T.R.P.B., said the horse in question had been running in Florida and New England since last November as Allquilch, a five-year-old brown gelding once purchased for only $150.

Actuity, Drayton charged, the horse is Sea Commando, a five-year-old son of War Admiral.

"Listed under the ownership of the Frances stable, a horse owned by Allquilch was ordered scratched from the fifth race at Rockingham yesterday by general manager Jack Smith, who said the horse had been identified as Sea Commando by Charles Costello, an agent of the T.R.P.B.

The results of the bureau's investigation have been forwarded to the New Jersey Racing Commission.

Rockingham Park is located at Salem, N.H.

All told, the horse running as Allquilch has won five of eight starts in the list of official records show.

The stooges are the second to be made this week by the Racing Protective Bureau in the racing industry investigations.

On Tuesday, the Bureau announced that Dr. Leon Henderson its findings in a case involving three jockeys and a valet in connection with an alleged attempt to "throw" a race at Tropical Park last April 17.

BATA MAINTAINS GRIP ON SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

In a wild rampaging game featured with errors and arguments, Bata defeated the Ottawa SWACOS at the Atlantic Field Wednesday night 11-8 to maintain their grip on second place in the loop standings.

The game was the scene of three wild and woolly affairs with plenty umpire-baiting and lively arguments to entertainment. Fielding was loose with eleven bobbles being committed.

Big Ernie Smith, on the mound for SWACOS deserved a better fate. After a shaky start with the Bata bats got to him for four of the seven runs he allowed, and scored seven runs he held the foe down to three more safe hits. In the fifth the winners scored five runs off one hit, base on balls, by pitcher and errors aiding the run parade.

Bata started Stojan on the mound and he did a good job for four innings, when he weakened. He allowed three and allowed two hits for four runs, and "Smoky" Smith took the leading role in the next innings.

The southpaw's reputation didn't bother SWACO batters to much, and they pounded his offerings for a total of seven runs over the remainder of the game. He struck out six while his opponents fanned SWACOS whittled nine. Stojan sent down four via the route.

Bata scored two more runs in the last innings, but they were not needed as SWACOS to end the game.

Ken Wilson, fielder, hit a three-bagger for the winners while Jack Gerow got a pair of safeties. Walt Gerow got a pair of hits for SWACOS. Solmes, Bata backstop got a brace of safe knocks.

GEOFF BROWN ON AUSTRALIA'S DAVIS CUP TEAM

Uses Two-Handed Grip With Freak Service But Very Fast

By JACK HOLDSWORTH
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 1 — (CP) — Geoff Brown, 20-year-old slim youngster with the Australian two-handed grip and freak service, is almost a sure thing now for this country's Davis Cup team though until he went to Wimbledon he was given only an outside chance.

Brown, 22, five-feet nine and weighing 146 travelled to Europe last with Dinny Pails for this year's Wimbledon championships. By everyone's surprise he outdid Pails in the singles, reaching the finals as well as the finals in the doubles and mixed doubles.

He now is expected to be chosen as a Davis Cup reserve with John Bromwich and Adrian Quist.

Brown stepped straight into major tennis in Australia this last year when he was discharged from the R.A.A.F. after four years' service. He got to the semi-finals of the Australian and New South Wales State championships and the quarter-finals of the Victoria State championships.

In national titles play he beat Harry Hopman, probable Davis Cup manager, but then lost to Bromwich, ranked Australia's No. 1. In the state matches Pails and Quist knocked him out.

If he does make this year's Cup team he will be the third two-handed player to represent Australia in the international tournaments, the others are Bromwich and Vivian McGrath.

DAISY GRATTON PACES MILE IN 2.12 AT PICTON

Brighton-Owned Horse Wins Special Prize for Fastest Mile of Excellent Meet

Picton, Aug. 1—With a mile in 2.12, Daisy Grattan, owned by T. Fritz, Brighton, and driven by McMillan, won the special prize for the fastest heat of a fine two way circuit race meet held here yesterday under the auspices of the Prince Edward Club. This horse won the first two heats of the 2.19 class, and easily annexed the third heat had there not been a very unusual occurence. Fritz, driver of Hickston, driving his horse, Miss Grattan, left his post in the final heat. To the amazement of the thousand fans, as the rest of the field was in the last half mile, he drove his own horse up on the inside to the turn of the home stretch. As the other horses came round the upper bend to the stretch, Fritz called to his horse Daisy Grattan. This caused the horses to bunch up, and the leading horse, owned by Blewett of Kingston, went to his knees ahead of Daisy Grattan.

The judges held a lengthy discussion but ruled that the Picton horse was winner as she had not interfered with the other horse, declaring that he would have tied for a special prize gives the winner of the meet. They felt that Wilson's action had robbed him of the race. The judges announced that the action of Wilson would be reported to the Ontario Racing Association.

Charles Lambe of Lindsay was complete the first Wilson, Picton, clerk. In a running race, Lindsay owned by H. Sheppard of Bellevile, won the first heat, while his other entry was third. A horse owned by Mr. Bassett of Trenton finished second. Race results:

HOME RUNS MARK ORIOLES' PLAY IN INT. LEAGUE

Team Passes 100 "Mark by Hitting Five Homers in One Innings

(By The Associated Press)

Home runs have marked the play of Baltimore Orioles down through the years in the International League and this season is no exception. The Orioles became the first team in the league to hit the century mark in a-bagger production when they clouted four circuit blasts in the fifth inning last night.

Entering the fifth trailing Buffalo Blacks, 1-0, Bob Reiser, Ed Malinosky, Hank Mose and Joe Mellendick belted Nate Gentry for round-trip wallops that produced five Oriole runs and a 5-1 triumph. Robinson's blow was his 25th and the clubs' 100th of the year while Mose' clout was his 15th. Reiser, Mike Kelt and Mellendick's hit 15th. The victory enabled the Orioles to move over the Bisons into their place by six percentage points.

The pace-setting Montreal Royals scored a 3-2 10-inning victory over Syracuse Chiefs. Rookie Jim Tote had the Royals whitewashed going into the ninth inning but Chet Ross singled, a drive into the right-field stands with Les Burge on first recovered. The win moved the Royals won out in the next frame when Tom Tatum and Jack Robinson doubled in succession after Jim Pofahl walked.

Jersey City's tail-end Giants and the seventh-place Rochester Red Wings divided a twin bill with the Giants taking the opener, 4-3, behind the one-hit hurling of Marv Grissom and the Wings the finale, 5-1, as Rod Frye chalked up six-hitter for his 11th triumph of the year.

Toronto Maple Leafs were rained out at Syracuse.

What's Doing in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The National Association of Baseball Leagues, through its executive committee at Chicago yesterday, ordered the suspension of 63 days to Walter (Big) Mayer, Harry Liebold of Scranton, Pa., Colorado for the result of an umpire in an American Association game.

Mayer's trip was yesterday in the Keeneland thoroughbred year-ling auction at Lexington, Ky., when the $50,000 purchase of a chestnut son of Whirlaway champion money-winner, by Jay Palsy of Louisville. Frank Hitchcock of New York paid $37,-000 for a grey son of Question-aire.

Winner of a no-hit, no-run game against Los Angeles early in the season, veteran pitcher Joe Demeson of Seattle Rainiers in the Pacific Coast League was sold yesterday to Columbus of the American Association.

Batting champion of the International League in 1945, catcher Sherman Lollar is hitting only .213 for Baltimore Orioles after being returned from Cleveland Indians July 16. Of his 13 hits since then, however, nine have been home runs.

CHAPTER 82

It was typical of their conversations, that banter, back and forth. Yet in her cabin she had face downward and hated herself for treating him as if he were a casual acquaintance. It was a cruel trick of Louis and Mary to bring them together again — a trick with the best intentions.

But what would happen if they gave way to the truth? A torrent of words and kisses that would be hungry and fierce. No, no, she could not go to Joel with Mark's kisses on her mouth.

They said good night at the door of her cabin—a mere touching of hands that was electrical—and Iris lay on the bed and tried to turn her mind to realities. Wedding invitations. Where would they live? A small downstairs apartment, probably. It would be closer to the bank and they had no car. If Joel's extra work counted he would mean her getting a job.

At breakfast the next morning Mark said, "I don't want to put you in an embarrassing position, Iris. If Joel knew we had come back together, he'd naturally think the worst. When we dock, I won't see you home."

Because of the boat anchored in the bay an extra night and the passengers took the delayed landing as a time to celebrate a trip quickly over.

The air was almost impenetrable. The melancholy fog whistles drowned the sound of the music from inside.

Iris was a lone still figure, her white coat covering the white evening dress, standing on deck. Tomorrow—tonight. It is over and I don't have Mary to go to any more. In the dim lights beyond, the city will swallow me up as Joel's wife. He'll always lean on me and I shall have no one to lean on.....

She shied away from Mark all day but when she saw a man approaching her at dusk, sing, she knew it was he.

Thought, "Mark, this hurts, this second good-bye. We're not angry now. We're terribly calm and reasonable and we know that never again will we meet— both dies."

For the first time in months she looked at him with everything she thought, and felt clear and honest in her eyes.

"Mark....."

"Don't tell me you're sorry, Iris. I hate apologies at that sort. I've heard of people dying for a principle, but I've never heard of sacrifice to a promise. I didn't intend to go near you again. I don't want to see you again. Do you think that's being unnecessarily unfair? I'm trying to be a good loser."

"If you're a poor loser," she said, "you'd kiss me and tell me things to break my heart—things you know I want to hear. Your severity is only a defense."

"Then I'm clever and final good-bye, Iris. No. I won't tell you things to break your heart, things you want to hear. I don't want to hear crying from you I'll remember. I remember enough. But I will tell you good-bye."

And Iris had a premonition of being lifted, lifted by him in his arms. Defiance, tenseness left her and she felt not only his lips but gave him in a moment of yielding and giving that would have to suffice for a lifetime.

Then he was gone.

There were many anxious faces waiting for the passengers. Was Joel waiting for her, Iris wondered. What would she say to him? He would probably complain because the boat had been delayed. Mark...Don't think of Mark.

But it was Louis who was waiting.

Iris! You look marvelous. Have you had any breakfast?"

"I wasn't hungry."

"Then you're coming to breakfast with me at once."

Over a table in the restaurant Iris said, "You look ten years younger."

"And you look ten years older in window. Do you want your old job back?"

She folded her hands and smiled at him. "I could split between the lines of your letter. Anita Rogers has had something to do with your looking ten years younger. Tell me, Louis."

"You're coming to rather premature conclusions, my dear. She is a fine girl. She hasn't had an easy life. A country girl, the daughter of a Methodist minister. That has made her complacent and sweet natured. It would be hard to let her go now, Iris. But if you want your job back?."

"I'm going to be married; you know."

"I saw Mark when he came off the boat. Do you hate me for what I did? It was my gesture to make up to you for Janette's cruelty to you. I thought....."

"Louis, I couldn't fall into Mark's arms, wearing Joel's ring. I couldn't take advantage of our being together. It wouldn't have been fair."

Hmm, with the freshness of summer gone from the trees and lawns and flowers, dissolved into drab than usual.

Mrs. Wade in a crisp clean house dress, cried a little over Iris and embraced her fondly.

"I must say you look well," said Selina. "I've missed you, Iris. Company is so refreshed in the new job Mark Christian got him that I have no time to do. It's been awfully lonesome. I think I'm getting dissatisfied again. I don't know what's to be done about it. Sometimes I just don't know where to turn."

And Iris, out of duty, had to listen to Selina's long pent up troubles while she thought of that last figure vanishing off the boat, out of her life.

All that morning she unpacked.

Then he was gone.

And Iris, out of duty, had to listen to Selina's long pent up troubles while she thought of that last figure vanishing off the boat, out of her life.

All that morning she unpacked.

She would not telephone Joel until noon and if he wanted to see her, she'd get a cab and meet him downtown for lunch. Then they could make definite plans about the wedding.

When she called the bank a feminine voice told her, "Mr. Joel is not in today," and refused to elaborate further. Iris phoned his boarding house next.

"Hello," she said gaily, "You're out, too, are you?"

There was a long taut silence. "Iris," he said, "I'm in a terrible jam. Can you come right away?"

The taxicab seemed to creep through the Monday traffic. She finally it drew up at the curb of a large, old-fashioned house. Iris rang the bell and a buxom Irish woman answered.

"May I see Mr. Brooks?"

"Indeed you may. The boy's beside himself, walking up and down over my head all night and all the morning, and snappin' at me when I ask him if there's anything I can do for him. He sin't sick and he ain't drunk but he looks scared...."

Scared? What could it possibly be? Had he lost his job? Was he so worried because, if he had lost it, they could not carry out their plans? Joel opened the door and looked at her with red-rimmed eyes. He stared at a strange look about them.

There was evidences in his room of his great unrest. The ash trays were filled. For the past hour he had smashed the cigarettes in them. The dark blue window shades were drawn. His bed looked as if he had lain upon it fitfully. His white shirt sleeves were rolled up and there was an unkempt look about him.

"What is it, Joel? You seem terribly upset." She took him by the arms and looked at him.

His eyes seemed to look through her.

"I told you I was in a jam."

"What kind of a jam? What have you done?"

"I wasn't good enough for your mother. I wasn't good enough to come to the house or associate with your friends. I couldn't give you the things your mother thought you should have or take you to the best places.."

"What are you talking about? What has that got to do with this? What has it got to do with you and me?"

"Because I embezzled money, that's why!" He took her wrist and held it tightly. "Now you listen to me. My extra job was working as a cashier in a building and loan association at night. I took money, I took it for you! Then I took it to pay the bets I placed and bought the ring you're wearing. I did it for you. Do you hear that?"

"You're hurting me. Let me go." Iris shuddered and drew in her shoulders as if he had struck her. "You—did money! Why...how could you?"

"I did it for you," he said. "And I'm caught. They know about it now. The books were audited last night. Now I'm waiting for them to come and get me. They'll be coming after it! Boy steals to give girl luxuries. I wonder what your fine friends will think about that."

She could not believe what he was saying. She drew back. Was this Joel? Have I loved this boy? Have I led him to ruin, to disgrace, to a jail sentence? For the second time in her life Iris felt everything crashing about her.

"Oh, they'll give it to me," he said, lighting another cigaret. "I wanted to meet you at the boat this morning but I was afraid to leave the house. If I hadn't known you were coming back I'd have killed myself. That's why I pulled the shades down. It looked so good to me."

"There must be some way out of this."

He straightened. "This is what your mother's fine ideas have brought me to. Jailed for embezzlement to buy you an engagement ring. Is there no penitentiary I won't be able to stand in your eyes, my dear?"

"Stop talking that way! Joel, I...what can I say? I didn't know. I...I'll get a divorce and marry you long before this. And having married you when you first asked me and kept on working that I didn't want to burden you with my family. I had to think of them!"

"Does that relieve your conscience any? You're not going to walk out on me now. You'll see much in this as I am."

"Did you think I'd walk out on you? Joel, how much did you take?"

"About four thousand."

"You haven't spent that much. Is the rest of it in the bank?"

His face reddened. "No, I spent it."

"How did you spend all that money?"

"Gambling. I thought I could make it more."

And he said, "You make me despise myself as I despise your weakness."

"There's still a way out for both of us if you're willing to take a chance. That's why I wanted you to come. We can leave town, get married...."

"With the police on our trail!" Iris hit back the tears. "What has happened to you! What has happened to the boy I first knew? Or have you been like this all along and I didn't know it? Now you want to run away and take me with you."

He lowered his head. His shoulders shook. "Don't leave me to fight this mess alone. Iris please, please don't leave me now."

"I'm not going to leave you."

When the door suddenly opened, he reached for her, not brutally this time, but as some one weak reaches for some one strong. For 6 minute three people stared at one another, facing an ugly truth.

The elderly, mild mannered man asked of Joel, "Who are you?"

"I'm Mr. Brooke's fiancee, Iris Wade."

I am Antony Butler, Miss Wade, president of the building and loan association." His shook his head. "It's too bad about this. A very regretable thing. I am very sorry for you, Miss Wade."

"I learned of it just now. I've been away. I just got back this morning."

HAD INDIGESTION, BLOATED WITH GAS; AFRAID TO EAT

"Even Lightest Food Disagreed With My Stomach," Says This Man, Often Felt Sick and Dizzy; Back, Head, Limbs, Joints Sore and Painful. Tells How Syntone Helped Him.

MR. KONRAD KREMONTS

"For the past three years my stomach has been out of order and everything I ate disagreed with me," said Mr. Konrad Kremonts, London, Ont., in a recent report.

"Even the lightest foods brought on terrible attacks of indigestion, heartburn. After my meals I would become all bloated and short of breath. Hot, burning, sour liquids would come up in my throat and choke me. I was afraid to eat for fear I'd feel the dull, sickening pain. Many times I was afraid to live.

"I suffered a lot with throbbing headaches and I got bad spells at times with dark spots floating before my eyes. My back ached and I had pains all through my joints and muscles. I was nervous, had no energy and often couldn't get my sleep at night, because my nerves were all jumpy. I felt all run down and worn out from the time I got up in the morning.

"I tried many different things from time to time, but nothing helped me. Then I read about what Syntone had done for others and sent for some. Since I've been taking this wonderful medicine I've been troubled with my nervous, upset stomach. The pains in my back, head, limbs and joints are no more. I feel fine all the time so that I can eat my meals without fear. I sleep well, am full of energy and pep and feel like a new man. I'm glad to recommend Syntone to Bellsville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, Syntone acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntone is sold and recommended in Bellsville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Truman Reported Dissatisfied With 4-Province Plan

London, Aug. 1 — (CP)—The future of a British-approved proposal to partition Palestine into Jewish and Arab states appeared dark today following reports from Washington that President Truman was dissatisfied with the scheme.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, who announced the plan, conditional approval of the plan in the House of Commons yesterday, commented that the American co-operation was essential to put the proposal into effect and added that the American delegation of experts in the conference which developed the scheme had accepted it unanimously.

President Truman called those experts home late yesterday, however, and Washington officials in a position to know said the other executive had decided tentatively to reject the proposal in its present form. It divides the troubled Holy Land into an Arab state, Jewish state and two zones administered by the British-controlled central government.

Further Study

The Washington reports said State Secretary Byrnes shared the president's view that further exploration of the entire Palestine situation should be undertaken in an effort to solve the problem.

In Tel Aviv, meanwhile, British troops continued for the third day their underground house-to-house search for the perpetrators of the King David Hotel bombing in Jerusalem last week.

Royal Engineers were combing through the all-Jewish city's Great Synagogue, beneath which troops reportedly found a trap cache, equipment for forging government bonds and 20,000 forged 10-pound ($40) bonds. A communique said "What appears to be a false wall in the synagogue is being investigated."

The search was reported to have uncovered today a new cache.

Speculation On Where Money Cached Takes New Turn

Toronto, Aug. 1 (CP)—Speculation about the location of $200,000 in cash and bonds alleged to have been stolen by the Polka Dot Gang last fall in Southern Ontario took a new turn today when James Rumble, owner of the house in which the money was held by the gang at a hideout, announced he had received an offer for the property.

He said the offer was made by a man who apparently has not been disclosed by police found a cache containing $200,000 near the north wall of the two-storey frame dwelling. Police dug up the money more than a week ago. Police have since recovered the money and started questioning the men.

"I understand the proposed purchaser planned on using the lumber in the construction of another building," said Mr. Rumble. "But one guess is as good as another as to what the offer had anything to do with hidden treasure."

The present tenant, Mrs. Jake Stone has found other living quarters and plans to move in about a week. She and her three small children have lived in the house since early this year.

Supposed treasure in the ground has been nothing more than a headache for Mr. Rumble and myself," she said.

Greek Gendarmes Battle Outlaws, Many Disorders

Athens, Aug. 1 — (AP)—The Greek government announced today it has rushed mechanized equipment to gendarmes battling outlaws near Larisa.

Disorders were reported from many parts of Greece.

The Ministry of Public Order said 100 outlaws had barricaded themselves in the village of Argyropoulion, after attacking a gendarmerie patrol and looting the village, scene of two previous attacks in the last two months.

The announcement said the outlaws, armed with heavy automatic weapons and dynamite, killed two gendarmes and captured six in the first attack.

Three Leftist band members were reported killed in a clash with police in western Thrace and three civilians slain by a band in eastern Macedonia during the last 24 hours.

In Athens, 60 miles east of Salonika, three Leftist band members were executed to death by military court.

The Salonika press office announced the shooting clash between an army unit and an armed band in the mountain forest of Kozane in western Macedonia, saying six of the members of the band had been killed or captured.

Six Wounded in Election Disorders in Tenn.

Citizens Angered Over Conduct Of County Balloting

Named Officers Barricaded In Jail Rocked by Blasts

Athens, Tenn., Aug. 2 — (AP) — Armed citizens patrolled Athens early today following the surrender of some 50 deputized officers who barricaded themselves for six hours in the Mckinley jail, centre of a bloody election night gun battle with a crowd of 500 or more.

At least six men were seriously wounded as election disorders here Thursday but an earlier report that a man had died within the battered, blasted jail apparently was false. The report had been given by telephone from within the building. Three reports available on the actual number of dead or wounded.

Besieging the jail were supporters of a bi-partisan "All-G" ticket which challenged the incumbent democratic organization whose deputies had taken two ballot boxes into the building for counting of the votes.

Gunfight Dies

The gunfight sputtered and died in Athens early this morning and a spokesman for the victorious "G" partisans said "we are willing to leave the situation in their hands."

"But," added Ralph Duggan, a former United States Navy lieutenant commander and a spokesman for the "All-G" group, "we know we are going to be in charge and will dictate all terms to the other side."

Shortly after 8 a.m., the deputies, hands in air, marched from the jail against which the forces of Sheriff Pat Ingram, "homemade bombs" until the men within shouted their surrender.

Duggan said that the war veterans, who mustered several hundred to lost bosses from the jail, "are elected each year to serve county officials beginning Sept. 1." He produced a statement from George Woods, a member of the county election commission, which said that he "considered Sheriff-candidates have been elected."

Met with Pistols

He added that the "all-G" tickets adherents were met with blackjacks and pistols," and that ballots for the ballot boxes had been removed by armed guards from polling places. The veterans went to the jail "and were met by gunfire."

The G.I. candidates had promised that the votes would be counted as cast, he said. "They had no choice but to meet fire with fire."

Neither State Senator Paul Cantrell, who heads the democratic political machine in the county, nor Sheriff Ingram could be located for statements on the situation.

The gunfight came after four blasts of explosive rocked the Athens jail, blew a hole in one of its corners and demolished an automobile which had been used to blockade an entrance.

Other Disturbances Reported

Other election disturbances were reported during the day yesterday, including one shooting, starting with election officials in two cases.

R. B. Collins, a Chattanooga News-Free Press photographer, reported that he had been jailed briefly at Athens after taking a picture of a picket line, which he said officers were closing 10 minutes before the 4 p.m. deadline.

Collins said he was held for 1½ hours and that his film was taken from him and destroyed.

At Memphis, photographer George Peters of the Press-Scimitar said the election official smashed his flash bulb after he made a picture of a group of veterans who barricaded themselves for six hours in the Shelby county jail, centre of a bloody election night gun battle with a crowd of 500 or more.

At least six men were seriously wounded as election disorders here Thursday but an earlier report that a man had died within the battered, blasted jail apparently was false. The report had been given by telephone from within the building. Three reports available on the actual number of dead or wounded.

In a statement at 3:05, Ralph Duggan, a former Lieutenant Commander in the United States Navy and spokesman for the Bi-Partisan "All-G" ticket whose sympathizers and supporters had barricaded the jail, told newspapermen:

"They have conceded."

The pitched gun battle was a climax of a bitterly waged local political campaign. A crowd of 500 to 1,000 took part.

Heavily armed gardsmen were due to arrive in the city of 7,000 population early in the day.

The outbreak occurred after two young war veterans backing an "All G" slate for county officers broke out of a polling booth at Niota, Tenn., and carried the report fraud in the vote counting.

Sheriff Pat Ingram, James Ed Vestal and Charles Scott, who were in the polling place when the fight broke out, and a watcher. They said they had been ordered to sit at the front of the counting room and had been denied the right to remain there to witness the count. They fell as they broke through the glass and splintered wood sidewalk.

A Deputy Sheriff isevilled pistol at the servicemen, according to Editor James E. Jarvis of the Chattanooga Times, a spectator, said. The former soldiers walked into the crowd with their guns drawn and a roar came up from the onlookers.

32 PROSECUTIONS INSTITUTED

Ottawa, Aug. 2 (CP)—Justice Minister St. Laurent said today in the Commons that 32 prosecutions have been instituted as the result of investigations into the handling of ration coupon banking by Le Banque Provinciale du Canada and such other prosecutions were pending. He did not say whether all were bank employees.

HOUSE APPROVES THREE BILLS OF VETS CHARTER

Allowance Act, Land Act and Pensions Act Given Third And Final Reading

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 2 (CP) — The Commons yesterday gave final approval to three pieces of veterans legislation—component parts of Canada's veterans charter—after a day-long debate on the problems of the soldier on his return to civilian life.

The measures, three of 12 veterans bills standing on the order paper, took up most of the morning, afternoon and evening sittings as opposition members sought to have the government accept what they thought would be more generous provisions for ex-servicemen.

Third and final reading was given bills amending the Pension Act, the Veterans Allowance Act and the Veterans Land Act. Speaking briefly on behalf of Jean Francois Pouliot (Ind. L-Temiscouata), Independent Labor Party Deputy Speaker Rose MacDonald ruled out of order a suggestion made by Mr. Pouliot which would have made provisions of the Veterans Land Act applicable to all servicemen, instead of only to those with at least a year's service.

Mrs. MacDonald's ruling, based on the ground the amendment would result in increased expenditure, was upheld by a 113-10 vote. Under house rules, only the government may move such an amendment which would affect expenditures.

Speakers in the day-long discussion included Howard Green (PC-Vancouver South), Capt. John Probe (CCF-Regina City), Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, VC (PC-Vancouver Burrard), Maj.-Gen. George Pearkes, VC (PC-Nanaimo), Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), Arthur Ross (PC-Souris), Percy Wright (CCF-Medicine Hat), Angus Bentley (CCF-Swift Current), Jan E. D. Bolton (PC-Kamloops) and George Black (PC-Yukon).

The Senate met briefly and gave final approval to a bill leading to a measure amending the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The veterans allowance bill provided lively debate with Col. Merritt and Gen. Pearkes urging that imperial veterans who came to Canada during the Great War be brought under the provisions of the act.

Mr. Knowles called for payment of larger pensions to widows of First Great War veterans.

Prime Minister King Seeks Co-operation Of Delegates at Conference

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Aug. 1 (CP) (Sabbath) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in his first speech as chief of Canada's delegation to the 21-power peace conference, said, today the Dominion will fact its measure of her participation in the Second Great War would have warranted a similar measure in participation in peace decisions. To the extent these hopes are not being realized," said Mr. King.

"We have, however, the limited opportunity afforded by our participation in this conference not only to assist in shaping the first of the peace treaties but also to make known our views on certain fundamentals of general peace settlement."

The Prime Minister made the reference to Canada's "limited opportunity" to participate in peace decision in an address before the full peace conference in the Luxembourg Palace, in which he formally proposed on behalf of Canada that the Big Four Foreign Ministers meet in the conference antechamber to discuss proposals arising from plenary session of the conference.

Advocates Parallel Meetings

Since early this week when the conference opened the Canadian delegation has been advocating these parallel Big Four meetings but today marked the first time the proposal has been publicly proposed to the conference, Under the conference rules, which is the charter of this conference, the Big Four meetings would meet only after the conference had heard the views of five peace treaties and consider recommendations from the conference.

The Canadian proposal is that the Big Four consider any recommendations while the conference sessions.

"I would like to see the four great powers willing to consider and consider promptly any changes in the Foreign Ministers' proposals which may be suggested by strong arguments," said Mr. King.

Considered Before Vote

"I should like to see any suggestions considered by them before the vote is taken. In other words I would like to suggest—and I believe the suggestion to be in accordance with the council of the Foreign Ministers—that they should in the conference ends to examine these recommendations.

"I would suggest the council of Foreign Ministers, all of whom will be attending the conference, should meet from time to time during the conference to review and discuss proposals as they arise out of our deliberations.

"This course would facilitate immediately acceptance of any agreed compromises in the draft treaties. It would tend to avoid the necessity of votes and divisions."

Does Not Want Divisions

Mr. King said it was "of highest importance" that every thing possible should be done to minimize divisions. In that regard, he said, Canada is looking forward to the peoples of an anxious world.

If the Big Four met as he suggested it would not require any change in the formal position of the powers.

The final stage provided for under the Moscow declaration is still to take place when the foreign ministers would convene for the purpose of approving the final draft treaties.

There is much merit in this proposal they would I believe find at that time that many points at issue at that stage had been resolved. Indeed it might not be necessary for the full conference ment would rapidly ensue. Further, the Big Four would have the advantage of emphasizing our common partnership in the making of the peace.

This was the most important fearture of Mr. King's speech, which also treated in general terms Canada's interest before the conference and the over-all questions of the peace.

Opening Address Awaited

Opening his address, awaited with keen interest by all delegations because Mr. King is regarded as the most experienced Commonwealth leader here, the Prime Minister mentioned the "special ties" between Canada and France during the last 400 years.

Referring to the treaties before the conference, Mr. King said Canada has no specific national interest in the settlement of any particular formula for solution of individual conflicts or differences.

"But we have vital and compelling interest in the kind of settlements which will govern deliberations. Our principal duty as delegates, it seems to us now, in helping countries more directly involved to arrive at freely agreed solutions which are fair and likely to endure.

"Our security as a nation is to see that as far as we can help it stable lines of peace treaties will be based upon broad and enduring principles of justice and equity. Canada seeks no territory, no reparations, no special concessions of any kind. All we seek to build a lasting peace."

RULES COMMITTEE FAILS TO NAME PERMANENT HEAD

Smaller Nations Line Up Against Decision Of Big Powers To Rotate Chairmanship

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Aug. 2 — The Rules Committee of the European Peace Conference today failed after six of its fifth session wrangling over who should be permanent chairman of the full conference and received without deciding the question.

Many of the smaller nations, led by New Zealand and including Canada, lined up against a decision of the Big Four Powers that the four principal powers—Britain, the United States, France and Russia—should rotate the chairmanship among themselves, but the issue did not reach a vote, Molotov Objects

Foreign Minister MacNeil, speaking for the British delegation, called on the proponents of a Molotov proposal for a proposal at which would specifically call for the election of Generalissimo Generalissimo Stalin, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov pointedly remarked, "In this connection the foreign Ministers made the decision to have a rotating chairmanship."

The Brazilians, Australians, Dutch and Canadians then announced those supporting the New Zealand move to the effect that Mr. Bidault himself did not want the post because he had a hard domestic tic task as well as France's foreign affairs to handle.

Speaking for Canada, Heath Macquarrie Canadian supported New Zealand proposal that the permanent chairmanship of the conference be given to the Big Four, rather than be rotated among the four Foreign Ministers of the principal powers as provided in Molotov's proposal.

Appreciates Viewpoint

Following Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky who argued on behalf of a rotating chairmanship, Mr. Claxton said he appreciated the Soviet viewpoint but added that the New Zealand proposal would not have the effect of minimizing the position of the Big Four.

"In this case the effect would be to elevate them," added Mr. Claxton. "Canada for more than four years has a special relationship to France. This relationship was consecrated in the blood of the Diepppe four years ago

Angus Young Gives Self Up Following Savage Attack

Operation Performed To Save Life of Third Child

Toronto, Aug. 2 — (CP) — A savage hammer-and-axe attack early today killed a 25-year-old mother, and fatally wounded two of her three children in a second-floor apartment on West-Central McCaul Street.

Arrested a scant two hours after Miss Georgina Washington and the children were found, hacked and battered, in s bedroom of their home on the fringes of a slum area, 21-year-old Angus Young of Toronto appeared today before Magistrate F. C. Gullen on a charge of murder. He was remanded without a plea being taken.

Young surrendered to rookie Constable Norman Gillen on a corner of downtown Yonge Street after police had scoured the area around the McCaul Street house. Constable Gillen quoted Young as saying to him:

"I guess I'm the man you're looking for."

Questioned Four Hours

Clean cut, wearing dark blue trousers, grey and maroon sweater and light tan shoes, Young was led from police headquarters shortly before 4 p.m. after almost four hours of questioning. He was handcuffed to a police officer. A battered grey felt hat was on the rear of the police building he stepped into a waiting vehicle.

Dead besides the mother are her son, Donnie, aged seven years, and her daughter, Joan, two years. An operation was performed on Joan at Toronto's Hospital which would specifically call for the election of Generalissimo Stalin, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov pointedly remarked, "In this connection the foreign Ministers made the decision to have a rotating chairmanship."

The Brazilians, Australians, Dutch and Canadians then announced those supporting the New Zealand move to the effect that Mr. Bidault himself did not want the post because he had a hard domestic tic task as well as France's foreign affairs to handle.

Radio-Active Carbon Can Emit Rays For Next 10,000 to 25,000 Years

By FRANK CAREY
(AP)

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 2 (AP) —The first peacetime products of the Manhattan Project were handed out today as Government officials announced the step opens "new horizons of medical and biological research" in the Tennessee Valley hatan engineer district—makers of atomic energy assigned were five "pea-sized" units of radioactive carbon, now available as soon as possible to accredited hospitals, universities, industrial research laboratories and clinical investigating groups.

In addition to radio-active carbon, the atomic energy facilities have been producing more than 150 many common and rare elements, including such metals as uranium, that are radio-active sulphur, phosphorus and iodine — hitherto produced only in minute quantities by the instrument known as the cyclotron.

Prices set by the Manhattan District for its products range from $307 a unit (excluding handling charges) for radio-active carbon to 67 cents for a radio-active mixture of the metals zirconium and columbium.

RUSSIA REJECTS U.S. COMPLAINT ABOUT HUNGARY

Claims Economy of Country Not Ruined by Soviet Occupation Policies

London, Aug. 2 — (CP)—Russia has rejected as "completely groundless" a complaint by the United States that the Hungarian economy is being ruined by Soviet occupation policies.

Tass, Soviet news agency, released last night the text of a note it said the deputy foreign minister, V. G. Dekanozov, sent to U.S.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, United States Ambassador, last September in which Russia denied the allegations in Gen. Smith's protest that the Red army did not "cooperate with the facts."

The note, answering an American contention that Russian industrial production was being used for the payment of reparations and maintenance of Red Army occupation forces, said Hungarian reparations payments to the Soviet Union from 1945 did not exceed $10,000,000 — "an absolutely negligible sum."

M. Dekanozov said Russia had accepted a plan proposed by Hungary for future reparations deliveries as follows: $21,800,000

MILLIONS UNRRA AID 'PILFERED' SAYS LA GUARDIA

Asks Authority to Furnish Armed Guards for Supplies in Trieste Area

Belgrade, Aug. 2 —(AP)— Fiorello H. La Guardia, director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, has advised Allied Headquarters in Italy that "millions of dollars of our supplies" are being pilfered in Trieste and has asked again for authority to furnish armed guards for UNRRA supplies in the area.

In a sharply worded cable sent from Belgrade, Dr. La Guardia told Gen. John C.H. Lee, acting Allied commander in the Mediterranean theatre, the situation in Trieste is "intolerable" and that he would take the matter up, if necessary, with "the very highest level of governments", in Britain and the United States.

"Pilferage from freight cars is widespread," Mr. La Guardia

21 Nazi Leaders Don't Like It, To be Stared at by Spectators

By HAL BOYLE

Nuernberg, Germany, Aug. 2— (AP) — The 21 members of the Nazi High Command Hierarchy being tried here for war crimes have become the newcomer from an attraction in Germany.

They don't like it.

At each recess spectators crowd to the railing to get as close a look at possibly the most evil empire has come down to a prisoner's dock since the days of the Roman coliseum.

"Look at them!" someone exclaims audibly. "Look at Julius Streicher, he's eating a piece of chocolate."

Particularly maddening to the defendants are spectators who stare at them through binoculars. Hermann Goering and Rudolf Hess, the lean red-nosed former Chief of Staff of the German General Staff, that occasion he screws his hands together around his eyes as if he held a pair of field glasses himself and glares back at the offending onlooker, jabbering angrily in German.

This performance always brings an audience hit the mark and angers Jodl even more.

It is strange to see these men standing trial for a world's misery. They look as harmless and rounded by wooden barriers and armed guards. And to read their indictment. Hess, Rudolf has read the evidence massed against them. Goering, everyone from another planet might think them a quiet thoughtful man imposed upon and betrayed group of men.

Their long confinement has taken its toll on most of defendants.

Goering remains the most vile, commanding presence, and Hess the one who has most contempt respect because of his lack of hypocrisy and his continued admiration for his dead Fuehrer. Americans like loyalty in a man and Hess is the only one who feels the other defendants let him down."

Now when a German lawyer speaks disparagingly of Hitler as a man who befuddled his followers and led his country to ruin, Goering cups his face in his hands and slowly shakes his head.

The shadow of Hitler hangs heavily over the entire trial.

79th U.S. Congress Near Adjournment

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The 79th United States Congress, which teamed with Presidents Roosevelt and Truman in carrying the nation out of war but left on many domestic matters, sped toward final adjournment today.

With an 11th-hour compromise worked out to freeze the level of farm prices until it for a special session, the 79th Congress will not meet again once it closes the books, the Congress that convenes in January will be a new one, the 80th.

All 435 House of Representatives seats and 33 of the 96 in the Senate will be filled in the November elections. This was one of the compelling reasons that prompted the body to take its longest recess on its eight years.

Members seeking re-election want ample time to campaign.

Expect Rush

In all, the President asked for 22 pieces of legislation. Congress approved 10 of them, rejected 12 and compromised on seven.

Bitter battles over these fights with Congress were on labor legislation and price controls, on both of which he sent to Congress vetoes that were upheld.

Other issues for compulsory military training and for merger of the United States armed forces bogged down.

But after a prolonged fight Congress granted his requests for extension of the draft law and for a loan of $4,350,000,000 to Britain.

Congress went down the line with Mr. Roosevelt and his successor on international issues and on matters dealing with the war, at its height when Congress first convened on Jan. 3, 1945.

Three months later on April 12, it weathered the shock of the sudden death of Mr. Roosevelt and helped one of its former colleagues, Harry S. Truman, the Vice President, pick up the burden of leading the nation's war effort and co-operated with Mr. Truman until the fall of Germany and Japan.

Angus Young Gives Self Up Following Savage Attack

Operation Performed To Save Life of Third Child

Toronto, Aug. 2 — (CP) — A savage hammer-and-axe attack early today killed a 25-year-old mother, and fatally wounded two of her three children in a second-floor apartment on West-Central McCaul Street.

Arrested a scant two hours after Miss Georgina Washington and the children were found, hacked and battered, in s bedroom of their home on the fringes of a slum area, 21-year-old Angus Young of Toronto appeared today before Magistrate F. C. Gullen on a charge of murder. He was remanded without a plea being taken.

Young surrendered to rookie Constable Norman Gillen on a corner of downtown Yonge Street after police had scoured the area around the McCaul Street house. Constable Gillen quoted Young as saying to him:

"I guess I'm the man you're looking for."

Questioned Four Hours

Clean cut, wearing dark blue trousers, grey and maroon sweater and light tan shoes, Young was led from police headquarters shortly before 4 p.m. after almost four hours of questioning. He was handcuffed to a police officer. A battered grey felt hat was on the rear of the police building he stepped into a waiting vehicle.

Dead besides the mother are her son, Donnie, aged seven years, and her daughter, Joan, two years. An operation was performed on Joan at Toronto's Hospital which would specifically call for the election of Generalissimo Generalissimo Stalin, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov pointedly remarked, "In this connection the foreign Ministers made the decision to have a rotating chairmanship."

The Brazilians, Australians, Dutch and Canadians then announced those supporting the New Zealand move to the effect that Mr. Bidault himself did not want the post because he had a hard domestic tic task as well as France's foreign affairs to handle.

Speaking for Canada, Heath Macquarrie Canadian supported New Zealand proposal that the permanent chairmanship of the conference be given to the Big Four, rather than be rotated among the four Foreign Ministers of the principal powers as provided in Molotov's proposal.

Appreciates Viewpoint

Following Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky who argued on behalf of a rotating chairmanship, Mr. Claxton said he appreciated the Soviet viewpoint but added that the New Zealand proposal would not have the effect of minimizing the position of the Big Four.

"In this case the effect would be to elevate them," added Mr. Claxton. "Canada for more than four years has a special relationship to France. This relationship was consecrated in the blood of the Diepppe four years ago

Radio-Active Carbon Can Emit Rays For Next 10,000 to 25,000 Years

By FRANK CAREY
(AP)

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 2 (AP) —The first peacetime products of the Manhattan Project were handed out today as Government officials announced the step opens "new horizons of medical and biological research" in the Tennessee Valley hatan engineer district—makers of atomic energy assigned were five "pea-sized" units of radioactive carbon, now available as soon as possible to accredited hospitals, universities, industrial research laboratories and clinical investigating groups.

In addition to radio-active carbon, the atomic energy facilities have been producing more than 150 many common and rare elements, including such metals as uranium, that are radio-active sulphur, phosphorus and iodine — hitherto produced only in minute quantities by the instrument known as the cyclotron.

Prices set by the Manhattan District for its products range from $307 a unit (excluding handling charges) for radio-active carbon to 67 cents for a radio-active mixture of the metals zirconium and columbium.

SWIMMER MISSES CLOTHES AFTER DIP

Possibly it was a prank on the part of a passerby and then again it may have been a mistake in location, but the inability to find his clothes on the bank at the foot of the Moira river caused a Stone Street man a few embarrassing moments early this morning.

Shortly after midnight police received a call from "Clothes Stolen Road" district to the effect that a man was rollicking up and down the river bank calling "George, George." Investigating the call the police later came across the man who had been in swimming. Following his early morning dip he had come ashore and was unable to find his clothes. The call to the police apparently resulted as the midnight bather sought his wearing apparel.

Stopping overnight at Kingston the girls had "pedalled" to Belleville, arriving at the Harmony o'clock in the afternoon. They expected finally to land in Gravenhurst after a few more hours in the saddle. Carrying their bicycles at the police station while they toured Front Street stores in search of souvenirs. Sitka, Alaska, Aug. 2 — (CP) — A 13-year-old boy was held today for the multiple stabbing death of Dorothy Jean Ann Marsh Ward, daughter of city supervisor Willard Ward.

Thurlow Junior Farmers Commended For Care Taken of Their Stock

The Thurlow Junior Farmers held their fifty meeting in the township hall, Canniton, on Monday evening last, presided over by John Huffman, was in the chair with twenty members present.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. Harry W. Burns, Assistant Agricultural Representative, who described the common Bunkthorn which, performs a similar function in the spread of rust of oats. He suggested that the Junior Farmers initiate a campaign for the eradication of the common Barberry in the township of Thurlow.

Mr. Burns outlined the 1946 Junior Farmer plowing competitions and standings, which consist of two sections — 8 home plowing competitions conducted on the home farms of the contestants in which they have to plow a space to be plowed by the contestant and a Junior Farmer match, conducted on a suitable farm in the county. The two winners of the Junior match, will go to the finals for entry in the International Plowing Match to be held at Port Albert, Huron county, in October.

The Thurlow Junior Farmers were very much enthused with the idea and it was suggested that each individual member present spread the information to those members not present and for everyone to attend the plowing matches when such definite plans could be made for a club or county plowing competition. The Thurlow Junior Farmers the provincial public speaking and judging competitions and contests by the Junior Farmers' Association of Ontario and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, here which this year has a county contest added to the series of elimination contests. A contestant in this year may not plow on her own subject or may choose one of the subjects assigned by the basis or scoring having been changed to a 100 basis on material and delivery.

The president then thanked Mr. Burns for his talk and assured him that the Thurlow Junior Farmers would endeavor to eradicate the common Barberry and European Bunkthorn on their own farms and so show an example to other farmers in the township.

Traffic Officer At Intersection In Rush Hours

That vehicular traffic is handled more quickly during the rush hour periods by personal direction of a police officer than by the traffic lights, is the contention of Chief Constable Ponton.

And this contention is being backed by action as is indicated each day during the noon hour and five o'clock traffic rush.

A few minutes before twelve noon the automatic traffic light system at the corner of Front and Bridge streets intersection is turned off and a traffic officer takes a few minutes a stalwart of the department in charge directing traffic from his position at the intersection. The same procedure is adopted for the five o'clock rush.

Police officials contend that in this manner traffic can be directed through the intersection during the rush hours than by the automatic light signals when cars may be held up by the red light when there is little traffic on the intersecting street.

Trustees Request Government Grant For New Hospital

Trenton—The Board of Trustees for the Trenton Memorial Hospital met in committee of the whole in the room of Mr. Russell T. Kelly, Minister of Health, at the Parliament buildings in Toronto on Thursday to request that the province consider making a grant towards the erection of the hospital. The deputation was headed by Chairman, William Ireland, Secretary - Treasurer S. G. Graham, C. M. Newton and John J. Hannah, also the hospital architect, Chester Wood. The trustees were introduced to the minister by Fred Wilcox, M.P.P., for West Hastings who has been a supporter for the interview. With the minister was Dr. J. T. Phair, the deputy-minister of health.

Plans outlined

The Chairman of the Board outlined briefly for the minister the history of the hospital movement in Trenton, pointing out the progress made in each institution in a large and growing industrial town also the steps taken to date to raise sufficient money. He pointed out that the ratepayers had voted $100,000 and that a considerable amount had been collected through subscriptions and other sources but there was still need for funds if the building was to be proceeded with.

Mr. Ireland said that the hospital would serve an estimated population of 25,000 people, including Trenton, Murray township, and stressed the fact that the hospital at Belleville, 15 miles east of here, was so crowded that beds were placed in the corridors. The trustees, he said, "had prevailed for some time and were now ready to progress. Trenton citizens it unable to get accommodation at Belleville, were obliged to go to Toronto and other places." He pointed out that it was a known fact, that operations were being postponed to the detriment of patients requiring them because of the lack of hospitalization facilities. The cost of travel to other places was much more expensive and what was more the available accommodation was much better than it was at Belleville. He pointed out that a majority of Trenton doctors favored the hospital.

Points Out Advantages

Mr. Ireland also pointed out the close proximity to Trenton of the large plant of the Bata Shoe Company, Limited, employing many people into the district and would be bringing still more. "All of these people," he said, "had to have hospitalization." The chairman remarked that Trenton had a very fine hospital site for the hospital which he had seen on a recent visit to Trenton, expressing the view that it was one of the best to be found anywhere. The Board had engaged Mr. Wood to prepare plans and specifications, with these now completed, it was anxious to proceed with the work of erecting the hospital situation in Trenton, which was different from many others, provided a financial consideration from the province, he said that it was from becoming the success of the hospital would be assured.

Grant Recommended

When the minister intimated that the policy of giving grants for hospitals had been discontinued, Mr. Ireland pointed out that the plans for the hospital in Trenton were well underway when the government went out of giving grants.

Mr. Phair further pointed out by Mr. Ireland that the former ministry had given a grant to the town of Port Hope, had practically promised a grant from the government. Each case would be given a grant he pointed out, depended on a list of needed prescriptions which the Board needed, it was stressed.

The plans for the hospital were shown to the minister by Mr. Wood and he appeared to be very interested.

Replying to the deputation the Hon. Mr. Kelly promised that the request made, and said he would take it up with his colleagues in the cabinet.

Mr. Wilson later took members of the deputation to see the Hon. Leslie Frost, Provincial Treasurer.

Europe Refugees Fully Appreciate Boxes of Clothing

That Europeans refugees are fully appreciative of the boxes of clothing and food which are received from Canada is indicated by the following letter to Mrs. Harry Rose, president of the Bayside Hill Women's Group. The letter reads: "From a French woman, thanking the group for two boxes of clothing and food. The Canadian Hill group is comprised of 23 members who from 1939 until 1945 did war work, now are sewing boxes to refugees on the continent.

Manciet, July 10, 1946

Dear Madame:

My little Regine being only two and a half years old I am writing you in her name.

Yesterday I have received two parcels from Marseille forwarded from Canada. I was surprised but very happy.

It was in 1941 my dear husband Romain Raymond followed by the Germans came with our 2 children and myself into hiding at Manciet; small village of 1,000 population in the Gers district (department) where I was born in 1918.

My poor husband went and came these last times, until the day he was arrested and deported to Buchenwald where he died the 2nd of February, 1944, at 31 years old.

I am since 1942 at Manciet with my 2 little girls, because I was expecting my 3rd one, my dear Regine, when her father was arrested. There is no words Madam to explain to you our moral sufferings to both my husband and myself. My little Regine will never know her father who would have loved her so tenderly. Him who was so good and so loyal until his last moment he was only thinking of us. I was told by one of his friends of deportation.

My 2 first ones are Nicole 6 years and Daniele 4 years, both born in Marseille where we were living.

For the time being Madam I have no photo of Regine alone, but I am enclosing one of my 3 little devils and myself.

However I will send you one of her later. We live here with Mamman in a little and old house rented by us, near the main highway going to Auch 32 miles, nearest large centres, our resources being limited. My mother is working at a farmer's place to help bringing some food home.

$1,000,000 fire which swept through Chown, Ltd., hardware store in Kingston Thursday and caused stocks and damage to adjoining store is fought by firemen who were mustered out in full force for a five-hour battle.

Your parcels Madam were welcomed. The first one was crushed and I could hardly read the address inside. The little panties are fitting good to Regine. The knitting suited to Nicole who is not strong but in good health.

You have spoiled us all Madam, and my little ones have appreciated the chocolat and candies.

Yesterday I made them a pudding with the tapioca and have served them the guest. The whole was mostly a banquet and met with a great success.

Presently there is an epidemic of Scarlet fever and I worry very much, but I hope the Lord will protect us.

I also thank you very much Madam for the soap, this product is still very scarce. Again many thanks for my little girls and myself. I will write you again and send you the photo promised.

Yes, 3 little girls are sending you a big kiss and a very big thank you. Please accept again Madam my sincere thanks for all your kindness and believe me,

Yours very obliged,
Mrs. Suz Raymond,
Manciet, Gers,
France.

Timmins Youth, Lost in Bush For 45 Hours, Returns

Timmins, Aug. 2 (CP)—Bruno Demers, eight-year-old lost boy, lost in poplar bush Monday and found Tuesday after 45 hours, walked into a sawmill cutter's camp eight miles from here yesterday and told the story of the ordeal with the simple statement: "I'm lost."

He had been picking berries on Tuesday on the farm of his uncle in the nearby Cash Creek area on the Metagami River when he wandered out and became lost. He, like the 1,500 residents last night he did not know he was lost for some time and when he did realize it he just kept on eating berries and looking around. "I didn't get scared," he said.

Veteran lumbermen said the boy, son of Joseph Demers, Dushenan, in presence of mind in following a trail instead of becoming panicky as most children in many adults would have done in a similar situation. Again, when he found shelter in an abandoned shack he took with him a blanket he found there.

The boy had been the object of an land, John and also with by 150 men and his mother, who defied police order and went into the bush by herself. Dogs and Short wave radio equipment was used by police.

Says He Hungry

Questions at his reappearance whether he had been afraid, the boy answered: "No. But I was an hungry." He ate until it by tackling a big breakfast of bacon and eggs.

Albert Mayer, the pulpwood cutter he had appeared last, said the boy told him he came upon the abandoned farm as night fell, expertly after he realized he was lost. He slept on the side of a creek and wandered into the lumber camp yesterday morning.

Mayer said that the boy's description of his wandering he came close to being found a few times before appeared last.

"If he had shouted we would have heard him," Tuesday. I passed by the trail."

The youngster was reported to be in good physical condition despite his experience.

U.S. Veterans Aid Probe Concerning Defective Shells

By MAX H. SINGLETON

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP) — Battlefront veterans—with long memories of buddies killed by faulty mortar shells—helped the Senate War Investigating Committee today in its determined hunt for the munitions makers who produced the defective ammunition.

The trail grew warmer.

From one combat soldier came an offer to supply the committee with the "lot numbers" of bad 4.2 shells supplied the 100th Chemical Mortar Battalion in Italy.

A second letter related that a complete report had been furnished the chemical warfare service of a test at Fort Bragg, N.C., during which a mortar shell exploded at the muzzle, killing or wounding the entire crew.

These reports show the lot number of the defective round and from that information the manufacturer can be ascertained," it said.

A third former soldier, veteran of the European campaign, informed the committee that he had kept a record of defective shells sent to the 45th Chemical Company in Belgium.

"The records of this work must be some place and I believe you could get some valuable information from them," he wrote.

With these—and more than 50 other letters in hand—committee members declared that they would press the chemical warfare service for quick delivery of the lot numbers "of all 4.2 shell purphases, and the manufacturers to whom those lot numbers were assigned.

At the same time, Senator William Knowland (Rep.-Cal.) said that the committee would "insist" that the United States Chemical Warfare Service search its records thoroughly and produce "all" the records and reports of defective mortar shell casualties.

Disclosure of the faulty mortar shells first came in the course of the committee's inquiry into the wartime operations of a munitions combine and the part Representative Andrew J. May (Dem.-Ky.) played in helping it obtain contracts with more than $78,000,000.

The Reeds Metal Products, Inc., one of 19 companies in the combine, was one of the country's chief producers of this type of ammunition. There has been no testimony, however, that Eris produced effective ammunition.

Greece Reported Opposing Albania As U. N. Member

By MAX HABBELSON

New York, Aug. 2—(AP)—The Greek government has informed today to be ready to file a strong memorandum with the United Nations opposing the admission of Albania to membership in the organization.

The way was cleared for such notice when the Security Council's committee on membership overrode Russian objection and approved Albania yesterday and accepted an Australian resolution permitting the committee to consider written statements from either applicants or member nations.

Informed quarters said the Greek memorandum might be in the committee's hands by Monday, when it meets to start considering Albania's application. The only way consideration of the memorandum could be blocked, it was said, would be by a Russian appeal to the Security Council to reverse the committee's decision.

The vote on the Australian resolution was 7 to 1, with Russia voting in the negative. Egypt, Mexico and Poland abstained. The committee's action is subject to approval by the Security Council, but the council will not convene before Monday's committee reporting Poland a member calls for a special session.

The committee also adopted a Chilean resolution permitting it to ask information from applicants or member states. This was opposed by Russia and Poland, with Egypt abstaining.

Informed sources said that at least one member of the committee intended to act under terms of this resolution to solicit some views on Outer Mongolia's request application for U. N. membership, is under consideration. Russia is supporting both the applications of Albania and Outer Mongolia, while some of the other members, including Britain, are said to favor the two applications. Other applications before the committee are those of Afghanistan and Transjordan.

Fourth German Sentenced to Die For Murder

Medicine Hat, Alta., Aug. 2 (CP)—A series of four murder trials involving German prisoners-of-war came to an end here last night when Chief Justice W. R. Howson of the Alberta Supreme Court sentenced Sgt.-Maj. Willi Mosly to be hanged in Lethbridge Jail October 16, for the hanging of a fellow captive, Cpl. Karl Lehmann, in a Medicine Hat internment camp Sept. 10, 1944.

Three other German prisoners-of-war have previously been convicted and sentenced to hang on the same date for their part in the crime. They are Sgt.-Maj. Bruno Perzewski, Sgt.-Maj. Heinrich Busch and Sgt. Walter Wolf.

Notice of appeals have been filed by G. E. A. Rice, defence counsel, against the sentences of Perzewski and Wolf and it is expected that those for Busch and Mueller will be filed shortly.

The six-man Supreme Court jury deliberated about one hour and 15 minutes before returning the guilty verdict against Mueller.

In his address to the jury yesterday, Mr. Rice said the hanging of Lehmann was an "act of war" and therefore was not murder. He said the trial at Medicine Hat was a "world of its own, run by Germans" and "dominated by them," and by the orders of the German Fuehrer himself.

Chief Justice Howson, in his charge to the jury before it retired to consider the verdict, said there was no law in the Dominion which gave anyone authority to kill Lehmann even if he was a "traitor," as was stated by Perzewski, committed during the trial.

"Furthermore," he said, "the prisoner's camp with authority to order his death. If there was no such order issued, it was an unlawful order, and those who issued it committed an unlawful act."

Rugene, Owned by McFarland, Youthful Driver From Picton, Wins at Gravenhurst Regatta

D Runabout Formerly Owned by Lloyd Hicks of This City

(Special to the Ontario Intelligencer)

Gravenhurst, Ont., Aug. 2 — Thundering across the finish line with scant inches between his and the second place boat, eighteen-year-old Rugene McFarland, Jr., Picton, Ont., drove his Class D runabout "Rugene" to a sensational three-heat victory here Thursday afternoon in the first of the five-regatta series of the American Power Boat Association's Canadian Vacation Circuit.

McFarland won his speediest spurs in three of the most thrilling runs of the year, as he contracted thirty-five of the finest drivers on the continent.

Roaring over a rough water course, the 16-foot, built and owned until a week ago by Vice-Chairman Lloyd Hicks, Belleville District No. 13 American Power Boat Association, of Belleville, showed a fourteen mile lead in all three heats to Mike Steffen, Grand Island, New York, in his "Sea Imp". Close behind the two leaders was Charles Abbott, of Belleville, driving the "Miss Quinte."

Drive Spectacular Race

McFarland, who won his first APBA contest and is now a professional driver, drove a spectacular race in the heats. Rising from the veteran New York driver, Ia, in three similar boats, and "Sea Imp" flashed across the starting line three seconds between Twins.

In a thrilling waiter of spray the Class D runabouts fought tooth and nail for the lead with the determination of every youngster matching the experience of the veterans. Three times, "Rugene" forged to a slim lead and three times she held it. "Twin the race in three straight heats. Abbott clung tenaciously to the third position well ahead of other competitors.

40 Miles Per Hour

"Rugene", her speed probably diminished by the rough state of the water, roared over the course at a speed of slightly over 40 miles an hour, some three miles short of the world's record. A tremendous crowd of spectators lined the course, youthful Rugene drove his boat to the first following his victory in the heats.

The youngest star to flash over the speedboat lanes this year, McFarland will show his driving wares to residents of Belleville and district at the Rotary Club Regatta being held in that city on August 17th. There he will again match his skill against that of Steffen and his "Sea Imp", and a large field of Class D runabout drivers.

There is a strong possibility that McFarland will attempt to break the existing world's record of 43 miles per hour in time trials, to be held over a speedway course in the Bay of Quinte off Belleville the first or both days.

78 M.P.H. Obtained

In the 225 cubic inch Class Division 1: Bob Bogle, of Brooklyn, New York, driving "Blitz II", roared over the course at 78 miles per hour to win the three-heat race, for second place was Al Brinkman, Buffalo, at the wheel of "Miss Biscuit II". Dr. W. Robertson, Alexandria Bay, N.Y. finished third in "Mr. Doctor".

The "Super" stock class, division 225 cubic inch class, hydroplane, with owner O. Lamb, Chicago, Illinois, driving, flashed across the finish line to win in this class with Perc. Bedell, Waterloo, Ont., driving "Miss Waterloo III" in second place. R.P. Stein in "Phyllis I" from Dayton, Ohio, took third place.

10,000 Look On

Jimmy Middleworth of Surfside, California, who "trailered" across a continent to attend the circuit regattas, won the 133 cubic inch class with "Miss Waterloo Ire", in second place was Milton Dee, of Buffalo, driving "Dumbbell" while bringing up the third position was Bill Braden of Wanderown, Ont., in his "Artful III". Middleworth drove his winning boat at a speed of 35 miles per hour.

Ten thousand lined the course to view the events, and the Rotary Club, sponsoring organization, netted over $1,000 in gate admissions alone, officials stated.

New frequency modulation police radio transmitter is demonstrated by Canadian General Electric technician for delegates attending the 16 th annual convention of the Ontario Police Association in Toronto. Sgt. D. Ellis (left) of Belleville, and Const. Ralph Taylor of Lindsay look on.

SWACOS DEFEAT TRENTON FLYERS BY 9-4 SCORE

Five Runs in First Frame Too Much for Airmen to Overcome

The SWACOS baseball squad levelled it sights on the high-flying Trenton Flyers at the Air Station diamond Thursday night, and laying down a barrage of eleven solid clouts, two of them homers defeated the "Moose" team by a 9-4 count.

Titus, tall righthander for the SWACOS, let the Airmen down with six hits only one, a double by Pfaff, being of the extra base variety. He struck out six, and walked one. Outside of the second inning, when Lee, Matthews and Gibb hit singles for two runs, Titus was never in trouble. He allowed only three bingles over the rest of the route and won a well-pitched victory especially in view of the fact that his mates bobbled six times behind him.

The "Moose" send righthander Gibb to the mound, and the city sluggers took kindly to his offerings in the very first heat, and pushed five runs across the plate.

Gets Life on Error

Ronsky got life on an error and Genereaux went out. Rowbotham singled and Walt Gerow Jr. stepped to the plate and drove out a towering home run to deep centre field, driving in three runs. Whitman leaned on the ball for a single and galloped home on Fitzpatrick's hit to centre field. Two air force errors sent Fitz across the plate to end the scoring.

Fitzpatrick's long drive to centre for a two-bagger in the third drove in Gerow ahead of him for two runs. SWACO scored again in the 6th and 7th.

Trenton got single runs in the third and fourth, but Titus had the situation well in hand and blanked them for the rest of the game.

Fitzpatrick led the SWACO sweet parade with a homer and two singles. Gerow got a homer and a single with Lefty Whitman coming through with a brace of hits. Jimmy Lee and Gibb got each four of the Flyers.

Cards Trying to Win Pennants By Beating Their Chief Rivals; Yankees Back in Second Place

Pete Reiser, Brilliant Outfielder for Dodgers, Suffers Mild Concussion

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals' old flat system of knocking down their chief rivals—which didn't pan out so well last year when they licked the champion Chicago Cubs in three in 22 meetings and and still lost the pennant—appears to be playing rich dividends as the Redbirds find themselves only 1 1-2 games out of first place today.

In 15 engagements with the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers, the Redbirds have captured 11 including two-out-of-three in their most recent "crucial" series which ended yesterday with a 3-1 decision. The Cards also hold a 7-4 edge over the third place Cubs in the current campaign.

As for the Dodgers, not only did they drop the series to their arch-rivals, but lost the services of Pete Reiser temporarily.

The brilliant outfielder suffered a "mild concussion" after banging his head against the left field concrete wall in an attempt to snare a drive off the bat of Whitey Kurowski in the fifth inning. He was remived to hospital where X-rays will be taken today. Yankees Back in Second

New York Yankees moved back into second place n the American League by defeating Detroit Tigers, 4-2, to forge nine percentage points ahead of the Bengals.

Cleveland made it two-in-a-row over the front running Boston Red Sox by edging out Joe Cronin's crew 2-1.

With Jck Kramer letting Washington down with four hits for his 11th win, St. Louis Browns lashed out an 8-2 triumph to sweep the three-game series with the Senators.

Despite a grand slam homer by Philadelphia's Pete Suder, Chicago White Sox outslugged the Athletics, 7-6, to capture the series, two games to one.

A substituted two bill between Cincinnati and Brooklyn ended in a single encounter between Boston and Pittsburgh in the National. Both games were called because of rain. New York Giants and Chicago Cubs were postponed.

Use PARMONE FOR GREATER PROFITS

Fruit clings longer

Apples (and pears) cling longer and more firmly to the tree. Fruit shows improved colour, quality and size. PARMONE does not delay normal ripening processes. Consequently fruit should be picked at the proper stage of maturity.

Economical

Just four ounces of PARMONE makes 100 gallons of spray. Only a single spraying is usually sufficient. Insure a bigger crop, longer profits, by using PARMONE at the first sign of early dropping.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Teen-agers and their problems

"My dear child," remarked the casual mother, "youth needs no embellishment. Your skin is beautiful, or at least beautiful enough to be, if you will only keep your hands and face and neck clean and brush your teeth every night."

An old-fashioned mother, indeed, one with whom we can't quite understanding and who has not kept up to the times. But what the "dear child" thought, we cannot say for sure, but we are betting at the time, wished that the mother-daughter bond was closer, that she could go to her mother with her problems, needs to her own beautifying attention at a great rate in the bathroom, the latest hair-do! Why not? Mother is only 35 and looks sixteen!

In truth, defects of appearance are heart-breaking, insupportable. Many a girl has been ruined by them, they affect a girl's social life, sadden her thoughts, make her self-conscious.

Along about the age of fourteen, the complexion is particularly susceptible to blackheads and acne. Seborrhoeic skin glands are overactive. They exude more oil than the skin needs to keep it soft and supple. Oil backs up in the pores, forming wax-like plugs that attract atmospheric dust. Blackheads form. Unless something is done to correct the condition, the blackheads will stretch and fill even the walls of the pores. Bacteria will invade them, and the result will show up in unsightly pimples. If this delicate scene is established, the texture of the skin may become coarse.

Passing the fingers over the skin surface will spread the infection over the first rule is "hands off". Pressing out the pus, unless done with extreme gentleness, may cause scars.

The face should be washed thoroughly at bedtime with a clean washcloth. Soiled washcloths are an abomination. The suds should be thick and foamy, frictioned in with the fingertips. After rinsing away the lather, apply hot, moist compresses. They loosen blackheads, heal pimples. Dry the face and apply a lotion made by dissolving a teaspoonful of baking soda in half a cup of water.

Sweets and starches, especially pastries, should be cut down to the limit. Chocolate in any form is taboo when acne is present.

Mother requests, "Youth needs no embellishment"

More than ever, fur plays a major role in new Autumn daytime suits. A topper, worn with a slim skirt that matches the coat fabric, is entirely of nutria — accent on fur sleeves, which are of beige woollen.

Cleveland Sends Beauty Queens On Good Will Flight

By VIRGINIA FOX

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 2. (CP)—Civic officials take a bow next to Cleveland. When the city has an idea and almost invariably will it to other centres it delegates the job to its two beauty queens—Brunette Jeanne Hillis and redheaded Eileen Kelly.

Since Cleveland's Sesquicentennial last year, the queens have covered some 8,000 miles in the interests of their home town. Last night they made their first official trip in Canada as guests of honor on the trans-Canada Air Lines inaugural flight from Cleveland to Toronto via London.

There is no jealousy between the two girls. Mary, who is a model, is the official queen, but she has "no ambition". On the other hand, alternate-Queen Eileen, who used to dance at Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe in New York, has ambition enough for both. Knowing this, Mary has stepped aside and Eileen will represent Cleveland in the Miss America contest at Atlantic City next month.

For Eileen, last night's trip was her first flight and her first trip to Canada. Mary, though, is "practically a Canadian". Her mother is native of Kingston, and she has been spending Summer vacations here almost since she was born.

Mary says being a beauty queen has one big advantage. Once, for a whole hour, she was allowed to stay at the Pasadena Playhouse in California.

The Proper Shoe And You

Little Cheryl Archer wears well-fitted shoes

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF A WOMAN desires to have the members of her family healthy, happy and good looking, she must keep in mind three special important requirements. Food must be nutritious, prepared so that it appeals to the eye as well as the appetite.

Bed must be comfortable so that sleep is rest-giving. Feet must be properly shod. Naturally, there are many other family needs. But these three should always be kept in mind.

Human Feet

Today's preachment concerns human pedals. Surveys have determined that the average girl or boy, at school and at play, travels about fifteen miles each day. The average of the housewife is about seven miles.

If the feet are to be kept in good condition, free of their particular ills, they must be perfectly housed. An active child will give his trotters a terrific workout. It is common sense to see that his feet are air conditioned in comfortable leather footwear. A shoe should have shape-retaining flexibility. During growth a child's feet are pliable, can be harmed by unyielding shoes. There should be suitable support so that the muscles will grow properly. It takes 19 to 20 years to develop all the bones and muscles of the feet.

Are Restrictive

During that time there must be no harmful restrictions in the way of shoes that are too small or not properly fitted to the contour of the foot.

In each foot are 28 separate joints. Every day the complicated joints, bones and muscles of an active boy or girl undergo thousands of movements. At the same time, they are gradually taking on form that will carry the grown man or woman through life.

It is equally important for the lady boss of the family to look after her own hoofs. Any difficulty in getting about will not only ruin posture, but will bring on worry, wrinkles, sometimes grouches. No doubt spiked heels and their attendant miseries have been brought on many a divorce.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Initials of Maiden Name or Her Husband's Name-Which?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. In a magazine recently I saw a girl who had left her maid all the towels were embroidered with the initials "A.B.D." a/b ("with the") slightly larger than the "A." What would these initials mean?

2. Also will you please tell me which is correct for the bride-to-be to have her linens embroidered with the initials of her maiden name or her married name?

R. S.

1. This so-called "modern" monogram-design might run in front of the linens the initials of the woman's maiden name, and following the line, the initial of her married name; for example, "Elizabeth Graham Brown. Or if the linens were in the household trousseau of a bride-to-be who chose to use the initials of her maiden name, the first two initials would stand for her name and the last one and the last initial for her surname: Elsie Grace-Barton.

2. Either is correct. . . . Some brides-to-be choose to abide by the traditional style of using the initials of the maiden name, while others consider it more sensible and practical to use the initials of their future name.

Concerning the Bridal Shower Given by Maid of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:—Is it customary for the maid of honor to give a shower in honor of the bride-to-be? And if so, should she give it entirely on her own, or should some member of the bride's family help her? The reason why I am particularly confused about this is that several of my friends have told me that it is not up to the maid of honor to give a shower when the bride-to-be comes from a large family and has many intimate friends that would like to do something for her. Please tell me what you think about it.

M. J.

Your friend is right. Until your son marries and there is a "Mrs. John Henry Smith, Jr." there is no reason for you to use "Sr." after your name.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Pilot Is Flying Away From Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am in love with a discharged pilot. . . . I am 17, and he is 24. As soon as he got out of the service, he dated me frequently, and gave me reason to believe that he loved me very much. I gave up my old boy friend to go out with him, and I was very happy for awhile.

But now my heart is broken. My pilot is dating another girl. She is very rich, but not nearly so pretty as I am. I don't believe he really loves me, as he often sends me flowers (I'm in love!).

"I'll be back again some day".

How can I know whether he really loves me or not? Should I go back to my old boy friend so that my pilot will be jealous?

A Perplexed Girl

What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the . . . gander, isn't it? You jilted your boy friend to take up with the pilot, and now he's jilting you to take up with another girl. You seem to think he owes you special consideration because you gave up your "old boy friend" for him. Why should he? Why wouldn't he think that if you could toss one man aside so easily, you were taking him equally lightly and would throw him aside as soon as you saw another man who caught your fancy?

And now you're proposing to go back to your first boy friend, not because you're sorry for what you did to him and want to make amends, but because you want to use him to make the pilot jealous and then throw him over a second time if you succeed in getting the pilot's attention once more! What kind of business is that?

And what makes you think your boy friend would forgive you after the way you treated him?

Until you learn a little more about loyalty, I don't think you deserve any better treatment than the pilot is giving you.

She's Eager to Attract Him—He's Indifferent

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a young girl in my early teens, and very unhappy, all because of a boy who goes to school with me. I think an awful lot of him; in fact, I think bone day will love him.

My problem is, at school he treats me fine, and he really cares, but when I meet him out somewhere, sometimes he speaks to me and sometimes you'd think he didn't even know me.

I know you will me to forget him, but it's impossible. I have tried and tried, but failed, because I see him every day. I have also tried ignoring him and tried to make him jealous.

No doubt one reason why you're so interested in this boy and so anxious to make him notice you is just because he seems so indifferent. It's always the thing that's out of our reach, the person who seems unattainable, that seems most desirable.

So why can't you apply that principle to the other boy, who is not indifferent, but who is obviously head over heels in love with you? Instead impatiently for his attention, concentrate on other interests and other people! Not with the idea of trying to make him jealous, or conscious of the fact that you're obviously ignoring him, but with the idea of not putting all your eggs in one basket. Perhaps, if he finds that he has got to work a little to get your own attention, and that you have other interests besides him, it may intrigue him. If it doesn't at least you'll have diverted yourself to other directions, which will be all to the good.

He Wants to Know. This Girl Better

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I met a girl at a party recently. She is very nice. I like her, and I think she likes me.

How can I find out if she likes me, and break the ice between us?

Anxious

Well, the best way I know of to find out whether or not she likes you is to invite her out and see if she accepts your invitation. If she does, it would seem that she is ready to meet you halfway in your wish to establish a friendship, and it ought to be easy enough to go from there.

Remember the old saying—"Faint heart ne'er won fair lady"—and don't hang back and be bashful. If you do, some other man may step in ahead of you.

She Wants Him to Love Her—He Just Wants to be Friends

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 years old, and have a boy friend, or at least I did have.

When I first met him I liked me out and I have been going out with him steady. I was happy, I thought, but he loved me very much.

Then he went away, and when he came back he told me he was no longer in love with me. He just wanted me to be his friend. I have been broken-hearted since. He still takes me out and I still love him and always will. Please tell me if anything could ever come out of this friendship again.

Broken-hearted

Certainly something could come out of your friendship again, if you put the accent on the word "could". But whether or not something will, is another matter, and one which nobody could possibly predict.

Plenty of romances, especially with boys and girls of your age, are "off again, on again" things, and if your boy friend continues to take you out, he certainly does not wish to put you out of his life altogether.

My advice to you is just to play along with the situation. Don't let emotional over him and don't try to force him into anything. Don't let him think you're too serious about him, or you may scare him off entirely. Just take it easy, and things may come out better than you think.

Mealtime Madness in Our Homes

(By Howard Vincent O'Brien in Chicago News)

In a laboratory the other day, I visited the interior of a sleek and thoroughly modernized cat. She had been fed a bounteous repast of liver and other feline delicacies; and as she lay stretched in a purring doze, science peered at her viscera with a fluoroscope.

Digestion appeared to be proceeding without a hitch. Tabby was as tranquil as a summer sea. Then, suddenly, a hidden phone graph played a bombinos of a dog's bark. The dozing cat sprang to life. Her back arched, her hair stood on end, her eyes were wide, her claws were out.

These exterior reactions were nothing to what went on in the cat's interior. Her adrenals gushed fluid and her stomach was awash with gastric juices. Pancreatic went into reverse; and for all the pleasure that liver now gave her, it might just as well have been so much brick.

Observing all this, I reflected ruefully on the mistake I made—a mistake I'm afraid most parents continue to make.

Nobody can doubt, now, that a severe atmosphere at the dinner table is essential to digestion. Eating has to be done in peace, or it does more harm than good. But in our curious way of life, mealtime is about the only period when a father sees his children. It is his one opportunity for preaching and remonstrance.

So, indeed of approaching his victim's every movement, Junior is reasonably certain that somewhere between soup and dessert he will hear reproachful comment on his report card, or if he could put a flourescope on him, you would find his interior tied in a double bow and his stomach flooded with caustic acids.

His sister, with an appetite of adolescent vigor, makes list-making a part of her meal. Adding up expenses for daddy to defray, or her woes on the way girls behave nowadays.

Even mother, who has been preaching years of submission to mealtime discussion of her frailties, upgrade a eloquent excess of adrenalins, preparatory to defending herself against critic-ism or the management of the family budget.

The leader of these people are behaving exactly as the rat's did when she heard the bark of the dog. And father is no exception. The poor man also suffers from his ill-timed lucubrations. His diet doesn't "set well" and often mistakes it with the cat's liver and he complains that his stomach is awash with gastric juices. Pancreatic went into reverse; and for all the pleasure that liver now gave her, it might just as well have been so much brick.

Observing all this, I reflected ruefully on the mistake I made—a mistake I'm afraid most parents continue to make.

Nobody can doubt, now, that a severe atmosphere at the dinner table is essential to digestion. Eating has to be done in peace, or it does more harm than good. But in our curious way of life, mealtime is about the only period when a father sees his children. It is his one opportunity for preaching and remonstrance.

So, indeed of approaching his victim's every movement, Junior is reasonably certain that somewhere between soup and dessert he will hear reproachful comment on his report card, or if he could put a flourescope on him, you would find his interior tied in a double bow and his stomach flooded with caustic acids.

His sister, with an appetite of adolescent vigor, makes list-making a part of her meal. Adding up expenses for daddy to defray, or her woes on the way girls behave nowadays.

Even mother, who has been preaching years of submission to mealtime discussion of her frailties, upgrade a eloquent excess of adrenalins, preparatory to defending herself against critic

Who's to Pay Bill For Witnesses In Jap Trials

Tokyo, Aug. 3 — (AP) — Somebody has to pay the witnesses who testify against or for Hideki Tojo and 26 others charged with conspiracy to start war on the Pacific war but so far no one has figured out who is going to do it.

Although everybody in Tokyo knows that $200 monthly is paid witnesses who are flown from the United States to testify in military war trials, no one seems able to find a wage scale for the big trial.

Some defence counsel say they will call as high as 1,000 witnesses. Barracks have been prepared for 700 defence witnesses but the question is who is going to operate the feeding project when they arrive.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 2 —(CP)— Julius A. Krug, the inquisitive young secretary of the interior, will head into the wilds of Alaska next week to see what can be done about developing the United States' far northern outpost on the eastern threshold of Soviet Siberia.

Mr. Krug, a giant in stature and in business where he made so much money he was able to laugh off a $75,000-a-year Hollywood offer to take the low-paid interior job, has big plans for Alaska.

But before putting them in shape he wants to see for himself what it is like there. It is possible the best in Washington and the prospects of fishing and hunting in the Arctic Circle region have something to do with the trip.

He is taking some experts with him and here are some of his ideas: collection of "complete and reliable" information about Alaska's present position and prospects for the future; discussion of ways and means by which the territorial government may take on a greater measure of self-determination and participate in a development program; investigation of possibilities for extending business and industrial facilities, railways, roads, power resources and settlement.

He will seek means of attracting tourists by encouraging private capital to develop facilities along the Alaska Highway and to induce travel agencies and others concerned to organize cruises and tours.

The war department will shortly take a poll of next-of-kin to see if they want their war dead returned to foreign graves. But it can't start until there is assurance there will be enough coffins if a wholesale removal of bodies is decided upon. Just now the steel is not available.

With the war over the Canadian embassy replaced army men with Royal Canadian Mounted Police as doormen — a touch of distinctive Canadian color which was much admired in pre-war Washington, but it is heartily hot in Washington and the R.C.M.P. has no summer uniforms. So visitors at the embassy are greeted by a quiet, friendly gentleman in tropical business wear by virtue of special permission which enables him to shed the heavy woollens of scarlet and blue during the dog days.

Gloucester to Be State Councillor In King's Absence

London, August 2 (Reuters)—

The Duke of Gloucester, Governor-General of Australia, will return to Britain next January to act as Councillor State, the King's representative, during the three-month visit of Britain's Royal Family to South Africa.

The Duke as the King's brother will be the heir to the British throne in England when the King and Queen and two Princesses leave for South Africa next Feb. 17.

Under the Regency Act of 1944, appointment of Councillors of State to act for the King is confined to those next in succession to the throne.

The Duke's fellow Councillors likely will be his sister, The Princess Royal, her two sons, Viscount Lascelles, 22, and the Hon. Gerald Lascelles, 22; and Princess Arthur of Connaught.

Councillors of State are invested by the King under the Great Seal with authority to exercise royal powers on his behalf. They may not dissolve Parliament nor create peers.

Take Canoe Trip To Celebrate 43rd Anniversary

Coldwater, Aug. 2 —(CP)— As they have done on every anniversary of their wedding in 1909, Mr. and Mrs. James Lazonby plan to start out at dawn Saturday on a canoe trip through district waters. They will paddle the same beamed canoe in which they made their honeymoon journey 43 years ago.

Mr. Lazonby is 74 and his wife 72. They were the first couple to be married in any church in Coldwater. Their wedding ceremony was held at 6:30 a.m. so that they could catch the train which took them to Muskoka wharf at Gravenhurst where their canoe and equipment waited.

Usually the couple took two weeks for their annual voyage but this year they will take only five days.

"We'll leave from Coldwater and go down to Georgian Bay and Waubashene, then to Port Severn and wander up the Severn river," said Mr. Lazonby. "We don't bother to do any fishing now. We are content to just lie along slowly, enjoying the scenery and our memories. In the evening we pick a camp site and pitch our tent."

The canoe which has carried the couple many hundreds of happy miles is 18 years old but Mr. Lazonby says it is "sound as a bell." He owned it before he was married.

DEPOSITION ACCEPTED

Montreal, Aug. 1 —(CP)— Louis Bercovitz, charged with murder of gambler Harry Davis, appeared before Judge A. Monet today and was ordered to appear for voluntary statement Aug. 8.

Judge Monet announced that Bercovitz' deposition, read last week before a coroner's jury, had been accepted.

Believed Bottoms Of Two Warships Broken by Blast

Aboard U.S.S. Mt. McKinley at Bikini, Aug. 2—(AP)—The possibility was being studied today that the carrier Saratoga and the battleship Arkansas broke their bottoms on the exposed lagoon floor after plummetting down a huge hole in the water opened by the underwater atomic bomb July 25.

Officers specialized that the cavity may have opened under one end of each of the two big ships.

On present information, there is doubt that a big crater formed as certainly a shallow, sloping section of the blast deepened the water there. Sand from the lagoon bottom was found on the deck of a target ship.

London Woman Allowed to Keep Two Royal Swans

London, Ont., Aug. 2 —(CP)— The King has allowed Mrs. Edith Saunders of this city to keep two of his large swans.

The wards—two Royal swans —were hatched by a hen and Mrs. Saunders cared for them for the past several weeks. Soon after the birds were hatched, Provincial Police informed Mrs. Saunders the swans were wards of the King and could not be kept without his permission.

Through the office of his assistant secretary for parks, the King was "pleased" to grant permission.

Asks For Priority

During study of the Land Act the House heard a suggestion from Mr. Rowe that veteran settlers be given priority on the purchase of equipment and materials from War Assets Corp.

Mr. Wright and Mrs. Bentley urged the inclusion of a provision which would allow a veteran to form or join a co-operative farm without losing his grants and loans.

Mr. Bentley moved an amendment to this effect but it was ruled out of order.

Capt. Probe urged that the bill be amended to permit veterans to build homes within city limits.

Maj. Fulton suggested the payment of $6,000 allowed under the bill for veterans to establish homes on the land be increased because higher rates were making it difficult for the men to get themselves established.

Mr. Black asked that provisions of the act be extended to the Yukon and Mr. Mackenzie said he would consider the suggestion.

TO PAY RETURN VISIT

Philadelphia, Aug. 1 (AP) — The aurora borealis will play a return performance this weekend, Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Fels Planetarium, predicted yesterday. He reported two new sun spots developed which, together, have a magnitude probably equal to that which caused the spectacular celestial show of a week ago. Like their predecessor Dr. Marshall said, the new sun spots will raise havoc with wire and wireless communications as they bombard the earth's ionosphere.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were talking and yelling around the letter box, and ma called me in the house, saying, Now that yelling noise and dissension has either got to stop or else continue without your presence.

Well jimminy, ma, I wasn't doing say more of it than anybody else, I said, and ma said, that's angle, I assure you. Are you all savage beasts of the jungle for land sakes, or are you respectable boys from peace loving homes! she said.

Yes mam, I said, and ma said, Then why dont you act accordingly!

We were, ma, I said. Heck, all we were doing was trying to decide whether it would be too much trubble to walk out to the Park or not, and some of us thought it would be and some thought it wouldn't, so we were just trying to change each others minds without leaving them changed ours, that's all, I said, and ma said, Well cant you discuss a simple problem like that in a reasonable way?

Sure, ma, I mean that was just our natural reasonable way of discussing it, I said, and ma said, Oh dear, the newspapers are just teeming with statements by college presidents and leaders in every walk of life warning the people of the world to get together on common unity instead of everybody insisting that everybody else should come over to their side, or else the final beginning of the end will be a foregone conclusion, but how are great masses of mutually antagonistic people ever going to get together if a few friendly boys on the same block cant even get together?

THE KING'S HIGHWAY

Based upon a picture painted for Carling's by Fred Finley, O.S.A.

"They Eat Out Of Your Hand"

The spotted deer of Northern Ontario come walking cautiously out of the vast forest which is their home, to stare with wondering brown eyes at the road man has cut through the wilderness. They rub velvety horns against signposts that read "The King's Highway", and they are not afraid, for they have never even heard the crack of a rifle. If you offer them food they will take it, timidly right out of your hand.

They are part of the vast heritage of wild life and forest beauty with which we Canadians are endowed, and in their very trustfulness is a plea for protection—against the hazards of fire—of predatory animals—of indiscriminate hunting by ourselves.

As new branches of the King's Highway open up, bringing more and more of Canada's beautiful forest land within reach of the city dweller, it becomes increasingly important that each one of us understand the laws and rules of conservation, for only by so doing can we protect and preserve our heritage.

Every Canadian, as a shareholder in Canada's natural wealth, has a vital interest in the conservation of this heritage. Conservation is not just a doctrine to be preached to hunters and fishermen. It is a vital part in the continuance of our national economy, and must, of necessity, fall if its measures do not receive the full support of all Canadian citizens.

Counsel Withdraws From Case After Court Decision

Toronto, Aug. 8 (CP) — J. L. Cohen, counsel for Bernard Dansky and Jack Stewart, union officials charged with unlawfully picketing the Eaton store, asked the trial on the ground that he was withdrawing from the case in defiance because of the Crown's decision to proceed by summary trial.

Magistrate J. E. Pritchard adjourned the case, remanding Stewart to Saturday, August 16.

Dansky, international representative of the Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.), and Stewart, President of the Local in suburban New Toronto, are charged with "watching and besetting" the Eaton store. They have been Texas Company plant in Toronto, where the union has been on strike since May 19.

Mr. Cohen, who lost his application to the Ontario Supreme Court to prevent Magistrate Pritchard or any other magistrate from hearing the case, said he still thought summary trial and the essential issues "from the charge against his clients was "bad law." He said he believed the Attorney-General "has proceed ed" by indictment.

Newspaper reports heralding the trial as a test case directed by the Ontario Attorney-General's Department "indicated bias," he added. Deputy Attorney-General Cecil Scott is acting for the Crown.

Mr. Cohen said he could not help but feel that when an official of the attorney-general's department had been appointed to act for the Crown a "master and servant" relationship existed between the courts and the prosecutors.

The magistrate replied: "If you insist on withdrawing I regret the implication that statement makes on the court."

When he came to leave to withdraw from the case, Mr. Cohen said he had not spoken to Dansky and Stewart about it and wished to make it clear there was no collusion.

After a recess, Dansky told the court it would be impossible for him to obtain counsel to replace ment until that time.

Mr. Cohen before some time next week, and asked for an adjournment until that time.

New Pictorial Postage Stamps Issued Sept. 16

Ottawa, Aug. 8 (CP) — Postmaster-General Bertrand has announced the issue on September 16 next of pictorial postage stamps of the Imperial Series to replace the wartime Pictorial Stamps now in circulation.

The new stamps, depicting industrial and commercial aspects of Canada, are distributed as following: denominations: eight, 10, 14, 20 and 50 cents; one dollar; 2 cents air mail; 12 cents air mail and special delivery, and 10 cents special delivery.

No change will be made for the present in the small-sized one, two, four, and five-cent stamps which bear portraits of the King in various uniforms of the Canadian armed services.

Mr. Bertrand said the new stamps were intended to provide a pictorial survey of Canada's basic industries and raw materials, with emphasis on the recent version of Canadian industry to a peacetime basis.

They will be placed on sale in the Canadian centres, Monday, Sept. 15.

Following are the denominations, colors and subjects of the new stamps:

No Progress Made As Company And Union Men Meet

Hamilton, Aug. 8 (CP) — Alfred Ready, public relations official of local 200 of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.), which is on strike at the Canadian Westinghouse Company, here, said Thurs. that a two-hour meeting yesterday between company and union representatives including T. C. Reynolds, government conciliation officer, ended "without any progress being made."

Judge Reynolds said that he could see no hope of the two parties getting together at this particular time and therefore that he would be leaving Hamilton, said Mr. Ready.

He added that if there was any change in the situation . . . he would "communicate" with the union and the company . . .

Only development today from the company was that an understanding had been reached with Judge Reynolds that no statement on the discussions would be published until the "commissioner" issued his report.

The strike of Westinghouse plants here employs 4,000 of the approximate 7,500 workers in six strike-bound plants in Canada, union says. The others are at Welland, Toronto and Montreal. The first walkout was July 5 at Westinghouse, Hamilton, after a five-a wage increase of 25 cents hour and a reduction of the hours from 48 per week to 40 hours.

Mr. Ready said the joint meeting had provided no opportunity for discussion of the points of disagreement.

"Everything revolved around wage demands," he said. "There was no concrete result as the company did not change or raise the wage offer which originally resulted in the strike. In other words, the company offer is still eight cents."

Eleven Killed As Bomber Crashes

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 2 (CP) — Eleven persons — ten men and a woman, were killed Thursday in the crash of a navy patrol plane, believed to be a privateer navy patrol bomber, three miles west of the city limits, Deputy Coroner E. A. Turner reported.

The 12th person, a woman, may have been killed when the big plane crashed and then burned. It was believed to have been en route from San Diego to San Francisco.

There was no immediate announcement from navy sources.

PRODUCER PLEADS GUILTY

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 1—(AP) —George White, 52, the producer of theatrical "scandals" and once a Toronto newsboy, pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of failure to stop and give aid in the highway death July 20 of a newsboy and singer. The court remained at liberty under $2,500 bail pending a request for probation, which his counsel said would be submitted to a higher court.

Huge Constellation Plane Will Be Made Serviceable

By JAMES J. STRAND

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP) — The speedy lockheed constellation, high-flying transport presently grounded by a series of training flight crash, probably will be added to service by July, September.

An airline official in a position to know made this forecast today, following a 48 hour-meeting of conciliation the day after the July 31 accident near Reading, Pa., stirred many international Air travelers. It also upset the schedules of Pan American Airways, American Overseas, Transcontinental and Western Air and British Overseas Airways, all of which were using the big Lockheed-built planes in trans-Atlantic Services.

The situation today is this:

1. Engineers of the Civil Aeronautics Authority and Lockheed Aircraft Corporation and the airlines have agreed upon certain changes which should be made in the interest of safety.

2. The airlines have estimated that these changes can be made in seven weeks or less.

3. The changes include substitution of copper for aluminum in certain places in the electrical system; relocation of some hydraulic lines; cutting new drain holes to drain leaking hydraulic fluids; installation of fire wire at some points, and substitution of fuel injection for the present carburetion system.

Joseph B. Duck-worth, director of the Civil Aeronautics Board Safety Bureau, said at a hearing into the Reading crash yesterday that "an electrical source" apparently started the fire which led to the mishap.

The full list of changes to be ordered probably will be made public at a meeting of all interested parties with C.A.A. and Commerce Department officials tomorrow.

Five T.W.A. employees were killed and one was injured in the Reading crash. The C.A.A. grounding order was issued on the assumption that an engine fire caused the accident.

Since then, however, there has been evidence that the accident resulted from fire in the forward baggage compartment which filled the cockpit with smoke when a door was opened. This blinded the pilot.

German Princess Asserts She Was Kidnapped

Boedingen, Germany, Aug. 2—(AP)—Princess Isenburg-Buedingen, descendent of one of Germany's oldest families, asserted Wednesday she had been "kidnapped and threatened" by a United States officer who questioned her in connection with the disappearance of six world-famous art treasures from her 1,000-year-old castle. Deep mystery meanwhile shrouded the missing treasures which belonged to the Frankfurt art museum. There was unofficial speculation that the treasures, including Reuben's $30,000 "Pan and Nymph" had been buried.

Also if a pitched ball strikes the ground before reaching the plate and goes past the catcher or any permitting base-runners to advance, it shall be ruled a wild pitch.

EASTERN LIGHTS FOR GOLF CROWN

Canada's Amateur Champ in Golf This Year Will be From West

By HERB JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Aug. 2 (CP)—The eastern lights had gone out today in the golf chase for Canada's amateur golfing crown and it was an all-western field that lined up for the critical semi-final grind twice around the tricky Meyrlair Club layout, scene of the first simon-pure links test since 1939.

The defending champion, cool veteran Kenny Black of Vancouver, was there ready to take on hockey-playing Bill Ezinicki, the long shot from Winnipeg, so was Henry Martell who met Black and lost in the National final at Montreal's Mount Bruno Club two years ago.

Hot Henry meets a long-bellied Jug Wilson from Jasper, Alta., smiling Jimmy Hogan who yesterday displayed his Irish stock-in-trade by going to the 26th to win from Walt McKiroy, 19-year-old British Columbia junior champion, in one of the longest matches in Canadian tournament history.

Gone were the Fairleys, the Nashs and the Wisnocks, victims of earlier upsets and yesterday's fourth and quarter-final rounds accounted for the rest of the eastern hopes.

Black Knocks Off Two

Black, who survived off two, ousting Montreal's Guy Rolland in the morning on the 20th after a hard battle and taking Windsor's hotshot Rudy Horvath 4 and 3 during a blistering that drove spectators for shelter in the afternoon. Both had previously ousted the 1932 Canadian champion, Gordon Taylor of Montreal, 3 and 2.

Ezinicki eliminated C. J. Stoddard of Hamilton 5 and 4 before going on to oust the only other easterner, the veteran Quebec amateur champion Ronald Brault from Cowanville, Que., 6 and 5.

Outside of Rolland's extension of Black who had to sink a 20-footer with a disdegged putt on the 18th to prolong the match and got a bear-hug from the Quebecker for doing it, it was the westerners who provided the classics of the day.

Martell, who knocked off J. R. MacDonald of Moncton 5 and 4 in the morning, found Vancouver's Davey Dixon, the thrice-bounded ex-Canadian army corporal and conqueror of Jack Nash a much tougher customer.

Ezinicki had little trouble with Brault, taking an early lead and gradually wearing down the Quebec veteran with steady pressure. The Winnipegger was three up at the turn and increased his lead to four on the 11th but lost the 12th with a putt that didn't go down. He took the next two and ended it there.

Says Owner - Player Negotiations Prove Sport is Not Balanced as in Mexico

By JACK HAND

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—Bernardo Pasquel, one of the Pasquel brothers Mexican league baseball dictators currently in owner-player negotiations prove his theory that baseball in the United States is "100 years behind the times."

Declining to take any credit for the player pact that Pasquel is offering the players in the form of contract reforms, the vice-president of the Mexican League president said he had pointed to the sport's "antiquated" methods six months ago.

"Why is it that Philadelphia always finishes last?" he demanded. "The pennants always go to New York, Boston, St. Louis, Chicago or Brooklyn. We do things different and move the players around to make, what you call, balance.

Bernardo had just seen St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers fighting for the National League pennant. He was unimpressed.

"Our league leader, Tampico, can play any team 2nd, have been invited, and they don't have one big leaguer in here. Maybe you call your series a real world series? Maybe Brooklyn will just laugh at you, United States champs, no. World champs, no. Not unless you play Mexico."

Although Pasquel is in town ostensibly for the purpose of pleasure jaunt, he was thinking of 1947 in baseball terms.

"The Mexican fans want the big names," Bernardo said. "Just now our series a real world series" Maybe Brooklyn will just laugh at you. United States champs, no. World champs, no. Not unless you play Mexico."

Although Pasquel is in town ostensibly for the purpose of pleasure jaunt, he was thinking of 1947 in baseball terms.

"The Mexican fans want the big names," Bernardo said. "Just now our series—a real world series" Bernardo explained. "There are only four or five players that I'd like to get, want, young fellows with big names. Maybe New-houser, Feller, Pesky and Ted Williams. Greenberg? No, we want younger men."

OFFICIALS PULLED PRIZE BONER IN SELECTING TEAM

Bill Ezenicki, Hockey Player of Toronto Maple Leafs, Not on Willingdon Squad

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Aug. 4 (CP)—Manitoba Golf Association officials experienced today the embarrassing thrill of what many golfers throughout the province believe was a prize boner by their failure to name Bill Ezinicki of Winnipeg as one of the four members of Manitoba's Willingdon Cup team.

Before the team left for the Willingdon Cup play and the Canadian amateur championship at Edmonton this week, Manitoba golfers expressed the opinion that the selection of Ezinicki and Brandon as fourth man was a mistake and the brilliant play of the Toronto Maple Leafs' forward has emphasized their point.

As the tournament went into the fourth day today Ezinicki, who also plays hockey for the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs had progressed to the semi-finals and was the only Manitoba representative left in the play.

Ezinicki's outstanding shooting is not an overnight occurrence. He has been playing golf all his life and nearly every golfer, including the one who won the fourth spot, thought he had earned a berth on the team.

Reached Quarter Finals

In the Manitoba amateur tournament Ezinicki reached the quarter finals and because of this fine showing Manitoba's Wm. G. A. officials to take part in a special 36-hole round to facilitate their departure by plane for the west with Alan Boes of Winnipeg, who was defeated in the first round, and Mike Pidlaski of Winnipeg as the low scorers with a total of 176 for the two rounds.

By winning the Manitoba amateur championship Harold Wm. G. A. Winnipeg automatically qualified for the team and the all-round golf ability demonstrated the season of Boes and Howard Bennett of Brandon, who were runner-up for the provincial title and next to the top three in the Manitoba open title, gave them certain of winning a place.

Charges Made

Nearly everyone thought Ezinicki would have no trouble in being chosen for the fourth spot especially because of his showing on the links all round even though it was specified before play began that golf was the major sport as a guide in selecting the team and that low scores would not necessarily be chosen.

When Thompson who finished sixth in the field was finally picked over Ezinicki, some golfers and gallery that he was passed up because earlier in the season he had said he would like to make the Ontario team since he spent a large amount of his time in Oshawa during the summer.

Chips Off The Sports Block

Toronto Maple Leafs' chances of regaining the coveted softball honors belonging to the Stelco Steelers, champions of the Kwarter Kentury Kiwanis Softball Leagues Alexandra Amphitheatre at 6 of the Steelmen, the league's defending champions, will endeavour to retain the title when they meet the Toronto Maple Leafs, runners-up in the league's first season. Both clubs are sporting strong lineups and batting averages, so a pitcher's battle is expected.

But the Rotund ones will not lack for support. Required to be the best singing club this side of Bikini, they have a loud-organized cheering section led by Harry (Old Man River) Moorman, Leo (Florida) Fitzgerald, Ralph Alex (Sinatra) Nathan and others whose gentlemanly voices are called melodic beauty to the youthful fans at the weekly hoedowns.

So the Battle of the Diamond may well be outdone by the Singing Battle. Stephen Peverley providing the Kwaks can arrange their second engagement with something that resembles music. In any event, the fans should provide one of high links, muscular cast, volatile and demonstrative vocal phenomena. Bandages and iodine are supplied free of charge.

The Garton-less Trenton Flyers meet the Smithless Peterboro Petes tonight at Varsity City on Monday in an exhibition tilt. The Flyers were shellacked 9-2 behind "Smoky" in the first game of the National Congress Baseball Series, while tiffe "Moose" Matthews moosaled edged Malcolm Forsythe. Earlscourt Juniors and dropped the nod to the Columbus Greek in the finals.

The game, at least, should give the faithful some idea of the respective strengths of the teams. From past performances of both squads, we'll drop that shekel on the Matthews mob.

Tonight at the Fair Grounds the Point Anne senior softball squad meets the Army and Navy Flashes in the second game of the city loop semi-finals. The Pointers swamped the vets 12-1 in the first bout, and the Yellow and Maroon are out for vengeance. The Ox Point lads figure they can take the series two straight, while Manager Sedge Cook manfully says that his charges can not only win tonight but take the 3rd and deciding game. Cook is also a hot sweating's show. Certain at that.

The proposed Benefit Softball Game for Leo Goyer, star athlete who is so feared, suffered a permanent injury to a knee while playing with the Flashes, is still in the mind of interest in local sports circles. Manager Frank Sedore is getting in touch with a Toronto senior softball squad, which, it is expected will play here on Labor Day, Sept. 2.

Little Joe! At his peak, Wood stood six feet, weighed 190 pounds and threw so symmetrically built that they called him Long Joe until his blazing speed earned him the significant moniker. He won 19 with a sore arm before he was converted to relief pitching and dropping only five during the regular season.

"With Joe Wood on our club" Galbreath said, "we continued to win games wherever we played. Joe played every day when he wasn't pitching. He played him at third base. He had excellent control and I taught him a lot of tricks."

But, getting back to Rogers Hornsby. "Upon returning to Fort Worth I found that Hornsby had done some thinking. He'd join the Bloomer Girls, he said, if I agreed to contract me just 78 cents."

Hornsby travelled with the Bloomer Girls until they crossed the state line into Oklahoma. He left them there, but the next year he turned up with the Dennison club in the Western Association. The following year, the Cardinals brought him up to the National League. Seven years after he had played with the Bloomer Girls, in 1919, the New York Giants offered Branch Rickey $150,000 for Hornsby's contract. Rickey turned it down.

The Bloomer Girls are gone now. But Mr. Galbreath, a 67-year-old Kansas City advertising salesman, still dreams of them and of familiar screams from a chivalrous crowd, such as: "Don't throw that ball so hard. Don't you know you're throwing to a lady?"

Toronto, Aug. 4 (CP)—Watford's Alfred W. Watson, whip his trout flies into some favorite trouting pool you'd think he was fishing. But no. On Watson's keen say-so he's only "shopping."

It turns out that Watson is one of the great host of Canadians who follow the their own flies. You find them everywhere, as spicurean taste buds the river is the angling boys found a way to meet it.

At the start they fed 'em the chemical-free worms. Then a friend Bill Roche of Toronto, just back from Crystal Lake, Ont., doesn't know where it came from or who decided to use it first, a softshell crab went into the lake and it began to bite.

Now it's an established thing there to use softshell crabs. Th bass won't take anything else But by the time they pack soft shell crabs all the way from the Niagara District to Crystal Lake, miles north of Toronto, each crab has a value of 10 cents. Expensive bait.

Double-headers will be played tomorrow, Wednesday, to Friday with the semi-finals slated for Saturday afternoon and the final Saturday night. Winner of the tournament has the right to enter the Amateur tournament at Wichita, Kansas. The draw follows:

Wednesday — Toronto Columbus Grads vs Stratford National; Windsor vs London Majors.

Thursday — Losers of Wednesday's games. Brockville vs winner of London vs Windsor.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

BY SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The partner who never unblocks is likely to lose a few tricks. By unblocking we mean the proper disposition of the honors for being a first.

To unblock means merely to get out of the way. It requires the play of a higher card than necessary. Its usual purpose is to clear the way for partner to take or retain a trick.

Unblocking by third hand is an art. It is not too difficult to learn. Careful players seem to acquire it without much trouble. But even they are unfamiliar with the act, some think of it too late.

South is declarer at three no trump when spades are like this:

NORTH

WEST
♠J 10 8 3 2
EAST
♠K Q 7

SOUTH
♠9 6 4

West starts with an opening lead of the jack. This indicates that he holds the ten and nine or ten and eightpost. If dummy in the north goes at once with the ace, East should discard the queen.

The purpose of the queen discard is to prepare for an unblock. By such an unblock, when the east hopes to accomplish: If dummy has nine or ten to enter the west hand on the third round.

On the second round of that suit, east plays the king. On the third round, east is unblocked for his partner in the west. Whether east or west leads on the third round, west will take the third trick.

Dummy may not go with the ace on the first trick. He may hold the ace for the second round. If so, east should overtake the jack with the queen for the first trick to prepare the unblock.

When a novice first sees such a play, it may discourage him. He may think it is too difficult to picture in the midst of a game. But this fear soon fades away.

As he learns rules for leads, he begins picturing the holdings of the leader. When his dimes of signals become familiar, he has time to consider unblocking. Take your time.

Hollywood Column

By HOWARD C. HEYN

Hollywood, Aug. 2 — (AP) — If you girls have any idea that Hollywood men are more romantic than the boys in Podunk, Ruth Warrick wants to straighten you out.

"Hollywood wolves bore me," she told me on the "Swell Guy" set. This, however, does not mean that Ruth isn't a potential romance.

"Romance is wonderful, and I'm all for it," she declared. "It's the Hollywood approach I don't like. These men lack finesse."

In a town where there are presumably so many artistic people, Ruth says, you would think you'd expect their lovemaking to be artistic. But that's not the case, Ruth reports.

"It's simply a battle of the sexes," she laughed.

My chivalrous mind was perturbed by this last remark and I wondered how a poor, helpless little girl could withstand these Don Juan amors.

"A good sense of humor is what a girl needs," she said. (And Ruth must have one, or she wouldn't have told me this in the first place.)

"Men who have anything to do with actresses are crazy," she added. "Maybe I'm too practical."

Miss Warrick, for the record, recently divorced Erik Rolf, a radio actor.

Larry Adler and his harmonica are back in the Hollywoods and delighting patrons of Clive's.

The 150-pound mouth organ expert has completed a tour of the United States. He brings the report that the country is still harmonica-conscious.

Larry, of course, was armed with this discovery. He avidly fosters this reed-blowing business.

"With the harmonica," he commented, "you learn music immediately. Even if you think your boy is going to be a great violinist, start him off on the harmonica."

"Why? Well, he'll find he can make music immediately on the harmonica, whereas he might be discouraged from the start on a violin."

ALL PERSONS RESCUED

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)— Airsea rescue facilities of the coast guard said today the merchant ship Antinoe, reported to be sunk last night in the English Channel in a collision with the William J. Biddle, another American vessel. All persons aboard were rescued.

Lloyd's register lists the American Farmer as a vessel of 5,230 tons, built in 1945 for the United States war shipping administration. Her home port is Wilmington, N.C.

DEFENDING CHAMP OF MILLAR TROPHY IS ELIMINATED

Qualifying Round Cut Record Entry of Fifty to Sixteen

Islington Golf Club, Islington, Ont., Aug. 2 (CP)— With two rounds of match play over the 72-par Islington links facing them, 16 of Eastern Canada's top pros started off this morning after surviving yesterday's two rounds of medal play.

The qualifying rounds cut the record entry of more than 80 to 16 and 13 of these will be eliminated from the championship flight today. Veteran Bob Gray of Toronto Scarborough shot two sub par rounds of 70 and 72 to lead the field yesterday. Right behind his 142 were Bill Chlasey of London and Gordon Brydson of Toronto Mississauga with 145.

Gray will meet Elmer Blower of Weston who shot 148 in the qualifying round while Brydson is paired with Stan Horne of Toronto Scarlet who fired identical 148's. Lex Robson of Peterborough, six times a Millar winner, barely qualified with 150 and is matched against Willie Lamb of Lambton who shot 147.

Claire Chlasey joined his brother Bill in the match play by shooting 150. Clair, assistant pro at Toronto York Downs, meets Lou Cumming of Toronto Golf Club who scored a par 146.

Second man to come in with an even par was Hamilton Dick Northwick, who is paired with Normie Hines of Kitchener. Hines qualified with 150. Bob Cunningham of St. George's and Bobby Reith of Windsor, who shot 147 and 150 respectively complete the draw.

Perfect rain made the links heavy for yesterday's second round but clear, warm weather was promised for today.

FORD DECLINES INVITATION

Detroit, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. last night declined an invitation to attend a meeting with the United Auto Workers (CIO) to consider means of increasing car production, which the industry maintains has been retarded by strikes in supply plants. The invitation had been issued to all car makers by Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W.-C.I.O. president, who proposed a conference Aug. 2.

JERSEY GIANTS WIN SEVEN OF LAST 10 STARTS

May Cause Teams Aspiring for Playoff Berths Many a Headache

(By The Associated Press)

Jersey City Giants, last place occupants in the International League Western division, haven't much of an opportunity of crashing into the first division but they may cause a number of teams aspiring to a playoff berth plenty of headaches as the campaign heads down the stretch.

Winners of seven of their last 10 games, the Jerseys have moved to within 2 1-2 games of the seventh-place Rochester Red Wings and 3 1-2 games of the sixth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Lack of good hurling was one of the prime reasons for many of the defeats encountered by the Little Giants earlier in the season but since late June they have come up with two capable flingers in Bill Emmerich and Dick Hoover.

Hoover, a recruit southpaw, turned in his seventh victory of the year last night as he scattered 12 Montreal hits in allowing the Giants to a 6-4 triumph over the league leaders.

The fifth-place Newark Bears moved to within 1 1-2 games of Buffalo Bisons by sweeping a twin bill from Rochester, 5-4 and 9-1. While the Bisons divided a doubleheader with Syracuse, winning the nightcap, 11-6, after dropping the opener, 10-5.

Baltimore Orioles and Toronto were not scheduled.

CHAPTER 22

Mr. Butler looked at Joel. He spoke firmly but not unkindly. "You were in a position of trust and you violated it. Our books show that a little more than four thousand dollars was stolen."

Joel was softly saying, Mr. Butler went on mildly, "The directors wanted to have you arrested immediately."

Iris said, "Don't do that! Give him a chance! He did it for me. To give me things and so that we could be married."

The circumstances that prompted it don't excuse it. We had quite a long discussion about this. I have a son of my own and I am not so stern but that he would have been tempted, seeing money he wanted and needed pass through his fingers."

Iris interrupted. "Joel hasn't notified the authorities, has he, you?"

"No. When I found he wasn't at the bank, I thought he'd either be here or—"

"Or skipped town," said Joel. "Why don't you say it?"

"If I were in your position young man, I think I'd control my tongue."

Iris said, "Please, Joel, this won't help."

Then why does he torture me with all this talk? Call the police and get it over. I did it, I admit it. I went crazy, I guess. I've been handling money for years at the bank and I never took any. Why prolong it? Why be so—so polite about it?"

Mr. Butler bridled but unkindly. "You were in a position of trust and you violated it. Our books show that a little more than four thousand dollars was stolen."

"I'm going to Louis for it." His life looked at her. "His wife is divorcing him. Is it because of me? You were pretty thick with him."

"His wife wants to marry some one else," Iris said stolidly. "This isn't the time to talk about it." Mr. Butler is being decent about this, Joel. He won't call you from the bank. You won't lose your job there—"

"Actually," Mr. Butler did give you the money, what then? You won't marry me now, will you? You hate me for the time—who you made me do it! You owe it to me to marry me now. I gave money for you."

"You don't have to remind me of it again. I'm going to Louis's office now, Joel, you won't—"

"Won't what, I wonder? Run away? I won't think of that again until you've talked it over with me."

When she was on the street, she suddenly realized she was walking aimlessly, her mind groping for some thought. He did it for me. I must not forget that. I must go to Louis's office, Anita Rogers, in a white uniform, looked up over Iris's familiar mahogany desk. In spite of the confusion in her mind Iris saw that Anita was attractive and waved dark red hair behind blue eyes.

"You're Iris Wade," Anita said curtly. "I know you. Mrs. Carter Dr. Tracy's glowing description. Mr. Louis is busy. I'm lighted to see and know my patients."

"Thank you," said Iris. "Is the doctor busy? I must see him. It's urgent."

"What's happened? Are you ill? Sit down, Iris."

"Thank you. I'm not ill. I've just been through a terrible ordeal."

"You look it. Tell me."

She told him everything.

"I have forty-eight hours to get the money for you, Joel."

"Do you think I'll take any money from your girl friend? No! I'd rather go to jail than take money from Mark Carleton and be indebted to him."

"I'm going to Louis for it." His life looked at her. "His wife is divorcing him. Is it because of me? You were pretty thick with him."

"His wife wants to marry some one else," Iris said stolidly. "This isn't the time to talk about it." Mr. Butler is being decent about this, Joel. He won't call you from the bank. You won't lose your job there—"

"Actually," Mr. Butler did give you the money, what then? You won't marry me now, will you? You hate me for the time—who you made me do it! You owe it to me to marry me now. I gave money for you."

"You don't have to remind me of it again. I'm going to Louis's office now, Joel, you won't—"

"Won't what, I wonder? Run away? I won't think of that again until you've talked it over with me."

When she was on the street, she suddenly realized she was walking aimlessly, her mind groping for some thought. He did it for me. I must not forget that. I must go to Louis's office, Anita Rogers, in a white uniform, looked up over Iris's familiar mahogany desk. In spite of the confusion in her mind Iris saw that Anita was attractive and waved dark red hair behind blue eyes.

"You're Iris Wade," Anita said curtly. "I know you. Mrs. Carter Dr. Tracy's glowing description. Mr. Louis is busy. I'm lighted to see and know my patients."

"Thank you," said Iris. "Is the doctor busy? I must see him. It's urgent."

"What's happened? Are you ill? Sit down, Iris."

"Thank you. I'm not ill. I've just been through a terrible ordeal."

"You look it. Tell me."

She told him everything.

"I have forty-eight hours to get the money."

"You have! Why is it your responsibility? You're not the kid I got to know, Iris. You build them up."

"But he did it for me. Can't you understand, Louis, I've got to have four thousand dollars? Mother doesn't have it. I don't. You're the only person in the world I could come to. I knew you wouldn't fail me."

"I've got to fail you," he said, low, "I've got four boys and dollars. I made a cash settlement with Annette. I preferred that to monthly alimony payments. I'm poor, by exactly cent. Her money set me up in these offices and paid for my equipment. I'm not a rich man, Iris, and more. I've got a little over five hundred dollars. That's all I have, Iris. You need me and I can't help you."

"I didn't understand the circumstances. I understand perfectly. I'm sorry I've been here, she'd help me. He'll pay it back. I'll see to that."

Louis bent forward. "You're not going to marry his son?"

"He stole money for me. If I let him go now, he'll sink lower than he is. Then, when he's got to stay by him now and help him. He'll straighten up again and pay back the money."

"You don't understand. You're out of your mind, Iris! You're carrying your idea of nobility and decency too far."

"It's hopeless to talk to you, to make you see what I feel you are. For months your friends have watched you. You've been different if you loved Joel. You don't. You love Mark, Iris, I hate to talk like this. But you know what marriage is. Do you think that Mark will be even a passable sort of happiness, marrying 'unsuitable' girls like Iris? It will be between you all the time and Mark's family."

She got up, went to the door, and opened it.

"Nothing to do the hardest thing I've ever had to do in my life. I'm going to Mark."

Louis neither pride nor respect left. It's the only help I have for Joel. I won't blame Mark or take what is from me down. I made such a row about the money he gave Eva. I was proud and I wouldn't be now. Mark, I'm sure, see, I've got to take my medicine."

"Suppose Mark refuses. He's proud, too, Iris, and hurt. I won't be exactly easy for him to give you money to set another man free and then marry him."

"I'm expecting Mr. Christian but I can't say when he'll be back," Mark's servant told her. He went his office.

"Thank you. I'll wait."

Iris had been shopped in this room. The last time she had been in sugar. That last time... How superior of her when she told Mark she were trying to buy me. My life belongs to do with money...contempt for a man who tries to buy his way with money." She remembered every word of that afternoon.

While she was waiting, she called Joel.

"Have you gotten it?" he asked.

"Not yet. I was anxious to know if you'll all right."

"I'm okay. Listen, Iris, I don't care how you get that money but get it."

The servant was lighting gas logs in the fireplace when she heard the sound of Mark's key in the door. She got up to face him. She must not cry.

Mark looked tired, incredibly tired. In the threshold of the room he paused in surprise to see Iris, then smiled, a happy, expectant sort of smile. "I thought you'd come to see him, and ties with Joel had been broken! The expression said, "At last! Trust it's too good to be true!" But her white face, tired, told him he had jumped to conclusions.

"An unexpected pleasure," he said with a gallant nod of his dark head. His mouth was hard, firm. "What can I have brought me at Eaton Forest?"

Haughty aristocrat, she took a long breath, a deep breath, and looked him bitterly and was a little afraid of her voice.

"I guess it's your turn to be arrogant and proud, Mark."

"What do you mean?"

"I—I need you. I'm in serious, desperate trouble."

His eyes did not soften, did not forgive. Iris's black eyes today that looked at her beneath a pencil-slimpiest frown.

"Suppose you tell me, sweetheart," he said.

Iris looked straight into the depths of those black eyes and got to take my medicine."

"Suppose Mark refuses. He's proud, too, Iris, and hurt. I won't be exactly easy for him to give you money to set another to be a last refuge," he said coldly.

"I have talked a great deal about pride, Mark. My pride. In flung it at you one day in this very room. You are my last refuge, my only hope to keep Joel from prison. Oh, I know this is asking so much of you...Not the money, of course, but the..."

She covered her head, bit deeply into her lower lip. "I am desperate. He did it for me."

"Are you so sure of that, Iris," he said, "of everything. I know he's been true to me, Mark, will you help me, not for the part I have in it, but for charity's sake and to keep a boy from going to prison? Prison won't make him sorrier than he is. It may make him bitter toward everything and every one. He'd be hardened. Weak people aren't always severe punishment. They have to be helped and encouraged. Children taking medicine." She got up. "I'm sorry I came. It is too much to ask. It's humiliating for you."

"Do you think I care about my own humiliation? Sit down, Iris. You are," he said, "the most foolish girl I ever saw."

Mark did not say he thought her beautiful and her humility magnificent. Hoy many women would be loyal to a man involved in dishonesty? Not many women would find pride to the wind and actually beg for money as Iris was doing now to set free a man she loved? She knew he'd be cruel and blunt to her. That had not shaken her either.

The stern countenance broke into a smile, "I guess you've passed the test, Iris."

"Test? You've finished torturing me."

"I'll write out a check at once."

"It's to be only a loan. It will be paid back."

He looked at her over his shoulder as he went to the desk. "And you will be the one to pay it back, Iris, having earned it with your pride."

He wrote out a check and handed it to her.

Iris said, "This is the price for my terrible pride, Mark." She looked up at him. "It's to late to say so many things. I want to say, so many things I want to make right."

"Let's rather not have those things haunt me all over Europe," he said. "I'm sailing tomorrow." He smiled again but his jaw was firm. "This is the third in our series of good-byes, Iris."

She thought, "Is my love banishing him? Every one has turned away from me, Mark, Louis. They're kind but beneath it is a terrible pity and bitterness toward me, I can see only my duty. I must follow that. Mark has asking for this money killed everything you felt for me? I can't ask you and I shall never know in our last good-bye whether you are hating me or loving me. In setting Joel free, I have banished all the others I love."

It was difficult to leave. It was she who would be walking away this time with the price of Joel's freedom in her purse. What did two people who loved each other say when they were not to meet again and were one was putting an ocean between them? Iris felt numb.

BRITISH TROOPS MOVE TOWARD IRAQ BORDER

Conference Chairmanship Will be Rotated

State Secretary Byrnes Assents To New Ruling

Invitation Extended to All Satellite Countries to Join

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Aug. 3 (CP)—Called to Ending a prolonged, heated debate at a Rules Committee meeting of the Paris peace conference today switched her position and came out in support of the Big Four Council's proposal that the chairmanship of the plenary conference be rotated among the Big Four.

Shortly after Health Minister Brooks Claxton stated Canada's new position—giving a lead in the middle and smaller powers after the deadlock had been broken by a series of disagreements as an amendment to have the chairman chosen by the whole conference was defeated and the Big Four plan adopted.

Friday, Canada lined up in opposition to the foreign ministers and urged that France hold the chairmanship throughout the conference.

Sitting Changes Rapidly.

This morning the situation changed rapidly and after State Secretary Byrnes and the United States had indicated the Big Four attitude, Mr. Claxton said his view was not one which should be pressed.

Later, explaining Canada's action, Mr. Claxton said the Canadian delegation would have preferred one chairman and hoped that the chairman would be that of France, but that if the amendment were carried there would be guarantees of general support for one individual.

Mr. Claxton stressed that Canada felt M. Bidault would become an excellent chairman.

The vote of the chairmanship question was the first outright test in the dispute between large and small powers, and was considered a victory for the United States and Russia. The chairmanship will rotate among the United States, China, France, Great Britain and Russia in that French alphabetical order.

Another Issue Remained.

The question of a two-thirds majority vote by the Russians and the United States, promised to be another fight between large and small powers. The rules committee adjourned without reaching a decision.

A British spokesman, meanwhile, said Britain would go down the line in support of every compromise reached by the foreign ministers on peace treaties.

The ministers were meeting all day Friday on the chairmanship question.

Moscow Radio Claims German Plants Stripped

London, Aug. 3 (CP) — The Moscow radio said today that plants in the reparations list in the United States zone of Germany are being dismantled.

"As a result," the report, from the London Daily Express, continued, "many plants included in the reparations list are now completely industrial scrap. Equipment or possess worthless separate units of incomplete equipment."

The account said all the equipment and ten aircraft plants, branches of Messerschmitt company in the United States zone had "vanished." It also named Henschel and Sohn and firm of Keller and Mantz in Auebach as having been dismantled.

"Similar facts have also been registered in the British zone of occupation," the broadcast said.

Citizens Committee Keeps Law, Order In Athens, Tenn.

Athens, Tenn., Aug. 3 (AP) — A three-man citizens committee named by politically minded veterans who reinforce their ballots with guns, took over the duties in embattled McMinn County today.

Athens—scene of a violent six-hour battle between veterans and deputies over the counting of ballots in Thursday's primary election—was quiet as the committee took over.

Committee members were in charge of the jail, battered and bullet spattered from scores of rounds of ammunition. Other veterans patrolled the county.

Athens itself was still under the control of Chief Spain Walker who said he would co-operate with the veterans.

The committee was named at a mass meeting yesterday to preserve order following the reported dismissal of Sheriff Paul Cantrell and Deputy Joe Mansfield, a leader in the knock-down-drag-out battle in which the veterans claim they were ousted with a slate of veteran candidates, but two after election men routed him and 34 special deputies from the county jail yesterday.

Mansfield's surrender of the sheriff and his deputies followed a six-hour battle during which a score of persons, both veterans and deputies besieged in the jail and courthouse, were injured by gunfire.

MINISTER DEFENDS JUDGES' ACTIONS ON COMMISSIONS

Mr. St. Laurent Urges Criticism be Directed At Govt. Rather Than At Judges

By GEORGE RITCHEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 3 (CP)—Action of judges who served as Royal Commissioners were defended in the Commons last night by Justice Minister St. Laurent who urged that criticism be directed at the government rather than at the judges.

Answering opposition criticism of the policy of appointing members of the judiciary to royal commissions, Mr. St. Laurent said situations arose which must be resolved "in the best way" and accepted the appointments only after "considerable reluctance" was known.

He was replying to John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) who said members of the bench should not be appointed to commissions dealing with subjects of political controversy, and criticism which had been directed at Mr. Justice Kellock, Mr. Kellock and Robert Taschereau, the Royal Commissioners on espionage.

The discussion arose during consideration of a bill to increase the salaries of Dominion and Provincial judges.

Adopt Resolution.

The budget debate was practically ended by adoption of resolutions to the bills which will bring into effect the last announcements in the budget. Many of the resolutions had been approved previously but their adoption was not moved until they had been approved.

Earlier, Mr. St. Laurent announced that 23 prosecutions have been instituted in connection with irregularities in the handling of rotten cotton seed by the La Banque Provinciale Du Canada and that other prosecutions are pending.

Defending Royal Commission Judges, Mr. St. Laurent said the only regret he had about the Royal Commission on Espionage was that the circumstances made it necessary to appoint such a commission. The case had been one of grave consequences.

"I am sure that all will avoid support the view that the judiciary should be subject to political duties, but there was not yet in the Dominion the practice of citizens who, in the eye of the public, could handle questions of espionage," he said.

No Explanation Given For Departure Of Molotov Before Mr. King Spoke

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Paris, Aug. 3 (Special to Canadian Press Cable) — The Soviet delegation to the Peace Conference gave no explanation today for its decision to "then angry when I asked him if from the Soviet zone in Luxembourg Palace just before Foreign Minister Mackenzie King began his first speech to the plenary session.

The leadership didn't cause any stir here and went largely unnoticed by the delegates who heard the Prime Minister in Wednesday's plenary session outlining Canada's proposal for concurrent Big Four meetings while the conference is in session.

Members of the Canadian delegation who sit several rows in front of the Russian members were not aware of what had happened until told afterwards.

It is probable the Soviet Foreign Minister had an appointment which he had to keep at that time but it seemed curious to the Canadians in the gallery that he left at the exact moment President George K. Zhukov of France called on the Prime Minister to speak.

There is a possibility that Mr. Molotov's swift exit was a deliberate diplomatic rebuff to Canada but there is no evidence to support this.

At any rate the Canadians scarcely worried about it and neither is anybody else.

Last night it proved to reach members of the Russian delegation to find out why nobody was available to speak.

This morning a button-holed Pavlo Gousev, the Russian Ambassador to Britain who formerly held a similar post in Ottawa. At first he looked surprised and then angry when asked him if he knew why Mr. Molotov left.

"He left the chamber several times," said Mr. Gousev, evidently referring to the entire afternoon session."

Parliament Final Judge Of Canadian Radio Says Chairman Dunton of CBC

Ottawa, Aug. 3 (CP) — Parliament is the final judge of Canadian radio, Chairman A. D. Dunton of the CBC told the Commons Radio Committee yesterday in arguing against a Progressive Conservative suggestion that an independent regulatory or appeal board be set up and 5 to 7 committee members it was their responsibility to rule on who was to be barred from airwave freedom.

Mr. Dunton was a chief witness during a session in which a $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 expansion in the Commons' high-powered transmitter, station and new frequency modulation system, increases in power and coastal short wave receivers, was outlined.

The chairman said he would welcome a recommendation from the committee that would "define the limits of political free-time broadcasts as applied to the Labor-Progressive party. Meanwhile, under the all-party rule pact on the subject, the party had a share in the free-time it deserved.

Rev. E. G. Nasmith (S.C.—Medicine Hat) said the CBC was one of the most powerful mediums of propaganda in Canada and it assumes the responsibility for its policy of freedom of speech and one that nothing was carried on the airwaves which was contrary to the Canadian way of life.

Mr. Dunton said he felt it was the responsibility of parliament to make decisions on who should or should not be banned from the airwaves.

Mr. Hansell said parliament could not be the judge of manuscripts but could only be the judge of organizations.

Chairman Dunton said the corporation for it was his opinion the CBC should be free from any of the minds of the people of Canada. Parliament was the highest policy century in the Canadian way of life.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said that while he was certainly opposed to Communism, as is the Communist or Labor-Progressive party, he was afraid of the results of suppression. He thought the old British principle of "let them have their say, is the best way of keeping the Communists on the defensive. Let their case be exposed.

Mr. Dunton said he didn't want the CBC to become a censor and except in certain cases, such as libel and libel, there was complete freedom of the air.

SILVER PRICE INCREASE HELPS CANADIAN MINES

May Lead to Re-opening of Abandoned Mines in Many Parts of Dominion

Ottawa, Aug. 3 (CP)—A large-scale revival of interest in Canadian silver mines, perhaps large enough to that after the First Great War, was being predicted here today following announcement of a boost in the silver price in the price paid for silver by the Royal Canadian Mint and the United States Treasury.

In view of the fact that a $1 price increase of more than 50 cents an ounce has just been fixed, it seemed likely new life would be injected into the long-forgotten silver mines in Ontario and British Columbia.

The price of silver, which rose as high as $1.20 an ounce after the First War, has been held at 70 cents by the Price Board until the ceiling was lifted in February. Then it rose to 71.11, the ceiling then enforced by the United States Office of Price Administration.

Newsprint Up O.P.A. went out of operation temporarily New York yesterday and "free market York official price" of 90 1-8 cents an ounce for foreign to the Then O.P.A. stepped on the scene and set the price at 90.3 cents for U.S. and Canadian Treasury price, whichever was the higher.

The U. S. Treasury announced last Wednesday that it would hold to 90.3 for U.S. "domestic" silver and the Canadian Mint followed suit.

Not Able to Get Enough

As a result, Canadian mines which could not operate profitably at the 71.11-cent price, now may be revived and New York sources said that silver mines which did not reach the U. S. market finds the old price "not enough to get them over the border again."

U. S. dealers have not been able to get enough silver, even at the 90.3 price, to satisfy industry. In New York that need is estimated at some 200 million ounces and Washington officials said that there is no hope that the 125,000,000 to be released to industry from the Treasury will be available immediately.

With that market in view and the increased price, it is felt as well, observers here look for new activity in the old silver towns.

One large company already is understood to have plans afoot to re-open old shafts at Cobalt, Ont., a rip-roaring silver town at the end of the century. Elsewhere, other Cobalt veins are known to have been worked out-

OPPOSE CRITICISM ON ALBANIA'S U.N. MEMBERSHIP

Delegates Want All Applications Before the Council Discussed

By MAX HARRISON
New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—Several delegations to the United Nations Security Council believe that the council would oppose a showdown on Albania's application for U.N. membership until after the membership committee has discussed all applications before it.

Such delegations included the United States and Britain, who took the position that the committee should do its work in the two phases—discussions and votes.

Some delegates expressed belief Russia might try to dispose of the Albanian case before turning to the others.

The membership committee decided by unanimous vote July 31 that it "can only consider" the chronological order of their receipt. On that basis, it was argued that consideration of Albania's application would begin next week.

The committee now has before it applications from Albania, Afghanistan, Outer Mongolia and Transjordan, and may get four more before the deadline of Aug. 21 when it must report to the council.

Apply Same Standards

Some delegates have expressed the belief that the applications should be considered with caution and they argue that it would be necessary to set up discussions so that when they start voting the same standards can be applied to all.

It was pointed out that one significant factor behind the hesitation was the fact that Russia has the older quarter of Albania and Outer Mongolia, while Britain is backing Italy's application for Albania, has been criticized by the Soviet Press.

Moreover, Greek Ambassador Vassili Dendramis expressed opposition to Albania's admission to the U.N., charging that Albania was not a "peace-loving nation" and therefore not eligible for membership under the U. N. charter.

Other U. N. Developments:

The membership group would lead a fight before the general assembly in September to have the principle established of "eliminating" from the charter the veto rights of the five permanent members of the Security Council.

The scientific and technical committee of the atomic energy commission, scheduled to meet next week Tuesday drafting a six-chapter report on what controls are necessary to prevent the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes.

CANADIAN FOOD STOCKS INCREASE, SURVEY REVEALS

Supplies of Meat And Butter Are Adequate, Excellent Crops Seen Almost Everywhere

With large sections of Europe and Asia in the throes of perhaps the most critical food shortage in history, Canadian food stocks are on the increase. The recent white paper issued by the Canadian Food Ministry reported world food supplies at dangerously low levels, but a survey by The Canadian Press today revealed that Canadians have access to abundant supplies of essential foodstuffs and adequate supplies of most foods.

Food prices throughout the Dominion have remained firm, increased during the past year, but the quality of foodstuffs and food has increased with the months. Chief shortages are of foods requiring sugar or fats for preparation and some varieties of vegetables.

With a few scattered exceptions, Canadian crops, both in respect, and meat and butter supplies are adequate to meet the rationed demand. Housewives still have purchasing problems, caused by labor disputes and by the necessity of accepting substitutes for certain hard-to-get items.

Removal of subsidies on fruits and milk and the temporary lifting of ceiling prices on beef have increased the cost of the higher prices. Increased farm costs and increased wages in many industries have accounted for others.

Main complaints of British Columbia households is the increased price of most foods.

The Canadian British war bride reports food costs have almost doubled during her arrival in Canada one year ago. But Albertans are not going hungry and there are few queues at grocery stores.

Severe heat and lack of rainfall have caused some crop damage in Alberta, however, the over-all crop outlook is good.

In Manitoba fats are in very short supply and meagre supplies of berries are selling at high prices.

Abundant fruit stocks are found in Saskatchewan, despite high fruit prices have discouraged. The production and a future jam shortage is expected. Apples, plums, peaches, pears, potatoes and tomatoes are plentiful. In Southwestern Ontario, the province's "garden," a jeopardized onion and corn crop will cannot prove hard to get.

Shortage of Fats

There is a general cheese commitments and decreased production results in occasional shortages and the shortage of fats is general.

Plan For Partitioning Palestine Suggested by Arab Officials

By ROBINEY WHEELER
Paris, Aug. 3 (AP)—Jewish sources said today that the president British-American cabinet committee investigating Palestine was suggested by Arab leaders during secret conversations and negotiations between Britain and the Arab league.

The sources said there is information came from the Middle East in a memorandum dated July 28, 1946, and expressed the belief that it represented an authentic account of diplomatic manoeuvring in which the Arabs have indicated partial acceptance of the plan to admit 100,000 Jews to Palestine during the next 18 months.

The Jewish report said these Arab leaders agreed to this step ago, when the British government agreed that it was necessary not to press for an immediate decision on Palestine, but to give British time to evolve an interim solution.

At the same time, this report said, British committed himself not to carry out any of its recommendations, if the British-American inquiry committee before committing the Arab league again.

Such a message was reported to have been conveyed personally to the conference of Arab Kings and Princes by the British Foreign Ambassador to London, who flew to the Middle East.

The Shah's conference, continued the Jewish report, then decided the report of Iraq to be quire what sort of interim plan was proposed. It also was instructed to insist on three things:

1. Any solution in Palestine must not strengthen, or increase the area or any Arab country. This, and only this, would avoid a of friction between Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and the Hashemite Arabs, and thus to guard against upsetting the balance of the Middle East. It would benefit the whole East by increasing the new Arab States' chances of becoming able to the Arabs which established an independent Jewish state in any part of Palestine.

3. Whatever solution was adopted, the Arabs must not accept Jewish immigration.

If these conditions were accepted, the report continued, the Arab states would undertake to restrain the Arabs in Palestine.

Safeguard Indian, British Interests In South Persia

Entry into Oil Field Area May Open Door to Russians

By ED CREAGH
London, Aug. 3 (AP)—British Indian troops moved by air today to Basra, Iraqui port on the Persian Gulf near the Iranian frontier and the British Foreign Office, the Indian office in London and the Indian government expressed varying views on the significance of the movement.

The Indian government communique released in New Delhi last night said the soldiers were being moved to "in order to safeguard Indian and British interests in South Persia (Iran)."

The British government attempted today with the additional statement: "There is no question of the troops going into Persia except in the case of a grave emergency, which is hoped will not occur."

The British Foreign Office spokesman in London, however, said the move was being sent to Basra merely to relieve troops on duty there and that it was the Indian government specified the number of troops, who left Bombay Friday for the five day voyage.

An Indian Office spokesman earlier said the troop movement was "purely precautionary and there was no suggestion the units would be used in the near future—or at all—unless "circumstances arise." It was added that "no question of troops going into Persia arises."

Basra, it developed, of course, is the disturbance last month," he said, referring to the recent rioting involving a strike against the Anglo-American Oil Company and Southern Iran which led to the death of 3 persons and wounding of 150 others.

The London spokesman, however, declared that the movement should be described as one of "precaution rather than necessity." He agreed that his explanation conflicted with the Indian communique, but said his version was correct.

The Indian government in London said it was mystified.

No Dominions Bloc On Issues Before Conference

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Aug. 3 (CP)—Canada's British Commonwealth feature of the peace conference which likely will become clearer as the conference continues, is that there is nothing in the nature of a Dominions' bloc existing on questions before the conference.

All the Dominions are united with Britain in seeking a just and enduring peace but they all have their own ideas which they intend to put forward as the time is ripe. They will vote quite independently and even though there is considerable liaison among them there is no Dominions' policy on treaties or the problems before them.

This became apparent after the first days of the conference during which Herbert V. Evatt, Australian External Affairs Minister and spokesman for the two-thirds majority proposal for voting which a good many powers here who thought the Dominions all would line up in support, stood behind Australia. But they did not.

Instead, South Africa are not supporting the policy campaign which the two Australia majority and New Zealand is taking—and Australian sources say that Dr. Evatt is disturbed because he did not get more backing from the eleven other powers.

He expected he might come to terms with some of the others in a secret meeting last Thursday night which she was attended by British representatives. However, Commonwealth countries demonstrated that they would all have their own say in the end and that they will get on the bandwagon.

Efforts were made to keep the Tuesday meeting quiet so as not to give any impression, false as it might have been, that there was any Dominions' bloc operating here.

This conference probably will mark the end of the war than any previous ones the ability and desire of the Dominions to express themselves from their own viewpoint and to act their own independently arrived at conviction. It is a demonstration of the developing stature of every Dominion in Commonwealth and world forums.

TRENTON

Civic Holiday To be Observed

Trenton — A meeting of the town council was held on Monday night last and Monday, Aug. 5th, was declared a Civic Holiday by the mayor. Vacant lots in the business section will be cleaned up, mostly to ex-service men. The contract for painting the town hall, police station and cells was awarded to Percy Hodge for the sum of $300, the work to commence at once. It was decided to call for tenders for 15,000 square feet of sidewalk.

Paving of streets is expected to start next week. Then will be an inspector in charge to supervise the work. The contract had before the council a proposal from Ontario Hydro for a planning plan to meet emergency. The proposal being that the town give over to a group of the taxpayers in the town for an emergency hospital, the nursing staff R.C.A.F. personnel, fourteen acres of land on Sidney Street, near Murray. The deputation thinks enough of the building on the property on which it is said 70 houses can be erected, free of charge, for the hospital's evacuation of fifty prefabricated houses as a result of the fire, the money to be furnished by private subscription with R.C.A.F. personnel sharing in the investment.

The property, which was set aside some years ago for industrial purposes, is not now revenue producing, but is assessed as farm lands. Considerable discussion took place regarding the industrial purposes, is not now revenue producing, but is assessed as farm lands. Tweed Watchmaker-Mechanic Makes Anything From Tiny Watch to Threshing Machine

Made by Hand

Felix Trudeau of Tweed made this miniature threshing machine entirely by hand in the world with a non-metallic pendulum.

Felix L. Trudeau Needs Only Few Tools, Automobile Junkyard, to Carry on His Work

Tweed, Aug. 3 (Staff)—Give Felix L. Trudeau a few tools, an automobile junk yard, some spare time and he'll turn out anything from a watch-spring to a 3 ft. threshing machine.

The quiet-spoken fifty-year-old watchmaker-mechanic, who lives on a quiet side street in this village, spoke with the sign of braggadocio in his voice when he pointed to wood models varying from the chimney of his "conventional home and shop" to the model of a barn. I feel I could supply all the power I need for my farm."

He is a machinist by trade. He was born in Quebec City. Then he goes home, eats his evening meal and "tinkers" with his hobby of model-building until 3:00 a.m.

But he's no amateur at the art of watch-repair. On the wall of his den hang diplomas from the Elgin Watch Repair Institute and the Chicago School of Watchmaking. He studied just six months at the latter, but could have received his diploma. In Chicago he was given his graduation parchment after 47 days at school.

Success On The Amazing

Trudeau's creative ability borders on the amazing. He utilizes every piece of material "left on the floor" in his workshop. Even the figurative squeal of the mechanical saw.

Enter his workshop and you are struck at the presence of machinery to be modern machinery. Saws, lathes, milling machines, drills, and in fact every steel are there. But Trudeau will tell you of what they are made.

He was born in nearby Sloan and has lived there except for the time spent studying watchmaking. Then he returned to Tweed for his entire fifty years. When he built his present home he built a workshop. A large shed 30 feet by 66 feet was available. But it was not enough. So he added to it, and added to it, and added to it, and tore the shed down, moved the house here and built it. It is now nothing."

Makes Own Tools

He has made all his own tools, from a vice that will grip a cigarette paper to a huge one-ton jack that will cut a thread on the end of an inch steel rod.

He fashioned a drill, a tool so small that it can be seen only when seen with the naked eye. With it he drilled a hole a quarter-inch deep in the head of a pin. Then he drilled another crosshole. Then he filed a point, and there he has inserted a hair that runs lengthwise through the pin and emerges from the hole on each side.

He needs a milling tool, he merely makes it. He fashions the tiny cogged wheels for small wristwatches. He has a machine that will cut the cogs on a wheel to an inch in diameter. His thread-cutting tape, made by himself ranges from one inch to larger than a pin head to a quarter inch.

He has invented and made one clock and that clock is now ticking in 10 countries of the world. Merely point the hand to 12 noon in Toronto, and a glance will tell you what the clocks say in practically every corner of the globe.

Cardboard For Clock Dial

The materials in this clock dial are a piece of cardboard, the key system from a pair of rubber galoshes, and the back of a watch-case.

Trudeau produced a piece of cardboard eighteen inches long and nine inches wide. From it has been cut intricate designs. It looked like a fretwork.

"No," he smiled, "it is not quite the right kind of wood." He held up the piece of cardboard so that the light shone through. Light shone through the holes. On the wall there appeared in shadow relief, a startling likeness of Our Saviour.

The pendulum shaft of his machine-shop is an old Star motor, its governors controlled by the air from the fan moving a small steel door on a hinge. The vapour from the exhaust is forced by a rubber pipe back into the intake manifold where the mixture carbon from forming on the cylinder heads and forming a certain "mileage" at least five miles to the gallon.

Prize Electric Arc Welder

On a nearby bench is a double-end power grinder. It is fashioned the "rear end" of a Model T. Ford. Near it is a bench combined drill grinder which once was part of a generator in a Model A Ford.

But Trudeau's prize mechanical creation, or at least one of them is an electric arc welder, which he has named, in fun, the "Heinz", because of its nearly 57 parts gathered from junked automobiles and other discarded materials.

Its rear wheels are those of a lawn mower, the front wheels are spreaders placed together.

Pulley Made Of Spoons

One of Mr. Trudeau's outstanding inventions is a miniature pulley, which is made from small spoons. The pulley is only twenty to 1-1-2 inches. The spoons which is only 1-2 inch in height and can be dismantled and carried in the pocket. The coy-secretive inventor has made small pulley blocks, and the same type which he has made holes, for the cutting as well as the grooving. He has also made many of the tires which weighs only 24 ounces, containing accurate parts which were made on a watch-making lathe.

In his watch-making den, Mr. Trudeau pointed to his desk drawers a dozen or more. He now has a full top and seven drawers and pigeon holes. On the bench, nearby are watch-making lathes of every description, all of them made by their owner.

Clock Prized Creation

Minute dies and milling tools; drills, in a word, everything in gadgets were on the bench amid wristwatches, chain watches and other pieces of work awaiting attention.

Nearby in its almost majestic splendor, stands Mr. Trudeau's prize creation, the first four-foot story clock made in Canada of Canadian materials. Standing seven and one-half feet high, 12 inches deep and about two feet wide, the clock, fashioned in Canadian butternut wood, sometimes known as white walnut, has a scroll curtain in the door carved from one piece of Canadian white birch. The Roman letters are of the same material. Except for the plaster of Paris number for the case, the entire clock was made in watchmaker's wolfe jahn lathe.

The clock, Mr. Trudeau claims, is the first in the world with a non-metallic pendulum. It is made of Canadian wood, the pendulum rod is of cedar. It is, Trudeau says, the first clock running on eccentrical-adjustable oil-retaining roller bearings and semi-circular pallets. It is also the first clock without a suspension spring attached to the pendulum.

Hair Will Cause Rotation

All wheels of the clock are so accurately balanced that a hair placed on the rim of a wheel will cause it to rotate. The hour shaft is three-eighths of an inch and the smallest threecornered.

The rating screw, washer and all nuts are made from the brass of a hose. Bone bolts are three-quarters of an inch long and three thirty-seconds of an inch in diameter. Tiny bone nuts fit the bone bolts which have no threads per inch.

Indicates Day of Week

On its large dial, the clock declares the hour, minute and second hours. On its door face, an arrow indicates the day of the week.

Its 30 hr. gear wheels were made from a piece of sheet brass and are three-eighths of an inch thick, and three feet from the floor. Each gear, an inch in diameter has 640 cogs. Wheels and plates were lathed by hand and are three in number and flat, then each wheel was given 720 equal turned true, each tooth being ground and polished separately after being cut. The wheels were then spoked and bored central and attached to the gear shaft by hand pressure.

The clock is an excellent timekeeper, and is a crowning achievement of this modest mechanic whose ability, ingenuity and patient care are turned in this piece of his work.

His clock is also as good as it was fifteen years ago, Mr. Trudeau said, as watchmakers say clocks are that almost perfect. At one time "I could roll a ten cent piece on the thumb, look at it, and tell whether it was perfectly round or not."

J. Wills.

Woman Controller Passes Twice Thru Picket Line

Hamilton, Aug. 3 (CP)— Controller Nora-Frances Henderson who Thursday forced her way through a picket line at the Hamilton Spectator "to test just how far this (strike) lawlessness would go" Friday entered the strike-bound Steel Company of Canada plant.

"I want to see if one or two of the pickets will be there. I will come out with me," she said.

Hundreds of striking steel employees have been in the plant 10 hours a day since the Canada Steelworkers of America (C. I. O.) called their strike July 15.

Controller Henderson crossed the picket line at the Spectator plant Thursday when the union's graphical Union is on strike Saturday after a number of food striking unions had tried unsuccessfully to halt delivery of newspapers to the plant. Newspapers Eight men were arrested in that picket line fracas.

She dodged past the first two pickets who tried to stop her and was preparing to pass two more when police came to her assistance, as provided as a courtesy.

"I saw Inspector Andy Kay of the police department, who referred to him I'm going to test whether I have given you all his lawful affairs can't go into a place of business and not be intercepted by pickets. Everyone has my right as a citizen," she said.

Following the incident Controller Henderson said her action "was given purely as a sympathy with labor" and "certainly not because I am supporting strikers in any sitting instance" but "because I deem it proper as an elected representative to see that the law is upheld."

Peaceful picketing was lawful but there had been "flagrant lawlessness" in Hamilton for several weeks—intimidation, violence and the prevention of lawabiding citizens from moving freely within the community in the interest of personal management.

"We pickets had the right to use force to prevent persons entering a picketbound plant.

"By making my demonstration against mob rule because the beginning of mob rule is the beginning of the end. It is only the procedures of democracy that have given us the power that we had today....."

Controller Henderson was met at the gates of the Hamilton Works of Stelco by a picket captain and entered the plant property with Arthur Stanton, Chief of the Police Radio and Guy Lott, company personnel manager.

Ask Sentences For Contempt Be Commuted

Ottawa, Aug. 3 (CP)— Representations to Justice Minister St. Laurent to commute the three-month sentences now being served for contempt of court by Harry Pollitt and Tim Buck, leaders of the spy inquiry have been received publicly from a number of organizations.

Wives of the three men, Mrs. Gordon Lunan, Mrs. Eric Adams and Mrs. H. S. Gerson, all of Montreal, and Mrs. Constance here Friday said they had asked and obtained support from members of the Senate and Commons in their efforts to free their husbands.

The contempt charges were made in connection with the trial of Fred Rose, Labor-Progressive member of parliament for Montreal-Cartier, whose sixyear sentence for espionage activities now is being appealed.

The sentences for contempt of court — now last several weeks — were unsuccessfully appealed to the Supreme Court and the three men were confined in Bordeaux Jail at Montreal.

Their wives said that in the interests of justice their husbands should be released to prepare defence for their espionage trials, scheduled for the fall.

STATE SECRETARY

It was turned in favor of the Big Four powers by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes of the United States delegation which would support the Big Four decision because the widening split between the Foreign Ministers and the conference and later meetings of the Foreign Ministers.

After the vote the conference of democratic powers ended by extending invitations to former satellite countries to sit in the conferences as well as to other countries not now members of the conference.

Aligns With Moloney

Under French alphabetical order, the first permanent chairmanship would go to the United States, (state unit) with France, Britain, Russia taking their turn every three days.

State Secretary Byrnes was aligned himself with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia in calling for rotation of the chairmanship.

A group of smaller powers, backed by Britain, had demanded that France be given the saved permanent chairmanship.

Hector MacNeil, British Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, followed Mr. Molotov in the floor and asked if the Russian Foreign Minister indicated by his insistence that he meant every decision made by the Big Four three weeks ago would have to be similarly ratified by the conference.

"The Netherlands delegation wished to make a reservation which would have called for a permanent chairman—with President Roosevelt, Premier Mussolini, Premier Stalin of France mentioned as the principals available in favor of allowing the whole conference to conduct its problems," New Zealand approved the change in wording.

Despite the dispute for the time, after Mr. Moloney had agreed that there was no desire "to create a rift in the committee" by "a desire to overthrow the decision of the council of foreign ministers," Mr. Byrnes said the dispute over the chairmanship on the conference had assumed an importance it did not merit.

Expect Veto

He expressed fear that the wrangle — arising from a small powers demand for a permanent chairman rather than rotating the gavel among the United States, Russia, Britain, and France — would affect not only the decision of the council of foreign ministers but the meetings of the foreign ministers.

Mr. Molotov earlier had strongly reiterated his insistence that the rules committee follow the Big Four decision for rotation.

Mr. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, one of the small nations' trustees, charged that shortly there was any sinister motive behind the move for a single chairman.

"Mr. Moloney suggests that we had formed this proposal in an effort to create a rift in the committee," he asserted. "It is nothing of the kind.

Mrs. Jane Bailey, 94, Grand Old Lady Of Cooper District Recalls Her Early Experiences in Rugged Life of a Pioneer

Practically Everything Her Family Used Was Made at Home by Her Husband and Herself

EXCELLENT MEMORY

The lumber wagon creaked as it bumped its way over the rough roads. Rutted grooves in the roadway marked the tracks of vehicles. The morning sun glowed brightly over the verdant green of the lush fields, and the rolling hills of Hastings.

Song birds carolled a wedding march to the young couple who sat in the rear part of the wagon. The driver, an elderly man, occasionally stole smiling glances over his shoulder from his perch on the high pole seat.

For these young people had been made man and wife but a short time ago. Ahead lay the rutted road, and a new life. An hour previous, after the Rev. M. Gordon Bellville had joined them in marriage, they had placed their belongings in the lumber wagon, a Cinderella coach to the bride of that day, and had started for their new home deep in the hinterland of Hastings.

That was seventy-three years ago. The bride, Mrs. Jane Bailey, was the former Jane Gibson of Tyendinaga. The tall, well built groom was John Bailey of Madoc township. The "chauffeur" of the wedding coach was John Gibson, father of the bride.

Is New 94

Today the bridegroom of that summer's day nearly three quarters of a century ago, is dead. But his bride, ninety-four-year-old Mrs. Jane Bailey, sits at the sides on the old Bailey homestead near Cooper, still retains the memories of those days when the pioneer men and women of Hastings put their collective shoulders to the wheel, hewed their homes from the virgin timber, and raised large healthy families on the provender from rich fertile soil.

The other day from an amazing retentive memory this remarkable old lady recalled many events that have marked her life from the time of her "lumber-wagon honeymoon" to the present.

Mrs. Bailey's eyesight is not as good as it was twenty years ago. She walks about her home with the aid of a cane. Not because she is physically unable to get around, but because of one of the rare accidents that occurred to her during her life. A knife slipped and she suffered a minor injury to her left leg. Has Good Memory

Her mind is tremendously alert. She speaks quickly, with no time for codgelling mental facts. They are at her tongue tip. The names of neighbors long since departed, the dates of their children's birth; the list occasions, and the straight black diphtheria struck "blighting places" are recalled instantly without hesitation.

She sat in the spotless sunswept living room of the home she has known nearly all her married life. Opposite her sat her brother-in-law, Albert Bailey, Madoc, and Albert Bailey, well-known farmer-stockman and dairy instructor of that section of Hastings.

"When did you move here, Mother?" he asked.

Mrs. Bailey's face clouded momentarily as a flash came the reply. "When you were a baby, 67 years ago. You were born in January and we came here from the 'old place' in March."

She smiled as she recalled that day, 73 years ago, when she first came to her home. "We stopped here for the noon-day trip, and fed the horses alongside the road. We had lunch on the grass, and our fingers must have tingled twelve hours. We left home at six a.m. and arrived here at six that night.

Log Cabin Cottage

This bride of that pioneer era did not move into a modern frame and colored with white fences around it." Her "cottage" was a log cabin with a bark roof in that place. Cooking was done on large flat stones in front of the fire.

The women of today couldn't stand the life of that period, Mrs. Bailey thinks. There's too soft, and want everything done for them. She said, her eyes slight with sincerity.

They raised six sturdy sons, and two daughters myself, and only had a doctor three times. "I'm glad," she said, "that I made all their clothes, as well.

Mrs. Bailey was left a mistress in Belleville prior to her marriage and after the family began to arrive, her ability along this line stood her in good stead. "I could make all the clothes for a man better than any tailor in the district" she proudly boasted. One Autumn she made seven complete suits of clothes.

Spun Own Wool

In those early days, Mrs. Bailey knew and spun her own wool. She made "full cloth" clothes for her husband and sons, and interspersed this work with making bread, maple syrup, maple sugar, delivering children for the neighbors, nursing sick for the neighbors family and the neighbors, picking berries after walking seven miles to do so, berry patches, and oftimes after a day's work of this nature, lay at night in a cornfield with a gun wall-

"No use telling them what did—they wouldn't do it anyway. We folks made things handy for them and they're enjoying the benefits.

There were no fancy breads, cakes, meringue pies, sugar-coated doughnuts or cream puffs in those days. The tall well-built sons of the Bailey family spoke ample evidence of the value of solid, substantial food. The People never worried about how many calories or proteins were contained in simple fare. Indigestion was usually caused by hungry appetites, and not by eating out on a rule from rich sweet foods.

Cured Own Meat

Every year in the cellar of the Bailey homestead went a barrel of side-pork. Tasty hams were strung up under the rafters for later consumption. Bread-trucks were unknown.

They raised their own wheat and corn. The wheat was ground for flour with which the tasty home-made bread was baked. Many an hour Mrs. Bailey spent shelling corn by a simple yet effective method. A cob was placed on-into the front of seat of a chair. The corn-cob was rubbed hard against the sharp edge of the knife and the kernels fell into a pail below.

The kernels were then ground and put through a mill that separate the meal from the bran. This was the foundation for many a hot Johnny cake and maple-syrup supper that delighted the boys and girls around the table, and age.

Mrs. Bailey looks forward with keen delight to the annual visit of the Women's Institute Society of the United Church, of which she is a member. Members call on her at her residence at her birthday in February, and she enjoys every minute of the meeting.

She is eagerly anticipating visiting Madoc Sunday and Monday on the occasion of the Old Boys' Reunion celebrations being held in that village.

Interested in Current Events

She takes a keen interest in current events, and discusses them with relatives. She has never had a serious illness in her life. Her husband died in 1918. Bailey died in 1918.

At the present time there are 63 members of her immediate family. There was a time when the different branches, bringing their turkeys and "trimmins" with them, converged on one household for the family Christmas dinner. But the practice her exceeded forty, the practice was stopped due to dining room shortage.

There are five generations of the Bailey family living, and all are of the eight sons and daughters of this grand old lady, four sons are still alive. They are Gibson Bailey, Cooper; Thomas and Harold Bailey, Madoc; Albert Bailey of Madoc; Charles of Roslin; Fred, Marmora; Mrs. Ernest Hillis, Manitoba and Mrs. Elizabeth Rollins, Belleville. She has 24 grandchildren 30 great-grandchildren and one great-great grandchild.

Sons Still "The Boys"

Mrs. Bailey still considers her sons the boys. Evidence of her mental alertness and ability to get around was seen in the latest writer's interview with her. She asked her third son, Mr. Herbert Bailey to go upstairs and get a photograph of his late father.

"It is in one of the drawers in the bureau in my bedroom," she directed him. There came the sound of drawers opening and closing, then Mr. Bailey called, said "are you sure you put it there?"

"Certainly, I am sure," Mrs. Bailey said in a tone reminiscent of those days long ago when disciplinary action was necessary. "Come on downstairs and I'll come up and get it myself." She did.

ing for crop-destroying bears to put in appearance.

In those days, transportation provided a problem. The doctor lived in Madoc some distance away, and at times was unobtainable. Very few cases in that vicinity, maternity and otherwise had a doctor's care.

Used Home-made Medicines

These, sturdy women of the era provided their own medicine and care. For a cough, the caustic juice of a piece of cedar and swab the disease out of the children's throats," Mrs. Bailey said. Her favorite remedy for that disease among boys get up in the Spring was a hot bath in which budding cedar boughs had been placed. That usually proved a cure.

They went to the woods and gathered supplies of sarsaparilla, burdock, wild cherry, dandelions, sassang roots and slippery elm bark. From these they made the "medicine," not very tasty to boyish palates perhaps but effective, nevertheless.

Many women of today aren't much good along that line," Mrs. Bailey said. "When they have babies they go to hospital and then don't want to touch their children. Half the young ones of today would be a lot better if they were raised as they did the Lord provided."

Mrs. Bailey recalled the time when the dread black diphtheria spread death among the residents of the district settlement. The Blaisheny family lost eight of their ten children in a little over a week. Two died in one day—and when they got back from burying them they found another dead."

Farmers made crude coffins out of their own lumber. The little corpses were taken to the burying ground in lumber wagons.

Helped in Fields

Raising a family, and feeding it, however was but part of the duties of the women of Mrs. Bailey's youth. In the Spring she followed her husband in the fields, dragging the new earth with harrow and horses as he sowed by hand ahead of her. In the Autumn she stooked grain, and "mowed away" in haying time.

With neighbors she trudged seven miles to pick berries. Every summer a plentiful supply of this fruit was "laid by" and dried. Delicious jellies and maple syrup were eagerly anticipated by growing children in winter time.

On one occasion when Mrs. Bailey was picking berries she found a "pretty stone near a bush." She admired it for a moment, then put it in a basket. It she secreted it in the bush foliage. She didn't know at the time she was being watched. A little later a man who had observed her picking at the stone, strolled by the bush, glanced furtively about him and took the stone. The "stone" was a piece of rich gold bearing quartz and some later Mr. Craig Gold Mine opened up in that vicinity.

Disapproved of Smoking

Mrs. Bailey, a staunch Methodist in her younger days, hewed straightly to the religious line. She did not believe in dancing, cards or smoking. Her six stalwart sons never were burned when found by their mother. Occasionally, after the family grew up they tried to "put one over" by smoking themselves in one room and puffing the weed. But they didn't fool "Ma." They knew it and their well-known step ascending the stairway—and that they had put out the evidence of smoking partly.

Asked for a bromidic question, newspapermen usually put to elderly people as to their recipe for longevity, etc. Mrs. Bailey answered, quite sharply, too,

MINISTER DEFENDS

The name of Hon. T. C. Davis, member of the Saskatchewan Bench and Caledonian High Court Judge to Australia now home on leave pending retirement, was brought into the debate on a section dealing with the granting of pensions to judges who have left the bench to take other public duties.

Mr. Diefenbaker said this would permit a judge after a few years on the bench to accept a diplomatic post at high remuneration and then return to his judicial post in time to obtain full pension benefits.

He referred specifically to the case of Mr. Justice Davis, who, he said, was reported to be in line for appointment to another diplomatic post following his retirement from the judiciary. Previous Made

Mr. St. Laurent said that in the case of Mr. Justice Davis the government provided that when he retired eventually from the service he would be in the same position as if he were retiring from the bench and would receive full pension rights.

A. M. Nicholson (CCF-Comox-Alberni) said the provision would put the entire Canadian judiciary in a bad light.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said he agreed with Mr. Diefenbaker's argument against the section.

Mr. St. Laurent finally agreed to reconsider the provision and said he would report next week.

He said the section under discussion was based on a provision made by the former Progressive Conservative Administration in 1931 when Mr. Justice C. P. Fullerton of the Manitoba Supreme Court was appointed chief railway commissioner and it was decided to give him the benefit of the judicial pension.

The final clean-up of the budget resolutions, Acting Finance Minister Abbott made a minor amendment to the premium tax on unemployment insurance companies, other than life insurance companies, to meet recommendations made during his presentation of the budget.

He declined to meet requests that the training pay of members of the reserve army be exempt.

However, sums paid into regimental funds will be deductible for tax purposes.

Mr. Abbott announced an order-in-council had been passed to provide that veterans' preference and ancillary service pensioned need not pay income tax on 1943 income if they live outside the western hemisphere. For 1945, 1944 and 1945, one-fifth of their pay and allowances will be made tax exempt.

He said he could not accept opposition suggestions made earlier that farmers and fishermen be allowed to average their income over a five-year period, rather than the three-year period provided in the resolutions. The extension of the three-year averaging scheme would work out best.

Requests for greater tax relief for old dependables were made by Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary West), Gerry Jackman (PC-Toronto Rosedale), J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Muskoka-Ontario) and Earl Rowe (PC-Dufferin-Simcoe) but Mr. Abbott said the government would go no further this year than already was provided.

British Accept U.S. and Russian Plans for Control

London, Aug. 3 (CP)—Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker announced in Parliament yesterday that British Government accepted both the United States and Russian plans for control of atomic energy.

He said there appeared to be no conflict between the plans and the divergent elements in the Canadian ideas should be fused into one.

"The British Government says both plans," he said during a debate in the House of Commons on atomic energy, "They believe that they need to be fused" and that the "practicable scheme" would be evolved.

(The American plan, presented by Bernard M. Baruch before the United Nations Security Council, proposed that all countries waive the veto right on atomic matters and allow U.N. inspections within their boundaries on atomic energy matters. The Russians rejected both ideas, insisting that advances in atomic energy be developed in the United States at an initial cost of $2,000,000,000 with the help of British scientists and Canadian raw materials—as created exclusively in the U.N.)

Mr. Noel-Baker said the Russian plan to outlaw the manufacture and use of atomic energy for military purposes did not appear to conflict with the American plan.

He said the American plan for an international authority to own and control the world's atomic raw materials was "a tremendously revolutionary proposal" and "there has been nothing like it in history before."

Mr. Noel-Baker said the United States Government had told the countries had settled the technical side of the atomic bomb "and are now at political decisions."

He did not mention the controversial veto feature.

Rain Gives Hope To Men Fighting N. B. Forest Fires

Moncton, N.B., Aug. 3—(CP)—Eastern New Brunswick's weary fire-fighters found new hope today in the prospect of rain to drench the tinder-dry forests, aflame since last Sunday.

A light rain fell for a short time during the night, but the downpour that was needed to stop the fires. Weather forecasters predicted, however, that showers would continue until Sunday.

Whether the rain would be enough to check or put out the fires which have blackened 50 square miles of timber and menaced as close as five miles to this railroad centre, was problematical today.

Meanwhile, the appeal had gone out for more volunteers to help with the battle as efforts were redoubled to fight the flames and reinforcements were sent off to fight new outbreaks elsewhere.

The appeal was made by Chief Forester G. L. Miller who said that as no one time have more than 500 men been at work on the fires.

Although provincial laws give Rangers the authority to press persons nearby for aid, the flames have been fought into stronger and puffing the weed. But they didn't fool "Ma." They knew it and their well-known step ascending the stairway—and that they had put out the evidence of smoking partly.

World Looks to Paris

"The long suffering of the world, the patient waiting of the people, the anxiety of the weak, the immense hope of plain men of good heart are turned today toward us to ask us to set aside forever the evil omens of unhappiness forecast so often by the prophets and to found in mutual understanding, at the service of justice and liberty, a world delivered from the plague that has become every as time passes — I mean war. We have all suffered in trying to banish it. It is now time to begin to succeed."

In those words President Bidault of France gave welcome to the delegates of the Allied and friendly nations for the first great conference to decide the establishment of the post-war world. It was fitting that in France the second great effort to establish peace securely in the world should be made. The President of France said, "for the second time in less than thirty years, it is in France that the international assises are being held at which the victorious nations of a terrible war are attempting to establish peace." He noted that the conferences after the signing of 1914-1918 "proposed to the world, solutions that did not hinder the breaking out of a new, longer and more terrible war less than twenty-five years afterward." The twenty-five years of the future was that two great powers who had taken a decided part in the conquest of arms remained on the sidelines during the solution of the peace.

But he added, this cause of weakness, without a doubt a decisive one, no longer exists today" for "all the democratic nations participate in the debate." This international concert exists now on and into this conference. France, he said hopes to see the object completed by the admission of the nations still absent, notably those in Europe "as soon as these nations live according to the rules of liberty."

Premier Bidault uttered words which appeal to the world, "I am certain all of us will undertake the examination with the desire to find if not perfect solutions, at least intelligent solutions that are contrary neither to justice nor honor and are capable of providing this section of the world with so long tragically suffered, with the elements of peace, of which it has such an imperative need."

He sounded the note of optimism, saying that "the French Government is certain that the conference, fully conscious of its responsibilities, will succeed in the heavy task before it."

He had spoken of the French attitude of the need for free discussion for the hearing of all opinions. On Thursday the Greek delegation brough forward a proposal to open the conference to all questions pertaining to the draft of the Italian treaty and the Italian Foreign Minister accepted the principle and brought in an amendment to that effect.

Teaching Germans Democracy

In order to teach German politicians, administrators and students how democracy works, twenty-four experts are to be sent from England shortly to conduct courses of lectures and discussions throughout the British zone. These experts will be divided into twelve teams, one academic lecturer, one councillor and two local government officials. Interpreters will be attached to each team and a glossary of technical local government terms is being prepared for use at the courses. The latter will last three days each, and will be attended by selected officials and students, both men and women. A hundred and fifty students will attend the first course to be held at Bielefeld, in Westphalia.

The subjects most likely to be dealt with are the relationship between state-salaried officials and elected representatives, committee and council procedure, and the co-operation of political parties in local government. The students will be allowed to discuss all the subjects freely. It is hoped that more teams will be free to tour the zone later in the year.

The importance of this development is underlined by the fact that in the autumn German citizens in the British zone will enjoy the right of exercising a secret vote in local government elections for the first time for thirteen years. A limited form of representative government began in the zone last autumn, with the appearance of nominated local councils, which early this year had covered the whole zone. These councils consist of members selected by the military government as far as possible in accordance with local opinion.

When plans for regularly elected councils were first mooted a difficulty arose over the method of disfranchising Germans with Nazi associations. This question has now been satisfactorily settled. Not rather less than three quarter of a million Germans in the British zone will be disqualified from appearing on the electoral register and a larger number will be debarred from standing as candidates.

The operation of the electoral procedure will be entrusted to the Germans. The latter being apprehensive of any method whereby the manner of voting could be established after the event by the election officers, have devised a scheme for eliminating the human element, which the British authorities have accepted. (In the United Kingdom ballot papers are numbered on the back and on the counterfoil to enable the regularity of disputed votes to be checked in the courts if necessary, and reliance is therefore placed on the integrity of the election officers.)

While the Germans are thus being weaned to democracy, the British Control Commission staffs are being continually under review in pursuance of the policy of moving as quickly as possible from more or less direct control to indirect control as the German administrations function more and more efficiently. This is a gradual process, dependent on many factors and the target figure of a twenty-five percent. reduction in the control staffs to which the British authorities are working will not probably be reached in any case before the spring of 1947.

Fireproof Forests

"Fireproof forests" are set as the aim of a current Quebec campaign against forest fires, by Hon. John S. Bourque, Provincial Minister of Lands and Forests.

In a statement to the Canadian Forestry Association, Mr. Bourque stresses the need of protecting every acre of potential timber wealth, noting that the value of forest products is rising in the face of a world scarcity.

In order to make our forests fireproof, co-ordination of federal and provincial prevention programs, and those developed by private corporations, is necessary, he said.

Forest conservation propaganda is properly aimed at the public, whose carelessness is responsible for many destructive fires, but it should also take into account the need for this co-ordination.

History of Nuernberg Trials

The London Times reports that an authoritative British history of the Neurnberg trials is to be written by John W. Wheeler-Bennett and Patrick Maitland, formerly members of the British Prosecuting Team, and now working in the Foreign Office. The project has the support of the Foreign Office and the Attorney General, who has promised to contribute the introduction.

These trials and the outcome will have the greatest importance for the world and the future in view of the great principle involved.

Housing Failure in Russia

There are some people in this country who think that the way to overcome the housing shortage is to adopt the Russian system under which the government lays out a program and assigns workers to do the job. For their benefit we call attention to a Pravda editorial, broadcast by the Moscow radio, which complains that the construction of new homes is lagging far behind schedule.

LAKE BREEZE

Breeze from the land
Is dry as sand
Under the blazing sun.
Wind from the west
Seems sick with toil
And dusty where the furrows run.

Breeze from the town
Seems laden down
With heat from the forge and mill.
Wind from the street
Bears nothing sweet
To comfort the faint and ill.

Breeze from the lake,
Where white caps break,
Comes in to the fevered shore
As it ne'er had been
In a place unclean,
With a blessing for rich and poor.

PROVINCES CHOOSE EARLY FLOWERS AS OFFICIAL EMBLEMS

By ALAN RANDAL,
Canada Press Staff Writer

About now, along the railway right-of-way, and on the road allowances the lilium philadelphicum, sindinum is spreading its orange petals over the Saskatchewan prairies, last of the official flower emblems of Canada's provinces to bloom.

The lilium philadelphium sindinum, for short, is up on the botanical names, is nothing more or less than the prairie lily, commonly known as the tiger lily, deep orange, dark-brown-spotted and prolific in some parts of the prairies.

Long under the Manitoba flower emblem has faded in this year of 1946—the delicate, pale-mauve crocus which earlier this year made a purple carpet on the Manitoba prairies from the Manitoba border clear through to the Rockies and on into them wherever the railway went. It was given as its right of way allowed grass to grow or a mountain cute.

Altogether six of the nine provinces have official flower emblems—and in Nova Scotia the official flower has found its way into the coat of arms. That flower is the trailing arbutus, the waxy-flowered, woodland harbinger of spring in the Maritimes.

Ontario too adopted a spring flower, the trillium, which is native to the pink or white and is native to the woodlands, one of the first flowers to push up after winter has gone for good.

Alberta Wild Rose

In Alberta the wild rose (rosa acicularis), one of the most pressed floral emblem by an act passed by the Alberta Legislature in 1930. The children of the foothills province made the choice. Asked for their vote for color, the wild rose, pink, five-petalled, hardy and prolific, became the most popular flower in the province. Mostly one finds it growing during the unpredictable alone the railway tracks, or more lush and wild in the bush, or along meadow fences, and few Western farm people but remember the July scent of newmown hay and the wild rose.

New Brunswick, the other province with an official flower emblem has chosen the purple, other spring flower native to low-lying damp country, particularly woodlands where it comes in yellow, violet and white.

Quebec, Saskatchewan and British Columbia have yet to choose emblems. On the Pacific Coast province natives have a solid choice of the dogwood flower of the dogwood tree. For a time it was the wood tree. For a time it was popular, but it grew out down, in such numbers that warnings were issued that the dogwood flower might become extinct if picked too relentlessly.

Ontario's trillium is a member of the lily family, one of the most widespread flowers in North America and Eastern Asia. It is a smooth, unbranched stem, a shiny, simple conspicuous flower of three sepals, three petals, six stamens and a three-celled ovary. The wake-robin and the nodding trillium are handsome spring flowers, are close relatives.

The persons employed in the trailing arbutus has been lost in antiquity, but it was described in 1901 under legislation introduced by Premier Roblin. It is evergreen because Massachusetts in that year wanted to adopt as its official state emblem.

Said Longfellow: "It would be lamentable if rich and powerful Massachusetts were to steal the little wax flower of ours."

Before the last snow has melted in the prairies, engulfing even the wooded places of Nova Scotia and it appears in the Rockies and it appears on the Scots who came to a new land—in the provincial seal is the figure of Joseph Howe, in a poem to the Mayflower said "Scotland sent many a rose, but France sent Her—the Mayflower.

REVIEW OF INCOMPATIBILITY

In the doctor business there is no physical or chemical incompatibility—yes when a solution of iron is mixed with tannic acid, a astringent liquid—an inky substance precipitates and alarms the patient although it is often quite harmless as before the two were mixed. Then there is therapeutic or physiological incompatibility—as in a combination of medicines that counteract each other, as in that familiar old horse medicine, the ABS tablet or pill, used regularly or habitually by so many misguided folk. The combination of aloes or aloin with belladonna (atropine) in that physic would be ridiculous if it were not so injurious to the poor dupes who take it to prevent what they have been led to believe is "autointoxication". The horse medicine purges, irritates and causes pelvic congestion, the belladonna tends to prevent griping. Unfortunately the belladonna tends to prevent the natural digestive functions from proceeding, for four or more hours after the medicine is taken. But fortunately again, the action of the belladonna is over and past within four hours, and the stomach gets over it more, it is only a few hours later that the same medicine begins to gripe.

So there you are, in the throes of great gripes and no relief, but to give succour. This is no time to remind you, I know, but is my duty as your friend to point out that griping, however uncomfortable, is the most efficient effect of this horse medicine. The derangement of the physiological functions of the digestive tract and the irritation and congestion of the pelvic organs by frequent or habitual going with aloes or aloin cause the main reasons why any one with regard for his or her health will leave such medicine alone, that is, all of that sort medicine—to the veterinarians.

For that matter, I am not a "specialist" nor an "authority" about anything, and I never say any fact, child or adult should receive or receive or take any kind of medicine to "regulate" the bowel. If my belief and opinion about this strikes you, Mr. and Mrs. Wiseacre and all the little Wiseacres, as incompatible with the old holism bunkum on which your were raised, it can do you no harm to send me a clean dime-bar and it pay do you a lot or harm, if, instead of using the glue or other sticky stuff on it—and a stamped self addressed envelope for the booklet "The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Your "concensus of medical opinion" rifles me. Our English teacher at least disapproves of it. Does it mean Say just concensus of the medical profession or opinions of the medical physicians, but please do not say "concensus of doctors." (F.C.)

Answer—I never do. Your English teacher was right, but your spelling teacher will be disappointed. The word is consensus and it means general agreement. I beg to submit that in your letter to columnist the expression article on digitalis "the exposition of myself" is a little duplication which is a wrong mistake.

(K.V.F.)

Answer—Webster's No. 4 definition of myself: For emphatic at apposition; as, "I, myself, will do it." So date I myself, am the only physician who flatteringly sound my medical value of digitalis—and I'm afraid I am.

Does the sun put out fire?

Literature contains numerous references to the common belief that sunshine has a tendency to put out fire. Atmospheric conditions being equal, mouldy wood burns more slowly in sunshine than in darkness. Experiments all point to the conclusion that a fire burns more slowly and produces less flame and heat in sunlight because the rays of the sun absorb the light from the flame.

Why are longshoremen so called?

"Longshoremen" is a corruption of the "along-shore-men." Stevedores (from Spanish "estivador," meaning packer) are so called because they were employed about the interves of ships to pack the cargo. Boatswain's mate or mate of the beach. Buckingham in England is believed to have designed its name originally from the great number of beech trees then growing there.

What is a buckeye?

The slaughter of a large number of victims by a single blade is a hecatomb. Literally the term means "sacrifice of oxen." In Greek mythology the hecatomb was the sacrifice of a hundred oxen as a god at one time.

Why is a patrol wagon or prison van called a Black Maria?

"Black Maria," the colloquial name of the enclosed vehicle in which arrested persons are taken to jail, is of undetermined origin. It is not even known for certain whether it originated in America or England, for it is common throughout the English-speaking world. Many stories have been advanced to account for its origin, the most generally accepted of these being as follows:

A negress named Marth Lee but familiarly called Maria Lee kept a boarding house in Boston in the early years of the 19th century. She was a large, strong and fearless woman who frequently aided the police in overpowering obstreperous sailors and packing them off to jail. Her services were so frequently called out in the neighborhood the naval and police wagons were dubbed Black Maria. She became such a common figure in these unpleasant episodes that her nickname became attached to black wagons used by the officers in carrying away offenders.

This story, the several others seeking to explain the same term, is merely without etymological support and may have been made up out of whole cloth. Patrol wagons were in use at one time were almost universally painted black. The so-called Black Marias regardless of their color.

Negro Butler Confesses Rape, Slaying Crime

Minocola, N.Y., Aug. 3 — (AP) — Capt. Stuyvesant Pinnell, Chief of Nassau county detectives, said Ward Beecher Carsway, 23-year-old Negro butler and chauffeur, confessed yesterday the saying of socialite-minded Mrs. Marjory Clarkson Logan, 52, and raping and slashing her daughter, Marjory, 21.

Pinnell said the confession came Friday morning after a night of questioning. Carsway maintained he knew nothing of the crime although he had been identified by Mrs. Logan as the man who had slain her mother and attacked her in their luxurious Flower Hill home on Long Island's north shore.

Carsway was arrested Thursday night in the Southold summer home of Manhattan physician, Joseph M. Rose, neighbor of the Logans in Flower Hill, was formally booked on a charge of murder.

WEDDINGS

FRASER—LOUGHEED

The first wedding ever to be performed in Shannonville United Church took place today when Sadie Isobel, only daughter of the late Henry R. Lougheed, became the bride of George Markland Fraser, Shannonville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fraser. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, minister of the Shannonville Church. The church was banked with ferns and baskets of summer flowers. Mrs. Harry Sine, church organist, played at the organ and Mr. Keith Lougheed, brother of the bride, sang "Through the Years".

Given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. R. A. MacColman, Greenhurst, the bride was charming in a gown of white lace over taffeta with fitted bodice and full skirt and lace mitts. Her full length veil was caught to a heart shaped halo and she wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of red Butterfly roses and lily of the valley. Attending the bride were Mrs. Paul Hadley, sister of the groom, Belleville, and Miss Ina Breton, and Mrs. Keith Lougheed, Belleville. Each wore a floor length set over taffeta with matching floral headdresses and shoulder length veils. Mrs. Hadley's of pink and Mrs. Lougheed's of blue. Both attendants carried old-fashioned nosegays.

Preceding the bride and her attendants was little Miss Diane Lougheed, niece of the bride, scattering rose petals from a dainty basket she carried. Her floor length gown was of yellow crepe de chine.

Mr. Weston Fraser, Sherbrooke, P.Q., was groomsman and ushers were Messrs. Jack and Elgin Lougheed, brothers of the bride, and Clifford Simpson, cousin of the bride, Midland, Ont.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in a Belleville tea room, where the bride's table was centred with a three tiered wedding cake with white accessories and a centre piece of red roses. For motoring to western Ontario and later to Nova Scotia, the bride chose a navy suit with fuchsia accessories and silver fox furs, with a corsage of roses. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will take up residence in Little Narrows, Cape Breton.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Midland, Toronto, Ottawa, Sherbrooke, N.S., Pembroke and Little Narrows.

GRAHAM—STOLIKER

On Saturday, July 27, at 1 p.m. the Rev. J. W. Hoxton united in marriage Nora Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stoliker, and Morley H. Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graham, in the parsonage of Tabernacle Church.

The bride was lovely in a street length dress of grey crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. She was attended by her sister, Miss Irene Stoliker, who wore ice blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ronald Graham.

For the wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls the bride wore a linen dress of huggage tan with brown accessories. Later the young couple will go to Brockville where the groom is attending R. I.

McKIBBON — SCOTT

In Holloway St. United Church on Wednesday, July 31st., at 3.30 p.m., a lovely mid-summer wedding took place when Helen Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Scott, Belleville, became the bride of Joseph Nelson, son of Mr. J. Nelson and the late Mrs. Nelson of Mr. J. E. McKibbon, of Trenton, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. A. Myers, assisted by an altar banked with gladioli and ferns. Mr. James Bedder sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "When You Walk" during the signing of the register.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mr. Alec Gordon. Her floor length gown had a satin bodice fashioned with a drop shoulder line and skirt flaring short, she prefers fairly high heeled court shoes and likes them to match the dress worn in the evening she is fond of tulle crinoline dresses.

On most occasions her jewellery consists of a diamond brooch and four ropes of pearls, the largest of which belonged to Queen Anne.

In the country she wears tweeds and she spends a lot of time gardening. Her favorite flowers are roses and lilies.

She enjoys being alone with her family more than anything and is devoted to her daughters. Both she and Queen Mary have a great interest in their education and up-bringing.

It was Queen Elizabeth who decided that the Princesses should have a young governess to teach them French and not to send them to a school.

She has won a great reputation for her charm, and deserves it. She has the knack of putting everyone at ease.

She has tact, a keen sense of humour, and a genius always to like the people she meets.

She enjoys films. One of her favorite comedy combinations is "Mr and My Girl." She is very fond of Fred Astaire's film "The Lambeth Walk", and has it played often at dances.

Although the Queen spent most of her childhood in Scotland, she is country she does not ride, or shoot. Neither does she play golf.

She does, however, enjoy playing tennis, and is seen taking the dogs out in the grounds of Windsor Castle or Holyrood, the family home in Windsor Park. When it is raining she likes to play on the tennis court in a macintosh hood over her hair.

What the Queen Is Really Like

Intimate Sketch of Queen Elizabeth Who Celebrates Her Birthday on Sunday

By a Friend

(Copyright, London Express)

On society men standing next to me in the crowd outside Buckingham Palace as the King and Queen came out on the balcony on VE night said scathingly: "I wonder what the Queen is really like." Let me try to tell you.

Starting with her appearance. She is a beautiful brunette, by complexion, vivid blue eyes and dark hair which is naturally curly but which is parted in the centre.

She has won a great reputation for her charm, and deserves it. She has the knack of putting everyone at ease.

She has tact, a keen sense of humour, and a genius always to like the people she meets.

She enjoys films. One of her favorite comedy combinations is "Me and My Girl." She is very fond of Fred Astaire's film "The Lambeth Walk", and has it played often at dances.

Although the Queen spent most of her childhood in Scotland, she is country she does not ride, or shoot. Neither does she play golf.

She does, however, enjoy playing tennis, and is seen taking the dogs out in the grounds of Windsor Castle or Holyrood, the family home in Windsor Park. When it is raining she likes to play on the tennis court in a macintosh hood over her hair.

V.O.N. News

Summer, bringing more leisure for children in the household, is an excellent time for mothers to consult their own doctors about having their own children vaccinated against diphtheria. No child should be denied this protection which should be given as early as the doctor advises. Parents are those who have not as yet been given toxoid taken to their doctor as soon as possible so that when they return for school will have had the benefits of this health measure.

Parents are reminded of the conscious of the necessity of such preventive measures and modern methods are so thoroughly in favor of using every possible precaution to ensure the good health of their children that toxiod is a "must" in the baby's first six months old. Of course, the advice of their doctor is taken in connection regarding the proper time to have this done.

Mothers are being their babies regularly to the Child Welfare Centre are constantly advised by the Victorian Order Nurses regarding their responsibility in this matter but those with older children, who have not had toxoid, should not lose any time in visiting their doctor so that their children will be spared a dread

Lee Henning Disqualified When He Uses Morgan's Head For Battering Ram on Ring

Bockwinkle and Davis Battle to 30-Minute Draw While Dunlop Loses to Sharpe on Foul

Lee, "The Scowl" Henning pulled a new one out of his wide bag of villainous wrestling tricks at the Hiram Arena Friday night. Heretofore, he has confined himself to battering the opposition to defeat by various ways and means, illegitimate and otherwise, but his Friday night sox-in-the-hole was a decidedly different angle.

In fact he went one step further; a step out of a pachydermic Carry Nation, only he used Tear Morgan's noggin instead of an axe, and that led to his disqualification.

He had been treated to some neat but severe punishment in the first half when an inspired Morgan batted him all over the ring, played at the "Scowl's" favorite "Game of Gouge," a simple trick, you merely point two fingers at the foe's eyes, and when that seduces white, you push—until he sees what is going on behind his back, and when the fall is air, natural.

Wins Second Fall

"The Scowl" heavily sailing, won the second fall after nineteen minutes of mayhematic skullduggery, which included the introduction of perhaps a yard of gravel right up when he made his periodic out-of-the-ring patrols, and not being able to be firmly massaged into the Morgan optics.

But he hadn't things exactly his own way all the time. The announcer had him at his own game times and again, outpacing him on several occasions, and at one time engaged him at an informal slugging match outside the ropes, when Referee Ernie Powers talked to himself in figures up to seven.

About twenty minutes of the third heat had passed with "The Scowl" getting the worst of the exchanges. Morgan, full of wim and vigour, pursued and shunt the blood-hatred lowan all over the place, played ring-around-a-rosie with him, and belted him in all parts of his anatomy.

Tee Maneuvers

This sort of thing gets monotonous after a while to pachydermus of the Henning ilk. Disappointed when a fan removed some of his secret ammunition from stop a ring-post when the Scowl, had surreptitiously placed it, Henning dug deep into the near-bag and pulled out the grunt-and-groan atomic bomb.

It was simple, but effective. He grasped the Morgan noggin with both hands, tucked it, like a football, under his arm, "undercut with his arm" and charged for the ring-post in the farthest corner.

Several times Henning tried to break up the ring, fighting no doubt, the Arena needed a new one anyway, with Morgan's head as battering ram against the post. But the posts withstood the bony onslaught. They refused to move for the Henning-propelled Marine Sergeant.

Then a dizzy but determined Morgan took a hand in things. He battered and slatted Le Henning all over the canvas, and finally with a bewildering surge, plucked him willy-nilly to a spot a scarce foot from the front row of ringside customers, and then he made his mistake.

Mass a Mistake.

He followed the crafty Henning through the ropes and the two slugged it out for a minute or so.

Then "The Scowl" again got that Anne Boleyn hold and charged for the ring-post. Morgan, full of verve, twice, the Morgan noggin bounced off the hard wood. Morgan was dizzy, groggy, but not quite groggy enough that he forgot to use his head. The first failed and then disqualification followed immediately. The Scowl had not moved an inch.

Warren Bockwinkle and Kent Davis battled for thirty minutes to a draw in a bout that ranked with one of the best seen here in some time. Davis pounded at the Bock several times in the first few minutes — then the Bock sprang to life. The result was Bock had Davis groggy with a fine, fast, aggressive bout with plenty of action. Referee Clifford Fox handled the first two bouts.

Al "Boom" Dunlop, who punched handsome Mike Sharpe's nose to beat that lad to bled profusely, lost the referee's decision when he started to cut up out-of-the-ring tactics with the referee. During Sharpe's up to his old tricks, and again drew the ire of the faithful with his villainous methods. Referee Clifford Fox handled the first two bouts.

Al Clark Still Leading Int. League Hitters

New York, Aug. 3 — (AP) — Al Clark, injured Newark Bears outfielder, kept his hold on the batting crown at the plate during the last week and went hitless but still widened his leadership in the International League's individual batting derby as runner up Ed Robinson of Baltimore failed to get to the ring during the week during the seven-day span.

Including games of Wednesday, Clark owned a .363 mark while Robinson was moving up by virtue of getting the hard-hitting first sacker of the Orioles back into the fold with .131, and runs batted in 82.

Jackie Robinson, Montreal's Negro infielder, was third among the top 10 who have been batting .300 or better for the plate with a .352 figure.

Red Rolfe, speed demon of the Royals, continued to pace the parade in total bases with 51 and runs scored 82.

Howitzer Howie Moss of Baltimore, the loop's most valuable player in 1944, broke the deadball hex that existed over him and Buffalo's Jack McHale for home-run honors by shooting 3 during the week to increase his total to 25. Moss has 82.

Newark's veteran reliefer, Alex Mustakis, held on to the pitching honors with a 6-0 hot record.

TORONTO LEAFS TAKEN BY ORIOLES IN DOUBLE BILL

Catcher Sherman Lollar Noisy in Final Contest

(By The Associated Press)

At the rate citizens of Baltimore are flocking to Municipal Stadium to witness the doings of the International League baseball, the management would be better off if they replaced the present rickety turnstiles with revolving doors in order to facilitate the handling of the large turnouts.

The paid total now is 433,773. With 12,850 spectators cheering them on, the Orioles took both ends of a twin bill from Toronto Maple Leafs last night to move over Syracuse Chiefs into the runner-up spot in the standings.

Veteran Johnny Podgajny twirled the Orioles to a two-hit 3-0 win in the opener while in the nightcap, Bill Starr helped the Leafs 10-7.

Catcher Sherman Lollar was the big noise in the finale. The youthful receiver belted his 20th homer and his third with the bases loaded since re-joining the Orioles in late June to highlight Baltimore's victory. In the liddler, Lollar also tallied a double and ninth round-tripper of the season.

Syracuse dropped a 7-5 10-inning decision to the third place Buffalo Bisons but the Chiefs dingled in the winning markers in the ninth.

Montreal's front-running Royals divided a double-header with last-place Jersey City Giants, winning the opener 6-5 on Cal Ermer's ninth inning single. They went the route to gain his 19th win of the year. Johnny Grasso, who hit for the circuit against Nagy, delivered the game in the second contest by creaming a circuit drive with the sacks jammed.

The seventh place Rochester Red Wings managed to exhibit a game and a half of Toronto as rookie pitcher John Mikan tossed the Wings to a five-hit 3-0 conquest over Jersey City. Vernal Wolfgang Jones paced the Red Wings attack on Walt Dropo by driving home four hits in 5 trips to the plate.

CBC Chairman Defends Action Before Committee

Ottawa, Aug. 3 (CP)— A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, Friday defended before the Commons Radio Committee the corporation's policy in compliance with the wishes of parliament and suggested the full amount of the $2.50 licence fee be made available to the national radio system.

It had been estimated that cost of administration by the licensing authority—the Transport Department—would be about CBC dues of $2.

Last year the CBC would have gained an extra $321,818 in revenue if it had received the collection charges, he said, totalling in all the thirty-odd stations in operation now or soon to be in operation.

1. Negotiations for the transfer of station CKCY, Winnipeg, owned by the Manitoba provincial government, to the CBC will be taken up "as soon as there is time."

2. The CBC would like to extend the operation of the Dominion network to daytime hours.

3. The power of the one kilowatt CBC station at Montreal, Que., must be raised to 10 kilowatts.

4. The question of a station in the Windsor, Ont., area is being considered.

5. The CBC proposed that it be allowed to borrow more than the statutory $500,000 limit so that it can carry out television projects needed in the next few years and left in abeyance during the war.

Should Own Powered Station

Replying to the suggestions made previously before the committee by representatives of private interests, Mr. Dunton said it had been a basic radio principle of radio in Canada for the last 18 years that all high-powered stations should be owned by the national system.

In the event of the shift of the CFRB frequency in Toronto, Mr. Dunton referred to the need for finding a high-powered outlet for the key station of the Dominion network—CFRC. This station was needed to carry out the policy which called for alternative programs for Canadian listeners. And there was a dense population in the Toronto area.

The possibility of higher power in the future was another reason why this clear channel must be used by the national system. Since the 860 wavelength was the best possible class of channel available, some listeners in outlying districts would not be able to hear station CFRB on the new alternate frequency. But the station would continue to cover not only the Toronto area, but also a wide area some distance away.

No Desire to Steal

It had been suggested there was a desire to "steal" CFRB listeners. If this was the suggestion the corporation would be moving to expropriate the station.

All in Reverse, At Least So it's Stated Rotarians Kreaked—The Kreakers Rotated

A Fully Impartial, Unbiased Account By ROTARY JOE

"There was a sound of devilry pardon, revelry-by-night", and all of Rotary's Rotundas and Kiwanis' Kreakingest were there.

Even the Mayor, the bald old grey Mayor who left the municipal stable years ago, Rotarian Ellis Mullins, of the Mark and Pad Gang, who wears the lapel button of the Honorable Order of the Three Blind Mice, and who should thoughtfully sit among the asbestoids of horsehide as they clattered gaily in the general direction of the various battery; closed his eyes, prayed he was right and blanked down his decisions.

Striking a dramatic pose, he shouted in true Shakespearian style, "My opinion, right or wrong," little dreaming that he was paraphrasing a noted American patriot.

But to get back to the merry doings of this and mines, grunts and groans, runs and walks, giggles and chuckles, heaving abdomens and grating joints, the Kreaking Kreakers took 10th place to collect to play the ancient and honorable game of softball, repeated their traditional pilgrimage to the Round Rotarians in the Kreaking arena of Civic Centre Amphitheatre Friday night.

The score was the Kreaking K's 11 and ten per cent discount for not providing equipment; the Round R's 13.33 less 11½ per cent for using players who agreed contract with the Light Brigade when they played the Russians for the Balaclava champion ship in that Crimean incident some years ago.

Rotarians Lightly

The players, however, took the game lightly, the charge that Rotarian was dismissed by the Russians while a battle was being fought.

a move quite within the bounds of its authority. But there was no such attempt and the CBC was going to co-operate in quickly as possible with listeners become accustomed to CFRB's new spot on the dial.

The CBC also didn't want to take away any of CFRB's business nor did it want to take over the Columbia network affiliation.

an attractive blonde young lady, Miss Thalma Morgan.

The Kreakers also opened in their "An old Rotary trick" they growled. "They know we're gentlemen—and they what can we do?"

They did it. Hizzoner Mayor Frank (Charley Paddock) Follwell stepped to the plate a brilliant smile lighting up his features. "This" he inwardly told himself, "is where I prove I'm a gentleman. I'll swing at everything that looks like a ball, but not let the strikes go by."

Came a wide one, at least three feet outside the plate. His answer swung—and hit a threebagger.

Having a date with the milkman, this writer had to leave at this point, so the rest of the game must be left to the imagination of the reader.

Pigeon Racing Gets Under Way

The first race of the Trenton and District Pigeon Club was flown from Oshawa on the 28th of July. The birds were liberated at 6.45 p.m. Friday in clear sky with a slight breeze of about 5 miles an hour from the northwest. This was the first release in a month and no doubt it was just as confusing for the birds as it was exciting for the club members.

The first bird was reported in by Percy Robertson with a speed velocity of 1095.11 yards per minute, arriving at 7.30 p.m. The bird was a Red Check Cock bird, a fine looking specimen. The second bird was reported in by Rose Newton with a velocity of 1090.28 yards per minute. Another bird arrived 3-33 a.m. Third bird was reported by Walter Wentzcop of Belleville with a velocity of 836.88 yards per minute. Other birds were Warren Soules 823.33 yards per minute, Charlie Bishop 803.58 yards per minute, Art Simpson, 833.15 yards per minute, Bill Dennis, 797.41 yards per minute.

The next race August 4th., will leave from Oakville instead of Oshawa as originally planned. Details relative thereto will be in Sunday staff to release the birds from Oshawa on Monday. The Oakville will be a flight of 118 airlines miles and should produce some real excitement.

Welcome Sign Brings Crowds to Gay Dublin

By JOE DENNIGAN
Canadian Press Correspondent

Dublin (CP)—Huge Douglas aircraft is flying overhead. There is the noise of a Vickers Viking about to land at Collinstown Airport.

This is Dublin, a city of airplanes every few minutes, and of contrasting beauty, slums, squalor and all they bring in their train. But, we are getting on. We are almost in the front rank of Continental capitals.

In the British House of Commons the other day, members were grumbling about the things it takes to get a permit to visit Eire. Normally it takes three weeks, but Home Secretary Chuter Ede promises that there will be a speed-up.

There is plenty of food, drink and entertainment. Food is almost unlimited, provided you can get a hotel room. Drink? All the brands of Scotch you fancy. Jameson whiskey, Powers, Paddy Flaherty, and the finest vinages of Continental wines. You can get them all at half the prices of Britain or Northern Ireland.

Hotels are unable to cope with the demands for rooms.

The customers can be seen in all the smart lounges here, many of them in uniform from the Dominions.

Just now, we have a rush of New Zealanders, taking the place of the Australians.

We are a republic. Mr. de Valera said so in no mistakeable terms. But, we recognize our brethren from the other states of the Commonwealth.

Food is Rich

Our food is a trifle rich for newcomers from rationed countries. Hotel managers tell me that they have sometimes to call in the doctor to attend the over-eating guests.

Economists wonder where this orgy of reckless spending is going to lead us. Visitors are spending gaily, and paying us with British pound notes. We have £400,000,000 in the ledgers of the Bank of England, but we cannot buy an extra ounce of tea with it. All this tourist money is just waste paper until Britain recovers herself. Meanwhile, we are doing the best we can. The British have given us enough coal to enable a second train to be run every day. Bus services are to be improved.

Dublin lovers may like to know how the old spots are progressing. Well, the Abbey Players are on holiday. Most of their best actors and actresses have been enamored by Arthur Rank, who is making films in Britain, owns flour mills in Ireland, preaches Methodism on Sundays and for a million pounds has bought ninety per cent of our cinemas and theatres. But, the Abbey opens soon with a revival of "Professor Tim."

The Gate! Edwards and MacLiammoir are taking a peep at Paris. The Gaiety, one of the acquisitions of the Rank Empire, is pretty dead. The show "Bad Roose for Me." "Bad Roose" was a terrific success in London, but then, I'm not that anything can be a success there so long as playgoers remain permanently nine years old.

Davy Byrne's, a limerickalized by James Joyce in "Ulysses," is a smart lounge bar frequented by the demi-monde. It is all neon lighting and tubular chairs. The Dolphin's Barn Hall, dear to the heart of Sean O'Casey, still serves the best steaks after the pubs.

Graham Greene

The locally prominent slip into the Gresham for an afternoon sherry. Wynn's is full of cattle dealers and greyhound fanciers. The head waiter says he has his shirt on credit. The Times" for the Greyhound Derby.

At the Shelbourne, where they preserve the mid-victorian atmosphere, Sir Somebody is always having tea with Lady Somebody Else, but it is all so correct.

Down in Dawson Street, the Royal Hibernian is doing a roaring trade. Its Buttery is full of customers using last year's R. A. F. slang, and the overworked words: "Definitely," "frightfully," "positively," "actually," and "beauty" jar on the ears.

In the Kildare Street Club, veterans of Poona now read the "Irish Press" financial notes in preference to those of the London "Times". There is more money to be made on the Dublin Stock Exchange nowadays.

Yes, as an English visitor remarked to Lord Glenavy, Governor of the Bank of Ireland, the other day: "I've come over here, bought a castle and all that, to get away from these damned Socialists on the other side. Under Mr. 'de Valley-ra,' 'Airah' is the only country where a gentleman can live like a gentleman now."

That noise is the British Overseas Airways Anson going to Liverpool.

Britain Might Resign Mandate

London, Aug. 2 — (CP) — A Foreign Office spokesman said today he "would not deny" that Britain might resign her mandate over Palestine if current negotiations towards a settlement broke down.

He added that while he knew of no plan alternative to the present partition proposal "other ideas in a tentative form" might exist.

The spokesman would make no further comment on the possibility that Britain might resign the mandate given her by the League of Nations after the First Great War.

WANDERER IS RAJAH

The lord privy council rule that an Indian who wandered aimlessly as an amnesia victim for 12 years after being solved from a funeral pyre by a rainstorm is the Rajah Kumar Ramendra Narayan Roy. As rajah, the Indian is invaded the rightful owner of a huge estate with a yearly income of $400,000. The court dismissed the claim of the Ranee, since remarried, who asserted she had seen her husband cremated and that the wanderer was an imposter. Litigation originated in India many years ago and the final appeal heard by the three law lords in London lasted 29 days — one of the longest appeals in the history of the privy council. The Rajah, shown here, claimed that a terrific storm saved him by exting-uishing the funeral pyre in which he lay. Suffering loss of memory, he contended, he wandered like a tramp throughout India, regaining his memory suddenly after twelve years.

Consider Step To Recommend A Settlement Of Steel Strike

By JACK WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 3 — (CP) — The Conciliation Industrial Relations Committee is expected today to consider what action it should recommend toward a settlement of the 15-day strike affecting some 18,000 workers in three basic steel plants.

C. H. Millard, Canadian Director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) was undergoing questioning when the committee adjourned yesterday. Earlier in the day he had put before the committee the union's proposals for settlement of the strike in Algoma Steep Corp., Sault Ste. Marie; Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., Sydney, N.S., and Steel Co. of Canada, Hamilton.

Today the committee members finish their questioning of the union leader they are expected to turn to the question of what recommendation should be made to the Commons for settlement of the strike.

Actually the steel strike is only part of the committee's general assignment of investigating industrial unrest but it has held the spotlight since the committee started to work July 15.

One of the main things the committee will have to consider is the proposal Mr. Millard made yesterday. He told the committee that in place of its original demand of an increase of 19 1-2 cents-an-hour the National Advisory Committee of the union was prepared to urge the membership to accept 17 1-2 cents an hour, 10 cents retroactive to April 1, 2 1-2 cents Oct 1 and three cents Dec. 1.

In addition the union asked that effective in January the steelworkers receive an increase of one cent for each point the cost of living index had advanced since July 1.

While wages hold top place as an issue the question of union security is a contentious one in the Steel Co. of Canada. Originally the union asked a union shop requiring all employees to join the union. It now is prepared to accept the Rand formula which provides for payment of dues by all employees with actual membership on a voluntary basis.

While it has been generally anticipated that the settlement in the steel dispute will set the pattern for wage increases in Canada for two unions leaders yesterday made it clear that they did not consider the steel offer as high enough for their unions.

Cereal Ration Low in India

New Delhi (CP)—The vital long-term problem facing India in the matter of food supplies has been elucidated by D. R. Sethi, the government of India's agricultural commissioner, who says that with an increasing population and unexpanding production, consumption of cereals has progressively deteriorated so that the present level now has been reached.

The present Indian ration of cereals is 12 ounces or 1,500 calories per person per day, which is about half of the amount considered necessary to healthy life.

India's production of foodstuffs is in almost all cases much below the demand. India produces 60,000,000 tons of cereals annually, but needs 68,000,000; milk production is estimated at 23,000,000 tons, while 97,000,000 are needed; and the output of meat, fish and eggs must be quadrupled if the people are to have their barest needs.

Four Men Held On Theft Charges

Ottawa, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Police announced that four men were held in connection with thefts from railway cars which one investigator said had resulted in disappearance of "a large amount" of the clothing gathered together for UNRRA in a recent national drive to aid impoverished and shattered peoples of the world.

Brenton B. Harris, special investigator for the Canadian National Railways, said "unfortunately we cannot say exactly how much has been stolen but we have learned from preliminary investigation, that truck-loads of the stuff found its way down to a man in Orleans, Ont., where it was repacked and sent to Montreal to be sold."

As a climax to a night-long probe, city police announced they were holding on theft charges four truck drivers, Emile Beaudry, 32, his brother Joseph, 39, Omer G. Davis, 45, and Marcel Paquette, 27, all of Ottawa or its environs.

Police alleged that they were mixed up in a series of thefts from a siding of the C.N.R., a series one officer called "the meanest thefts of the century." They said at least eight more men would be picked up later.

60 Injured as Bus Crashes Through Stone Guard Rail

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—An estimated 60 persons were injured Friday, some seriously when a commuter bus crashed through a heavy stone railing at the Memorial Bridge spanning the Potomac River and landed upside down on a driveway 30 feet below.

The accident occurred at the peak of the morning rush hour a scant 100 yards from Lincoln Memorial, a favorite spot with Washington sightseers. The bus was enroute to Washington from Arlington, Va.

Police said they had no confirmation of an earlier report that one person was killed but added that reports still were coming in from hospitals.

Churchill's Words On Palestine Win Some Support

London, Aug. 3 — (CP)—Winston Churchill's blunt words in the House of Commons debate Thursday that the government should tell the United States that unless she shares the Palestine burden Britain would renounce the mandate and quit Palestine found some support, in the British press today.

The Conservative Daily Mail said in a front page story that "Britain may take steps to relinquish the Palestine mandate to the United Nations if the United States leaves her to grapple alone with the present burden by refusing to co-operate in the new plan" for partitioning the Holy Land.

"There is reason to suppose," the Mail said, "that positive action on the lines advanced by Churchill has been considered by the government in the few hours since it was learned that the United States was having difficulty in making up its mind that joint action might be impossible. "It is understood that there is considerable Socialist background support for surrendering the mandate to the U.N."

The Communist Daily Worker, on the other hand, denounced the partition scheme as "a base plan" to give Britain a base to keep troops and the United States an excuse for "economic and political penetration into the Middle East."

The Worker said Mr. Churchill made his suggestion "because he wished with this threat to force a still closer Anglo-American military anti-Soviet collaboration on the lines of his Fulton speech."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph commented editorially:

"Churchill's view was that we should have a better client in America long ago that we had pursued the thankless task of trying to reconcile Arab for a quarter of a century and are now quite prepared to put it up unless the United States are prepared to share the burden."

The pro-Labor Daily Herald significantly "noted" Mr. Churchill's statement, though making no comment.

"Anyway, it keeps him from breaking insulators!"
Father is getting wiser. Sonny used to take pot shots at insulators on Hydro poles. Then Dad discovered he could buy a whole set of dinner plates for less than the cost of the damage resulting from even one broken insulator. Of course, you wouldn't be shooting at your dinner plates; but, being a citizen of Ontario and one of the owners of Hydro, it is just as much a loss of your property when Hydro insulators are broken.
It is not that the insulator is so costly in itself, but one broken insulator can cut the service on a line. That line may be carrying energy to the electric range at home, or the operating room at the hospital, or to the factory where Eddy is trying to build up a pay cheque by piece work. Someone throws a stone; or shoots a rifle. An insulator shatters with fascinating proof of marksmanship. This damage very often causes a pole to take fire, allowing live wires to drop to the ground, endangering human and animal life.
In any case, whoever is depending on that line for electric service is held up until repairs can be made. That can cost somebody plenty. A crew of men and a truck may have to travel miles to locate and replace the broken insulator, resulting in a great loss of time and money. When you stop to think about it, it's hardly worth it, is it?
You, as a citizen of Ontario, can do a great deal to help to maintain the very low Hydro rates which have now been reached. Your Commission appeals to you to use your influence at every opportunity to prevent the dollarsaky or careless destruction of Hydro property.

Allie Reynolds of Cleveland Overshadows Great Feller In Last Month to Help Indians

Hurler Has Won Six Games and Two Have Been Shutouts

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Allie Reynolds, forced back into the shadows by the brilliancy of his championship pitching teammate, Bob Feller, in the last month has turned in consistently fine mound performances that would do justice to Blasting Bob himself.

In fact, Cleveland's fastball right-hander has forced the great Feller to play second fiddle during the last 30 days as the 27-year-old Oklahoman racked up six straight triumphs while Feller dropped one game in seven starts.

Reynolds gained his sixth victory in a row yesterday and the eighth of the campaign at the expense of New York Yankees whom he defeated 2-0 for his second shutout win. The triumph enabled Cleveland to remain within hailing distance of the 4th place Washington Senators who blanked Chicago White Sox 6-0.

A crowd of 33,863 watched Reynolds limit the Yanks to two hits and dump them into third place behind Detroit. Tigers who upset Boston Red Sox.

The Tigers handed the American League leading Red Sox their third straight defeat when Dizzy Trout outpitched Tex Hughson 7-1. The victory gave the second place Bengals a two-point advantage over the Yankees.

Only Bobby Doerr, with his eighth of the season as he blanked Chicago White Sox with 7 scattered hits to give the Detroiters their 6-0 victory.

Safe from the clutches of the challenging St. Louis Cardinals, who were guests of the Phillies in Philadelphia, the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers returned to their winning ways by edging out Cincinnati Reds 3-2, the victory, coupled with the Cards' defeat by Ben Chapman's Phillies increased the Flock's lead over the Redbirds to 3½ games.

The Cards failed to hold onto a 2-0 advantage as the Phils jumped on Carl Hubbell for 6 hits — five of them of the infield variety — to score three runs in the seventh inning and defeat St. Louis 3-2.

Pittsburgh and New York Giants divided a doubleheader with the Polo Grounders the Giants coming back to win 3-2 after the Bucs had taken the southpaw end of Fritz Ostermueller, had copped the opener 8-4.

Philadelphia Athletics overcame an early two-run deficit to down St. Louis Browns 8-3.

Rain postponed the scheduled Chicago Cub-Boston Braves night contest.

Players Suggest Inter-Loop Games To Raise Pension

(By The Canadian Press)

A set of inter-league competitions early in July each year, based on percentage standings July 1 was the proposal which received unanimous support from National League players at delegates to a conference in New York yesterday to discuss a pension scheme. The series of "high playoffs" was expected to raise an estimated $250,000 annually, figuring an average attendance of 30,000 for each endmeet encounter.

The suggestion, with other wage and contract proposals, will be placed before a joint meeting with a committee representing the owners Monday at New York.

Julio Berreota of Chile announced at London yesterday he would make the first postwar attempt to swim the English Channel Aug. 5, providing weather and tide are appropriate. He is to start from the French coast.

A crowd of 50,000 is expected at Hollywood Park, Inglewood, Calif., today to watch Triplicate and Historian, runner Gold Cup battle of last week in the $50,000 Santa Handicap, concluding feature of the west coast meeting.

County cricket champions for the three years prior to the war, the Yorkshire eleven assumed leadership in the English race again yesterday with a victory over Northamptonshire. "The Yorks won by an innings and 52 runs. Somerset won their match with the Indian Tourists by an innings and 11 runs.

Suffering from blindness since 1940, Jackie Hayes, former star second baseman of Chicago White Sox, "saw" his old teammates in action against Philadelphia at the home park. With the help of a seeing-eye dog to lead him and a friend who described the game, Hayes was reported to have enjoyed the contest.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

IT'S A MEXICAN HANT

For allegedly "jumping" his contract with the Kingston Frontenac Flyers, goalie George Gee, prize 1945 rookie in the Ontario Senior Hockey League, has been suspended indefinitely by the league president, Frank Ahearn. Gee, who is a Mexican citizen, was reported to have signed with the Montreal Canadiens, but Ahearn says he has not received any official notification to that effect. Ahearn claims that Gee has violated the league rules by signing with a club in another league without first obtaining his release from the Kingston club. Gee, who is a Mexican citizen, was reported to have signed with the Montreal Canadiens, but Ahearn says he has not received any official notification to that effect. Ahearn claims that Gee has violated the league rules by signing with a club in another league without first obtaining his release from the Kingston club.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson heading his comment on the case "Hollow Laugh of the Week" says: "Chicago Black Hawks, threatens, with a great display of virtue, to discipline player George Gee because he jumped one semi-professional contract for another . . . as if the Hawks had the slightest business to say what the player should do in baseball . . . for cracks like that you get Guilds . . .

Bill (Football) Fry, of Toronto, west of here, dropped in the office yesterday on his way to Silver Lake where he hopes to lure the great trout from their habitat. Social amenities were quickly over and Bill hit shop-talk like a hungry bass does a minnow, immediately becoming pigskin-promoter who has been on the executive of the Ontario Rugby Football Union for the past 19 years has been promoted. The lads thought organ of Bill's efforts along football lines, and they're plenty, to present him with the token of the office of third vice president.

According to the third vice-prexy, the ORFU is concentrating plenty of efforts this year on junior football. Many intermediate players who have graduated from junior ranks are in condition and it will take them a year at least to get back into the gridiron form of prewar days. And with the unprecedented boom all along the sports front this year, football will likely come in for its rightful share.

Fry advocated very strongly the formation of a junior ORFU squad here, especially in view of the fact that there is a strong possibility of the team being able to play under lights. The ORFU executive, he said, had sent out letters to service clubs in the larger centres urging moral support of football in those centres where no lads dormant, or not been played before.

In the junior players, the ORFU feels, lies the future of football in city like this, the formation of a junior squad would likely meet the approval of the lads. It is well known there are bushels of keen-ass kids rarin' to get into football gear and play in an organized loop.

Reports circulate that the CO SSA will have a strong grouping here with Oshawa, Peterboro, Sport Lacrosse and Belleville Collegiate Institute as members. The COSSA has a ruling that the school players cannot play for any other than their local league, and the ORFU abides by this ruling. However there is a number of non-student young men here who want to play football — and why shouldn't they be given the chance?

There is a strong possibility that nearby centres will enter a junior league, creating an interesting loop for the district. Football fans in the city are urged to consider the question, and if a meeting develops in the near future to attend and lend their moral support.

CIVIC HOLIDAY RIDE JOKES

There's plenty ado along the sports front today with the holiday weekend to take the minds of the fiend business men off the grind of the job at hand, at least for the day.

On the baseball horizon the Trenton Flyers trek to Peterboro to take on the shirtmen of that city in an exhibition tilt. Nothing in the city that we know of.

The star attraction here will be the Mon's Rinks championship at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club. The lads here possess Corbin Gold Trophy, district-four champ and hopeful to Eastern Quebec, competition for the 264 gentlemen of the grease will be here to vie for the coveted prize. Belleville Lawn Bowling officials have gone all out to make the event a success one, and there is no doubt this event will surpass, if not, outshine those of previous years.

Dare-devil drivers of the dirt tracks will roar over the speedway at the Fair Grounds Monday afternoon where the Automobile Motor Cycle Association is staging a bike meet that has attracted the cream of international riders. The affair is being held under the auspices of the Kiwanis and $1,000 in prizes is the golden goal the boys are after at.

Big doings are planned in Kasabo for next Monday, Tuesday, Monday and Tuesday. There is an Old Boys' Reunion in the historic old village and many former residents of Northern Ward will be "home" to revisit old haunts, look for familiar faces of yesteryear and relive the days of childhood. There will be ball games, boxing matches, band concerts, community singsongs, dancing, parades, and everything to make the large crowd's visit enjoyable.

Over in Picton, the centre of attraction will be the Gold Cup Races and the Speed Craft drivers will attempt to break speedboat records and it will be another of those nautical highlights of entertainment for which the Prince Edward County town is noted. Drivers from all parts of the province will be there to furnish thrills and noise for an expected record crowd.

Toronto, Aug. 3 (CP)—A Polish expert now working as an air engineer here says that gliding is the most thrilling of all individual sports. We expect Canada as an air engineer.

The soaring altitude record is 22,000 feet, achieved by a pilot of the United States Army Air Force whose plane was released by a motored-plane at 4,000 feet. But the highest meet at Elmira isn't decided on altitude alone. Distance, ground speed and general performance count heavily.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Deliver me from Colpert Foo. That partner makes me bleed. He never pays attention to the final card that I lead. Whenever he must make a play, his mind is on a holiday.

An attentive partner can be a great help in defence. His study of the opening lead is particularly important. The final result may well depend on what he does on that first trick.

South is declarer at three no-trump when spades are like this:

♠7 8 4 2

WEST
♠K Q 10 9

EAST

SOUTH
♠J 6 3

Sitting west, your lead is the king. What do you expect east to do? He should not listlessly or carelessly discard his five. That baby should hop right up on your king with his ace.

To non-members of this lodge, the leader's motto may be funny papers. It is equivalent to trumping your partner's ace, throw of car bed hammocks, or poked fun at such things.

But it is no joke to your opponent. Rest promptly returns his small spade and you can see the result. You run three more spades before declarer can say disagreeable thingerdits.

What happens if east fails to overtake your king with his ace in the first trick? He stops that trick when the second round. It is likely to shut you out from taking two of your spades.

How does east know he is not deliberately wasting a trick by going up with his ace on your king? By reading the meaning of your original lead. Rule No. 1 is: when you must have.

The lead of a king admits having the ace with others, or the queen and jack, or the queen and ten. He that as so, you must have either the queen and jack or the queen and ten.

The jack is not in sight. So, if you have it, nothing is lost. If declarer has it, his lead through south will put it.

Teamwork is the thing.

Hollywood Column

By HOWARD BEHN

Hollywood, Aug. 3 —(AP)—Louis Calhern, now visiting Glamorville, lands this advice back to the Broadway actors who look to Hollywood with a raised eyebrow: "When you come out here, you'd better be more humble."

Calhern is no newcomer to these parts. He started his East-West commuting in 1930. In spite of the fact that his screen roles seem insignificant compared with his legitimate stage work he keeps coming back for more. He is now holding down the role of Monsieur in "Call of Triumph."

After watching the film industry grow for 26 years, Calhern said he was definitely impressed with its progress. "Those who use the term 'matured' are certainly shooting the wrong word," he said. "An industry that has made as much money as the motion picture business is certainly more than 'mature.'"

Warners' new Swedish star, Viveca Lindfors, is driving around town in a shiny '46 car. Her lawyer-husband represents a large American auto firm in Sweden . . . Hollywood turned out en masse Thursday night to congratulate Warner Brothers on the 30th anniversary of talking pictures. Everything gathered early in the day in front of the Warners' theatre to catch a glimpse of stars who attended the premier of "Night and Day."

Jimmy Durante, who's been sweating out a court action in the case of his swimming pool, has had a good word for his little title: "A Guy's a Fool Who Builds a Pool," Such facts!

In Manhattan

By MICHAEL O'MARA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Aug. 3 (CP)—Business is bad on Broadway.

New York's second and most spectacular industry is the entertainment dodge and nearly all aspects of sucker-baiting are in a sharp decline. Theatres and cabarets have been hard-hit by what appears perhaps not purely a seasonal recession.

The optimistic believe the main reason for the fall-off is the fact that car-owning New Yorkers can—for the first time in four summers—buy all the gasoline they need for week-end and fortnight jaunts out of the big town. The country is vacation-happy at the moment with beaches, mountain-resorts and fishing-spots doing the turn-away business Manhattan had cornered throughout the war.

Only a few of Broadway's current attractions are selling out with any frequency. Slow turnovers have chased out numerous attractions that a few months ago appeared certainties to see September. The big musicals "Billion Dollar Baby," "Are You With It?" and "St. Louis Woman" have folded after promising starts. "I Remember Mama," a legitimate show with limited but powerful appeal, quit in a huff. What had appeared ideal summer stuff, the forthy "Dear Ruth" is a corpse.

Latest dust-biters on the main stem, both folding tonight, are "Glamour Manner," an "Op-Right" drama which deserved another year at life—and Orson Welles' extravagant musical "Around the World."

Unless the Autumn sends the market soaring back up—it is bound to, in some degree, but how far is the question—Broadway's palmy days are over for this decade at least.

Fritz Ostermueller, Pirates: Hurled his second straight shutout as he held the Giants to two hits in the opener of a double header, which the Pirates won 6-0. The Giants won the night-cap 3-2.

Dick Whitman, Dodgers: Drove in two runs as the Dodgers beat the Reds 3-2.

Johnny Wyrostek, Phillies: Bunted safely to score Emil Verban with the run that beat the Cardinals 2-1.

Allie Reynolds, Indians: Gave up two hits in pitching the Indians to a 3-0 victory over the Yankees.

Bobo Newsom, Senators: Scattered seven hits as Washington shut out the White Sox, 6-0.

Their newest picture is "Mom and Dad," which comes to the McCarthy Theatre for a 3-day engagement starting Wednesday. They father, a Texas carpenter and farmer, is their manager and business adviser.

MARTELL, BLACK ENTER FINALS FOR AMATEUR CROWN

Black Disposes of Ezinicki and Martel of Hogan in Quarter Finals

By REES JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Mayfair Golf and Country Club, Edmonton, Aug. 3 (CP)—One of Canada's golfing greats and lesser light seeking his fame, defending champion Kenny Black of Vancouver and hopeful Henry Martell of Edmonton battle it out today in a gruelling 36-hole test over this rolling layout with the National Amateur Crown as the stake.

For Black, the steady veteran who plays his best when the chips are down, it was his first defence of his title since the war. And for the hot Edmonton policeman it was his chance to grab the links jewel he missed in 1939 when he went down 8 and 6 before the same Black in the same kind of a final.

Henry, 32-year-old ex-taught pro, times Alberta champion, demonstrated he was right on his game with a terrific 10 and 8 victory over Jimmy Hogan, the student ball buster from Jasper in the semi-final yesterday. Black ousted hockey-playing Billy Ezinicki of Winnipeg and Ottawa, but not in such spectacular fashion, taking the Toronto Maple Leaf star, 3 and 2.

Today on the strength of those two semi-final performances Martell was one over Mayfair's tough par figures for the day's firing in the 36-hole grind Henry was favored to take the measure of the British Columbia player just getting over a war-enforced layoff from tournament golf. Losers Continually in Trouble.

It was Mayfair's traps and tees in the afternoon that proved a nightmare to long-driving Jimmy Hogan and young Ezinicki who won through the quarter-finals to face Black in his first national tournament.

Hogan was continually in trouble and particularly on the last after being six down to Martell at the end of the first half of the day's play. He was in and out of the rough and the traps and was overplaying the greens.

Ezinicki's drives were best only the trees while he, although far from sensational, steady and had more control. British Columbian took an 8-hole to the 9th hole lead after the terrible turn and from then was just a matter of time until ended on the 34th.

FAITHFUL

BY MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER 24

She got up and went to him, "Thank you for this," she murmured contritely. "Somehow I'm not myself. I love you. I can't help it. I don't want to but I love you all over Europe. I must say then now for the last time. I shall love you, adore you, wherever I am, as long as I live."

He reached for her to say, Iris, let's play this thing out to the end. Let's stop shielding our wounded pride with armors of bravado that hurt is stronger than duty."

But she was gone and the door closed softly.

There was no triumph in her voice when she called Joel from a dugy store booth and said, "I have the money, Joel. A check, rather. Don't worry any more."

"Aren't you going to bring it to me now?"

"No, I can't. I'm so tired. It's been such a hectic day. Call Mr. Rutter and tell him that everything has been settled and I'll thank him for his fairness. I'll see you sometime tomorrow night."

"What a relief! I've been sweating putting bars in your cell. I'd have lost my mind. Iris."

"Yes, Joel."

When she went to bed it seemed that daylight would never come. Maybe it was going to Europe.... Mark is going to Europe, she thought, startled into her brain. When he came back, she'd be married to Joel. Mark, the cheated loving her. Perhaps that was better than loving her and being cheated by her. She could not help that. She dry-eyed, burning-eyed, watched dawn worm.

That night was cool and clear. Iris dressed in the dark, put on a dress and a dark coat and said to Mrs. Wade, "Joel won't feel like breakfast this morning. I'm going to see him."

For Joel the way was clear and he would never know the bitterness, the scattered lives, and the bitter price to make it so. In his room, which the memories of yesterday, of yesterday's excitement to her, they would plan their future, the future of Mark's life and the heartbreak of hers.

The Irish boarding-house mistress seemed at first reluctant to admit her, then, shrugging her broad shoulders, fully opened the door.

Iris did not knock at Joel's door. But when she opened it she knew that he was more frightened than he had been yesterday.

A small rather voluptuous girl, with hair as black as night, with was sitting on the arm of a chair and held back the head above one eye. Smoke from her cigaret enveloped her and the hand she held an expensive fur cape.

Joel was suddenly, shamefully conscious of the difference between the two women looking at him—Iris with disbelieving eyes, Sally with hardness glistening through the mock amusement of here. Iris was real and honest; Sally was only a tempting shell.

"I told you to get out" he said to Sally.

"There's a good reason for my staying here," she said. Coldly, disdainfully she looked at Iris. "You may as well get the lowdown now, darling. It's here."

Joel said, "Don't believe anything she tells you, Iris. She's lying."

"Think," said Sally, holding up the fur cape, "doesn't lie. He bought me this. He bought me other things, too. Ask him."

"You can't play the game at both ends and get away with it, you know," She turned to Iris again. "I guess we understand each other, sister. You probably heard the same line he gave me. But you have to admire him for the nerve of him! He wants me to give back all the stuff he gave me."

Iris winced at the bare, ugly truth.

"Don't believe her," Joel said. He took a step toward her, then away as if his touch had defiled her.

"When did you meet Joel? How long has this been going on?"

Some time in the spring at a night club where I work," she said, lighting a cigaret with a long hand. "I'm a singer, you know. She laughed derisively at Joel's hands. "Are you through? I thought he had money. He spent a lot on me. Maybe I can't. I'll call up and ask will I give the stuff back."

"Iris," Joel said, "I'm going to get rid of her. I'll understand if you don't want to see me again. I'll understand if you widdon in her face and voice. "You don't think—I want him!"

"I wouldn't have him! You've welcome to him. But you're crazy if you believe everything she tells you. He told me he came things."

She got down from the chair and touched Iris' shoulder. "Don't worry. I got to spoil everything like this for you."

Joel shouted, "Get out!"

"Don't worry, I'm going!" To Joel she said, "You had a nice kid like you has to get mixed up with the likes of her."

The door closed behind her.

Joel said, "I was awaiting a sentence in court. Opening her purse, Iris took out a check and put it on the table. She thought, 'Why don't I cry? Why don't I go hysterical?' Aloud, "I'm not even angry. I'm calm, dead calm."

"Here is your freedom, Joel, on a little slip of paper. Here is your life. You didn't believe all that—" She looked up. "I believed every word she said. So did I. You know it is true. It was not for me you were doing it. It was not for her. But don't put the blame on her. Put it on yourself. Don't admit it to anyone else. All your life you've been putting blame and responsibility for other people's shoulders."

"All right. What if I did slip once? What if I did?"

"You'll do it again. Yesterday," she said, "I saw you as you really are, but I saw you in pity. Today, even that is gone. There is nothing for you except loathing. And here is the price of your freedom. Take it. Your freedom—all of it. And here is your ring, a small gift in comparison to the things you gave her. I never want to see you again, Joel. You are my great mistake, the great wrong I've done myself and my friends."

"You mean—"

"I mean good-bye as finally as it was ever said."

"You're going to let this separate us?"

"This! No, not merely this. Worlds separate us, my ideals, my principles of honesty and decency that you know nothing about. How well you fooled me! All deceived me! People have called me a fool. I am a fool and I'm glad I'm through with you, once."

"Don't you care what happens to me?"

"You've had your lesson, a severe frightened one. You've seen yourself in prison. You won't forget that. You're not going to spoil your life—so, I care nothing about that. The regret is that I who gave two years of her life and her faith to people in trouble should end in a sordid ending like this. This is good-bye."

She walked to the door, she heard him shout after her, "Go to Mark. Confess to him. He wants you!"

When she reached the street the fain shaken but happy. How could she feel happy in disillusionment and broken faith? Because I'm free! Because I'll never have to hear his complaints again, soothe his jealousy, be insulted and humiliated by her insolence. Because I'm free from shackles that have had me fast for two miserable years. I don't want to cry. I want to laugh at that fool Iris Wade."

Beside the fireplace at home Selina was placidly knitting. She looked up over her glasses at Iris. "How was Joel" she asked.

Standing in the hall, Iris took a deep relieved breath. "I've just broken my engagement, Mother. I'm not going to marry Joel."

"Yes—you're not. She shrugged, taking off her coat. "No. It's the end of that." "What did he say to you?" Selina asked indignantly.

Iris stood still. Selina saw a relaxation and warmth come to her face. Then she began to laugh, an excited and breathless laugh.

"He asked me why I didn't go to Mark? Well, why don't I? What's keeping me? Mother, I love Mark! What time is it? Oh, I love Mark! I'm going to him and tell him I'm a blind fool and I've been—it I have time. If I have time before the boat sails..."

Selina dropped her knitting. "It's eleven o'clock," she said.

Iris put her coat back on again. She was laughing in short excited little gasps. There were tears in her eyes. Selina looked at the door open hurriedly, then close.

Iris have Marie's address to the cab driver. "Hurry!" she said. "I

If only time could pause a moment, Mark, wait, don't go. I'll tell you what is in my heart—what has waited so long! I couldn't keep it inside of me until you get back! There is so little time and my whole life hinges upon minutes...."

Mark's apartment house at last! She said to the driver, "Wait. You may need you."

At Mark's apartment she rang several times and then just kept her finger on the button. Presently she heard the slow shop of bedroom slippers and the very expressionless face of Mark's English valet appeared through the partly opened door.

"Is Mr. Mark in?"

"Mr. Christian sailed for Europe," said Peters.

"What boat—"

"He's sailing at midnight," said Peters and after telling her what pier and what boat went into retirement behind his face.

Melancholy mingled with high excitement as Iris's cab made its way slowly through the traffic. Minutes succeeded red lights. Fear overrode hilarity and then somehow changed to a firm coldness of yesterday. Suddenly, understanding all, she learned too late about Joel.

At the first red light said to the driver, "Left. I may need you again," and went in the enclosing telephone booth, trying to make many people sailing. Iris hunted through the groups of people, looking at every tall man she saw.

"The bride has nothing to wear," said a woman.

"There are thousand of frocks in Paris and they shall have them," said another. "I'm sorry, Cedric, but I'm not going to think about now!"

Iris was wondering if that cab driver is still waiting.

Mark's boat, which way are you looking?"

"Ahead."

Still, it may be blown up in a flight, pop said, and me said, That's the very reason why everybody ought to help out, I mean everything has to have a beginning, so why can't internationalism get it all pleased with the superficial charity? Now for instance I was going to ask Mark if I cud be seen at all pleased with the Sunlight Laundry lately. Their bill riverire seems to be under the idle whim of the driver rather than any sense of the work done, and when I called up to make a complaint, I was sneeringly informed that I was in the wrong complaint department. "I came to you only because I loved you. There was no other reason, Mark."

He laughed at her, "How dare you borrow money to me! Iris, where shall we go? Do you care for Florida? Or would you like winter sports or a warm climate where we can get a yacht and live in the sun? Do you care? Then we'll come back and build a big house for us in the country, a big house for us and a house for Major. Don't look forgotten my dog pal, the foundling I adopted in Eden Hotel? The Henshaws are keeping him for me until I get back. He kissed her again. "I'm going out for a moment and tell the captain he has a stowaway."

"What do they do with stowaways, Mark?"

"I'm going to marry the one," and he smiled at the radiance of her face and her ruffled hair. "Iris, it's going to be perfect. I'm never going to let you be sorry." He was serious for a moment. He took her hand and kissed it.

"Mark, some one reminded me once that I'm your kind, that your friends and relatives."

"And you let it seriously? Iris, my dearest, the only relatives I care a hang about is my aunt Rita, a wise old lady who knows all about you and listened and with her hand clapped to her ear and then suggested the most shocking name Mark, wait don't tell you what is in my heart—what has waited so long! Now show on your life is going to belong to you and to me. I can see Louis chuckling over the news."

"I came to you only because I loved you. There was no other reason, Mark."

He laughed at her, "How dare you borrow money to me! Iris, where shall we go? Do you care for Florida? Or would you like winter sports or a warm climate where we can get a yacht and live in the sun? Do you care? Then we'll come back and build a big house for us in the country, a big house for us and a house for Major. Don't look forgotten my dog pal, the foundling I adopted in Eden Hotel? The Henshaws are keeping him for me until I get back." He kissed her again. "I'm going out for a moment and tell the captain he has a stowaway."

"What do they do with stowaways, Mark?"

"I'm going to marry the one," and he smiled at the radiance of her face and her ruffled hair. "Iris, it's going to be perfect. I'm never going to let you be sorry." He was serious for a moment. He took her hand and kissed it.

"Mark, some one reminded me once that I'm your kind, that your friends and relatives."

"And you let it seriously? Iris, my dearest, the only relatives I care a hang about is my aunt Rita, a wise old lady who knows all about you and listened and with her hand clapped to her ear and then suggested the most shocking name Mark, wait don't tell you what is in my heart—what has waited so long! I couldn't keep it inside of me until you get back! There is so little time and my whole life hinges upon minutes...."

Mark's apartment house at last! She said to the driver, "Wait. You may need you."

At Mark's apartment she rang several times and then just kept her finger on the button. Presently she heard the slow shop of bedroom slippers and the very expressionless face of Mark's English valet appeared through the partly opened door.

"Is Mr. Mark in?"

"Mr. Christian sailed for Europe," said Peters.

"What boat—"

"He's sailing at midnight," said Peters and after telling her what pier and what boat went into retirement behind his face.

Melancholy mingled with high excitement as Iris's cab made its way slowly through the traffic. Minutes succeeded red lights. Fear overrode hilarity and then somehow changed to a firm coldness of yesterday. Suddenly, understanding all, she learned too late about Joel.

At the first red light said to the driver, "Left. I may need you again," and went in the enclosing telephone booth, trying to make many people sailing. Iris hunted through the groups of people, looking at every tall man she saw.

"The bride has nothing to wear," said a woman.

"There are thousand of frocks in Paris and they shall have them," said another. "I'm sorry, Cedric, but I'm not going to think about now!"

Iris was wondering if that cab driver is still waiting.

Mark's boat, which way are you looking?"

"Ahead."

PLAN INCREASED CROPS

Melbourne, Australia (CP)—Planting policies in horticulture are under consideration in Australia after many demolitions of orchards to take up fruit and vegetable growing. For some years planting acreages have been controlled, and the states now are being asked to submit plans for readjustment of quotas.

Frisky Goat Jumps Into Lion's Domain

Johannesburg (CP)—Apparently exhilarated by the warm, unseasonable winter weather on the Transvaal highveld, one of the mountain goats at the Johannesburg zoo recently escaped over the wall of the goat enclosure with a great running jump and landed—in the lion enclosure.

Recovering from his first surprise, Simba, the zoo's most prominent of maneless lion, began to stalk the goat. But Satan, time others in captivity at Johannesburg, had not been long enough which he didn't have to hunt. He had lost much of his native cunning and agility.

The goat was too quick for Satan, and keepers quickly arrived to see that the chase did not continue too long.

The keeper of the lions shouted, "Get inside, Satan," and humbly the king of beasts obeyed and entered his cage.

The newsy goat, dashing about in panic, fell from the perpendicular rock face separating the lions from the public. Injured, the goat was carried back to its own quarters while Satan, allowed out again from his cave, lashed his tail in chagrin.

Mother and Two of Her Three Children Murdered in McCaul St. House

In the McCaul St. house shown above, Georgina Washington, 33, and two of her three young children were slain early Friday. Neighbors in the house found the mother dead, and all the children badly battered about the head in a blood-stained second-storey bedroom. Arrow points to room occupied by Angus Young, charged with murder. At right is shown the axe and hammer which, according to police, were the murder instruments.

Donald Washington, 7 (left), died at Hospital for Sick Children at 2:30 a.m. Friday. His baby sister, two-year-old Joan, had died an hour earlier. Doctors performed a delicate brain operation in their attempt to save the life of Florence, 3. Her condition is still critical.

Brutally battered, Georgina Washington died before she could be removed to nearby Toronto General Hospital.

Hotel Night Clerk Is Severely Beaten

London, Ont., Aug. 3 (CP) — James James, night clerk at the downtown Clarendon Hotel, was severely beaten Friday by two holdup men with whom he fought on the second floor of the hotel to protect $1,100 left with him for safekeeping by a hotel guest.

When attacked, James cried for help and when a man appeared in response to the call, the men fled. James was badly beaten about the face, suffered a badly cut lip, cuts and bruises on the face and lost three teeth.

L. F. Chandler, hotel manager, said the pair entered the hotel about 12.45 a.m. and asked for the key to one of the rooms. James accompanied them upstairs. Then he asked if they had not made a mistake in their room number. The attack followed.

LOTS OF NEIGHBORS

The Soviet Union, largest national unit in the world, spread out over two major portions of two continents, and borders upon 14 different nations.

Angus Young, 32, surrendered to police within two hours after they had launched a city-wide manhunt. "I guess I'm the man you're looking for," he told Constable Gillen.

Constable Norman Gillen placed Young under arrest after the murder suspect approached him while the rookie officer was on duty at Dundas and Yonge Sts.

Bevin's Direction Acceptable

Foreign Secretary Bevin's direction of foreign policy generally is acceptable to parliament, although a sharp blowup occurred over the proposed British withdrawal from Egypt.

New efforts to win self-government for India have been blocked—parleys nullified—by new lack of agreement among Indian political factions. The Palestine situation was the toughest problem at the adjournment.

Labor lost no by-elections during the year, although a cut in labor majorities in the various contests was interpreted by the opposition as a sign of a slight cooling of the enthusiasm which in 1945 gave the Labor government a clear margin of 347 in the 640-seat House of Commons.

Herewith is a summary of the Labor government's first year in office:

RECONVERSION—Since June 1945, some 3,000,000 men and women have been discharged from the armed forces; more than 5,000,000 workers have been switched from war to peace production. Industrial reconversion is scheduled for completion by the year-end. There is patchy unemployment, but an over-all manpower shortage.

TRADE—Two key exports were expected to set a post-war record exceeding the 1938 figures in volume and value; but imports also are increasing and an adverse trade balance now is at the rate of $250,000,000 ($1,400,000,000) yearly.

NATIONS—The Labor government in July became the first British government to ration bread, but rations for other basic foods were not greater than during the war years. Sugar, then a staple more plentiful, meat and cigarets continues to be scarce. The clothing ration has been increased about one-quarter. Private building is back on a restricted scale with gasoline still rationed.

COAL—Nationalization, not effective until 1947, so far has brought no sharp upturn in coke out and the wheels still turn for 3,000,000 tons. Large-scale industrial stoppages have threatened. The average household still gets only 2,400 pounds of domestic coal yearly.

HOUSING—Of 200,000 homes currently necessary, 55,000 have been built since the European war ended, toward a target of 300,000 by Dec. 31, 1946. The number needed by replace war damage, to house new families and to clear slums, was set during the 1945 election campaign between 4,000,000 and 8,000,000.

SOCIAL SECURITY—This month 2,000,000 mothers will draw the first family allowances, costing £100,000,000 weekly. On the whole, backed but not immediately effective, are the national insurance bill providing "cradle-to-the-grave" security; Health Minister Bevan's contentious measure for new national health service; and a revised workmen's compensation act.

FINANCIAL POLICY—Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in two budgets found £4,500,000 persons from all income tax, cut the beer rate by one shilling, reduced the purchase tax on essential commodities, abolished the abolition of the excess profits tax. The United States and Canadian loans were negotiated to carry Britain over the post-war hump.

Attlee Govt. Ends First Parliamentary Year With Considerable Portion Of Its Social Legislation Approved

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 3 (CP-Cable) — Prime Minister Attlee's labor government ended its first parliamentary year yesterday with its new social legislation program and part of its public ownership program approved and considerable progress made in the country's rehabilitation.

The nationalization of industry and trade has not gone far enough to affect the man in the street, however. Coal mines are not yet under government operation, although the act to nationalize the mines has been passed. The Bank of England always was tied closely to the government and its complete nationalization has not been approved in any way to the ordinary citizen.

Public ownership of civil aviation is mainly an extending of the wartime British Overseas Airways Corporation monopoly to internal lines and is not yet implemented fully. The nationalization of Cable and Wireless, Ltd., probably would have come about under a Conservative administration.

The promised requisitioning of iron and steel plants, electricity and gas services and complicated inland transport facilities will be carried out in future parliamentary sessions before the 1950 general election.

Cost-of-Living Index Up 1.5 Points in June

Rises 5 Points in 4 Months, Further Increases Seen

Ottawa, Aug. 6 — (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today's 1.5-point jump up the cost-of-living index during June — making a total advance of five points over the last four months — and Chairman Donald Gordon of the Prices Board warned it is far more than that further increases could be expected.

In its regular monthly report, the bureau said its index, calculated on the basis that 1935-39 equals 100, climbed from 122.6 at June 1 to 123.1 at July 1 for a total increase of 34.1 per cent since Aug. 1939. It attributed the latest advance to "widely-distributed price increases" which affected four of the six index budget groups.

Included were increases in foods, clothing, home furnishings and services, and health maintenance and recreation.

Task of Control Difficult

In a statement issued simultaneously with the bureau report, Mr. Gordon termed the increase "in a large part expected and unavoidable" but said "there is a matter of the most serious concern" which is the widespread sort of evidence that the job of keeping the cost of living from the aftermath of the war is becoming extremely difficult."

The chairman also said, "shows us that our choice lies between a moderate and carefully considered readjustment on the one hand and widely distributed price inflation on the other."

The bureau, explaining the rise of 1.5 points said foods advanced from 142.1 for June to 144.2 for July as a result of higher prices for eggs, beef, lamb, potatoes and cereals. Clothing moved up from 124.9 to 126.4, due mainly to advances in the men's wear and footwear sections.

Home furnishings and services also showed substantial climbing from 122.4 to 123.1 on increases in furnishings, fuel and household and chinaware. Advances in the health maintenance and recreation sections sent the miscellaneous group index up from 112.1 to 113.7.

Fuel and light remained unchanged at 107.3 and rentals at 112.6.

FIRST MEETING IN 30 YEARS

London, Ont., Aug. 6 (CP) — Two buddies, veterans of the First World War, met yesterday, Saturday for the first time in 30 years. Each attended the 32nd anniversary reunion and convention of Originals Club Inc., and each recognized the other almost simultaneously as they rounded a corner in hotel corridor. Ed J. San Diego, Aug. 6 (AP) — Police Traffic Sgt. Bill Thien, admittedly personal opinion to hundreds, came up with, this information: The time most men are involved hurrying home from work between 4 and 6:30 p.m. as most mishaps occur in the job between 7 and 8:30 a.m.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Aug. 6 — (CP) — Synopsis: Widely scattered showers occurred during the night on the prairies in northwestern Ontario and in the lower lakes region this morning the sky is generally clear from Lake Superior eastward giving cloudy conditions along the north shore of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. NEW GOVERNMENT FOR TURKEY PLAN OF REGEP PEKER

Premier Saracoglu Resigns Under Criticism of Domestic Policy

By EDWIN B. GREENWALD

Ankara, Aug. 6 — (AP) — Recep Peker, who fought beside Kemal Ataturk 23 years ago in the successful revolt against the Sultans, undertook today to form a new Turkish governmental regime ing that of Premier Sukru Saracoglu, which resigned at midnight in the face of heavy opposition to its domestic policies.

Saracoglu's resignation represented one of the greatest upheavals in Turkish politics since Ataturk died in 1938 and Ismet Inonu followed him as president. It was the result of popular dissatisfaction with domestic developments, particularly the high cost of living.

The official Anatolia news agency said the Saracoglu cabinet would continue to function until Peker, who served briefly as Saracoglu's deputy premier, announces the composition of his new government, possibly next week.

Thirteen Changes in

Reliable political sources said Peker probably would make new ministers in every one of the 14 cabinet portfolios except foreign affairs as a demonstration that the new government will stand firm on present Turkish foreign policy. Ismet Inonu is the present foreign minister.

Saracoglu's elimination by a short-lived demonstration staged by university and high school students and the parliament building last night, became plainly evident in the afternoon when they had come far more than the 62 seats given them in the official returns.

Peker's own demonstration enthusiastic crowds which greeted him on his arrival in Ankara from Istanbul yesterday.

The Democratic party which came into being with the lifting of the ban against opposition parties in mid-December immediately began a series of protest meetings, contending that there were irregularities in the election and demanding that they had won far more than the 62 seats given them in the official returns.

The Democrats' demonstration broken up quickly by mounted police, but Premier Saracoglu's new Assembly re-elected president Celal Bayar by a lopsided vote yesterday.

The 62 Democrats voted against Bayar and set up an stony silence as the 400 other members of the Assembly greeted the election. This was the first time in history that a Turkish president was chosen by secret ballot.

Saracoglu had been premier since 1942, and his government's cabinet dates from March, 1943.

Men, Pumps, Bulldozers Battle Fire Threatening Small Settlements

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 6 (CP) — Strong and variable northwest winds today fanned the worst forest fire in years burning over 100 square miles of bush on the McFadden Lumber Company property in the Missanabie area, 70 miles north of Hilton river, the Ontario Forestry Branch reported at Sudbury today.

Forestry officials said the bush blaze has been momentarily checked at the Wenaban river, although the blaze is fanned by a

A firefighting force of 320 men, 11 pumps and two bulldozers is battling the blaze and an attempt is being made to cut a firebreak south of the area. More equipment is being rushed from depots at Sudbury headquarters to the river and Pashu Lake.

THREE POUND SUGAR INCREASE FOR REST OF YEAR

Sufficient Improvement To Allow Rise But World Supplies Still Below Requirements

Ottawa, Aug. 6 — (CP) — The Prices Board announced today an increase of three pounds per person in the individual sugar ration for the remainder of this year with consequent increases in the allotment for industrial and institutional users such as soft drink and confectionery manufacturers and hotels and restaurants.

A board statement said stocks have improved sufficiently so that the increase, although world supplies still are below requirements.

The statement followed an announcement of the increase in the Commons by acting finance minister Abbott.

The increase to consumers will boost the individual ration to 30 pounds for the year, compared with 28 pounds at the present rate. The new rate, retroactive will give the individual the same amount as he received in 1945. The increase made last year and carried into 1946 reduced the ratio for the year to 27 pounds per person.

The increase will be made by increasing the rate of the present sugar ration coupons, each good for one pound, from four to five ounces. No weekly comparison of fresh coupons will be issued during the remainder of this year, the board said.

No weekly comparison of fresh coupons will be issued during the remainder of this year, the board said.

The Board announcement said five sugar coupons in the new ration book will be declared valid Sept. 19, two others will become valid on Nov. 1, another two in November and three in December.

"It was felt that by announcing the increased ration now at this time," the Board added, "housewives might possibly increase their canning and preserving that they could replace the points for sugar used in canning becoming valid in September."

Mr. Abbott's statement announcement of the increase to the Commons included no details of the supplement.

In addition to the 21-pound ration, the board said individual consumer also is entitled to ten pounds of sugar each year through coupons for the regular ration books for the purchase of sugar or preserves.

The only increase will be extended to industrial and manufacturing users, however, authorization in three quarters, based on increased amounts being in the following proportions to their 1945 sugar quotas: Soft drink and confectionery manufacturers, 65 per cent; biscuit manufacturers, 75 per cent; hotels, bakers, 75 per cent.

In the fourth quarter, the allotments in the three classes will be 70, 75 and 80 per cent, respectively.

Board officials said this would give manufacturers approximately five per cent in each of the two quarters.

The increase to quota users, including hotels, restaurants, lunchrooms and soft drink manufacturers will be made in the fourth quarter and will be equivalent to the 1945 allotments to these industrial users in that quarter. The size of the increase will depend on the number of meals served by each users in each quarter.

WAS IT POKER PARTY

III-Fated Kumar Dies, Last Week Regained Title as Ruler of Bhowal

London, Aug. 6 — (CP) — The ill-fated Ramendra Narayan Roy spent 25 years seeking to regain title to the estate of his ancestors — went on his final journey to Darjeeling before an audience of 200,000 persons, the Exchange Telegraph agency reported today in a delayed dispatch from Calcutta.

In the presence of two Maharajahs, Ramendra Narayan Roy was cremated with all the ceremony of Hindu custom — thus ending a life of turmoil and tragedy that began in 1909.

At that time Roy, son of the Rajah of Bhowal — an Eastern Bengal estate worth $400,000 annually to its ruled — fell ill and lapsed into a coma. He was placed on a funeral pyre and the fuel was lighted.

Then, by a fantastic twist of fate, a monsoon put out the flames and drove the mourners away. The rain revived Roy but he had lost his memory. For 12 years he wandered through India as a beggar, finally remembering his identity in 1921.

He returned to Bhowal and claimed his estate. His sister and his grandmother recognized him but his wife declared he was a second time — disputed his claim.

Through the years they fought it through the courts of India and at last in 1936 before the committee of the Privy Council. Last Tuesday the Privy Council ruled that Roy was really the rightful ruler of Bhowal.

Mrs. Kumar — vindicated and ready to take over his property — was in Calcutta. On Saturday he died.

The second funeral service was performed after every auspicious convention including the traditional cracking of the skull.

Seven times the Kumar's 26-year-old second wife circled the body. Then she placed a lighted jute stick in her late husband's mouth. The pyre was heaped up, a diamond ring shone from Roy's finger.

It is not known what will happen to the estate. Although the Privy Council had found for Roy, the King had not signed the order granting him the estate.

GREECE OPPOSES ALBANIA'S BID FOR MEMBERSHIP

Charges That Country Could Not Qualify in Role of Peace-Loving State

By Charles A. Grumbin

New York, Aug. 6—(AP)—Albania's bid for membership in the United Nations was bitterly opposed today by Greece, which charged that Albania could not qualify in the role of a peace-loving state as required by the U. N. charter, and asked that the matter be referred to the political examination of the security council's membership committee, meeting in closed session with representatives that it would bring about another sharp conflict between Russian and the western powers.

Russia and Poland were reported backing Albania's application without qualification. The United States and Britain reserved judgment, although both have levied sharp criticism at the regime of Premier Enver Hoxha.

An American delegation spokesman said Hoshe Shehu refused to give Washington assurances that Albania would live up to all the obligations of membership.

Britain also questioned the peace-loving qualities of Albania and Greece.

The Albanians explained a foreign office spokesman said in the statement, since ago, that they failed to recognize the ships as British. The Greeks last night submitted a long memorandum which the membership committee to postpone action on the Albanian application until a potentially explosive Greek-Albanian border dispute is settled.

COMMONS HEARS LENGTHY DEBATE ON FOREIGN TRADE

Some Members Urge That Exports Take Second Place For The Home Market

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 6. (CP)—Members of the Commons expressed conflicting views yesterday on the matter of Canadian trade, with some stressing the need for developing foreign markets, while others urged that exports take second place to demands for the home market.

The discussion preceded adoption of a bill establishing the Canadian Commercial Corporation as a Crown-owned company that will assist Canadian firms to sell to and buy from foreign governments.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) urged that Canada follow the example of Britain and earmark a proportion of production for export. "Let us keep the home market now and overlooking the foreign market would mean that we would be in the position we would find herself frozen out of foreign markets."

He argued it would not be too much to ask the Canadian people to adopt an "austerity" program for a few years in order to insure the country's prosperity which rested on export trade.

C. C. Ferguson (PC—Wendt party supporters argued that too much emphasis should not be placed on exports because trade, to keep the people happy, should be a two-way street.

Public Servants Get Increased Cost-of-Living

Ottawa, Aug. 6. (CP)—The Commons today, taking note of another rise in the cost-of-living index, granted another round of cost-of-living bonuses for the members of the Canadian Public Service and the R.C.M.P.

With effect from Aug. 1, they will be as follows:

1. The flat rate bonus payable to all full time employees earning between $108 and $175 per month and to all full time employees who have been in receipt of more than two marks of household will be increased from $12 per month to $18.42.

2. The percentage bonus payable to part time employees and to full time employees earning less than $108 per month who are not heads of household will be 24 1/2 per cent of their salary, instead of 17 per cent.

3. The flat bonus payable to employees earning between $175 and $2,000 per annum will be $14.20 per month instead of $6.51.

The increase will mean an additional annual expenditure between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000.

Atomic Age is Just One Year Old By-Product to Fight Disease

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 6 — (AP) — The atomic age was one year old today and in this hilltop city where it was born the birthday passed virtually unnoticed.

There was no celebration planned to observe the first anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima. Instead, scientists who a year ago were awaiting reports on the havoc wrought on the Japanese city today are seeking to find cures for the war on disease.

This was an infinitesimally small unit of radioactive substance known as carbon 14. Called a "radiotelegram" or a ray-emitting form of carbon, the carbon 14 was ear-marked for research into the causes and possible cure of cancer.

As far the town itself, it has dwindled in population from a peak of 79,000 at the height of the war to 43,000. There are about 10,000 veterans here.

The United States Army maintains its control of the city, but there are no restrictions, but there are many indications that Oak Ridge is taking shape as an average town.

The C.I.O. and A.F.L., which by wartime agreement avoided union organizational activities here, have moved in in force for a major test in the southern unionization campaign.

A $60,000 golf course has been planned, and a private housing company has taken over the television franchise throughout the war has operated by the Army Signal Corps and lowered shutters are painting buildings, laying sidewalks and resurfacing streets.

And since establishment of the town in March, more than 2,000 babies born at Oak Ridge hospital and more than 360 deaths have been recorded.

Secretary Charges Russia Seeking Dictation of Parley

Conference Resumes Long Debate on Rules Procedure

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Paris, Aug. 6 — (AP)—State Secretary Byrnes of the United States and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov clashed on the floor of the Paris Peace Conference Rules Committee today, Mr. Byrnes charging the Russian with seeking dictation to the conference through the Big Four and Mr. Molotov replying that the Big Four was an American idea.

Mr. Byrnes, replying to the Russian's charges of inconsistency recalled copiously from the Berlin Crown-owned company that will assist Canadian firms to sell to and buy from foreign governments.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) urged that Canada follow the example of Britain and earmark a proportion of production for export. "Let us keep the home market now and overlooking the foreign market would mean that we would be in the position we would find herself frozen out of foreign markets."

RALPH TURNER IS SENT TO TRIAL ON THREE CHARGES

Two Additional Charges Will be Heard Starting Friday

Charged on five accounts of gross indecency involving male persons, Ralph Turner, 35, principal of Coe Hill continuation school, on Saturday was committed for trial before Judge and jury on three charges.

Preliminary hearing on the two additional charges will be heard, starting Friday afternoon of this week.

Three other Coe Hill men, William and George Boyd, and George Urbach, also face charges of gross indecency and have been remanded until a later court.

Evidence on the first charge against Mr. Turner was taken on Saturday afternoon by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on Saturday morning committing the accused for trial, and legal offence was held by the Crown to have been committed against the 14-year-old pupil of Mr. Turner's.

First of the two latter offences, which were stated to have been committed against a 15-year-old boy will be heard, the school pupil, was alleged to have taken place in a room on July 11th, during the season of 1944, and the third offence during the same school campaign in June of 1945.

The fifteen-year-old witness stated the first offence was committed while he and Mr. Turner were canoeing together on the Eagle Lake and the latter offence in the Coe Hill school when only he and Mr. Turner had stayed behind to attend a trip putting up election posters.

Defence counsel Malcolm Robb cross-examined the fifteen-year-old witness for more than one and one half hours on Saturday morning and also complained of memory lapses in connection with the content of the accused's statement to police following his arrest by provincial police on July 11th, stating of the statement was prejudicial to his client, Mr. Robb claimed.

Evidence in all cases is being taken in camera.

During the preliminary hearing Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan called only three witnesses, the fifteen-year-old boy, Constable the father of the witness to testify as to the age of his son, and Constable Keays who conducted the investigation.

then bending over Mr. Molotov at intervals to whisper matches of the latter.

Mr. Molotov, with pipe in his mouth, seats away from Mr. Byrnes, accepted a chorus of explanation throughout the American's speech.

Mr. Byrnes declared that ever since Potsdam the Soviet Union had sought to restrict the participants in the Paris conference to the four smallest powers present and that Mr. Molotov had attempted to have the foreign ministers' council meet privately in the conference. He added:

"Since the conference convened I have not uttered one word in criticism of the Soviet Union by the representative of the Soviet Union. At no time have I questioned their motives."

He said he was "surprised" when Mr. Molotov injected into the argument over the two-thirds rule remarks concerning Mr. Byrnes' approval of the proposal by Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada for a concerted Big Four session to speed the peace treaties for the five defeated European countries.

5,000 View Motorcycle Races at Fair Grounds Monday, Sponsored by Kiwanis Club

American Riders Practically Swept Card From Their Canadian Counterparts

American motorbike riders swept practically the cards of the motorcycle classic held at the Belleville fairgrounds on Monday under the sanction of the American Motorcycle Association and sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Five thousand and five thousand persons jammed their way into the special fair grounds to witness the spill-studded races held in the city since before the war. Thrills, excitement and spills were from the sandy track witnessed in the motor racing with Canadian riders failing to match the riding ability of their cousins from across the line.

Five Champions Entered.

Five champions of Bridgetown, N.S., and Ottawa, expert riders, literally showed his heels to other riders of the race, taking both events of the day in the two-wheel class and making the fastest time of any rider of the day. He rode the final five mile race in 5:36, taking corners in a veritable cloud of dust.

Fourteen Rider Takes Part

Ray Bowman, of East Longmeadow, Mass., won both heats and final five-mile race in the three-wheel class. Other prize winner was Charles Stafford of Bridgetown, N.S., who entered the fourteen riders took part in the races, ten of them being from across the line. Other riders were from Toronto.

Trophy Tribute

Trophies to the memory of the late George Pepper, prior to the was one of the world's best motorcycle riders was held by the race day crowd as they stood in a minute silence in honor of the former Belleville rider.

Acted as Starters

Officials of the Toronto Motorcycle Club acted as starters and judges for the nine races which were run off, two heats and a final in each event, including the tour and expert. First-and second heats were five mile races, six times around the half mile track, while finals were all five mile.

All the thrills of conventional motorbike racing, including spills, were enjoyed by the enthusiastic holiday crowd. Service pits were placed directly in the centre of the grandstand permitting a close view of riders preparing their machines for the different heats. Four riders came to grief on the corners, one of them going through the outside railing on the east end of the track. None of the spills were seriously injured and three were able to walk away from the scene.

"Scotie" Cameron, flying instructor at the Belleville Flying Club, gave the crowd a splendid exhibition of stunt flying as he looped the loop and did other feats in a series of loops and rolls, ending with a dive directly over the centre of the field. Club President Charles Cawker acted as commentator, announcing the various manoeuvres over the loud speaker.

Guy Lombardo Drives Own Boat At the Regatta

Finds Time Between Races to Chat With Him and Mrs. Tommy Mascaro, the Former Boyhood Friend of Famous Band Leader

Out of a blue August sky, the brilliant sunshine dazzled off the flame-colored wings, the Grumman seaplane, which circled over the tourss at the Picton Regatta yesterday.

It banked sharply, dropped over the water and thousands of people who had come to spend hours of the nautical amphitheatre that is the Bay of Quinte diverted their attention from roaring speedboats to the handsome airplane as it coasted slowly on the water to a point off the pits.

A minute later there stepped from the plane a dark smiling figure, who waved a hand and a hand raced out to meet him.

He was Guy Lombardo, famous maestro of the Canadians, who had flown from New York with the sole purpose of driving his 225 hydroplane "Tempo V" in the feature race.

Had Little Time

Dressed in a pair of light trousers, a dark blue shirt, tipped with a gleaming smile and asked his mechanics, Mr. Marino brothers, how much time."

"Four minutes, Guy", they told the band leader.

A customs official stepped to the plane, examined his passport and a pen under his nose. The famous Canadian fastened his shirt and with hand, shifted his documents twix another, waved to Harry Hunt, and the plane roared down the bay to take up his position for the race.

Harry Hunt won in the first heat, and withdrew from the second to conserve his engine.

A few minutes later Lombardo was enjoying a reunion with two old friends whom he had not seen for fifteen years. They were Manager Jack Brown, of the Capitol Theatre here and Mrs. Mascaro.

Talked of Old Times

For over an hour the trio sat and were amused by Mrs. Mascaro, the deceased resided in that vicinity until three years ago when he came to Belleville, and was associated with the National Grocers Limited.

Surviving are his wife, and one brother, Wilmot of Springbrook, of the McFarland Construction Company at Springbrook, and a sister Mrs. Ida Hall of Springbrook United Church.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the Thomas C. Huyck Funeral Home, Interment Mount Nebo Cemetery, Springbrook.

Fatal Clash In Tehran Square

Tehran, Aug. 6 — (Reuters) — A number of persons were killed and wounded when followers of the New Democrat party of President Ahmed Qavam and of the Tudeh (left wing) parties clashed in Tehran's main square last night after the 41st anniversary celebrations of the Iranian Constitution.

Police fired into the air and dispersed the crowds.

The clash occurred while Democrat party supporters estimated by the police at 8,000 were listening to a speech by Prince Muzaffar Firoux, minister of labor and propaganda and deputy party leader, who declared that the Iranian government would not tolerate foreign interference in Iran's internal affairs.

Plant That Made RDX Up For Sale

Ottawa, Aug. 6. (CP) — The lone war plant where Canada turned out the secret and powerful explosive known as RDX is up for sale.

Announcing that fact Monday, War Assets Corporation recalled that information on RDX was one of the things sought—and apparently obtained—by Russian espionage in Canada. Professor Raymond Boyer of McGill University, due for trial next month, has admitted giving certain facts about the production from his knowledge as a National Research Council expert.

Brigade Answers Four Alarms Over The Weekend

Four alarms were answered by the local fire department over the weekend, all being for minor alarms with little if any damage reported.

On Friday afternoon firemen were called to the local I.O.O.F. hall where a wastepaper basket in the washroom was afire. The fire was extinguished before much damage resulted.

Sunday afternoon firemen answered a call to back of the C. P. R. freight shed where old timbers embedded in the embankment were ablaze. As the timbers ran back into the embankment the blaze was difficult to get at the firemen were recalled to the scene today.

The one other alarm was on Sunday afternoon to Symons Ladies' Wear Store on Front St. where paper in a sidewalk grating in front of the store had been ignited sparsdity as result of a discarded cigarette.

Civic Holiday

Civic Holiday on Monday was wholeheartedly observed especially in this province. It was the great summer holiday in the middle of the warm season and was a breathing spell for many hundreds of thousands of people.

The first Monday in August has earned its place as a holiday year after year by being made an occasion of general holidaying. It makes a pleasant break in the season between Dominion Day and Labor Day and has been more and more generally observed.

The occasion is well chosen for outings such as touring, the holding of major sporting events.

The public appreciates the opportunity of the holiday for while many are holidaying in this month it is the only statutory weekday in the middle of the summer when all the people can get together and holiday at home or away.

The weather was cool and warm, just such a day as was desired.

Aeronautical College

Britain's Air College which will be open to students from all parts of the Commonwealth and Empire as well as Britain will open on October 15th, 1946. It will be an establishment unique in the world. It is primarily designed to provide a practical education in aeronautics at post-war level for men who are destined to take a leading position in the aircraft industry, research establishments and the Services. There will be three departments in the main, dealing with aerodynamics, aircraft design, and aircraft propulsion. A flight section will also be provided. When the buildings are finished and all the equipment, which has been recommended, installed, the cost of this new college to the British nation will be more than one million pounds.

The history of the R.A.F. with the air forces of the Dominions in the last war is such as to inspire the world with the supreme effort that was put forward for the salvation of democracy by the forces of the air. Such achievement has set a high goal before Britain and the Empire for the days of peace.

"Wrens" End Service

The Women's R.C.N. Service, known as the "Wrens" service, has completed its career. Four years' service has been ended by this magnificent organization which started with 67 girls four years ago this month in the summer and has now fewer than 6,783 members on its roll.

During the conflict they gave a proud record of service. They served mainly in Canada but there were contingents in Newfoundland, Britain and the United States. Some were in Ottawa at the naval headquarters, others served on shore establishments and at the ports.

The Wrens of Canada through their representatives in the services responded gobly to the call and made no small contribution towards the winning of the war. The Wrens helped to make the Dominion's naval record of the highest excellence.

The valuable lessons they learned in the service were lived out nobly in the organization during its years of intense activity and will have no doubt a marked effect upon their success in life. Their broadened experience and training will stand them in good stead in the return to civilian life. The people will miss the sight of the Wrens on the streets but will not forget them any more than the Wrens will forget the formative years of their lives in which they served so well the cause of democracy.

Planning for 2,000 A.D.

Sydney, Australia, is planning for 2,000 A.D., with a team of experts comprising 50 engineers, architects, sanitation experts, town-planners and others at work. They are working behind doors on the program, and the plan will be secret until 1948. Plans, it is said, will then effect, directly or indirectly, the lives of more than a million and a half people. The undertaking is bigger than anything townplanners anywhere in the world have attempted, and Australian News which explains that the task involves the comprehensive loging-out of an area comprising 1,245 square miles.

Here are some of the developments for the Sydney fifty-four years hence when the twenty-first century begins. According to the experts they are:

Atomic age cars shooting along broad arterial roads radiating from the city;

Helicopters landing in the city.

Fewer tall buildings, more decentralization in a smaller City of Sydney with consequent development for inland cities;

Wide streets, city playgrounds, heights forshore of, transformed into park areas.

The reference to a smaller City of Sydney in 2,000 A.D. may surprise some, but, in general, it is considered by those bringing such a plan in respect with satellite cities in the environs of its large centres.

German Zones

In accordance with the United Kingdom Government's decision the British authorities in Germany have been instructed to work out with the American authorities details of ways and means of organising the British and American zones as an economic unit. Joint departments for finance, trade, industry, and agriculture will have to be established, in which the services of suitable Germans with technical experience will be utilized as far as possible.

This has been agreed to, however, be limited to this economic sphere and restricted to what is considered necessary to ensure efficient co-ordination. No political merger is contemplated. The Potsdam Agreement insists on the principle of combined with political decentralization. The United Kingdom Government continues to work towards both aims.

The United Kingdom Government does not intend that the special form of economic co-operation with the U.S.A. now to be introduced shall detract from British co-operation on the Allied Control Council in Berlin, which is the political government of Germany.

In the strictly economic sphere, for the United Kingdom as for the U. S. A. Governments, the immediate power co-operation and quadripartite unity is accepted by them merely as the first available partial and provisional means towards that end.

The United Kingdom and U. S. A. Governments hope that the French and Russian Governments, or either of them, will join the new inter-zonal economic system. The French and Russian Governments may therefore wish to walk into the Anglo-American Organization at work before reaching a decision. Such hesitation would not be entirely discouraging in itself, since the United Kingdom and U. S. A. Governments are ready for that reason the plans are setting to be judged by results.

Whatever the French and Russian Governments may decide, the United Kingdom Government, for its part, proposes to do all it can to intensify exchanges of goods with all three other zones.

An essential point to be noted is that the step which the United Kingdom and U. S. A. Governments are taking is not directed against the French or Russian Governments and assurances to this effect have been given to both. The United Kingdom Government is decidedly opposed to the division of Germany. — and Europe — into two parts. It is the United Kingdom Government's belief that the new departure which the United Kingdom and U.S.A. Governments are about to make in carrying out the Potsdam Agreement on a two-zone level should render the reintegration of Germany into one economic whole on a four-zone level easier, not more difficult.

FIRST COAT OF TAN

Well, as I've said it so often before,
Time brings achievements, and here is one more.
Where there is childhood this surely is true—
Every day's dawning brings on something new.
Growth, beyond doubt, is a charmladen ferry.
Ellen Elizabeth's brown as a berry.

Scarcely two weeks of the summer have flown,
And lovelier than ever to look at she's grown.
Under the sun on the bright golden sand
Her face, legs and arms have been wondrously tanned.
Happy to see it? I answer you: "Very!"
Ellen Elizabeth's brown as a berry.

Yes, there are blotches of bites, and maybe
Spots that denote she encountered a flea,
Legs display bruises of many a fall.
These, to be truthful, are blemishes small.
Ellen Elizabeth's brown as a berry.
What are such hurts to the heart that is merry?

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What causes the man in the moon?

The surface of the full moon is marked with irregular dark lines and spots that suggest various shapes which have given rise to the man-in-the-moon idea.

These imaginary figures, which are shaped to suit the fancy of the particular observer, disappear when the moon is viewed through a telescope. They are produced by "what is commonly called the bede," that is, the difference in the reflecting power of various localities. The difference is due to "mountains and depressions . . . mountains and plains . . . and partly to the various materials of the surface of which the moon is composed. Astronomically speaking, it is probable that there is neither water nor atmosphere on the moon and hence the popular notion that the markings are the outline of a "continent" is erroneous.

Peoples of all races in all ages in all parts of the world have fancied various figures on the face of the full moon. Most people imagine that the markings resemble a man or a man's face. The man in the moon" is used as the type of an imaginary person. Some people think that the markings suggest to them the profile of a woman's head rather than a man's full face. Formerly it was necessary to fancy that the markings suggested a man leaning on a fork and carrying a bundle of brushwood. This figure, it was said, represented the man of the Hamilton works and the union harbor patrol by the acquisition of a new speedboat.

LAUNCHES IN SKIRMISH

Hamilton, Aug. 2 (CP)—Union and company launches engaged in a brief skirmish last night as the United Steel Workers of America (CIO) charged the Steel Company of Canada with trying to run strikebreakers into its basic steel plant which has been in partial production only since the union strike vote went strongly in favor. There was no violence but the launches were ordered by the steelworkers to reinforce their picket lines at the main gate

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

Letters should be kept and written in ink. Only one side of the paper should be used. Letters must be answered here. No copy can be made to question not conforming to instructions. IVY PAIN ARE HERE AGAIN

Recently I mentioned here several remedies for ivy poisoning, most of which were suggested by readers.

Now that so many of you are knee-deep in it, it may not be too late to tell you more about it. I knew a doctor who used to call it herpitar, bedbug, orthoform, sensitiveness, dermatitis and itch—these are mild synonyms. But the fact is that it is a member of all the blankety-blank-blanks and in some instances, of course, nine was enough. It probably more or less for many months after the acute episode has passed.

The best bet, I believe, in any case of ivy poisoning (ivy, sumac, poison oak), at any stage, is an injection of adrenalin—an extract of poison ivy prepared and admitted for this purpose, administered by the physician. In a good many cases the itching goes away or is greatly diminished within twenty-four hours. A second shot may be given may bring further relief. In some cases a third shot during the third day completes the cure.

These injections are intramuscular, and just to put one's mind at ease, the needle is plunged straight into muscle, not subcutaneously, as an angle under the skin.

Such injections, numbering four, given at intervals of three or four days, are a big help in combating against ivy poisoning—for the duration of the season—although the method described in the pamphlet on ivy poisoning, which I mentioned in my quest if you inclose stamped self-addressed envelope — clipping will not strike you as equally effective if not so rapid, in my opinion.

I believe if I had another bout with ivy, I would try the above ordinary alcohol with some of mom's ichthyol ammonium half and half, and apply the mixture sparingly and very cautiously to the irritated skin by patting it gently on with soft cloth. Not more than once in eight hours.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Mrs. Sadie Raiden

Began taking your Iodin Ration about two months ago and now we hardly know ourselves. The improvement in my husband's digestion, appetite and I have real eyebrows for the first time in the itchiest years, combined with disappearance of twenty-four hours. A second shot may be given may bring further relief. In some cases a third shot during the third day completes the cure.

Answer—I wish you had given more detailed description of the changes in your husband. Lack of scanty growth of the outer ends of eyebrows is a familiar sign of hypothyroidism, low metabolism, and inefficiency. Pamphlet on the Iodin Ration available on written request (no clipping, please) if you inclose stamped self addressed envelope.

Peeping Ott

Your article "Mumurs That Do Not Count" has added ten years to my life. Although I am a good article for the person who has lost the fear of peeping ott.

(E. J. W.)

Answer—While it may be some what inconvenient or even shocking to one and not your own, nevertheless that is the method I try to turn up one's toes. Think of it this way: If a person doesn't scream when one is driving a nail into his thumb, he is already a candidate for a nervous breakdown or a heart failure or cancer, the condition is always a gradual impairment of physical efficiency, and nearly always great and good nutrition (particularly vitamin B-complex), whether on the doctor prescribes other medicine or not, will restore compensation or circulatory efficiency in a few weeks.

(B. C. M.)

One Young Lady

Please send me your pamphlet on Head Noises and Deafness, I have had many troubles and should do anything about it or whether I must just endure the racket. Answer—I am sorry but I don't KNOW—I am 87 and I could write a lot to prove your statements about drafts, wet feet and the like.

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am, but it is for those who imagine drafts, wet feet and the like cause illness to live it. Nobody has ever done so. It is so much easier to prove a negative than it is to prove a negative. I hope you may get some relief for your head noises from reading suggestions in the pamphlet.

COMMONS HEARS

Progressive Conservative spokesmen were more inclined to support Mr. Croll in urging that new markets be developed now so that the Dominion would not be caught in the same way as after the last war when trade could not be resumed.

Third Reading Given

The Corporation Bill was one of several bills given third reading.

Third reading was given two bills relating to agreements between Canada and the United Kingdom to eliminate, where possible, double taxation on income and inheritance taxes. The agreements are similar to those already existing between Canada and the United States.

Several hours were spent in discussion before Third Reading was given a bill extending the Workmen's Compensation benefits to merchant seamen not now covered by existing legislation.

The compensation payable for injuries or death suffered by accident will be adjudged by the Board of Commissioners.

Conservative efforts to have Board decisions were turned back without a recorded vote.

Second Reading was given a bill authorizing Canadian National Railways to build a 55-mile branch line from Redvers to Kisak Falls on the Bell River in northern Saskatchewan, another district at a cost of $4,125,000.

Another measure given second reading would authorize the C.N.R. to borrow $23,500,000 for the purchase of new equipment and the retirement of obligations now outstanding.

Govt. Will Not Operate

Among those participating in trade debate were G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) Norman Jacques (S. C.—Wetaskiwin); Joseph Burton (CCF—Rumbold); Ernest Winch, Australia (CCF— Vancouver East) and Lawrence Skey (PC — Toronto Trinity).

Trade Minister MacKinnon said the Government did not intend to operate the Corporation, which will inherit the function of the Wartime Industry Control Board, any longer than was necessary. It was intended to assist rather than to replace private trade.

The Corporation would operate on the principle that a fair profit did not have the facilities to do so.

Mr. Fraser said too much stress should not be laid on exports at this time. There was a fear, Mr. MacKinnon visit countries with which Canada might build up trade relations. The Minister had visited Central and South America recently and the benefits of his trips now were being felt.

MOTHER FOUND

The nation-wide hunt for Mrs. Barbara Walker, 23-year-old mother, of Placerville, Calif., ended when she was found working as a waitress at a Lake Tahoe resort, a week after her mysterious disappearance from a picnic in New Hampshire. All first Mrs. Walker said she had been abducted, but changed her story and told authorities she had quarrelled with her husband and decided to go to California where she had friends in Sacramento. Mrs. Walker is shown talking with Police Chief Frank Norris, Conway, N.H., by telephone in an effort to persuade him to bring their two-year-old son to Calif-ornia. Her arguments persuaded her to return home.

Gib. Bradfield of Barnesville, Ohio, Wins P.E. Yacht Club Cup When Cooper Loses Propeller

Holder of Two Legs on Gold Trophy Has Victory in Sight But Loses Third Heat to Drop Heat and Race

(By G. H. C.)

Picton, Aug. 6 — A gleaming red Class "A" 225 cubic inch hydroplane, hurled back its challenge of Duke Misfortune at the Canadian Power Boat Association's Canadian Vacation Circuit Regatta here yesterday, and while the favorite lay wallowing helplessly in a white-capped trough, sped past to win the race and the Prince Edward Yacht Club Gold Cup Trophy.

She was "Buckeye Baby", driven by Gibson Bradfield, of Barnesville, Ohio, who snatched victory and the coveted cup from the receding spume-drenched bow of Jackie "Pops" Cooper's famous "Pops".

Bradfield also won the C.D.S. Trophy for the fastest mile driven on the course. He negotiated the measured mile in 74.004 at the dawn trials. The world's record is 86.794.

The seventy-four-year-old veteran driver from the Kansas City former holder of the world's record and holder of the Gold Cup during the war years, had the race practically in the palm of his driving hands.

His lead was the first two heats in sensational style. In the third heat he got away to a bad start. At the first turn he brought up the rear and saw his nearest competitor in the preceding heats speeding away to victory. "Buckeye Baby" had been passed on her credit and misfortune, or a scowl from the gods who govern speed

Didn't Like Course

"Tommyanne" driven by Joe Taggart, Canton, Ohio, holder of the competitive five-mile record, did not find the rough, lower-Gaumman course to his liking. He trailed Cooper and Bradfield in the first two heats, and dropped back to fourth in the third.

"Blitz II", Gravenhurst winner, boat racing in the direction of the Canadian Vacation Circuit, and the race was his.

And that is what happened to "Last Propeller".

The white-haired Kansan in a speedboat is a formidable foe in any bid for victory placed first one boat, then another. At the end of the first straightaway, "Pops" saw was splitting the wake of "Buckeye Baby" at the turn in the first heat, and the red hydroplane dug disaster happened. She slowed down, stopped and wallowed in with trough. She had lost her propeller, and with it went the chance of winning the Gold Trophy.

But "Buckeye Baby" also felt the fingers of misfortune. As she rounded the turn for the straightaway to the finish line, her engine batch ripped from its mooring, and struck Gibson a resounding blow on the helmet and whirled away into the water.

Helmet Saved Driver

Bradfield, hitting the white-caps at an official speed of over sixty miles an hour, managed to control his staggering craft, but it ripped first to the left, then to the right and finally levelled off for the checkered flag and victory. "I would have been knocked out by the blow, but for my helmet," was his comment.

The cup winner paid fine tribute to the driver of "Pops". "It was a tough break and I wouldn't want it on my conscience," said Hawkins." Bradfield said.

Cooper tasted the first sip of misfortune's cup in the time trials held over the course on the morning. He sent his "Pops" roaring over the official course at a clocked speed of 86.134 miles per hour in an effort to break the world's record of 86.794 mph. established here by Dave Forman, Buffalo, in 1940.

But on his return run, engine trouble forced him out of the running.

Driven by Bobbie Bogie, Brooklyn, N.Y., whose flame-scarred face is grim evidence of his being shot down in a blazing plane in Italy, finished in fifth position, while Dr. Alex. Robinson, Alexandria took fourth slot.

Another crimson water-sprite, the "Jeep" driven by Orrie Lamb, Peoria, Illinois, won the Div. 2 Class 225 in three straight heats. Lamb drove a magnificent race and the issue was never in doubt. "Mercury" owned by the Hamilton Southam's tried to dispute the "Jeep" right to victory in the second and third heats, but Lamb easily brushed the threat aside and won handily.

Turned Tables on Eugene

Mike Steffen, Grand Island, N.Y., twice defeated by youthful Harvey McFarland Jr., Picton, driving "Miss Eugene", turned the tables on his young rival in the first two heats of the 225 Class. McFarland was rated the New Yorker twice but drove a fine race in the third heat to win and snatch second position from Mountain View Jay Sprague's "Mar Don," which finished second in the first two classes. Two Belleville boats "Miss Quinte" driven by Charley Abbott and "Miss Red Cap" driven by Ed. Pine finished fourth and fifth respectively.

"Stingarea II", driven by Jimmy Middleworth, Surfside, California, was the class entry across a continent to race in the circuit regattas, and his small craft roaring over the course at 52.6 miles per hour to win in three straight heats. "Yankee Doodle" throttled by Merlin Culver, Dayton, Ohio, chased "Stingarea" around the course but could do no better than second.

"Yankee Doodle", incidentally nearly broke the world's record in the dawn trials when she sped over the measured mile course at a clocked time of 64.806 miles per hour. The world's record is 63.1. Lombardo Arrives

Guy Lombardo, famous leader of the Royal "Yankees" orchestra gave the hugs crowd of sixteen thousand people who lined the banks and shorelines of the nautical amphitheatre an additional thrill when he dropped out of a blazing sky in his flame-colored Grumman amphibian, and landed on the course near the official barge.

He coasted slowly on the water to a point near the pits. With but three minutes to go to get into the heat, he leaped from the plane, garbed in an old sweat shirt, signed customs forms, pulled on his helmet, and roared away in a cloud of spray before his mechanics could tell him what kind of shape his 225 "Tempo V" was in.

Boat Finished Seventh

Lombardo finished seventh in the first heat of the Class A 225's and withdrew from the second after "Tempo" developed gas trouble.

He entered his plane about 5.30 p.m. and after circling the crowd-lined banks and course, dipped in salute and sped away to New York where he had to fill a radio engagement at nine o'clock.

All the boats participating in the regatta here move to Belleville today where they will take part in the Rotary Club regatta off Massasaga Prak on Wednesday, August 7 at one p.m.

"Tops" Cooper is working frantically to get his "Tops" in condition for the race, and he will, with other drivers of various classes try to establish a new world's record over the official course laid out off the Government Dock.

These races against time will definitely take place on Thursday morning, August 8 starting at five o'clock.

14 Fatalities Mark Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A fairly light total of 14 fatalities marked Ontario's long Civic holiday week-end, despite the heavy traffic heading for summer resorts and the many celebrations around the province. Canadian Press reports tabulated today.

Traffic fatalities as usual led the list, with seven reported from various Ontario points. There was five drownings and two deaths from other causes. There was also one person missing and believed to be drowned.

The deaths were as follows:

Drownings—Keith Mowers, 20, of Blenheim, Ont., in Rondeau Provincial Park Bay after falling out of a sailboat; Ronald Delarme, nine, of Ottawa, in the Gatineau River; Denis P. Quinn, 14, of Brownville, Ont., in the Rideau River; and Cosmo Nole, 24, of Buffalo, N.Y., at Crescent Sand four miles west of Fort Erie; Mrs. Marie Baker, 67, of Ottawa.

Traffic fatalities—Elwood Pierson, 23, of Pembroke, Ont.; Mildred Kilena, 21, of Nolalas, Ont.; Peter Dell, 19, of Arthur; Joseph Lo, 13, of Heron Bay, Ont.; Joe Lubinsky, 32, of Windsor, Ont.; Robert Lamarche, 22, of Toronto.

Mrs. P. Myronluk, 58, of Kabalgon, Ont., died when struck by a freight train 50 miles west of Port Arthur. Arthur Williams, 58, of Woodstock, died of a bullet wound in the head. Police said Ted Pajot confessed the second self-inflicted with a .22 calibre rifle they found near the body.

The body of an unidentified man was found on the shore of Pelee Island and police said he appeared to have been in the water several days. He was about 40-50 years old.

Richard Bolton, a river driver with the Ahlfbi Power and Paper Company has been missing since Saturday from White Chutes, Ont., and was believed to have been drowned.

Food Poisoning Puts 23 In Local Hospital

Twenty-three people, guests at the wedding of Dorothy Horne and Jack Baldrick, Cannifton, were rushed to hospital on Saturday evening suffering with what is believed to be a form of ptomaine poisoning contracted from food eaten at the wedding supper.

Three of the guests are seriously ill, while others are slowly recovering at their homes. Six guests, it was stated, were not affected.

The poison, according to Drs. A. F. Bowerman and Scudd who took charge of the patients, took effect between two and two and one half hours after the food was consumed. Samples of every item of food and liquid consumed at the meal, have been taken to the Provincial Laboratory in the General Hospital here for culturing in an effort to trace the source of the poison.

The bride and groom, who left immediately after the wedding repast were taken suddenly ill while passing through Napanee on their honeymoon. They were rushed back to the hospital here by ambulance, and are said to be recovering.

Another guest, who boarded a train for Montreal following the wedding, had to be removed and taken to hospital when she was also suddenly ill.

Hospital authorities were unable to cope with the sudden mass influx of patients. Only three beds were available, and the remainder of the patients were taken to their homes after being given to their homes after being given treatment in the emergency ward.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By the Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Aug. 6 (CP)—At least two federal Liberal members of parliament are undisposed to accept Prime Minister King's should attempt to win leadership of the Liberal party in the October Provincial field, should the post become vacant in the not too distant future.

It was learned that Rosh Pinard (L-Chambly-Rouville) and Louis Rene Beaudoin (L-Vaudreuil-Soulanges) are studying suggestions they contest any convention that might be called to choose a new Liberal Party leader in Quebec.

The party now is headed by Adelard Godbout, but success is said to partly underline any that he has lost support since losing the general provincial election in 1944 and recent by-elections in Beauce and Compton counties.

These sources said there has been a growing feeling that he should relinquish the leadership he has held since 1936.

Mr. Pinard, 36-year-old lawyer, has been building up a reputation in party ranks as a result of his showing in the Commons since his election more than a year ago. He is bilingual and is recognized as a good speaker.

Mr. Beaudoin, another recruit to the Commons is 34 and a lawyer by profession. He is particularly well-known in the Montreal district where he worked for a time as a radio news commentator. He is also bilingual and a smooth orator.

Two other members of parliament have already disclosed that they plan to move into the provincial field. James Sinclair (L-Vancouver, North) plans to seek leadership of the Liberal party in British Columbia when a convention is held.

Walter Tucker (L-Rosthern) parliamentary assistant to Veterans Minister Mackenzie, has announced that he will seek Liberal leadership of the party in Saskatchewan.

FOR THEM...AN Ontario Holiday!
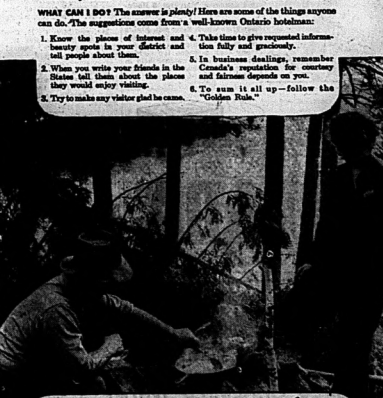
Roughing it in the wilds or basking in the luxury of a summer hotel . . . whatever their choice, lots of our friends from the States enjoy vacations in Ontario's northland. We can all give them a real welcome, when they come . . . make them want to return, year after year.
WHAT CAN I DO? The answer is plenty! Here are some of the things anyone can do. The suggestions come from a well-known Ontario hotelman:
1. Know the places of interest and beauty spots in your district and tell people about them.
2. When you write your friends in the States tell them about the places they would enjoy visiting.
3. Try to make any visitor glad he came.
4. Take time to give requested information.
5. In business dealings, remember Canada's reputation for courtesy and fairness depends on you.
6. To sum it all up—follow the "Golden Rule."



IT'S EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS . . . it's good business!
Work his weight in gold! The province of Ontario profits to almost the same extent from tourist business as it does from the gold mining industry. It is up to each of us to see that it goes on growing.
This diagram shows how everyone benefits from the Ontario tourist income. Every dollar is shared in the way . . . 1. Hotels; 2. Stores; 3. Restaurants; 4. Trans. etc.; 5. Amusements; 6. Garages.
It works both ways! They treat us royally when we visit them . . . we can't do less than return the compliment. Remember that it costs money to take a holiday . . . so let's see they get a good return for every penny they spend.

Bikini Has No Lure For Tourists

By PHILIP W. FORTER in Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Bikini, Marshall Islands — What is this place Bikini like?

Six months ago most people never heard of it but in the last month 242 of them have come to date line for news at Washington, London or New York dispatches.

Today it holds a unique distinction. It is the only place in the world where the atomic bombs have exploded. It is the home of Operation Crossroads. The name even sounds glamorous. It ripples off the tongue like "Shangri-La" or "Xanadu." It would fit neatly into a song.

But Crass.

But don't plan on coming here for a visit, folks. Bikini isn't glamorous.

It is really two places—the lagoon and the atoll—the Bikini you see in the newsreels. Going about in the lagoon where 70 old warships were strung out in pattern in the first test and 97 in the second.

The lagoon is about 20 miles long and 10 miles wide. Only the extreme northeastern portion of it was used for the atom-bomb tests. It is shallow (about 140 ft. deep) and a lot of coral heads stick up through it. Also, some of the ships up through the water before they were blasted out with dynamite several months ago by the advance parties for Crossroads.

Like Many Another

Take all these ships out of Bikini lagoon and it would look like any of hundreds of other atoll lagoons in the Marshall Islands. There are at least 20 such lagoons in the area. It has a follow a familiar pattern.

The atoll consists of a string of 20 tiny islands joined together by a reef in a sort of crazy man's chain. At each end of the chain the reef there are usually channels which ships can enter. You can sail, but most of the reef is practically awash.

The little islands also follow a familiar pattern. They are long and narrow and usually not more three to seven feet above sea level. There are coconut palms and some other shrubby vegetation and little else. The soil is rocky and sandy; even the beach is more like powdered stone than sand.

Also Exchalls

Bikini Island is about three miles long and 300 yards wide, and shaped like a pear. The name was originally known as Eschscholtz Island, after a German who lived in Germany.

You wouldn't want to live here. The temperature is 75 to 90 in the shade the year round and gets to 130 to 140 in the sun. It is invariably humid, often up to 85 percent. Little rain falls here for several times every day. Often it rains 2 inches in a short time. It is warm, about 85 degrees.

But on any normal day the ship rests 7 ft. 2 1/2 air miles southwest of Kwajalein, 1,262 air miles southwest of Honolulu, Johnston is 711 air miles to Honolulu, Wake is 1,287 air miles to San Francisco, and from San Francisco it is roughly 3,000 miles to Cleveland.

When Crossroads began getting the place ready, they first cleaned out a lot of the native huts and trees and built a mess hall, racks, some basketball and volleyball courts, ping-pong tables and horse-shoe courts.

They also built a "T" shaped building, screened it in, put a long bar in it and named it the Bikini Up and Atom Club.

They dredged 50 of Sodak and Bourbon out here. Only ships in need to get in the United States, but men need five in such a hole even for a few months because the small canteen they can get out of the recreation facilities and the liquor. They get 12 cents a drink for whisky and 10 cents a beer.

A Novelty

So unsanitary and uncomfortable was life aboard ship in Bikini Lagoon that a trip to Bikini Island became a novelty with the same joyous anticipation with which a kid views Euclid Beach or Coney Island. They would sit and drink and play volleyball coral rock and sit and drink. A few scrappy people would start on the basketball and volleyball courts, even in a sun of 130 degrees. But it was all over soon and back to the ship they went.

It was little enough, but at least the price of liquor was a novelty. Without the club, Bikini would be a dull place indeed. Only 42 men remained here—little data of load containing a little knot of palm trees and a hundred of bulldozer-dust flies.

South Sea romanticists would not have lived there. Robinson Crusoe would have taken a very dim view of it. So do I.

To Look Cucumber Cool You Must be Soap and Water Clean

Cream yourself light by before bathing

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE are the days when a girl desires to look as cool as a cucumber and as crisp as a lettuce leaf. Which reminds us of a question a writer correspondent asked "What do we mean by 'clean-'?

She has something there. Because not all women who look fairly dainty are mindful of all the little details of personal appearance.

Daily Bath

The daily bath is not a national institution, as is believed. Consult fitters have their doubts. Physicians who make medical examinations for insurance companies claim that more men bathe daily than do women. Woman's alibi may be that she doesn't want to get her hair wet. Plenty of bathing and shower caps can be had. That's no excuse.

Unless the body surface is scrubbed daily, one is not clean. Though one may not be aware of the functioning of sweat glands, they are busy just the same, depositing upon the epidermal cost certain chemicals that become offensive. A good idea is to cream yourself lightly before bathing and watch all the hygiene cream disappear.

Every woman should use a deodorant in the armpits, all the year round.

Hair Shampoo

There are women who are demon scrubbers but who don't shampoo their hair often enough. Gland excretions on the scalp cause the hair to take on a sour odor.

Since liquid nail varnish became popular, one suspects that nail cares do not always get the attention they should. The vivid color does not reveal the white line. So what? Nobody sees it.

Remember the little girl whose "grime thus in her nail grew so's and whose nails were black like her father's? Sad little girl. She should have scrubbed the nails with soap and a nail brush every day of her life, passed the orange wood stick under the saves.

No beauty prizes ever came her way and the boy friends skipped out on her.

To Keep Hair Lovely

Keeping the hair lustrous like a mass of spun gold is next. Millions of little shafts, reaching out, gather dust and grime. Unless the shaft is coated with oil, so that dust clings to it. Fancy the condition of your hair, little one, if they were not washed for three or four weeks. When shampooing one is endeavoring to remove a combination of dirt and grease. Can't be done in a hurry or with casual treatment.

If it were not for the sebaceous glands in the scalp, the silky threads would break at the touch of the comb. If the skin didn't have an oiling system, the surface would peel off in flakes. Nature designed this system for protection. Without it, the human hair bride would be in a constant state of downcastness.

Use a mild made of bland soap. An effective cold lanolin cream soap medium is made by placing a bar of castile soap in a quart mason jar, covering with cold water and letting it stand for a week or so, much as one does fruit in brandy. Use a teaspoonful of borax. Fill the jar with boiling water and let it stand for three days before using. This will do for eight or ten shampoos, if the hair is short. No strain on the beauty budget.

Start with a brisk brushing, strand by strand, holding the hair spray from the head, using a rolling movement of the brush.

With the hair brushed forward, have a brisk rinsing with the bath spray. This first rinsing before soap is used is something too much time on shampoo.

Pour out a cupful of the clear top liquid of the shampoo medium. Apply it a little at a time and use plenty of elbow grease. More rubbing will not remove dirt, once the lather has been worked on. Spread out fingers and thumbs and friction briskly. Add a little more water and go at it again. There's no need to be sparing in using too much time on shampoo.

The first application of soap is a scalp treatment. It stimulates the blood streams from which the silky hairs gets food and drink.

The lather should be as firm as beaten egg white.

second application, the lather should be as firm as beaten egg white.

If the hair is inclined to be oily, there should be three soapings and three rinsings with a strong dose of fairly hot water. Rinsing in the washbowl is an ineffective method; soap scum is bound to be left in the hair. The bowl is alright for the final vinegar rinse that leaves the hair soft and fluffy, every shaft away from its neighbor. And three tablespoonfuls of vinegar to a bowl full of water, pour over the head with a cup.

A brisk, thorough shampoo is a scalp treatment. It stimulates the blood streams from which the silky hairs gets food and drink.

Family Portrait Costume

By TAUNELLA WOOD

WE USE the description, "costume", for this dress, not in a theatrical sense, but because the model is so lovely, so theatrical, that it deserves a better word than plain dress.

It is a fanciful follower of the high fashions at the turn of the century, when elaborate gowns were beautifully executed from beautiful fabrics. Lisa, perhaps, meant less than elegance in those days, and for purposes of real romance there is really no reason why we shouldn't revive some of that elegance in these busy, functional times.

The dress is made of black satin with just one tier to the smoothly-fitted tunic top. The velvet throat band is attached to the sheer yoke of the dress, which has the medallions of lace at wrists and shoulder caps. The girl is RKO's Virginia Bruce.

WHAT GLAD TIDINGS when the evening up at night. It gives a charming look to the evening frock and lends to one's dress a note existing frock all the time. Not when there are such delightful ways to vary every country evening. A full-length black chiffon scarf, with a deep hem, becomes the wonders for the evening.

Almost known it's the season for fashionable blacks. A pretty black velvet evening frock is with a deep scooped neckline that is beautifully draped. Self fabric belt is wound with double rows of rhinestones.

There's a lot of brown evening for next season, and among the showings. A nice after-five frock is of brown velvet, the short, short-length skirt softly gathered, the bodice modified, the sleeves long and flared of copper beads and sequins.

A good prop for any wardrobe is a well-tailored coat of navy woollen for general wear. A next-season beauty is of navy-dyed gray suede woollen, an officer-type coat belted in three-quarter length skirt softly gathered, the bodice modified, the sleeves long and flared of copper beads and sequins.

Birthday Party for a One-year-old Lady

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a birthday party for my daughter, who will be a year old. Although it will be a small party, I do want it to be a success. Since the children's ages vary from six months to four years, four years old, I am, of course, inviting the parents also.

1. Would it be bad form to send printed invitations? If it would be, what kind of invitations should I send? I prefer to have the party begin at two o'clock and end at five o'clock. Should I state this in the invitations, or just have the guests leave when they wish to?

2. For refreshments I plan to serve iced tea or coca cola, cookies and ice cream. Should I ask the mothers and to those children who are old enough to have this. On hand I plan to have milk and strained fruits for the children whose mothers prefer that they have this instead. Do you think this sufficient, or should I also serve sandwiches?

G. S.

1. Yes, it would be bad form to send printed invitations for such a small, informal occasion as this party for your one-year-old daughter. You should write each mother an invitation, reading something like this (and you should definitely name the hours for the party):

Dear Mrs. Brown,

My little Joan is going to have her first birthday party on Friday, August 5th, and you and Uncle and Tommy will make us happy if you will come. Please say that you will come about two o'clock, and party will be over by five.

Cordially,

2. I think you should be able to offer a little something more than milk or a fruit drink to the younger children who must watch their "elders" eating cookies and birthday cake. You might have a choice of such simple, sane, wholesome delicacies as cream cheese, chicken, egg, or jam sandwiches, perhaps, or sandwiches cut in fancy shapes, which children love. Or, you might have small fancy molds of tomato jelly decorated with cream cheese. Some of the new cereal beverages served with this serve bread-and-butter sandwiches.

Soup Served in Cups

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct way to drink soup served in a bouillon cup?

A. T.

To test the heat of the soup take a sip or two with the spoon provided, the round-bowled bouillon spoon or a teaspoon; then you may, if you wish, drink the rest of the bouillon from the cup, as you would drink tea.

Introducing a Boy to Her Father.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Just how should I introduce one of my boy friends to my father? Whose name should I mention first?

Janet

This is a correct form: "Father, this is Tom Foster."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's in a Mental Hospital and Thinks She Should Forget Him

Times have changed a lot, thank God, since the days when people thought the mentally ill were persons inhabited by devils. And while we still have a long way to go before we get as a whole to accepting mental illness with the same sympathetic understanding and the same practical viewpoint as it does physical disabilities, there are far fewer individuals today than there were five years ago who will say, and think, that subject horrified and frightened; far more are those who have enough to realize that a mental illness does not necessarily disqualify a person forever as a useful, active member of the human race.

Because a girl's name belongs in the letter group; who is sensibly unwilling to shut a friend out of her life because he has had the misfortune to require care in a mental hospital.

She writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"What would you do in a case like mine?

"I've been corresponding with a serviceman for almost three years, and about a year ago he stopped writing to me. I took it for granted that he didn't want me to write either, so I stopped.

"About a month ago I heard that he was in some kind of an accident and was in a hospital in the States. I got his address from a friend who lives near him. I wrote to him and here is what he wrote in answer: "Just a few lines to let you know that I received your letter and was very glad to hear from you. The reason I haven't written to you before is because I'm in a mental hospital. When I was in that accident, I got hit in the head, and also got a broken pelvis. I was a whole month in bed with a cast and wasn't used to it. I had a nervous breakdown on account of that, and that's the reason why I'm sending your letter and things back. Please don't tell anyone about me or where I am. Remember I'm trusting you. I know you wouldn't want anyone who is in a mental hospital. Again I'll say don't tell anyone about me.

"Now, Miss Fairfax, please tell me what I should do. He means a lot to me.

"Disappointed"

I think it is fine that this boy means a lot to you, and you can do a lot to help him back to his normal health by being a good friend to him in this hard time.

Here's what I'd do if I were you. I'd write him another letter—just the nice, cheerful, chatty kind of letter you'd write to anyone who happened to be laid up in any hospital for awhile. Tell him how glad you were to hear from him and say that you had often thought about him and wondered where he was and what he was doing. Just as you would to any other friend from whom you had not heard in a long time. Tell him of course you will keep his whereabouts confidential, if that is the way he wants it, but as far as you are concerned, you are very glad and proud that he had faith enough in you, and in your friendship, to know that it would make no difference to you where he was, and that you are sure his other friends would feel the same way. It will be the same way.

Obviously he is recovering from his breakdown, if he was able to write you such a perfectly normal letter, and until you hear from somebody who really knows that his condition is anything more than a temporary one, you have every right to believe that he will eventually be quite well again.

If he is anywhere near you, you might suggest coming to make him a little call some time. I'm sure it would be a tonic to see you. To know that he has loyal friends will help more than almost anything else to regain the self-confidence he has evidently lost, and which is so necessary to speed his recovery.

At the July meeting of the Phillipston-Zion W.I., about 32 ladies and several children were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ralph Bills, Zion. Mrs. Sellers, the President, Mrs. R. Cranston conducted the business. Matters were discussed for the government short course in "The Furnishings of the Livingroom".

Mrs. Percy Ray in a topic entitled "Save the Children of Europe", stressed the fact that "A child cannot be healthy so long as one part of it is sick. It is one world in which we are living and we make it a friendly neighborhood, this is our responsibility."

Mrs. Cranston and Miss Carey were ably dealt with by Mrs. Ralph Bills, Mrs. Bailey including the origin, production, description and uses of woollens, linen, cotton, silk, nylon, rayons, fibre glass and all artificial silks.

A demonstration on the making of bound button holes" conducted by Mrs. Turney Simmons proved very instructive. The ladies were asked to bring a sample of their work to the next meeting.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Tutt and assistants.

WAGNER AND COBB LAUD WILLIAMS, MARTY MARION

Wonder Boys Thrill World's Fair Against Spit Ball and Flying Spikes

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP)—John Peter Wagner and Tyrus Raymond Cobb, two of baseball's greatest, think Boston Red Sox rookie Ted Williams and Cardinal Marty Marion are the best they've seen in years.

Williams, the current batting champion, is "a natural" and "will be a great hitter," but as an all-around fielder he could take Marion's place on a first division club.

Both Cobb and Wagner, who saw a shortstop in the Williams mold when Abe Bill Wambsganss was operating at that position for Cleveland in the 1920's, were shocked by Marion's ability and the way he "pulled" the ball that used to frighten batters.

Wagner, still sharp and witty despite his 67 years, thinks that Marion is the best shortstop that ever wore a glove. Cobb, who was said to be "sharpening his spikes" when Wagner was playing, said Marion was the greatest fielding shortstop of his time.

"Sure can hit that ball and he can scoop up any ground ball that's hit," said Cobb, manager of Pittsburgh Pirates. "Marion is a great fielding shortstop. He is a fine hitting shortstop."

Wagner and Cobb have notebooks full of baseball research for each other.

"He's a great guy, there never was a shortstop like him," Wagner said of Cobb. Cobb whispered privately to a friend:

"What Cobb was great; the best outfielder in the game," Wagner said when he was asked for the All-American baseball quarters vote. He was interviewed by Gabriel Heatter in a pre-game broadcast.

STANLEY HORNE, MONTREAL, WINS MILLAR TROPHY

First Three in Nineteen Years Trophy Has Left Province of Ontario

Kingston, Aug. 5 (CP)—Stanley Horne, Montreal, the first golfer from outside Ontario to win the Millar trophy in nineteen years, defeated Ernest Bowles, Toronto, 3 and 2 in the 36-hole final of the Ontario Golf Association championship over the Cataraqui course here today.

It was the first time in the 19-year history of the trophy that it has left the province.

The 32-year-old Islanmere Club pro was never more up at the end of the 18th hole, one up, and he stood to stay in front despite a strong challenge by Bowles, who had missed by a few inches a fourteen-foot putt that would have resulted in several wasted strokes.

After grabbing the four—hole on the 19th, Horne had to be content to two-by the match but kept on mistakes and played the last eight holes which were halved and ended, 3 and 2, in favor of Horne.

Bowles's tee-off got him into trouble on the 18th and it took him three shots to get out. Then Horne was on in two, six feet from the hole. Bowles missed his putt missed for a five and conceded Horne a short putt on the hole.

It was the first time either golf-champion had reached the Miller final and the Montreal pro made no mistakes about taking full be big opportunity. He won about $600 and the trophy.

A crowd of more than 3,000 persons followed the match, increasing the course earlier to see Horne out Bobby Bath of Toronto in the semi-finals, and the same margin in downing Lou Kaufman, Montreal, in the semi-finals.

Horne is Blower's first year as a full-fledged professional with a club of his own. He is a former pro at the Islanmere Club restaurant at Toronto's Mimiscaugo Club.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George E. Carver, Sports Editor

Due to sport-crammed pages today the "Chips" will be of short length. Don't be disappointed everywhere and accounts will be found on the side and other pages.

The big event of the week is the golf tournament at the Oshawa Golf and Country Club course. Starting at 1 p.m. tomorrow afternoon the golfers will play classic match play over the 18 holes of the course. Prizes will be awarded for the low gross and low net scores. Entry fee is $1.00 and all golfers are urged to be present at the first tee at the appointed time.

Plans For Regatta Completed; Bus and Taxi Service, City to Park

Plans for the Rotary Regatta of being held off beauWui Massassiga Park tomorrow afternoon are completed and it is confidently expected that a record-breaking crowd, have been completed Regatta Chairman Jack Hoole and committee have announced today.

The course which has been laid off the Park, is such that the huge crowd of spectators will be able to view every phase of the races. The boats will be in plain view of all the time straight away runs and on the turns. The inner straightaway is at least two feet from the shoreline of Massassiga.

The boats and drivers will be identified by a public address system located on the official barge which will be situated off the park. A running-by-play-by account of the boats will be given also, so that spectators will be informed as to the position of the boats in the races.

Fifteen Entered

Fifteen 225 cubic inch speedsters have been entered in the top class and includes "Pops" Cooper, Kansas City former world's champion, Joe Taggart, another dare-devil driver who holds the five-mile record with 225's. The race between these two champions should be one of the outstanding features of the regatta.

Another large entry features the 125 class, boats that skim over the water at 85-90 miles per hour. There will be three heats in each race and the final heat will be over at approximately 6 p.m.

One of the features of the regatta will be the fourth meeting between Harvey McFarland Jr., of Picton, driving the former Belleville 225 cubic inch Class D boat, and Dunnett and Mike Steffens, of Grand Island New York, in his crazy "Step Ing". Three times these dare-devil drivers shave clashed and three times the eighteen-year-old McFarland has nosed out his rival in the final heat.

Will Operate Buses

For the benefit of the public which has no method of transportation to Massassaga, the Regatta Committee has completed negotiations with the Rawson Bus Line to operate buses from the city to the park.

The first bus will leave the Market Square at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday and run every half-hour to the scene of the regatta. Prices are 35c for adults and 25c for children. Diamond Taxi will also operate cars from the square to the regatta at a cost of 50c for adults and small children free.

Buses will leave Massassaga for return trips starting at approximately 5 p.m. and will continue to run until the large crowd has dispersed.

The main attraction of the evening will be the Regatta Ball at the Park Pavilion in the Fair Grounds where the winners of the various races will be formally presented with their prizes. The Commodores orchestra of twelve pieces will supply the rhythms for which they are justly famous. The ball committee have offered a substantial part of the proceeds to the Rotarians for their crippled children's work. It should be a fitting climax to a pleasant day's entertainment.

HENRY MARTELL BEATS CHAMP FOR AMATEUR CROWN

In Winning Cup Scores Hole-in-One, First Time in the Event's History

By HERB JONES

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Mayfair Golf and Country Club, Edmonton, Aug. 6. (CP)—Henry Martell of Edmonton today reigned as Canada's Amateur Golf King following the completion of a 10-year-old dream. He did it with his smashing 6 and 5 victory over defending champion, Kenny Black of Vancouver Saturday in one of the most thrilling finishes of the 51-year-old classic.

Not only did he take the title from the same Kenny Black who edged him out of the champion spot a year ago in the last amateur final at the Mount Bruno course in Montreal, 1939, but he added another "first" with an eagle hole-in-one of the 160-yard fifth hole. It was the first such feat in the event's history.

The golfing policeman clinched the title with a seven-under-par performance for the tricky Mayfair course—a score that was packed with ten bordies plus the eagle ace.

A crowd of some 2,000 spectators watched Martell score a two-up lead at the end of the first nine holes of play.

This was cut to a one-up lead by the end of the first 18 by 36-year-old Black, son of a famous golfing father, Davie Black. But try as he might the Vancouver youth couldn't beat the sparkling performance turned in by his Edmonton shotmaker.

Black squared the match on the 20th hole with his third birdie of the day but from that point on Martell's game was of a sterling point. He tallied birdies on the next four holes and ended his round with a eagle three-in-one on the 25th to put him five up.

The defending champion kept pressing, however, and on the 36th mark an applause-drowning chip shot from a bunker 45 feet from the cup for his fifth and last birdie of the contest.

Though Henry lost the 27th with a bogie five 5, he won the next three holes, two of them birdies, and went six up on Black.

On the final 175-yard par three 31st Martell laid his tee shot about 15 feet from the flag and sank it for another birdie to take and the laurels.

Following his victory the new champion was presented with the Earl Grey Cup in a ceremony held on the clubhouse. He said he was "hot at the right time" and then told of his desire to win the crown ever since 1936.

"I didn't say much about it but it was in my mind," he said.

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 6 (AP) — About the last man around Gold Time track to find out that the Hambletonian favorite, Chestertown, would be driven by Tom Berry tomorrow was Harry Whitney, who's only trained the colt since he's been a little shaver.

Whitney figured the colt would be steered by Harry Fitz Patrick, who handled him at Old Orchard, Me., last week . . . But Fitz broke for E. J. Baker, the St. Charles, Ill., old-man who owns the Hambletonian's second choice, Winfield Girl . . . and some of the boys didn't think it would be nice for the trainer of the second choice to drive the favorite.

DAWES BLACK HORSE BREWERY

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

All the danger in bridge is not from what partner may do to you. The game holds such perilous terms as holdups, ruffes and strips, squeezes, smothers, and uppercuts.

In bridge, an uppercut is not a haymaker on the button. It is a play that involves the use of a higher card than necessary. Its aim is to knock out an opponent controlling card.

Such an uppercut is usually employed in a trumping operation. A player trumps with a card higher than he would ordinarily use. It forces opponent to cover trump with a card that weakens his control.

South is declarer at a contract of four spades in this deal:

♠ 10 9 7 6
♥ K Q 4
♦ A 9
♣ 6 5 2

WEST
♠ J 3 1
♥ 10 8 3
♦ 8 4 2
♣ A K J 8 3

EAST
♠ Q 4
♥ J 9 6 4 2
♦ 7 6 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A K 8 5 2
♦ K Q J 10
♣ 10 7

West starts out with an opening lead of the club king. East puts the nine on that trick. Such a high discard is a come-on signal. It asks partner to continue leading that suit.

Seeing the queen in dummy, west knows that east will trump the third round of clubs. Otherwise, east could not have a discise for asking that the suit be continued.

West leads the club ace to take the second trick and then leads a third club. Having counted the clubs, west knows that south is out of clubs also. But east asked for it.

If east trumps with the spade four, south will overtrump with the five. Thereafter, south can pick up outstanding trumps. He can do it with straight leads of his two aces.

East should slap his trump queen on the third club trick. The will uppercut south into using up the king he wants that trick.

Now, declarer is unable to grab the west trump jack. One of his contents has been foiled out of his hand. It was knocked out by the east uppercut.

Pass the smelling salts.

Hollywood Column

Holywood, Aug. 6 —(AP)— Women would be more attractive if they spent more time brushing their hair and less time trying to dress it in the fancy styles affected by movie stars.

That's what Bette Davis thinks.

"Especially the younger women," Bette told me on the "Deception" set. "These are inclined to try out the elaborate hairdos they see on the screen without considering whether or not these modes match their particular kind of face or personality.

I noted that Bette's tresses, usually worn simply, were knotted in complicated fashion on the back of her neck. She explained:

" of my Chignon (I knew there'd be a high-toned name for a bun) a lady in the movies must do something besides act to attract attention."

Even Bette Davis'

George Sanders' vacation plans have been stymied by feminine opposition.

Sanders had been trying in vain to get reservations to go to England as soon as he finishes "Bel Ami." He heard that Arthur Rubinstein had cancelled his trip, so he had Treacher arrange with the travel agent to transfer the plane seat to George.

But the pianist's mother heard about the proposed switch. She made her son promise to cancel reservations. Then she and sister had heard Sanders' caustic remarks about women.

"No son of mine," she declared, "is ever going to do business with a man who says things like that about women."

In the film palaces, . Heartbreast (RKO-Ipq minutes) involved a sweet young thing, Ginger Rogers, French pickpocket, European royalty and a youthful ambassador (Jean Pierre Aumont). Basil Rathbone sheds his gloves and fiddle to become an expert at legerdemain. Jean Pierre establishes himself as one of the most pleasing leading men on today's screen.

World's Title Match in Golf To Be Played

White Plains, N.Y., Aug. 6 — Aug. 6 — (AP) — Herman Barron, owner of a fortune of $10,000 for his victory in the All-American Open and Chick Mangrum, Texan who won the United States Open last month, today agreed to compete with Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., British Open ruler for the world's golf championship at George S. May's Tam O'Shanter course in Chicago, Sept. 7-8.

A fourth golfer, said May, will be the victor in the Professional Golfers Association tournament at Portland, Ore., Aug. 19-25.

The world's championship will be a $10,000 winner-take-all event of 36 holes, 18 on each day. In the event of a tie a play-off will be held on Monday, Sept. 9.

Besides the $10,000 jackpot, the world's champion will receive what May calls "golf's most expensive trophy. It will weigh 100 pounds, will be 36 inches high and is to be made of sterling silver.

The collection of gasps went up there yesterday when Walter E. Smith of Los Angeles gave Bill Cane a $40,000 cheque to buy Chestertown. . . That's the most "cabbage" ever paid for a three-year-old trotter and the highest price for any trotter in 20 years. . . After the Hambletonian, Smith is figuring on running Chestertown in states at Lexington, Ky., Illinois State Fair and the $50,000 trot at Hollywood next April.

'BUNNY' DUNLOP SPECIAL REFEREE HERE FRI. NIGHT

Henning, Morgan Meet in Request Return Bout

As a result of a wild after-bout argument between Tour Morgan and Les Henning, following Morgan's tremendously popular victory last week, the embattled pair of heavyweights have been re-signed , and will meet again this Friday to really settle their feud. But an additional point of interest has been added for Manager Walter Gerow has asked for and been granted permission to have none other than big Bunny Dunlop handle the match.

Bunny's been so much criticism of officials of late" said Gerow, "that I went after a fearless, fairly rugged man to handle this match. It matter little to me if fans dislike Dunlop as a wrestler, everybody knows Bunny is as strong and tough as they come and lately he has been refereeing very important cards in Toronto and some United States cities".

It's really a ten-strike, getting Bunny to tackle this officiating chore here for of late, either the wrestlers or the fans seem to have been dissatisfied with every official that could be obtained. Last week Henning was wild about Powers' decision to Morgan after Larnquist Lee had run Tour's head right into the plank edging of the ring floor. Morgan too, didn't want to obtain a win that way and readily agreed to Dunlop officiating next Friday's clash.

"I don't care much for Dunlop myself" said Tour "and we've had a run-in or two, but I think he'd be handy to have around if Henning tries any more of his illegal work."

In the semi-final, Karl Davis meets Mike Sharpe who decisioned Dunlop last week. Popular and handsome Frankie Taylor of Hollywood will be introduced here in the third match against burly Jim Casey. Henry, to round out the most exciting-looking mat program of the year, comes early for this one on Friday night.

Dickie Walker Leading Hitter National League

New York, Aug. 5 — (AP) — Dixie Walker, Brooklyn Dodger outfielder went on a batting rampage during last week that enabled him to resume the individual batting leadership of the National League while Washington's Mickey Vernon retained 1st place in the American League's tilt derby for the third straight week with a .357 mark.

The popular ballhawk of the Dodgers slammed out 12 hits in 22 appearances at the plate including games of Sunday to boost his average from .377 to .378 while Boston's Johnny Hopp, last week's pace-setter, collected only three bingles in 18 attempts and fell to second with .365.

George Kell of Detroit, hopped from eighth to fourth place in the American circuit, adding 16 markers for a .323 average.

BROOKS ENJOYING 2½-GAME LEAD OVER CARDINALS

Able to Defeat Boston Braves and Phillies With Monotonous Regularity

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Brooklyn's ability to defeat Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies with almost monotonous regularity continues and manager Leo Durocher has the knack of yanking a faltering moundsman at the right time.

With 101 games under their belt, the Brooks enjoy a 2½ game margin over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals in the National League but only 23 complete games have been turned in by the Dodger batting crew, 26 of them victories.

In 69 Dodger contests, Durocher employed 201 hurlers in bagging 36 victories and losing 32. Little Vic Lombardi leads the Dodger hurlers in both victories and complete games, with 11.

The Dodgers pulled another game out of the fire last night as they trimmed the Braves 7-4.

Trailing 3-1 in the fourth, the Dodgers surged ahead in the 5th by scoring five runs on a three-run homer by Pee Wee Reese and a two-run circuit clout by Dixie Walker.

Rookie southpaw Joe Hatten started for the Dodgers but lasted less than three innings. Hank Behrman and Ralph Branca finished up, allowing only one run. Branca received credit for the win.

Mort Cooper began for Boston but blew up in the fifth.

In an exhibition contest at New York, the Giants dropped a 3-2 decision to New York Yankees and also lost the services of Johnny Mize, the senior loop's top home run hitter, for two to four weeks after suffering a fractured right hand when struck by a pitched ball by Joe Page in the first inning.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By DAVE MacINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug 6 (CP)—A dark flash wheeled for a spill second before our field of vision.

"That was Elmore Harris," our friend explained. "Look, there he is on his turn — two-mile, he's on the fare side of the track now.!

"Sassay," we said trying to flick away the film before our eyes, this New York boy is pretty good."

Everybody seemed to agree that he was good; all except one, a man who had seen Harris, who is the United States outdoor 400-metre champion, race before. "You should see him on a dry track and when the weather's right," he said.

Tom Lord, Secretary of the Montreal Track and Field Club wasn't in the least put out by the Americans' overwhelming victory.

"Our boys put up a darn fine show," he said afterwards. "Take this kid Don McFarlane from Western in the 440. He beat out two good American runners for third. And in the relay. He ran his leg (440 yards) in 49 seconds. Or take Bill Morris of Toronto or Glenn Cowan of Montreal. Cowan missed a second in the 880 by inches."

He said he thought the Canadian trackmen and fieldmen (he had a great deal of praise, too, for high-jumper Art Jacobs of Toronto) had done better than they ever had before in their lives.

"We went to have more competitions like this. And before long our boys should be getting themselves asked to indoor meets in the States. We've got the stuff but we need the competition."

Repeat Performance

Wally Brown, former University of Toronto track and field star who was outstanding in the last edition of the British Empire games, competed in the shot-put against an old opponent Saturday, Irving Klotlisch of New York. He had missed the ball once before against him in a service meet in Luxembourg , just after the war. Hearing the shot Saturday was a bit of a hardship for Wally, by the way, he had two broken ribs.

TORONTO LEAFS SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH THE GIANTS

Jersey City Needs But One Game to Climb Out of the Cellar

(By The Associated Press)

The almost season long occupancy of last place in the International League by Jersey City Giants may be ended today.

Trailing the seventh-place Rochester Red Wings by one game, the Giants hook-up in a single contest with Toronto Maple Leafs while the slumping Wings meet the red hot Baltimore Orioles, who are runners-up to the pace-setting Montreal Royals, in a twin bill.

The Giants missed an opportunity to vacate the cellar by splitting a twin bill in Toronto last night in the only contests scheduled in the loop. A double win for the Jerseys would have moved them into seventh place, percentage points ahead of the Wings.

In the opener, the Giants moved out the Leafs, 3-2, with Norman Jaeger smashing a two-run seventh inning triple to account for the tying and winning markers.

However, the four-hit tossing of veteran Luke Hamlin and the slugging of Jack Wallaesa were responsible for the 4-3 defeat suffered by the Jerseys in the nightcap.

Wallaesa batted in all of Toronto's runs while collecting a single and a homer.

Seventy Pucksters Will be Selected To Go to Scotland

Toronto, Aug. 6 — (CP) — At a time when most citizens looked on ice as something that came in cubes and tinkled in tall glasses, an earnest group of young Canadians slammed the puck against the boards and around the ice flashing blades at Royal's Arena here.

Candidates for Claude Kewley's Scottish Ice Hockey Association, the 160-odd pucksters were shooting for a chance to play hockey overseas when winter comes. The try-outs closed Saturday and from the youngsters some 70 of the better players will be selected.

Bunny Ahearn and Lou Rates of the British Ice Hockey Association also were present at the trials, scouting for players to help re-establish hockey in England next winter.

Any talent they pick up will be against the earnest competition of pro and amateur scouts and coaches on this side of the Atlantic. Seen at the Arena was Clarence (Hap) Day and Dobby Davidson of the Toronto Maple Leafs' National Hockey League Club; Johnny Mitchell of the American League, Pittsburgh Ronnets; Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings; Gait Red Wings' Bob Gray; Stratford's Dave Pinkney; Kingston's Bill Mills and Toronto Young Rangers' Ki Wilson.

Kingston's talented delegates attracted much attention at the try-outs. Johnny Myke and Stan Stewart, both husky youths, impressed observers mightily for the Scotland trip. Two hustling puck men said to be already signed are Herby Kewley, who played for Galt Red Wings this season and Johnny Marshall, with Oshawa Generals in the Senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association.

"when I read the motion picture "Mom and Dad" I was impressed with the fine good purpose behind the production and with the attitude of parents toward their responsibility to the motion picture industry. I, as a psychologist, am personally of the opinion that the picture is the right kind of contribution to meet the problem of delinquency.

CHAPTER 1

Virgie Blake, second in command of the cigar counter in the Hotel Raymond Imperial lobby, was admiring the profile of a guest who stood near one of the large windows.

The man lounged with his arms across the back of a chair, gazing out moodily into the street where sheets of driving rain marched under a leaden sky. An unlighted pipe was clamped between his teeth.

Virgie had approved of this stranger the first time he checked to pass the stand. It must have been nearly a week ago. She liked his broad shoulders, the restless set of his head, the way his gaunt, the lean face bronzed by long out-of-doors exposure. His lower lip was heavy, a trifle pugnacious. An attractive carelessness marked his general appearance. It was evidenced by the unruly thatch of crisp dark hair, and in the suit of rough gray tweeds. There was an air of strength in all the man's leisurely movements. He gave an impression that he might act with disconcerting swiftness if need be.

Virgie Blake enjoyed none of these detailed specifications in her mental catalogue. It was not her way of describing a man who appealed to her. She had decided pleasantly and promptly that there was "something about him." And let it go at that.

Not quite, for she had taken occasion to glide over to the desk and make a private investigation of the flight blank she saw his guest asking for his key and letters.

"Mr. Edsel Gerling," Virgie smiled persuasively at the room clerk on duty. "Who's the party who just took his key?"

"The one in the gray suit!" Eddie Sawyer nodded in the direction of the bank of elevators.

"Uh-huh."

"Fourteen sixty-one," Sawyer's forefinger traveled down the vertical card file near his elbow. "The name is Cutter — H. H.—from Chicago."

"Do you know what he does?"

"I do not. Sounds like a butcher or a tailor. You'll know long before I do."

"Thanks."

"Not at all. Is he the day's particular thrill?"

"Aye, there, Eddie!"

Miss Blake's crimson lips curved in a smile of anticipation. Her dark eyes glowed. "1946" turn wearily from the rain-streaked window and stroll directly towards the cigars.

Smoking tobacco, he suggested affably, resting his arms on the display case. There was a leisurely quality in his voice, too. Very nearly a drawl.

"What brand, please..... Mr. Cutter?"

"I wish I knew." A faint flicker of amusement showed in the dark eyes at the saleswoman's use of the name. He tapped idly with the bowl of his briar against the counter. "I've a notion I'd like to try something different...today." Virgie Blake had keen instincts of intuition. Ordinarily she would have attempted an adroit reply. Something from her stock of ready "come-backs" that the customer might translate easily as a willingness on her part to encourage conversation—to more interesting lengths. Instead, her head tilted thoughtfully as she investigated the set waves of her raven hair. Her long lashes, their richness abetted by a patient application of mascara, screened the interested regard of her alert eyes.

"We have everything, almost," Virgie smiled. Mr. Cutter's drawl with unintentional persistence.

"You seem to," was the quick admission. Again that little flicker in his eyes. He turned them back to the neat rows of merchandise that filled the wall cabinets at the rear of the booth. "Oh well....I may as well stick with the old reliable." He pointed with the stem of his pipe.

"One of these, you mean?" Coolness tinged Miss Blake's voice. The customer's words roused a puzzled suspicion in her mind. Maybe he was trying to get fresh.

"No, ma'am. The next can. That's it." Cutter's drawl was there devoid of all guile.

The buyer lingered to open the can. He crowded tobacco into his pipe bowl with practised care.

"Do you think it's ever going to stop raining?" Virgie ventured forgivingly. "I know this sort of day fairly gives me the jitters."

Her voice displayed a confidential note. She swayed nearer, in graceful pose. "Does it make you feel that way, too?"

"It's not...conducive to...dreamsied...relaxation," his words were accented by swift puffs. Cutter blew a lingering thread of smoke from his pursed lips. He flipped a match into an ash receiver and allowed his gaze to travel across the lobby. "One really should find something to do on a day like this," he said. He nodded in the direction of a small glass enclosed office not far away. "I should go over and see my fine stenographer a bit. She doesn't seem any too busy."

Something in the tone of his voice caused Virgie to look in the same direction. She attempted a mysterious smile, as she asked the interested question, "Are you a sailor?"

"No.....why?", Cutter did not turn his head as he asked it.

"Then you won't get very far with her."

"I was only thinking of letters. Doesn't she take dictation?"

"Sure. She's a wiz. Sweet kid, but speedy. I was just trying to give you a tip, that's all." Virgie made the explanation a trifle uncomfortable. She was dumb to pull that one. But it was too late now. Her new friend was plainly interested.

"I'm afraid I don't get it," he admitted, taking his pipe from his mouth. "You a long ways from salt water here. Should I dash over and tell her the fleet's in?"

"Don't be like that! I mean she almost never gives a customer a tumble. You know. As long as they stick to their home work. But it's you fellows they're giving her a big moment. If they drop a stitch, I'll know what I mean. She's that way."

"I'm...sorry."

Cutter continued to stare at the stenographer as if it were the first time he had chanced to observe her. Very little more than her head and shoulders were visible through the glass panel. The glow from a shaded desk lamp shone warmly on her cinnamon-brown hair, a swirling bob of soft waves that covered one small bowed head. Apparently, she was reading. And deeply absorbed—to judge by the half parted lips of her dreamy mouth. Large horn-rimmed spectacles gave an almost grotesque look to her oval face.

"Pretty hair," Cutter observed reflectively around the stem of his pipe. He might have been speaking his thoughts aloud.

"Gorgeous!" Virgie agreed, with commendable enthusiasm. "She's an awfully cute little somebody. That's why it's a pity she's an old can, sort of—"

"Don't you mean bookworm? I've noticed that she's quite a reader."

"That's a part of it." Virgie was relaxing into a more familiar role now. "It's like I was telling you, Mr. Cutter. I'm not knocking her. She's too sweet. I mean it. It's just that she never has much to say to anybody...no line, you know. But let somebody start giving her the low-down on Europe, Irup or Africa. And will she come to! Perfect pen for geography places."

"Sort of a Burton Holmes complex!"

"No, I don't think she goes for detectives in a big way. She's always got her nose in adventure magazines mostly. If a sheik was to ankle in here on a horse-right now, Jane would climb right up behind him and go places."

"Jack!" The word betrayed fresh interest.

"Her name's Jacqueline. We call her Jack. That's why I made that crack about sailors. But I can't figure getting all hot and bothered over a time-table unless you got a ticket. Take me, now."

Not infrequently, a customer would find sudden inspiration in a half-finished suggestion like that. But this man with the pipe seemed not to have heard.

"What's her last name?" he demanded.

"Miss Anthony." Virgie became suddenly formal.

"Thanks. You said 'Miss.'"

MADOC HONORS

dance and carnival at night concluded the re-union festivities.

Re Register

Nearly 500 former residents registered on opening day and spent many happy hours renewing old friendships. The visitors arrived from all parts of North America. In fact Mrs. Les Miller Saunders, daughter of the late Dan and Mrs. Miller of Madoc, came all the way from Bogota, Colombia, S. America, to pay homage to her native town on this happy day. Dr. "Bob" McCaffery, of Chilliwack, British Columbia, had the distinction of being the first visitor to register.

Special Services

Sunday's festivities climaxed with special reunion services. At St. Peter's Presbyterian Church Rev. V.C. officiated at the service, assisted by Rev. Dr. Hollis, commemorating the men and women who left the church and went to it both the first and last World War. Major Foote drew a very timely address on "Peace" and the overflowing congregation, when they sang the hymn of victory, day not to let themselves fall into the snares of Satan, but to attain the true Christian spirit by building on things material, and thus attain the spiritual reproach.

Benediction Pelete

He illustrated his point most effectively by comparing the German attempt at world domination by means of the Nazi Dictatorship and ideology to that of the Israelites' attempt to build up prosperity by their own building and ancient tower of Babel (which was supposed to reach to heaven) both of which were ultimately doomed to failure. The Rev. J. E. Shuter, of Trenton, and Rev. H. St. Peters assisted at the service and conducting of the Benediction. Special music rendered the Inaugural Trio, consisting of Mrs. Roy Clifford and a solo by Mr. Ronald King, of Belleville. Attend Banquet

The Masonic Order and the C.G.I.T. attended the church service at Trinity United Church, Madoc, Sunday night. Rev. A. Poulley chose as his theme "The costliness and value of friendship." Special music was provided by Mrs. Fred Houston, formerly Myrtle Grady of Madoc and her daughter, Miss Margaret Houston. Beautiful flowers were placed in the church by Mrs. Ella Adams in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in this war.

Salvation Service Held

In the afternoon the I.O.O.F. held their annual Memorial Service. Accompanied by the Stirling band they paraded to the Lake View Cemetery where at the Cenotaph to lay a wreath in memory of those who did not return. Services at the cemetery were conducted by Rev. A. Poulter, N. G. assisted by Dr. S. S. Beatty, P.D.D.G.M. and Brother Gregory Hollands as chaplain. Th parade was 100 strong including representatives of the Cantons from Belleville.

In the evening members of the L.O.L. paraded to St. John's Anglican Church where services were conducted by Rev. J. L. Hutchinson.

Sacred Concert

Following the service a sacred concert led by the Stirling band was held in the Thompson Memorial Park with Reeve Geo. Reid as chairman. Mayor Wallbridge did duty boys back and introduced the guest speakers' Major J. W. Foote, V. C., Geo. White, M. P. for Mr. McKnight of New Liskeard.

Dr. "Bob" McCaffery of Chilliwack, B.C., James Nickle, warden of Hastings County, and Sam Mitchell, Seattle, Wash.

Major Foote dallivered a special message to the youth of today mentioning the value of a small community like Madoc in the early development of one's character; pointing out how fortunate we are to be living in Canada, a land of future as compared to the war-torn European nations.

One of the highlights of the festivities to date was the immense calithumpian parade held Monday morning. Representatives from the various business institutions participated at the largest parade in many years made of Madoc. A great deal of credit is due to the sponsors of the many and varied floats which added the many color to the parade.

In the afternoon the scene shifted to the Fair Grounds where a large crowd witnessed the horse and bicycle racing as well as the ball game and sports.

A beautiful fireworks display boosted off the evening activities at the fair grounds, and a boxing match was held which was later followed by dancing at the fair building and grounds.

Fuel Minister Not in Favor Of House of Lords

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Aug. 6 (CP)—About 900 peers received calmly the statement of Fuel Minister Shinwell that he hopes the day soon will come when the Labor government will be rid of the House of Lords.

The years seem to fast, after a year of working with the government, that Labor leaders do not want a showdown fight with the House of Lords and that such a clash may be postponed indefinitely. Furthermore, Labor chiefs know that when they talk of reform of the House of Lords, as opposed to abolition, they are likely to find some of Britain's oldest titled names supporting their cause.

Mr. Shinwell could have arranged a fight to the finish with the Lords when the Upper House refused to accept some part of his coal nationalization legislation. The bill was returned to the Commons. But the Lords made concessions and so did Mr. Shinwell.

Express and freight Crash Head-on at Beamsville — A trainman was killed and three others injured in head-on collision of express and a freight train in the yard at Beamsville Saturday. Engines are seen locked together after the crash. Firemen Harold G. Worley of Kingston, and Thomas Reid of Toronto, were pinned in cab and tender of his engine as he tried to jump.

LORNE C. ROLOFSON & CO. LIMITED INSURANCE
AS-31

The happy relations of the present, whatever the future may hold, are confirmed by Lord Addison, government leader in the Lords, who wrote an article for Labor Press Service indicating he did not think an immediate change necessary.

He remarked that the Tory opposition has shown a disposition to sink mere prejudice and join with us on the government benches in helping the House of Lords to perform its proper function as a second chamber.

That function he defined as being a chamber of "revision and scrutiny" not "amendment rather than in using it as a Tory engine for the frustration of the Labor government summoned to office and to power by the nation."

Some Labor backbenchers have indicated they would like an early revision of the Upper Chamber or its complete elimination. But the general reception has been cool from either Prime Ministe-Attlee or House Leader Morrison who have told them that the opponents of labor seen by the Lords will continue as representation is needed in this section of the legislative structure.

Labor appointees have not even objected to hereditary titles and their children will in time also sit in the Lords if no change is made.

Reform proposals the government probably will consider at its leisure include:

1. The Lords should be made subject to whole would be summoned men who had given notable public service.

2. Peers should not be able to pass on their seats in the Lords to their children. All serving in the second chamber should be the chosen of their own merits.

3. All privy councillors should be members of a second chamber. This would mean that commonwealth statesmen like Prime Ministers Mackenzie King could sit in the Lords when a matter of interest to Canada was reviewed.

4. Women should be made peers in the same way as men.

5. Cabinet ministers, although not peers, should be invited to take part in Lords debates.

Ottawa, Aug. 3 — (CP) — The topic of most lively speculation in parliamentary corridors these days is prorogation date.

Tired, hot and increasingly grumpy members, snatching coffee in the cafeteria or a beer in the barber shop are generally not optimistic. A cautious program came through and the governor listened attentively.

"There," Dr. Frigon quoted a governor, is the kind of a program the American networks deliver. Isn't it polished and outstanding?"

"Just then," recounted the doctor, "a CBC announcer came on and announced the program was coming from Montreal under the direction of J. J. Gagne."

MAY DISCONTINUE N.R.I.

Ottawa, Aug. 3 —(CP)— Discontinuance of national registration is reported to be receiving serious consideration by the government. Introduced in 1941, the registration has continued in effect and it costs about $500,000 a year to keep the records up-to-date noting changes of address, deaths and the registration of Canadians as they reach the age of 16.

C.C.L. PROPOSES NATIONAL LABOR CODE FOR CANADA

Industrial Councils With Jurisdiction Over Big Industries Also Suggested

Ottawa, Aug. 7 —(CP)— The Canadian Congress of Labour's Wage Committee today put before the Commons Industrial Relations Committee recommendations aimed at an improvement in industrial relations.

The congress proposed establishment of a permanent national labor code, creation of industrial councils for leading industries with wholly jurisdiction over profits, prices, ' production and wages.

The 9,000-word submission, presented to the committee by Pat Conroy, chairman of the C.C.L. wage co-ordinating body, reviewed the position labor has organized labor in Canada and urged full recognition of labor's place in industry.

The brief included criticism of the position taken before the committee by Donald C. Gordon, Prices Board chairman, in terms of the report made by Justice W. D. Rosch in the early days of the government's attitude toward wage controls.

Three Main Proposals.

The congress proposals came under three main headings:

1. The establishment of a peacetime, nationwide labor code by co-operation of the government, where practicable, operation was not forthcoming by compulsory measures.

2. Formation of industrial councils for each industry on a tripartite basis, with representation of employers, labor and the public, "the councils to have jurisdiction over "very problem of industry, including profits, prices, production and wages."

3. Substantial assistance to present research facilities of the Labor Department and Dominion Bureau of Statistics to provide all relevant data on each industry that would be helpful to both labor and employers in their dealings with each other.

"The present unrest and strike situation throughout the country are, in our opinion, largely due to the automatic outcome of lack of proper consideration of the principles adopted by wages and industrial relations boards in the early affairs of our country," said Mr. Conroy.

Trade unionism had yet to be accepted as an institution by the majority of employers, the Canadian industry and unions were passing through a period similar to that in Britain a generation ago as a result union, particularly in many industries, were restricted to "an agitistic status."

Legislation Reviewed

The brief reviewed wartime wage control legislation, Mr. Conroy said in January, 1946, the government had consulted organized labor on a plan under consideration to allow adjustments to be made within a five-cent range. The C.C.L. then proposed a 10-cent range, but no action was taken on either proposal.

The Deputy Magistrate remanded Dr. Shugar until Sept. 16 and set bail of $2,000 — about one-fifth between the $5,000 asked by the Crown and the $1,500 asked by the defence.

The anti-submarine expert, elected jury trial today in his second appearance in Ottawa's police court on a charge of conspiring to communicate confidential information to Russia. He did not plead.

A. W. Beament, his counsel, told Deputy Magistrate M. J. Power he believed the second charge — "precisely the same" as the one of which Shugar has already been freed — had been laid because he had asked the Justice Department on Aug. 1 to charge us or exonerate us."

His reference apparently was to the fact that Dr. Shugar has been relieved of his post with the health department since publication of the final report of the Royal Commission on espionage. That report recalled the action of Magistrate Glenn Stirke in refusing to commit the accused on a conspiracy charge but it cited evidence to back its contention that he was guilty.

AMERICAN TOURISTS A BIT CARELESS WITH THEIR PURSES

That American tourists are a bit careless with their pocketbooks or wallets is the thought which members of the local police forces, both provincial and city, are beginning to realize. So far in the past 36 hours female tourists have complained to police of losing their purses.

The first instance was Tuesday morning when Mrs. Harriet Irwin, "Poor Street, Andover, Mass., stated she had lost a purse, containing $70 in cash and papers. The second incident occurred at Shannonville when a tourist lost her purse, presumably as result of the car door being opened as the auto was turned at a corner.

Prompt Action By Ray Putman Leads to Arrest

Observation by Mr. Ray Putman, assistant at Belleville Burial Company, Campbell Street, in front of his office, led Belleville police yesterday to the apprehension of Pat F. McCarthy, 32, of Toronto, who has been charged with attempted theft of an automobile.

While a funeral was in progress on Campbell Street, Mr. Putman observed the man apparently attempting to steal the car from the place where it was parked on Campbell Street. When he went to question the man he jumped out the opposite door and ran off toward Front Street.

Mr. Putman gave a detailed description of the man and this with the result that P.C. Frank Sunderland later in the afternoon arrested a suspect on Front St. Subsequent investigation resulted in the charge of attempted car theft being laid.

Ottawa, Aug. 7. (CP) — The Senate Banking Committee today suggested on division—without recorded vote—that July 1, Dominion Day, be called "the National Holiday of Canada" after defeating by 12 votes to 10 a motion which would, in effect, have given a six-month hoist by a day to naming the holiday "Canada Day".

Members Escape Crashing Bomber By Parachuting

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (AP)—A Douglas C-74 Globemaster, largest plane now used by the United States army, crashed within a few hundred feet of a 1,000-barrel oil storage tank Monday by the four crew members escaped by parachuting.

Pilot Russell K. Thaw, famed racing and test flier, received minor injuries. The son of Harry K. Thaw, wealthy New York playboy of the early 1900's, the pilot has been frequent participant in cross-country air races.

Last week Douglas announced that the same plane, piloted by Thaw, established what the army said was a world record by lifting 172,000 pounds, more than twice its own weight. The Globemaster has a wingspread of 172 feet, is 124 feet long and its four engines total 13,600 horsepower.

One of the huge motors broke away, plummeted through the top of the oil tank and was submerged in 30 feet of oil but did not fire the tank. The scattered wreckage burned and the field where the plane landed resembled a shell-torn battlefield, J. W. Sullivan, a witness, said the cargo transport crashed through high tension wires and banged into Sunset Towers area in the area was disrupted for a time.

Four Policemen Killed in Italy

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP)—Four policemen and "many more" peasants Tuesday were reported killed in fighting near Palermo between Carbinieri and Sicilian peasants in revolt against combating their crops by the government's "generaries of the people."

The fighting broke out Monday when police attempted to enforce the wheat decree, the Italian News Agency Ansa said. The policemen reported fighting side by side with men against the Carbinieri, who used tanks and armored cars in their efforts to smash the revolt.

The fighting was said to be centered in the town of Caccamo, where dispatches said was surrounded by police.

Sicily has lagged far behind most other parts of Italy in the economic progress, which the government instituted in an effort to smash the black market, and assure an equitable bread ration. Most reports said that Sicilian land turned in only 12.5 per cent of their goal, or 178,184 tons of wheat.

Disorders also were reported Monday in various other parts of Italy.

At first, police opened fire when a crowd of 3,500 unemployed stormed the palace of the Prefect, Ex. of the crowd and eight policemen were injured in the fighting.

Old Country Letter

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The August bank holiday has ended and the British workingman, after his long week-end in summer weather turns back to his job of re-winding a place in the international sun for his country.

As the peace months roll away with shortages and restrictions continuing and no prospect of an early return to "normal" there seems to be a general realization that it is going to be a tough fight.

But the three days off work were fine while they lasted. Few countries, regardless of circumstances, celebrate as thoroughly as this one. Everybody wants to go to the seashore and millions make it. Everything but transport stops.

This year was something special because it was the first peacetime August Bank holiday for 45,000,000 people cramped in two small islands. Some 2,400 special trains and countless buses were in service.

Motorists jammed the highways from London and other cities, squandering their precious gasoline rations on resort trips.

Actually, going to the beach was not much fun. Beach chairs were set out in long rows so close together that it was almost impossible to find room. Provincials who came to London for the holidays actually got the best of it.

The people you meet in Britain are inclined to be pessimistic at the end of the first peace year. Constant international wrangling and the disastrous start of the Paris Peace conference have been no help, especially when coupled with the troubled Palestine situation and the apparent breakdown of self-government negotiations for India.

But more disappointing, because they are close at hand, are domestic difficulties. The people of Britain have been working a year for prosperity without seeing much improvement in their own situation.

It is one thing to point out that exports now are greater than in 1938 and the country is more than halfway to so-called "prosperity"—a goal of 175 per cent of pre-war figures. But what people want after six austerity years are more goods at home, not overseas.

Heirens Confesses To Degnan Murder

Chicago, Aug. 7 —(AP)— State's Attorney William J. Tuohy said Tuesday that William Heirens had confessed he killed Suzanne Degnan, six-year-old kidnap victim.

The prosecutor said he asked the 17-year-old university student: "Did you kill Suzanne Degnan?"

Heirens replied, the prosecutor added, "Yes sir."

The question was the sixth propounded by the prosecutor at a "confession conference" in his office ringed by Heirens' lawyers.

Heirens' lawyers announced prior to a similar "confession conference" early a week ago that the youth also would confess the "ligstick" slaying last Dec. 10 of Frances Brown, 23, and the fatal stabbing June 2, 1945 of Mrs. Josephine Ross, 43-year-old widow.

To Petition For Judicial Probe

Montreal, Aug. 7 —(CP)— A decision to petition the Lieutenant-Governor for a royal commission inquiry into Montreal's police department for the last 10 years was reached by the city's six-man executive committee Monday. The 99-member city council gave unanimous approval.

The committee's intentions were announced at a council meeting by its chairman, J. O. Asselin who also disclosed that the police department was due for a complete reorganization in the autumn, following the appointment of a new director, Fernand Dufresne, department head for the last 15 years, requested several months ago to be relieved of his duties, Mr. Asselin said.

The request for a deep examination of the much discussed affairs of the city's police department came less than a fortnight after the fatal shooting of gambler Harry Davis in an uptown bookie establishment and the suspension of Capt. Arthur Tache, head of the morality squad, two days later.

Capt. Tache subsequently resigned from the force but the police department's disciplinary board refused to accept the resignation and has ordered his appearance for questioning. Lieut. Arthur Maille, his assistant, also was suspended and is to appear before the board Aug. 16.

Sugar Increase

Sugar which plays no mean part in the household economics of this age has been more in the mind of people during the years of rationing than at any other time. So any change in the amount allotted by ration is certain to attract interest.

Good word came on Tuesday from the Prices Board announcing an increase in the amount to be allowed, namely three pounds more to be available to the individual coupon holder between the first of next month and the end of the year than at present. Certain advances in the allotment are to be allowed industrial and quota users, such as soft drink and confectionery manufacturers, hotels and restaurants.

A healthy sign is that stocks have improved sufficiently so that these increases may be made. Yet, however, world supplies which provide the pool of sugar which is allotted to the nations are of course below requirements.

The time when the extra coupons are to be valid has been announced, two coming due in the case in December and one in August the sixth of the month.

Thirty-one pounds a year — that will be the new rate for individuals, against the present 28 pounds. Of course there will be as previously, no pounds besides — this amount being for canning.

As announced yesterday, one of the objects is to help housewives increase possibly their home canning operations through the knowledge of the forthcoming increase.

Improvement in the sugar situation is a cheering note to those who prepare and serve the meals of the people of the nation, the candy makers and consumers and other industrial users.

Kingston Observes Centennial

Kingston, now marking its centennial as a city, is one of the oldest centres in Canada, dating back to the days of the seventeenth century when Count Frontenac, Governor, constructed a fort there on the site of the present city. From that time until the present it has been known as a military centre among other qualifications. The original settlement on the site on which the municipality now stands has ever since been associated with the life of Upper Canada and the rest of the Dominion. On the Great Lakes chain, the city from the first was important as a port and there are evidences of the significance of the settlement in its early days with the series of great explorations by which the unknown world to the west was opened up in the 17th century. So it has found its share in the development of the Continent through to where the Pacific Ocean washes the western coast.

This ancient city can take more than passing interest in the rest of the Dominion, whose development it preceded by generations. It gave Canada the first Prime Minister, Sir John A. Macdonald, with the coming of Confederation. Known over this continent and abroad for the Royal Military College whose graduates have served with distinction in many parts of the world, for Queen's University whose graduates in all science and medicine are found in many parts of this continent and abroad, and for its theological college which has played no small share in the cultivation of Christian culture and citizenship in Canada. Industrially the city is one of importance and its position on Lake Ontario assures its continued development as the Dominion with its great opportunities of expansion grows.

One hundred years of life as a city is a long stretch of time, and it has been an interesting history as far as Kingston is concerned.

Such celebrations demonstrate to the world that this part of Canada has its roots deep in time, that this Province, like the rest of Canada, is mature, having reached the stature of wonderful manhood, while it is still young enough to possess the boundless energy, inspiration and health of youth just as it possesses a past which has enriched the lives of the people of this Continent.

Kingston occupies an honored place in the Canada of the twentieth century with a future which is bright and with all the possibilities and probabilities of continued growth. The other urban communities of Ontario congratulate Kingston on its long and notable history and on its progress, besides the influence it has exerted and is exerting in so many fields of interest.

Buried Treasure

When you have a small area like the British Isles packed with the relics of fourteen centuries of history, it's not surprising that some of them come to the surface in the most unexpected places. A recent instance centred on small-minded, pompous philatelists, and incidentally, proved a very pleasant windfall for the Duke of Buccleuch. The Duke's secretary was tidying up in his library and found in a desk long-forgotten cache. Inside was a sheet of forty-eight twopenny blues. Not so exciting, on the face of it, but these stamps happened to be twopenny blues of 1840, which are the rarest of the high-priced stamp collectors dream blissfully about. And that eight-shillings worth fetched six thousand guineas. Colin Wills mentioned this little flutter in the stamp world in a talk he gave from the BBC about discoveries of treasure in Britain.

Another recent find was even more valuable, both historically and materially. A farmer, ploughing near Mildenhall in Suffolk, stopped his plough when the share grated on something metallic. Just below the surface was a hoard of Roman silver, at least 3,000 years old. There were dishes, bowls, and spoons, of magnificent quality and great beauty, and all in practically perfect condition. It was obviously the household treasure of some Romano-British family, but its discovery probably an invasion scare —the owners buried it may never be known. In accordance with English law, a coroner's inquest was held on the find, which was declared treasure-trove.

Gertrude Stein's Style

Gertrude Stein, an American writer who died in Paris the other day, was a lady of many virtues, but her literary fame was founded largely on the fact that ordinarily nobody knew what on earth she was writing about.

Miss Stein invented a style that was abstruse and repetitive. "A rose is a rose is a rose," she would write, and similar gems accidentally, and the critics rose to the bait, argued about the profound significance of this new manner of writing, tried to find a deep symbolism in her curious arrangement of words. All of which was good indeed for the sale of Miss Stein's books, and she lived in France in considerable comfort on the proceeds.

We have a strong suspicion that her abstractions were puzzling because they had no real meaning, that Gertrude Stein hoaxed both critics and the public and not only made the foolery pay but had a very good time for herself out of it. She was a lady with a sense of humor.

Viking Camp

Danish archaeologists have dug up a Viking fortress near Limfjorden, Jutland. They found quite a lot of bones, including about it. One theory is that the Vikings used it as a base for one of their invasions of England. Another, more interesting, is that it was a kind of training camp where men taken from peaceful walks of life were turned into soldiers.

This ancient camp, built of wood and underground for many centuries, may have been one of those places where the sergeants turned hesitant rookies into warriors who could stand fire.

JUST FOLKS

VANITY

The young folks rush to hold my coat;
They stand until they see me seated.
By these attentions small, I note,
They fancy Time has me defeated.

They call me "Sir" with deference nice.
They offer help that isn't needed.
It's plain their mother's good advice
About politeness they have heeded.

My old companions come and go,
No courtesies or favors paying.
They act as though they didn't know
How rapidly my hair is graying.

Though youthful kindness I commend,
And thankless for it I am never,
I'm vain, and longer would pretend
That I am still as young as ever.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

PUP GETS GOOD HOME

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.
You can put this in the dog-gone if you care to, but as you-life but this letter is written by a friend of dumb animals. I was told that on the 2nd of August a little boy was out going to the country with up by Lazier's dam to go in swimming when he saw a dog in some distress in the river. A man threw a burlap bag into the deep water and drowned it. The boy wondered what was in the bag so he fished it out, took off the clothes and all and got a hold of the pup which was still in the bag tied it and when he opened the bag there was a little white and brown pup nearly strangled and the boy was so satisfied to get the pup and when someone wanted to buy it from him the little boy said: "I wouldn't sell him for $25.00." The little boy and his dog had just been killed and all that little pup was supposed to have done was to bark. He could own him. I do hope if this is put in the paper that the man who was so heartless as many humans are say nothing. I don't know that anyone loves that poor little pup man's (best) friend. I know for it have two dogs.

Ontario Intelligencer.
Summer time all over your paper. Three tunnies let loose in Picton on Saturday last. Then some tearing along East Bridge Street on motorcycles, making a noise that half-hour paraded the streets of Bellevile, with their girls and children, old people and babies. I came over to Belleville for a weekend rest and to get away. I get out of here the better I like it. Where are your police? Surely they will allow such noises, not only in the evening, but during the day and night and early Sunday morning. Belleville for a rest. Anyhow not for me.

Cannot something be done about it? Other towns are doing things in your lovely city there is a lack of law and order and a lack of protection. Wake up public and get rid of this nuisance. Sitting on the corner of Ann Street around midnight and listen and you will be driven crazy with the motorcycle age.

A Visitor to Belleville.

Board to Review Policy Allowing Star Free Time

By JACK WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—(CP)—An arrangement by which the Toronto Daily Star is given two daily 15-minute free-time news broadcasts on a national basis will be brought before the next meeting of the corporation's board of governors, it was disclosed yesterday at the Commons radio committee while also heard that the present fiscal year would show the CBC running a heavy deficit—an amount tentatively set at $1,000,000.

The deficit was more than twice the amount of the 1945 deficit, CBC manager, Augustin Frigon, CBC manager, who in June had presented a statement showing a net figure might amount to $35,000. The revised estimate by Mr. Frigon said were based on more recent information but which still were considered tentative, showed expenditures amounting to $6,210,689.

At the June session of the committee, Dr. Frigon had explained that the CBC was getting revenues from the sale of receiving licences and from short or medium and that commercial revenues had not materialized as anticipated.

At a later meeting, A. D Dunton, CBC chairman, had told the committee the corporation be given the gross collection from licences and not the net figure at present. It was estimated on the basis of 1945 collections that in 1946 the CBC would gain an extra $30,000 by not bringing the total from this source to about $4,300,000.

Complaints Hearings

The session yesterday continued to hear public evidence and witnesses touched on topics from Communism to Time Communist and Bloc-Popularie parties, broadcasts, publication of newspapers, broadcasters and a long-disputed point as to whether private citizens had been sufficiently warned they might lose their licences.

Discussions were occupied largely with the Toronto Star's broadcasts.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) put the question last week and suggested the two broadcasts a day gave the Star a commercial value of $42,250 and after succeeding in getting the Star to cut advertising agencies commission to 15 per cent that the value would be about $37,000 annually. The Star paid on a rate of $87.50 for each 15-minute broadcast.

Mr. Diefenbaker wanted to know why the newspaper had been granted the free time. Dr. Frigon had said previously that it was a long-standing arrangement that was honored by time. He referred to Mr. Dunton's letter to CPCA, going out of existence in 1933 and the establishment of a new CBC outlet in Toronto.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Original letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to diseases, ailments or treatments, will be answered personally by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Only the most interesting will be published in his column. Owing to the large number of letters received daily a few days may elapse before you receive a reply. Address: Dr. William Brady, 1841 Broadway, New York City.

APPETAMINE AND APPETITE

In order to keep you happy I'll start off all right and tell about the use of amphetamine to facilitate reducing.

When used to control appetite the drug is safe only under the supervision of a physician.

Amphetamine (benzedrine) stimulates the brain, gives good results in depression, diminishes the desire to sleep occurring at night when taking barbiturates (sedon), the type of shaking palsy or Parkinsonism that develops after encephalitis ("sleeping sickness"), in some states of mental depression and in some cases of dementia praecox. The drug aggravates the condition of anxiety so it always makes nervous, unrelaxed or very "nervous" or restless. In experiments it has been found that human volunteers it has been observed that the drug actually diminishes appetite. Perhaps it would be nearer the truth to say that it restrains appetite below the normal young man (not overweight) in an effort to make sense of their treatment. Amphetamine sulfate—two 5-mg. tablets three times a day during part of the afternoon—has helped little or no weight loss although a marked reduction in food intake—no restrictions on diet.

So we may conclude that the drug does stimulate the cerebral cortex the brain, and facilitates or helps in losing weight by thus correcting the bad habit of eating too much and overeating by making the overnourished individual more active, more alert, more likely to go more like doing things, going things, making him or her more lively exercise and metabolism active.

That's all. I'm sorry it is not a drug which will work a miracle while you just sit.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How many gypsies are there?

It is estimated that in 1940 there were about 100,000 gypsies in the United States.

Although the majority of gypsies live in Europe and Asia, they are found in nearly every country and nobody has any idea how many of them there are in the world. The number has been estimated as high as 5,000,000.

The first band of gypsies reached France about 1417 and the common people of that country, supposing them to be Egyptians, expelled from Bohemia, called them "Bohemians" which they still the French name for gypsies.

From this source comes "Bohemian" as applied to artists, actors, writers and others who live free and easy lives. "Like gypsies" in violation of recognized conventions. "Bohemia" in this sense, borrowed from the French, was popularized in English by William Makepeace Thackeray.

The popular spelling of the name disguises the fact that "gypsy" is derived from "Egyptian." "Gypsy" is generally preferred in British and "gipsy" in American usage, although Webster's New International's "A Dictionary of Modern English Usage" that the "th" has been substituted for "y" in the word "for no better reason than that the display of the "y" is thought an excessive indulgence in cleverness."

Gypsies do not have a peculiar religion. They are Christians, Moslems or what not, being influenced somewhat by the prevailing religion of the country where they have long resided. In the United States, the Gypsies profess to be affiliated with the Eastern Orthodox Church, but are given to magic witchcraft, fortune-telling and similar occult practices. Ghelfo, reading of the handkerchief that played an important part in the plot of a tragedy, says: "That handkerchief did spell ruin—to my mother give; she was a charmer, and could almost read the minds of people." On "Antony and Cleopatra" Shakespeare has the Egyptian soothsayer tell the fortunes of the Queen's courtiers by means of palmistry, and in the opening speech and elsewhere in the same play Cleopatra herself as a "gipsy." The association of magic with gypsies probably led to interpreters of dreams with the Egyptians was unjustly ascribed to their origin. When Pharaoh had his dreams that lean kine and the thin ears of corn, he sent and called for all the magicians of Egypt" and asked for an interpretation. There are many similar references in the Old Testament.

Small numbers of gypsies began to migrate to America from Britain, Holland, Germany and France already in Colonial times.

London Letter

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 7 (CP)—Largo, Pickwick and Oliver Twist lived in the fanciful brain of Charles Dickens, once more are open to members of the public, who have formed themselves into the Dickens Fellowship to study the works of the great novelist's writings.

Their headquarters at Doughty Street, Dickens' first London home, is steadily expanded in number. The dark, stone-fronted dwelling where the literary genius lived, March, 1837, until December, 1839, was closed during the blitz and narrowly escaped destruction from bombs which fell in the vicinity.

In 1922 the house was threatened with demolition and the Dickens Fellowship bought it and appointed trustees to preserve it for the nation forever. It is maintained by subscription, donations and by the membership entrance fee charged to visitors.

Dickens had completed two-thirds of the serialized Pickwick papers when he moved from Furnival's Inn to Doughty Street and except for a few chapters written at Brookstairs, Kent, the remainder was written in this house.

Publication of the closing chapters, as made Dickensian history, was interrupted by the death of his sister-in-law, Mary Scott Hogarth. The original letter in review in the study testify to his grief.

Although there were probably Pickwick, only 44 can be found in the house today and of these two are preserved under a glass case in Dickens' study. The faded ink shows a small neat script which is typical of many of the testimonials and one paragraph, marked with a pen, continued from back of a sheet.

There are two original manuscripts of "Oliver Twist" and others of "Oliver Twist," and "Master Humphrey's Clock," the first early Dickensian work entitled "The Schoolboy." In it, which the handwriting is noticeably smaller and less legible. Portraits of Dickens in various different stages of his life adorn the walls. Gone, an old painting shows him giving one of his famous dress rehearsals, another caricature him as an "old man," though he only lived to 58.

Dozen Bush Fires Rage Unchecked In North Ontario

Toronto, Aug 7 — (CP) — A dozen bush fires today raged unchecked through northern Ontario's deep timberland as Forest Rangers and bush country residents waged a desperate battle to bring them under control.

Allied with the roaring flames were the unusual dryness of the hinterland, where little rain has fallen for five weeks, and a northwest wind which fanned the fires through the stands of pine, spruce and balsam on the lake and the thick cedar groves of the swamps.

Algoma district's worst fire in many years raged through 5,000 acres of green timber owned by the McFadden Lumber Company in the Mississauga forest 40 miles south of the lumbering town of Blind River. Others fought to hold a line at the Wenabagon River and the spread of the flames appeared to be halted.

Fourteen miles west of Blind River, the 200 men fighting the fire with 11 pumps and two bulldozers.

Reinforce Fire Line

When the fire appeared to be under control, time being at least, at the Wenabagon, 150 men were rushed through 8,000 feet to reinforce the line. More men from Sudbury were on their way to the fight.

Seven other fires broke out in the Mabert area, west of the blaze, but were soon brought under control.

This is the worst fire we have had here in years," said Lloyd Woodside of the Provincial Air Service. "The men are fighting the flames like an army to save the valuable timber. If this fire ever gets out of hand, damage is likely to run into millions. Besides, there are many communities in the area which could easily be wiped out if the fire should the wind change or should present attempts to confine the fire fail.

Praying for Rain

"Fire rangers are praying for rain. They fear more fires unless they get it."

Elsewhere in the province, 10 other fires are raging out of control and 54 more have been checked but not extinguished, C. R. Mills of Toronto, chief of the Provincial Forest Protection division of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, stated.

Weekend rain, which was heavy in the southern section of Ontario was only a sprinkle in the fire areas," he said. "It didn't help us to subdue the flames."

Not until a break comes in the dry spell will the travel ban be lifted in 14 areas of the Cochrane district, Mr. Mills added. All non-essential travel is forbidden and residents and others who find it necessary to travel are required to obtain permits.

One 1,000-acre fire in the Matchedash section in the Parry Sound area yesterday was reported checked but another which covered 1,000 acres was out of control. In the same region, Ryde township residents fought a fire which extended over 200 acres but the blaze was still out of control.

In the Fort Frances area of northwestern Ontario, where the weather was hot and the woods tinder-dry, five fires out of control are through the bushland.

Farther west, on the Manitoba boundary, seven fires burned in the Whitemouth Lake reserve which stretches for 50 miles along the border. All the fires, for which careless campers were blamed, were under control late today.

All fires in the Fort Arthur district were reported under control. Hazard in that section was high.

Detroiter Charges Unwed Mothers Dissipate Dole

Detroit, Aug. 7 (AP)—A Detroit judge was on record yesterday with a charge that unwed mothers are collecting welfare money in defiance of the illicit children conceived under what he termed the federal government program of "free love."

Recorder Judge Arthur E. Gordon, in an interview, said a study of Detroit court cases shows an "alarming" increase in illegitimacy while unmarried mothers dissipate their government dole on gambling, drinking and the men who fathered their illicit offspring.

"The study showed that there is a definite tendency to put a premium on illegitimacy," he declared.

To date that every case of illegitimacy is based on fraud would be brutal and cruel," Judge Gordon said. "But why should we squawk about 'free love' and babies supported by the state in totalitarian countries when we do the same thing here except that our state doesn't train them."

Raids on gambling centers and blind pigs in Detroit said, have resulted in a parade of unmarried mothers through his own and other local courts.

Many of them women "of the lowest moral type," Judge Gordon said, were collecting government aid for children "because they're too irresponsible to work."

"The mothers of illegitimate children, mutuels, numbers, in beer gardens and on the pages, who are living in the best hotels in other parts of our great metropolis," he declared.

The judge related one case in which he said the government pays girls $27 a month to support a woman who has had four children by as many different men.

"Nobody ever thought of making the unwed papas support their offspring," Judge Gordon remarked.

Payments to the mothers are made through the bureau of aid to Dependent Children from funds supplied by city, state and county taxes set aside for this purpose.

Gambling Ship Will Operate Off Calif. Coast

By RALPH DIGHTON

Los Angeles, Aug. 7—(AP)—Tony Cornero's ever - touted "luxury" gambling ship Bonnie Bill struck a mine—a gold mine —on its opening night as thousands of dime-and-dollar players almost fought each other at a Long Beach dock for a turn offshore gambling tables.

This morning's a continuing stream of water taxis, carrying 60 persons each, bounced over choppy seas to the neon-lighted vessel. The boats were suspected to dwindle about dawn, but Cornero's aides said they'd keep the ship open 24 hours a day "if the customers keep coming."

Police were among the first night visitors but they didn't hit a hand to stop the gaming. Cornero claims the Bunker Hill, eight miles off shore, is outside state jurisdiction.

District attorney Fred Howser has announced that action will be taken shortly against operations of the Bunker Hill. Cornero says he will consider as "piracy" any attempts by law enforcement agents to stop his operations.

After six hour's wet and bumpy ride in the wallowing capacity-packed taxis, patrons climbed aboard the Bunker Hill and many were disappointed. True, there were plenty of gambling devices, stretching 300 ft. along the main salon, and a 90-foot bar. There was, however, little to inspire the label of "luxury."

No attempt had been made to hide the bare steel framework of the converted seagoing tender. Furniture and fittings were plain and inexpensive. If you tired of standing at crap, roulette, black jack or chuckaluck tables, you could sit down for a game of poker or bingo—or lean against the wall.

impossible for him to carry on in his efforts to control prices.

This statement of the government's position drew fromC. H. Millard, Canadian director of the steel union, the blunt comment: "The situation now is that the government is clearly on the side of the employers."

Conveyed to Appeal

Pat Conroy, chairman of the Canadian Congress of Labor wage committee, is scheduled to testify today and expectations are he will attack the position taken by Mr. Gordon and the government on limiting wage increases to 10 cents.

The steel union originally asked an increase of 19½ cents and later proposed settlement for 15½ cents, payable in instalments and a further increase of one-cent-an-hour for each point the cost-of-living index advanced after July 1.

The proposal to link future increases with the index was subject of discussion at yesterday's meeting. Shortly before the meeting started announcement had been made that during June the index had come up 1.5 points, resulting in an increase in the cost-of-living bonus paid civil servants. A general cost-of-living bonus paid all workers disappeared in 1943 when it was merged with basic wage rates.

Ministers Disagree

Arthur Smith (PC — Calgary West) suggested the government was following one policy for civil servants and another for industrial workers. Labor Minister Mitchell and Reconstruction Minister Howe disagreed. They said industrial workers had access to war labor boards and wage control regulations had been eased.

Mr. Abbott's statement to the committee had included a vigorous defence of Mr. Gordon as a man who had "amply demonstrated his ability and integrity." Clarence Gillis (CCF — Cape Breton South) took issue with the minister.

He said that, while Mr. Gordon had done a good job during the war, he had failed to provide the necessary leadership in the more difficult and critical period of conversion. He had made a mistake in allowing steel prices to advance and the working people were being asked to shoulder the burden of that mistake.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was laying in bed this morning feeling lucky it was vacation and I could just lay there till I was tired of scratching, or even get up and change my mind and get back in bed again if I felt like it, and I thought, G, I wish I could think of some way of making easier money than education, if it wouldn't interfear too much with everything else.

Mending fences is fun, and I thought, I bet if I made my own bed the first thing every morning, I bet ma would give me 10 cents a day exter and be glad of it.

Sounding like a swell idea, and I thought, Gosh, I'm going to get right up and ask her.

And then I started to wonder if it would be prudder than I expected and make me sorry I ever stazted it, and I thought, I guess I better make it once just for pesterity, before I decided, and see if it takes me too long.

And I got up and made my bed in my pidjamazz being a stinch and not hardly taking me 5 minutes, and I got dressed and went down for my breakfist, and ma was just finishing hers, saying, Nora is going to be very busy today, I think I better go up and make your bed and save her that much werk at least, before she has a chance to complain.

Me not saying anything on account of not wanting to spoil the serprse, and ma went up in my room and pretty soon I went up and peeked in the door, and ma said, for land sakes, Benny, you must have had a terribly restless night last night.

Why ma, how do you mean, do you mean I never even went to bed last night? I said, and ma said, Dont be silly, I mean your bedclothes usually look as if nobody had even slept in them, but this morning they were just one mass of bumps.

Being the sad end of the ides.

DR. BAKER'S COLUMN

HINTS on Education

The training of a puppy should begin at the early age of six or eight weeks. One cannot expect a great deal of actual reasoning power, for the ways of human beings are, of course, widely different from the natural instincts of our canine friends. However, dogs are apt pupils and learn quickly.

Obedience should be the first lesson—implicit obedience. It is the one qualification all dogs must have, whether they are to serve only as companions or to prove useful in other fields of activity.

Praise and encouragement are all of the wages a dog asks, but the odd titbit may be used occasionally as a reward to emphasize your pleasure when the young puppy succeeds in understanding and doing just what you want.

WEDDINGS

McCAGGART—FIT

Thursday afternoon, June 28th, at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Fit, Bonarlaw, on Saturday, August 7, Mrs. Fit's daughter, Ruth Evelyn McKay united in marriage Ruth Evelyn, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Fit, and Mr. Wilfred Fit, to Mr. Robert Bergart, of Thorndale. Mrs. McKay was matron of honor and during the signing of the marriage register Miss Joan Fit, sister of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied by Mrs. Wilfred Fit. The bride was attractively arranged with tall sheaves of pink and white gladioli.

The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, Mr. George Fry, who gave her in marriage. She looked lovely in her bridal gown, a floor-length model of white embroidered dotted organdie with a fingertip veil embroidered net. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Howard Cockburn, Bonarlaw, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, chose a floor length model of blue, also over taffeta. She wore a shirred halo with matching shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and Sweetheart Roses.

Miss Burnice Fry, Belleville, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid wore a becoming gown similar to that of the matron of honor. She carried over taffeta and carried pink carnations and Ophelia roses.

Mr. Lloyd Kingston, of Kingston, cousin of the groom, was the best man.

After the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room where a delicious wedding breakfast was served. The table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake.

The bride's mother received wearing a costume of blue and white crepe with corsage of American Beauty roses, while Mrs. McTaggart was attired in turquoise with a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Later the happy couple left on a motor trip to North Bay. For travelling, the bride chose a frock of turquoise with brown accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. McTaggart will reside in Belleville.

HEALTH BRIEFS

Excessive sun can cause sunstroke. It is well to wear some sort of head covering while exposed to the direct rays of the sun for any length of time, particularly those who are thinly thatched on top.

Worry thrives on concealment of its cause. It usually happens that when the cause is discussed frankly with some trusted person, the load of worry is lowered much lighter, if it does not disappear altogether.

In any weight-reducing program it is essential that the diet be based on normal food habits, but that it be below normal requirements in energy-producing foods. Protein should not be reduced, however.

Whooping cough causes more deaths during the first year of age than diphtheria, smallpox and scarlet fever combined. However, there is an effective vaccine which protects children against this disease.

Every child should have one quart of pasteurized milk every day—every adult, one pint.

Liver, preferably pork liver, once a week is essential to any normal diet.

Watch your posture. Poor posture is tiring, fatiguing and damaging to health.

Sunlight is one of the best disinfectants. It kills germs as surely as the strongest of man-made solutions.

Grand Fruit-Jelly Salad—Try it...with Real Mayonnaise!

• Fruit on hand, and a salad wanted? Make tart orange jelly; when partially thickened, fold in fruit—canned, fresh, drained if necessary . . . and for novelty and food value, some diced mild cream cheese. When completely set (and complimenti) it's flavor and texture with Blue Ribbon Real Mayonnaise, and lettuce.

So right for every salad and sandwich Blue Ribbon is made from selected eggs, "Fresh Prune" salad oil, a secret spice formula, choice vinegars. And it's double-whipped—so rich and full-bodied it can be extended with cream or fruit juice, without going watery.

Quick Sauce for Cooked Vegetables: Blend ½ cup Blue Ribbon with ¼ cup milk. Add salt and pepper; heat in double boiler. Makes something very special of cooked vegetables — saves butter, too!

HELLMANN'S BLUE RIBBON Real MAYONNAISE

Mrs. M. Grant Takes Over As Publisher of Recorder And Times From Her Grandmother

By HELEN HANNERMAN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 1. (CP) — "For over 100 years the local newspaper publisher has been a young woman." So declared Mary Grant, a college girl but the 19th head of Recorder and Times here as she took over the reins.

"Boss" is the right word, too, for Mary, 21, is the youngest and newest 50-year-old publisher in Canada, with a staff of 50 men and women. "Boss" is a princess, all right," one reporter said confidentially, "but she won't let us write about her and we think that's silly."

Mrs. Grant, granddaughter of the late Colonel George Taylor Fulford, founder of Brockville Recorder Printing Company for many years, did not expect to become one herself when she graduated from nursing at Hayergal College in Toronto.

Married at 22

She did expect to become the wife of a publisher. At 22 she married the man who was training to succeed her grandfather. They had two children, a daughter, Mary, now aged six, and a son, Hunter, four.

Malcolm Grant joined the navy and became Lieut. Grant. The family moved from Brockville to Montreal, Halifax and Victoria to be with him. Then the same tragedy which has overtaken so many Canadian families overtook him—he was killed in action over the Alberni.

Her father, who also might have succeeded Senator Graham as publisher, was killed with the Canadian infantry in France in 1918.

Tradition Strong.

Family tradition is strong on the Recorder and Times. The president-owner editor, Norton Snell, is married to Andrew Snell, who wrote the first editorial for the Recorder in 1821. Another Snell was editor for many years in the last century.

After Lieutenant Graham died in 1943 and bitterness became prevalent in Brockville, Mary Grant began to train for the job of publisher. She learned the intricacies of the business, wrote editorials and book reviews.

When she moved last month into the snug book-filled paneled library office with its pictures of her family, her husband and her Wirtel Field spaniel, settled down to a daily routine of publishing, dictating, acting for a family in a matchless household.

Likes Big Job

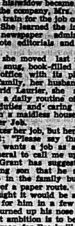
She likes her job, but her only comment; "Please say that it finished last night at 8:30 a.m." cook-general to call me up."

Mary is also singularly unlike her young son that he should be a "Wirtel Field" spaniel, business by way of a paper route."

"I thought it would be a good idea," she said, "to learn how to run a newspaper from the ground up. I've been on the staff for two years.

Mrs. Grant is tall, likes tweeds and collegiate styles. She is a 100-pound sack full of them which she and her daughter will classify during the winter. Her other activities include golf, swimming, skiing, keeping house and romping with the children.

TO PAINT TRUMAN



Mary Burger, ABOVE, who is completing a portrait of President Truman's portrait to complete a collection that includes the rulers of all western hemisphere nations, is pictured in Washington upon her return from a six-month tour of Pan-America. She has finished the capitals of the Central and South American republics and had all the presidents posing obediently in 1½ time.

Dramatic Dinner Hat

By ALICE AYDEN

THERE'S ALWAYS a woman, and an audience too for the hat that is sheer drama. Here is a hat that is totally theatrical, but yet its designer, Suzanne Remy, has exercised restraint. It is a hat to be worn above a beautifully cut black dinner dress or one made on slim, simple lines. The hat fabric is black velvet. The sweep of the profile brim accented by sprays of glycerined ostrich.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's 16—He's 16—Should They Marry?

The question of whether a woman should marry a man much younger than herself—can, incidentally, that pose up freshly in mail to this column—is a good deal like the old gag: "How long is a piece of string?"

That is, the only possible answer to either question would be: "That depends." And it depends upon a number of things.

It depends, so far as the older woman-young husband combination is concerned, far more upon the mental and emotional ages of the two than it does upon the number of years they've each lived. It depends, for another thing, upon the breadth of their respective experience—or, to put it another way, upon the degree of sophistication each has acquired. And it depends, as it does with any two people who are contemplating marriage, whatever their ages, upon how congenial their interests are; how alike their thinking is on the big questions that will matter to them as they go along in life.

Such things are these, in all their various aspects, are complicated enough for adults to consider and decide. But it is even more difficult for very young people to understand their importance, and be willing to give them the thoughtful consideration they deserve. In the whole-souled excitement of first love, it is characteristic of youth to brush off impatiently any suggestion of possible incompatibilities between itself and its loved one, and to scoff at any idea that the contemplated marriage might conceivably fail a long way this side of Paradise.

All this, of course, is the reason why the girl who writes the following letter feels that she has a grievance against her parents and the parents of the boy she wants to marry, because of their opposition to the project.

Here is what she says:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a young girl of 30, in love with a young man of 16. But he is more mature than the average fellow of his age. He no longer goes to school.

"We love each other very much, and plan to marry soon, but our parents are very much annoyed with the idea and his parents forbid it because of the difference in our ages. His parents think he's just being 'a romantic fool' to love a woman 4 1-2 years his senior.

"So this is my problem: Should we run away and marry, or wait until he's 18, or break up now and change our whole future, which will break our hearts!

"A Heartbroken Girl".

As I've just finished saying, there are many things that should be carefully considered when an older woman thinks of marrying a younger man. But in your case, "Heartbroken Girl", the fact that "younger man" is only 16 years old, there are just about twice as many.

What they boil down to is just this: No boy of 16 is ready to take on the responsibilities of a wife and a home of his own. And it is extremely unlikely, moreover that any 16-year-old, however mature he may be for his age, has the wisdom or the judgment to make so vital a decision as the choice of a wife.

I won't tell you to do anything as dramatic as "break up now" as you put it. And I doubt if you'd do it, even if I told you to.

But I do urge that you put out of your mind anything so foolish as running away and getting married, and, instead, adopt the attitude that you'll wait a year or two at least before coming to any definite decision.

New ladies 'coat' to look genteel

Once upon a time when women gathered in friendly confab, they chatted about their children, their pet pains, the woman next door, the difficulties with household help. Now the conversation starts right on politics, national issues, international relations.

While the frail sex is throwing its weight around, trying to help settle a most worthy Lady Astor is transforming them into fluffy girls. Perhaps she is trying to strike balance between seriousness and frivolity. If we ever needed gay spring, it is now. Look at the cute little bonnets women are wearing. Latest to the taste of the fancy appear about the doll waist. Note the popularity of the bang.

There appears to be a conspiracy to make us look as women looked forty years ago, when the pompadour flourished like the green bay tree. Frocks are designed for full bosoms and small waists; the bodice has the flare flowing above from which the feet, like little mice, peep out. Lastly, long-legged, sheathed skirts, soon to have some kick restrained.

Jewelry is gaining in popularity. Let's hope it will not be a lot about using discretion in the choice of ornaments. Dress is secondary to the wearer; ornaments are secondary to the dress. Costume jewelry is reproducing old-fashioned designs that add to our present day qualities. Grandma may have some precious items laid away in her treasure box. Might coax her to let you take a look. You may find something exciting, be the envy of your friends. Who knows?

When a woman is dressed in quaint attire, you should assume a quaint attitude, poise and quietude. With soft, flowing skirts one must move with grace and rhythm. Depend upon your backbone. Don't let your tummy guide you. We wish that young ladies would renounce the slouchy pose. It just isn't pretty.

Dame fashion is reverting to the modes of forty years ago

Endeavor, when sitting, to assume a regal pose of the shoulders, arms at ease and close to the sides. If you keep your head held high, your figure will have good. Chest up, too, if you please.

Incidentally, along with these other changes, one observes that the rouge pad is having a rest. Reddened lips supply sufficient coloring. To compensate for the loss of factory blushes, one can apply eye shadows—ever so discreetly. Only in the evening, of course. They're likely to look garish during daylight hours.

Teen-Age Afternoon Dress

Glowing pink frock with velvet ribbon

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

HERE'S A PRETTY little afternoon dress for the teen-ager—a dress that despite its ruffles is crisp, yet dainty. Of linen-like rayon it uses eyelet embroidery in pointed scallops to edge the square bertha collar, and to give a peplum effect at the sides of the skirt. Black velvet ribbon drawn through beading at the neck terminates in bows on either side, and the black velvet ties tie in front with a flat bow. The color is a glowing rose pink.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Malartic, Que., Aug. 7 (CP)—Coroner's verdict of accidental death was returned by Dr. L. P. Bousseau here Monday after inquest in the case of Garcia Perron, 30, who was fatally crushed 200 feet below ground when a piece of rock 12 feet in diameter fell on him while he was preparing a charge of dynamite in the East Malartic Mines.

The rock came loose at the moment Perron was charging a drill hole in a stope ceiling with dynamite.

Perron had been employed at the mine for the last two months.

A new belt fashion is the gold link chain belt with dangling charms. Introduced in single gold fashioned into an intricately linked chain-cord with jewel-studded charms, the fashion will soon be shown in gold-washed silver and in metal.

Fashion Flashes

EARLY FALL . . . will see the sportswear look but little stop, the emphasis being on dressiness with belt in navy or bright red with rippled, bonnet brims and trims and with heaps of ribbon in bearded bows—is a fashion forecast.

New luxury marks many of the new fall fashions, such as the long-length, full-flaring Tuxedo cape of silver-blue mink. The cape is combined with a fur vest. Here the mink skins are worked on the slant.

We have told that one house is putting out a line of handbags equipped with midget radios. The bags are fashioned of fine leather and beautifully constructed on capacious lines.

It's nice to set off dark frocks with light gloves. Made in pale pink or light blue suede is a pretty shortie glove, made with a gilt, one-button fastening, the cuff encircled with a gold kid-skin band.

A new look marks some of the latest reefers. An autumn model is a beautifully cut reefer of fine tweed. It has a small waist and a rounded hipline that is achieved by a bit of padding. Double-breasted closing, classic notched collar and revers, squared shoulders, and small turned-back cuffs are other details of a new style in the ever-popular reefer.

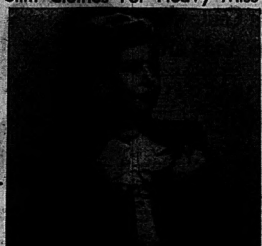
Don't let baby faucets go unmended. Just state from the water may get into plaster as cracks that they are not permissible without taking the place of the concealed slab.

Slim Clothes For Heavy Miss



Grace Downs, Grandee of a page by model colonel, stresses proper lines when choosing clothes stepped by the heavyweight, cute clothes and tight fits. We have all seen the over-plump dame who is given to wearing juvenile hats, sometimes they have little streamers down the back, and who just couldn't bear existence if she didn't have a long, fluffy bob.

By HELEN FOLLETT

By trying to look younger she makes herself look older. She is the kind of women who indulges in baby talk. Let her get over it herself. Let her select a chic hat suitable to her age, arrange her hair smoothly and neatly in an upswing fashion, and cut out the da-da-da gab.

Sausage-Fitting Clothes

Our other type—B the femme whose clothes fit like the skin on a sausage. Everything she wears gives accent to bulk. Her sleeves are snug, revealing the over-developed upper arm. Tight skirts call attention to hip width and the expanded waist line. Compression will not lessen measurements. The thing for her to do, of course, should be up and down, rather than cross-wise. A wide belt, cutting the figure in half, makes one look shorter and wider. A round neckline, with a closely fitting collar will emphasize the fact to look fuller and rounder. The best bet is the V cut.

Skirts and jacket of contrasting colors are no help to the female form that is not divine but much too fat. Solid colors are most slenderizing that patterned frocks, dark coat under that light.

Mrs. Pluppis could eliminate a lot of fresh wrinkles, she says from the "stylish stouts" department by doing a little sensible reducing. All that is necessary to cut down fats, starches and sweets one half; take tea and coffee clear. Silk can have least meats, eggs, and food, poultry, vegetables that grow above ground, fruits and fruit juices, buttermilk, cottage cheese.

She should avoid macaroni, cereals, sweet desserts, candy, cream, butter. Toasted rye should take the place of white bread. A brisk walk every day will help.

Lowly New York Giants Make It Tough For Flag Contending Brooklyn Dodgers And Cards

Brooks Knocked Off When They Neaded Game to Have Lead of Three Full Games

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

NEW YORK, July 31.—Lowly Giants, 13 games behind the leader with 32 to go, are in a hopeless position in the National League pennant race, but you never could prove it by the scrambling Cardinals and Dodgers.

When the Brooks really needed to take one with a chance to stretch their lead to a full three games, last night, they couldn't bump off their rivals from Manhattan.

Lefty Dave Koslo, touched for five hits in three innings, tightened up and held the Dodgers hitless the rest of the way in recording his 12th victory of the season, 9-3. The result prevented Brooklyn's first place margin to two games. The Cardinals were three ranked out of their game with Pittsburgh.

Chicago pulled out of a three-game losing spin to smother Cincinnati, 9-0, on Clarence Mitchell's four-hit pitching. The Bruins trail the Dodgers by 7½ lengths.

Boston Braves marched another step toward the Phillies altho' hurtled by a 10 to 7 margin when they rushed over two runs in the 12th inning to take a 13-1 verdict for Johnny Sain.

In the American League, Boston and New York matched another step closer to clinching the pennant with a 5-1 romp over Philadelphia behind Tex Hughson's 5-hit pitching.

Bobby Doerr blasted his 15th home of the season with Wally Moses on base in the first inning to start Hughson off on his 12th triumph. It was Dick Fowler's 11th setback.

Two unearned runs and three St. Louis errors helped Detroit record a 3-1 victory over the Browns despite a four-hit pitching job by Jim Bottomley. Al Simmon's fourth victory enabled the Tigers to climb to within a single game of the second-place New York Yankees whose scheduled twilight game with Washington was postponed by rain.

Chicago's White Sox enjoyed one of their best hitting days of the season, bowing over Cleveland, 11-1 on 16 blows.

It's good to see that folks are finally getting over the title "September Song." But it's best done by Walter Huston who introduced it in "Knickerbocker Holiday" (not the movie version which is one of the 10 worst pictures in the last decade).

BUNNY DUNLOP

TOAR MORGAN

"While will be right up my alley," smiled wily Al. "Bunny" Dunlop, erstwhile village wrestling ring idol who has been out of the limelight for the past few months, "Just let Henning or Morgan start something in the ring Friday night, and you'll see the fireworks start flying. I'm going to referee the bout and will behave or Gin Sun will take a hand in the proceedings — and that means fun, gore, and justifiable mayhem.

Bunny has been named special referee for the battle between Toar Morgan, Scandinavian and Joe Henning the bowelegged Newfoundlander from Iowa. The bout is a return one after the nasty mixup at the Stadium at the Exhibition Friday when Henning tried to smash the ring to pieces with the heavy wrestling chair. Toar, angry, let Referee Jack Reddy have the mothballs when the head-hammering stopped the fracas. Looks like a thousand circus in that main go on Friday. Also on the card are handsome Mike Sharpe, who will meet the crafty Karl Krieger; Davis and Frank Taylor in a wrestling contest between two men from Hollywood, who will fray with Jim "Goon" Henry. Better come early.

FORMER CHAMP DIES SUDDENLY

Glasgow, Aug. 7 — (Reuters)— Benny Lynch, 33, former world flyweight boxing champion, died suddenly last night in the Southern General Hospital.

At 5 p.m. yesterday Lynch went to his flat where he said he was feeling ill. Three hours later he was dead.

In April last year he was reported to be suffering from tuberculosis, and was treated at a hospital in London.

Lynch had won the flyweight championship of the world from Jackie Brown at Manchester and subsequently defended it successfully against Small Montana, the Filipino, Pal Plamer and Peter Kane. In 1927 Lynch knocked out the Lancashire boxer, Jackie Kane in the 13th round.

Lynch had the title in a contest which he actually won easily with a knockout. He failed to make the required weight of 112 pounds for his fight with Jackie Jurich of California at Paisley in June, 1932. He was 6½ pounds too heavy. The British Boxing Board of Control declared the title vacant but the fight went on and Lynch won.

Later the Board issued a statement that Lynch would forfeit his British and European flyweight titles and also suspend him to pay a fine of £200 ($800).

12 SOLDIERS KILLED

Hanoi, Indo-China, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Twelve French soldiers were killed and 41 wounded in a fierce jungle-to-jungle battle between French troops and Annamese forces at Bac Ninh, a village 19 miles northwest of Hanoi, a French communique announced Monday. No figures were available on Annamese losses, but they were believed to be heavy. The battle, one of the hottest since the French replaced the Chinese as occupation troops in northern Indo-China, started when the soldiers of a French convoy in the deserted streets of the village.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

Jackie "Pops" Cooper, veteran speedboat driver from Kansas City who would rather throttle his mechanized pets around a racing course than be president of the United States, tells a good story of an experience down east.

Seems as though a rat reporter, working on a French-Canadian sheet covered one of the meetings before "Pops" raced and in her story referred to the skipper as the fastest former record-holder as a "wine-ened-up driver".

Now "Pop" may be creeping along to the four-score mark or he may have rolled over the 65 year borderline. We'll never know for he's up to a good check secret. He says he's five years older than the missus, and gallivanting around town in the Madame who smilingly answers their query "She five years younger than Pop".

Anyway, Pop looked up the erring sob-sister, who was doing a spot of Annette Laurie-ing for her local family journal, and in his sweetest manner asked her if she would object to go for a ride in his speed demon. Underneath he was smiling mad for he prides himself on the fact that he is as good as the youngest driver of the lot — and he is.

So along went the gal scribe — and Pop — to show her the horse-power. He put his "Miss Thing" thru some maneuvers and nautical antics that a monkey can perform on a vine upset Pop's apple a dime while hitting a sixty-five mile clip almost rolled her over several times, and on one occasion found her for the initial time that bordered the watery.

It was a white-faced pal that alighted out of "Pops" when the inwardly grinning "Pops" finally drew her alongside the fleet. She hurried away to her office without a word — but a couple of gallons of water under the seat" smiled Pop afterwards, "and it wasn't made by a brave."

By the time this column goes to press the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling bout should be reverberating to the roar of the deep-throated engines of international speed boats. While we cannot comment on the matter with finality we can remind you that the prize event of this Saturday is the Big Bell Ball at the Park Pavilion where the racing pirates will be entertained by the devil drivers of the nautical whirlwinds.

The committee on arrangements will have full charge of the rhythms and have guaranteed a dandy band. A large percent of the proceeds to the crippled children of the city and district. The boys deserve a collective hand for the task for their fine gesture, and should be repaid with a full house. (Not to mention variety). Everyone will be at the ball tonight — so join the throng and see these drivers in person. Half a buck will get you in. The leaks are free, but the admission price is charged to the best music this side of Toronto. And we're not kidding.

Tonight is the softball smack for lovers of that pastime. Ft. Anne, conqueror of Flashes last Saturday in the first game of the Belleville Softball Association finals at the Fair Grounds. Theseries will be the best two out of three affair and one game played here Friday night, and the third, if necessary, on Saturday. Managers Phil Lott and Maxie Peoples are both confident of the title come of tonight's battle but neither is taking any chances. Lott will likely start his Indian star, Tom Marsole on the mound for the Fort outfit together with tall Phil Hunter. It should be a good series. Game starts at 6:30.

Regina, Sask., Aug. 7.—Boxing and Wrestling Commission decided that women wrestlers weren't wanted in the Queen city, they brought the playful scorn of Swift Current down on their heads.

The local body figured the sight of two ladies alternately becoming and belaboring would be too much for the fans. But down near the badlands in the southwest corner of the province, the town of Swift Current was all for letting a peek at the girls.

After an eyeful of the battling beauties, editor Jim Greenfield, of the Swift Current Weekly Sun, editorially chastised the Regina Board as a "bunch of big sissies." He said the girls were as fast as cats and expert tumblers and were more than would be seen at fornia.

the beach on any hot Sunday.

They could do all that their mud-counterparts boasted of but more.

"It wasn't so terrible and was not so gruesome. We saw a lady or two things in a local cafe," said Jim.

A couple of weeks ago it was lady softball players and now it's male hockey players — but they're not so pretty. We are a lady or two things in a local cafe, said Jim.

Montreal, Aug. 7 (CP)—Captured after a rollicking chase through the streets of Montreal north, Roger Brien, alleged to be the armed holdup man who Monday robbed the eastend St. Denis Street branch of La Banque Provinciale Du Canada of $3,187 in cash, has been charged with armed robbery, police said.

GOLDEN EAGLE CHARGED WITH CARRYING OFF OF 40 LAMBS

Perth, Scotland, Aug. 7 (CP) — A golden eagle was "tried" in absentia by the Perthshire Agricultural Executive Committee on charges of carrying off 40 lambs. The members refused to announce the verdict, but an official said it would be submitted to the Scottish Board of Agriculture. Golden eagles are protected in Britain and permission to kill them must be obtained.

OWEN TO SEE CHANDLER ABOUT REINSTATEMENT

Power Catcher for Brooklyn Jumps to Mexican League and Pasquel Brothers

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 7.—(AP) — Mickey Owen, the star Brooklyn Dodger who on Monday called it quits with the Meridian Baseball League, today was en route to Dallas, Texas, en-gaging a limousine and speeding toward visiting relatives at Springfield, Mo.

When Owen, riding a train here last night, Owen returned to connect on his plans at Cincinnati. It is believed, however, that he may confer with Judge Landis in connection with the big leagues. The circus of baseball commissioners, A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky in Chicago, Owen's train was scheduled to arrive at Cincinnati shortly after afternoon.

The colorful catcher yesterday said he was through with Jorge Pasquel's Mexican baseball set-up and would file return to the Dodgers and help them win the National flag.

When questioned about possible reinstatement, Commissioner Owen said, "as far as I have been able to learn, it was never put on a suspended list in the first place."

He added that he had not discussed the matter with either Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn club, or Chandler.

In Cincinnati, a spokesman at Chandler's office said no request had been received from Owen for an appointment.

Records in the commissioner's office revealed, however, that Chandler, on May 29, handed down a ruling that barred Owen from organized baseball for five years for jumping his National League contract and going to the Mexican league.

Owen's name topped a list of 31 National Leaguers and one American League, Murray Franklin of Seattle Tigers, suspended by the May order. On June 13, Lou Klein, Max Macon and Fred Hamlin of St. Louis Cardinals were added to the list.

Big-Time Soccer Is All Set For Return in England

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 7 — (CP Cable) — Britain, slowly putting her sports house in order since the end of the war, is all set for the return of big-time soccer — prewar style — this month.

The official kick-off in the Scottish League is Aug. 10 and in the English League Aug. 31. The once-familiar promotion battles were missed by the fans since the last regulation nine-month season in 1938—1939 when hundreds of players exchanged football gear for battledress.

There will be a full peacetime complement of 20 Scottish first division and 44 second division clubs and 22 in each of the four English League circuits.

With soccer, it is a case of getting on with the job after an enforced lay-off. Blitzed stadia — shabby reminders of the war — are common. Strictest cored control will be in effect as a sequel to the Bolton, Lancashire, disaster last March when 33 suffocated or were trampled to death following the collapse of a railing in an overcrowded section.

Most of the clubs have undergone changes. Many footballers were killed or had their playing careers cut short by war wounds but the top points of the unsalted out for the wartime makeshift leagues probably will take its football from the players.

Many managers regard the coming season with misgiving. They regard it as a difficult period in which to plan for and postwar players will be mixed up in build-up, to determine the best.

Once you have it in bridge, you've got it another way, those are when it pays to have the right marked down. Such a case is the hand we're going to look at now most be taken deliberately it appears.

You may have a king that is in a position to surely take home a trick. Yet there are times when you should willingly throw that king at an opponent ace. Only when you and your partner have not the answer.

Such a play is a sacrifice. It has a billabitis cause. It is the play I borrow a Deschapelles coup, after a French what expert of nearly a century ago showed often refer to it as the sticky-koo.

South is declarer at three no-trumps in this deal:

WEST

SOUTH
♠Q J 10 9
♥A K 2

♣K 7 5

West elected to start out with an opening lead of the diamond trey. South won that first trick with the jack and led a heart.

To fulfill the contract, he must establish the heart suit for nine. Also he must retain the spade ace to dummy. He will need it as an entry after the clubs are set up.

So, before doing anything else, South takes the ♥A in hand. Then he passes by playing the dummy eight-spot. Next, wins that with queen. Looking at dummy, east realizes what declarer is aiming to do.

There is only one way to keep dummy from running that long club suit. That is by preventing dummy from being reached after the clubs are good. The only entry there outside of clubs is the spade ace.

The east king of spades will surely win a trick if not led by the holder. But he must be willing to sacrifice it. He should play it right now to force out the dummy entry.

With trick aforethought, east should lead his spade king at once. Declarer will be shocked kin it good bye.

Lose a trick without rusing it if you gain more by doing it.

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 8 —(AP)— Hambletonian Hiccups: You're safe in saying Earl Rowe, Conservative member of parliament from Fort Erie, Ont., is the first M.P. ever to drive a horse in a professional race. . . . He'll be back his son Van Riddell, who's never lost a race, in today's Hambletonian. . . . Chief reason he entered the cold today is because after he bought Van Riddell from Dr. Harry Riddell, Rowe promised the doctor on his deathbed the horse would start in the Hambletonian if he could get him there. . . .

What happened to McLin, Benny?

Big mystery around here is what happened to McLin Hanover, the 1938 Hambletonian champ. . . . After he won the big harness event that year, and then tied the three-year-old trotters record of 1:59¾, for a mile, McLin was sold to Mussolini, through an Italian count. . . . He was shipped to Italy and won a handful of races there before the war. . . . But since the big fireworks started, there's been no word of him. . . . Benito should have tried riding him instead of one of those automobiles when he tried to escape last year.

"MOUSE BOAT" RACING OUT

London, Aug. 7 (Reuters) — "Mouse boat" racing is out, so far as the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is concerned. When James Dennis, a society inspector, saw his 14-year-old son building a "mouse boat" from a magazine sketch, he called the R.S.P.C.A. and they promised to stop it. It seems seven boys found a way of using mice to work an enclosed treadmill located amidships of a miniature boat with two-inch paddles. Mr. Dennis said he feared "morale" would "be prodded unmercifully" by the boys when they wanted the boats to go faster.

CANADIAN ENTRY IS OUTSIDER IN HAMBLETONIAN

Van Riddell Will be Driven at Goshen by Earl Rowe, M.P. C. Member for Simcoe

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 7 (CP)—Sleepy little Goshen in western New York State looked like a circus town town today as preparations were completed for the 71st renewal of the Hambletonian Stake, most famous trotting race in the world.

Seven three-year-olds — including the first Canadian standard-bred to enter the rich event — will wheel their sulkies out in front of 25,000 fans at Good Time Park to start the first heat at 2 p.m. E.D.T.

With the form chart virtually in the discard, the race is regarded as a wide-open event, although two high-priced trotters have been given the nod on the advance odds-board.

The top favorites are Chestertown and Victory Song. Chestertown figured in the biggest harness racing deal in 35 years last week when William R. Case, president of Good Time Park, sold him for $40,000 to Walter Smith of Los Angeles.

Victory Song was bought two years ago by Mrs. James R. Johnson, Jr., of Rochester, Mich., for the record yearling price of $37,000.

E. J. Baker's Westfield Girl, $25,000 filly and Deanna, two-year-old champion last year, are next in line in the betting odds.

The winner will pull down $28,067 of the $51,945 purse cut up among the first six horses.

Canadians Interested

Of considerable interest to Canadians is the entry of Van Riddell, colt which stallion owned by Earl Rowe, Conservative Member of Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe and a noted breeder of trotters and pacers.

Mr. Rowe will drive his entry himself — the only owner to do so. He said in an interview last night he believed he was the first Canadian ever to enter as a driver in the event.

Van Riddell, sired by Mr. Van, has good breeding but lacks experience. He has started only 5 times and the Hambletonian is his first big United States race.

Mr. Rowe said Van Riddell had been ill two weeks ago and did not have any promises that he would win but — like most trotting experts — cautiously pointed

CHAPTER 2

The confirmation came back over one of the broad shoulders as Cutter moved away without so much as a glance at the position red mouth he left behind him. His steps slowed as he neared the open door of the photographer's office, and glanced doubtfully at its occupant. But Miss Anthony did not look up from her reading. The words he customarily shook his head with a helpless gesture. He walked on.

It was far from being the first time that Larrimore H. Cutter had studied Cynthia Anthony. His interest in her had been roused accidentally but strongly while idly with pipe and newspaper in a retired corner of the lobby, a vantage point that gave him an unimpeded view through the photographer's door which chanced to be open.

The girl was engaged with a customer at the moment. A stout man, expansively tattooed, sat beside the desk scanning a number of tinted sheets. The stenographer was regarding him with an appealing, if not worried, air. Hoping that there were no errors in her work, Cutter watched. He found himself sharing her hopes. She was too pretty for anyone to be finding fault with. The man from Montreal, partially shielded his face with his paper and continued his observations.

He wondered what color the stenographer's eyes were. They should be brown with hair a velvet brown.

She was pretty. And dainty, somehow. She had swung her chair about and sat with one slim knee crossed upon the other.

Now she was smiling. Doubtfully.

It must be that the guy couldn't find any errors. He looked like a theatrical agent or race-track character. But the initial distaste his manner aroused in Cutter gave way to sympathy as the girl's expression changed. Her smile faded forward, grinning in that disconcerting manner. Acting how about stepping out tonight, like as not.

But she didn't get far with that.

Cutter chuckled as he saw the stout customer rise to his feet. It must have been a turn-down. And talking it out on the girl now by squawking over his bill. But little Miss Stenographer was gravely business-like. She counted out change, smiled diametrically and turned back to her machine.

After that Larrimore Cutter gravitated instinctively to that same corner chair during the following days he found it convenient to sit in the lobby, feeling distinctly annoyed if anyone else appropriated his private observation post. After several sessions of this furtive watching, he discovered that his fanciful reveries over this shining-haired girl left him unsatisfied. He was filled with a growing desire to make her acquaintance. He wanted to sit in the chair of dictation. He wanted to hear her voice. And to make sure about those eyes. And those lips. That bothered him most of all.

He was quick to notice that she never encouraged idle conversation with callers. When she was not otherwise engaged, she read. As a rule, it was a magazine or newspaper.

Obviously, the solution to it all was to walk into that little office and ask the girl to take a letter. Cutter smiled grimly to himself at the notion. He never had dictated letters under similar circumstances...would found her and make a complete ass of himself, most likely. He might fake a letter...read something and pretend that he was making it up. Not a bad idea. Yet he found himself strangely loath to undertake the experiment. It might spoil everything, and, after all, this hours of dreaming, that was unthinkable.

So matters stood when he made that lucky purchase at the cigar counter. The salesgirl had given him the load he needed. Cutter wondered rather uncomfortably if she had noted his vigils. What of it?

The next morning, his paper read, Cutter found himself in greater adventure. It still rained. With high resolve, Mr. Cutter strolled indifferently into the photographer's cubicle.

"Good morning," he said gruffly.

Miss Anthony looked up with a start. A quick gesture and the offending spectacles were removed. She laid them beside the typewriter, on top of the magazine she had been reading. Cutter was rewarded with a friendly smile.

Of all things in the world! Those eyes were blue! So deep a blue that they were almost black. Larrimore H. Cutter halted in his tracks, stood staring.

"Is there something I can do for you?"

"No!..." the dictator blurted. "Why, yes! Of course. I had a letter...I'm very busy."

Nimble white fingers already were inserting paper in the machine.

"Please sit down. Will one carbon be sufficient?" the little stenographer inquired briskly.

"Plenty! Too much...Just a personal letter."

Cutter plunged gratefully into the chair at the end of the desk. However, he did retain sufficient presence of mind to lay his folded newspaper in his lap. One of its columns was heavily marked heavily with a pencil. As an afterthought, he fumbled some letters from an inner pocket. He leafed through them to gain time.

While thus engaged, he stole a glance at the photographer's magazine near his elbow. It had lurid cover. The portrait of an iron-lunged young woman in a naval cap pushed to the back of her curly head. He was squinting with calculating eye along the barrel of a black automatic... aimed directly at the luckless reader.

"Chasing pirates today?" Cutter attempted casually.

"Yes," was the unsmiling answer.

"Unusual taste....for a girl, isn't it?"

"One has to read something." "It's like adventure! That sort of thing!"

"Not particularly."

Cutter felt suddenly let down. What the devil! Had that cigar girl been wrong? Was the girl thing to do now but see it through. He managed a surreptitious glance at his paper.

"This is...Royal Allen. I'll have to check on the address later. Just say Dear Roy..." A pause. He'd only was good of you to take the time to write so soon after you got back. I understand that you turned up a big find out there in..."

Cutter glanced at Miss Anthony to see if she were watching him. She was. With disconcerting interest.

"I never can think of the name of that place," he muttered lamely. "Argentina, I think."

"The Samian Valley," his stenographer supplied promptly. "Of course! Stupid of me. I forgot. How did you know that?"

"I have been following Mr. Allan's work in the papers. He discovered gold in Samia. They think it belongs to a lost race!"

Here was a different Jacqueline Anthony. She leaned forward, the rays from the lamp falling on her sugar little face. The blue eyes were wide. Shining with interest. Like a child's.

"And you know Royal Allen, the archaeologist!" She said it almost reverently.

"Oh, rather. Old schoolmates." Cutter watched the light play on the waves of that cinnamon-brown hair. "Great chap, Roy. They don't make 'em any better."

"It must be fascinating to visit such places." Jacqueline's two hands were folded over the typewriter. The letter was forgotten. A wistfulness in her voice matched that of her eyes. Cutter never had seen eyes which could change their expression swiftly, so appealingly.

"Oh, you get a kick out of it at first," he admitted with elaborate carelessness. "But, after all, places are...just places. Some are worse than others. For instance...."

"But to see them!" the girl interrupted reproachfully.

"Then you've never been abroad?" was the crafty suggestion.

"No. Have you?"

"Occasionally, I was fourteen the first time. My dad was going over on business and took me. We cruised on the old Citrus to New York. I remember we hit a storm that scared me out of a shine. But I was a fool. Have a luxury liner in those days."

"I know. But I'm hoping that the storm. I've never seen a big ship," Jacqueline admitted regretfully. "My nearest real voyage was on the lakes. From Buffalo to Detroit, and back. It was only an excursion, but I've never gotten over the thrill."

"I'm surprised you haven't tried the big pond, if you're so keen on ships. Or have you a large and interesting family to keep for?" He asked the question jokingly, but waited intently for the reply.

The cinnamon head shook a quick denial. "That takes money," its owner countered lightly. "I do my traveling in books."

"It doesn't take very much these days," Cutter insisted. "You really should do it. I'll be spoke with great earnestness.

"I'd love to. More than anything in the world."

For hours, Jacqueline Anthony seemed to forget that she was conversing with a stranger. Cutter had been to most of the places. In quite of his careless way of talking, he knew that the world's out of the way places held a charm for her. The two of them belonged to the same restless fraternity. Before she quite realized it, she was telling him something of her childhood. Cutter hurried little sentences.

"It's some sort of obsession," was her explanation. A faraway look had crept into the blue eyes. "I've always been that way. I do...read everything I can find about travel...strange lands. I even keep an old atlas hidden away and look up all the places. Sometimes I think could travel...strange lands. I even keep an old atlas hidden away and look up all the places. Sometimes I think could travel almost anywhere in the world. I can't help it."

"I understand that."

"Do you? Everybody around here teases me." She smiled. "I don't wonder. I guess I'm....

Jacqueline, unconsciously, had adopted Virgie Blake's verdict.

"It's not funny at all," Cutter objected stoutly. "It's—it's tragic."

"What do you mean?"

"That the tragedy of youth. Not believing most dreams, the possibilities, until it's too late...oftentimes."

"It's nice of you to put it that way. I'm not...so young."

"Not! Look here, Miss Anthony." In his earnest, Cutter spoke that name without noticeable burden surprise to the blue eyes watching him. "If only you would say to yourself, over and over and over: 'I'm going to...the Samian Valley'—you've nailed a little at his choice. "If you'd just do that, you'd be on the first boat. If you believed it, it would come true. It would have to. Some day, you'd find yourself, there. Don't you see?"

"Where is the magic carpet?" "Who knows! Maybe it's rolled up in your desk. Or in your typewriter. You'll find it."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 7 — (CP) — The market sold down in the early session to about the middle of last week's losses before rallying to close 23 to .56 for all four groups and is improved in the early afternoon to erase many of the losses. Volume was small at 353,000 shares for the full session.

Quemont and Mining Corporation were early features, the former gaining 3/4 to 14 and the latter 62 cents to 7.75. Most of the base metals looked better after the early drop. Sherritt came back 1/8 to 9 to set a small gain and Smelters added 1/2.

Among the strongest golds were Macassa, Central Patricia, Negus, Dome Mines, Kirkland Lake Gold, Preston. Dome weakened 3/4, Cochenour Willans 5 and Chesterville 5.

The utilities posted a margin of gains, senior oil and implements were down and other industrial groups were mainly steady. In the western oils British-Dominion and Roxana were off a few cents.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Individual stocks held to the rising side in today's market while many leaders doubled their downward drift of the previous sessions.

Buying caution, brokers suggested, still was based partly on the idea that the list had technically corrected the July relapse and was more or less vulnerable. Production statistics remained a bearish factor. Earnings, dividends and special distributions aided favorites but failed to stimulate a number of issues involved.

Dealings reverted to sluggishness after a quiet opening and the direction was irregularly lower near the fourth hour.

In the business division were Bethlehem, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, North American, Anaconda, General Electric, Penney, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio and Dome Mines.

Resistant were Pennsylvania Railroad, Spiegel, American Woolen Preferred, Republic Steel, U.S. Steel Goodyear, Woolworth, Boeing, Curtiss-Wright "A", Kennecott and Johns Manville.

Bonnie Mines, off 3-4 at midday, featured Canadian issues. International Nickel was off 1-8. Other Dominion stocks ruled unchanged.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Cattle were generally 15 to 25 cents cwt. lower in trade on the livestock market here 't up to mid-session today. Lambs were 50 cents lower, hogs, veal calves and sheep were steady.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch: cattle 700, calves 300, hogs 800, sheep and lambs 600. Unsold from yesterday were 2,000 head of cattle, including 1,000 stockers.

Prices to the trade included:

Cattle: Choice steers $16.50-$18.75, butcher steers and heifers $14.50-$16.50, good $12.50-$14.50, common $10.50-$12.50, stockers, good $12.50-$14.50.

Detects Impure Metallic Bodies In 20,000 Feet in Air

Clermont - Ferrand, France, Aug. 7, (AP)—(Agence France Presse said yesterday that M. Hubert Carrigue, scientist in an observatory here, had detected the existence of impure "radioactive bodies" at an altitude of 20,000 feet. Tests were made from a specially equipped plane. The intensity of the impurities is only a fraction of the intensity of radioactive bodies in the atmosphere, Carrigue said. He declared he was unconcerned and they might be due to the atomic bomb explosions at Bikini, or some new natural phenomena.

HEIRENS UNFOLDS

In his statements yesterday Heirens continued to clear the way for the State to set in motion proceedings which will be expected to send the youth to prison for the rest of his life, with no possibility of parole. Reports, unverified, have been that the State's attorney office would, in exchange for the confessions of the slayer, recommend concurrent sentences, to be made consecutive by and not release him with any of his victims. He said further that abnormal sexual impulses first compelled him to commit crimes of burglaries beginning when he was 13.

After Heirens related details of the three murders he was taken by State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and police to the scene to retrace his movements. The first stop was the apartment of Josephine Ross, 20, where Heirens, accompanied by police, climbed a ladder to Suzanne's bedroom window and pumped three shots.

Heirens then went to a nearby apartment building where he described the laundry into the basement where he dropped Suzanne's body.

Police retrieved exhibits from the basement dissecting room and identified seven catch basins, through which Heirens said he threw bodies. Heirens, sometimes giggling and at times with a vacant, blank stare, appeared oblivious to the crowd which pressed around him.

He was then rushed from the scene to get a closer glimpse of him.

(Earlier Reuters News Agency quoted Danish agricultural officials as saying they were prepared to pay subsidies to Danish farmers as a sacrifice for British markets).

In view of existing long-term contracts between Canada and Britain there is no danger of any immediate reduction in Canadian shipments to Britain, the representation of Danish agriculture may have that effect in the future.

Mr. Rockefeller said all Dominions were kept informed of the Danish negotiations. Presumably Canada raised no objection to the price differential and similarly Australia, New Zealand and New Zealand compared with $44 for Denmark.

Molotov Blames Britain, U. S. For 'Grave Mistake'

Voting Procedure Dispute Reopened by Russ Delegate

Paris, Aug. 8 — (AP)—Foreign Minister Molotov today reopened the procedure dispute on voting procedure in a plenary session of the peace conference, blaming Britain and the United States for what he said was a "grave mistake."

Mr. Molotov's action, coming after the rules had been approved in committee in turbulent debate, threatened to prolong the conference. The meeting, after 10 days, still has 21 articles under consideration of the draft peace treaties for Italy, Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland — prime purposes of the conference.

First speaker of the session today, Mr. Molotov said he did not think any conference recommendation voted by less than a two-thirds majority would have much weight with the council of four principal powers.

A British proposal, supported by the Italian, Belgian and Greek, approved by the rules committee providing that recommendations be voted either by a two-thirds or a simple majority should go to the Italian treaty commission for consideration, although those with a two-thirds majority would have more weight. The council has the final say on the conference recommendations in the treaties.

Mr. Molotov said these voting rules would "weaken the power of government."

Until Mr. Molotov spoke it had been assumed that adoption of the rules by the full conference also was a foregone conclusion since all members of the 21-power conference were represented in the rules committee.

Approve Proposals.

The rules committee approved yesterday a British-American proposal to invite representatives of Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland to sit in on both the plenary and committee sessions, and the five former enemy states were expected to begin participating Friday.

Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi arrived in Paris today from Rome, accompanied by former premier Ivanoe Bonomi and Giuseppe Saragat, president of the Italian Constituent Assembly.

The final session of the rules committee yesterday reflected a harmony which was in contrast to previous debate during the bitter Italian treaty session on Tuesday. Mr. Byrnes waved jauntily to Foreign Minister Bevin's story of Russia as he left the concluding session.

However, a disturbing note was injected a few hours later when it was learned authoritatively that a special Four-Power committee of deputies of the Foreign Ministers Council had been unable to agree on a report proposed frontiers between Italy and Yugoslavia or on the statute providing for a free city of Trieste.

Needed Shirts For Bail Reduced

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 — (AP)— The shirt shortage finally reached a federal court today when a defendant got the break.

Magistrate Harry C. Morlock was sitting in the absence of a United States commissioner yesterday when Joseph Yong Quon, 35, a laundryman, was arraigned on a charge of violating the Selective Service Act.

Assistant United States Attorney Thomas J. Gentry recommended Mock be held in $2,000 bail for the Federal Grand Jury.

Morlock looked at the defendant.

"Say," he said, "this man's my laundryman — my shirts are in the place now — I wonder how I can get them out?"

Mock's bail was set at $1,000 and his client couldn't raise $2,000 — and if you hold him in that bail you won't get your shirts.

"Can he raise $1,000?" the magistrate asked.

"Yes, I think he can."

"Okay — Gentry," Morlock said. "I need those shirts."

Bevin May Delay Trip to Paris Until End of Week

Paris, Aug. 8. (AP)—An authoritative British source said today that Foreign Secretary Bevin might delay his departure from London for the Paris Peace conference until the end of the week, possibly arriving here Monday morning.

The fact that the debate on rules procedure has been concluded and the prospect of only limited action while the conference hears statements from five former enemy states make it likely that the ailing Foreign Secretary will take a few days' rest, the source said.

Meanwhile, the British delegation discussed informally its probably representation on the peace conference commissions, which will draft the treaties, on military and economic matters.

No agreements have yet been made, but it is understood that A. V. Alexander, acting leader of the British delegation and First Lord of the Admiralty, probably will be Britain's spokesman on the military commission, while G. H. Hall, parliamentary secretary to the legal expert, may be named to the drafting and legal committee.

Hector McNeil, undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs; Lord Hood and Gladwyn Jebb probably will represent Britain on the political and territorial commission.

New Machine Can Detect Heart Disease In Its Early Stages

Philadelphia, Aug. 8. (AP)— Temple University's medical school announces development of a revolutionary machine — the electrokymograph—which will permit doctors to detect heart disease in its early stages.

Dr. Bert B. Boone of Schwenksville, Pa., who has worked on the instrument for the last two years as co-operation with the United States Public Health Service, said the electrokymograph permits the doctor accurately to photograph the motions of the heart. He said that the machine's graphic pictures had hampered early diagnosis of the ailment.

Boone said the machine is not designed to replace the human eye. Any abnormal tendency will lead to discovery of heart disease.

STORM BATTERS BOSTON

Boston, Aug. 8 — (AP) — At least 23 persons, including 12 United States Coast Guardsmen, fishermen and others during a driving rainstorm which early today drenched southern New England and caused property damage of $100,000.

It battered small boats and gave Cape Cod one of its heaviest rains in years. Nantucket, Mass., recorded a three-hour rainfall within an hour, and more than four inches fell in Providence, R. I. Winds ranged up to 30 miles an hour in Boston.

16½ CENT WAGE INCREASE WOULD SATISFY STRIKERS

Conroy States Steel Men Would Return To Work at Once If Boost Granted

Ottawa, Aug. 8 (CP)—Pat Conroy, chairman of the Canada Labor Relations Board, told committees, today told the Commons Industrial Relations Committee strikers would go back to work immediately for wage increases of 16½ cents hourly.

(The United Steelworkers of America is asking a 19 1-2-cent increase with further increases if the cost of living rises significantly. Demands of other Unions are up to 25 cents asked by the United Electrical Workers.)

Mr. Conroy was being questioned by Colonel Clarence Gridley (Grey North). Mr. Case recalled the C.C.L. had proposed a 10-cent increase in January. He asked if Mr. Conroy would recommend return to work if the 10-cent increase was given with an agreement that the 16½-cent increase determined in continuing negotiations would be retroactive.

"I would not today recommend any union to go back to work on a 10-cent basis," he said. "The obvious reason that the 10-cent basis was all right in January now is worth about four cents less. That is the reason," Mr. Conroy said.

The 16½ cents was made retroactive to January" Mr. Case suggested.

"No, no, 10 cents and take into consideration the 6.2 advance in the cost of living. Increase it us 16.2 cents and we will go back to work tomorrow," Mr. Conroy said.

Origin of Demands

Mr. Case also questioned Mr. Conroy on the origin of demands for wage increases. Mr. Conroy said the first official C.C.L. negotiated with the rank and file. He explained further they might be inspired by union leaders but ultimately, stated, he, the leader was often not well received by the workers themselves.

Mr. Conroy said the need for industrial councils Mr. Conroy said "is now imperative" but "in anarchy existing in the relations between employer and employees should end and that a basis should be established for better relations.

Reconstruction Minister Howe chief figure in the first two days of cogage by C.C.L. unions far exceeded the total for all unions combined. He said it indicated that "the C.C.L. unions are not there to wage control regulations."

Mr. Conroy disagreed. He said it was necessary to "establish impartial government authorities that would take a position, apposite one particular labor organization.

The electrokymograph permits the doctor accurately to photograph the motions of the heart. He said that the machine's graphic pictures had hampered early diagnosis of the ailment.

Boone said the machine is not designed to replace the human eye. Any abnormal tendency will lead to discovery of heart disease.

New Earthshocks Felt In Caribbean Area Latest is More Intense

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Three more shocks in the Caribbean area, one of them described by Father Daniel A. Lord today yesterday by the Fordham University seismograph, the Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, seismologist, reported today.

The severest shock was recorded at 3:26:36 p.m., E.D.T., Father Lynch said. He said an unimportant shock was recorded at 1:31:20 p.m. and a third one at 2:31:13 p.m., E.D.T.

Dominican residents in New York said they were told in long distance telephone conversations with friends and relatives in the Dominican Republic today that a new and intense earthquake was hitting that Caribbean island.

One person said he was speaking at 10:30 a.m. E.D.T. with a friend in the town of Puerto Macoris, hard hit by last Sunday's quake, and was told that a "terrible storm" perhaps more intense than the last one," had begun there. No damage was reported.

He was told that inhabitants of San Pedro Macoris, terror-stricken, are fleeing to nearby hills.

A few seconds later the communication was suspended.

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, Aug. 8 (AP)—Eredad destinal decree to meet the crisis resulting from this country's three-day series of earthquakes and tidal waves, the death toll of which had risen to 90 today, it was announced by the central sales of construction materials badly needed in the devastated areas.

President Rafael Trujillo took steps to make certain that priority for building materials would go to "persons whose dwellings have been destroyed or damaged." Trujillo previously had banned exports of foodstuffs from the republic during the crisis.

Latest official reports of casualties listed 90 persons were killed in the tidal wave which struck Monday along the towns of Matanzas, Nagua, Arroyo Salso and Sabana de la Mar. Those killed at Santiago Des Los Caballeros and another at San Francisco De Macoris.

U. N. MEMBERSHIP COUNCIL DEBATES ON AFGHANISTAN

Stands as Buffer State Between India and Russia

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

New York, Aug. 8—(AP)—The United Nations membership committee debated today from the unsettled controversies arising over applications of Soviet-supported Albania and Outer Mongolia to the first of six other bids for admission which are less likely to cause widespread friction.

First up for consideration at closed committee session this morning was the kingdom of Afghanistan, which stands as a buffer state between India and Russia and commands a lofty interior position on the approaches to the Pass.

The committee undertook schedule of two sessions daily to meet the Dec. 31 deadline for report to the Security Council, which will pass the recommendations on to the General Assembly in September. Membership is overall subject to approval by the assembly, but only after the unanimous approval of the nine Security Council, where the veto works in full force.

After Afghanistan in the order of consideration comes the kingdom of Transjordan, which recently was granted independence from its British mandate and emerged as a staunch champion of the Arab League's opposition to Jewish migration into Palestine.

Transjordan has been a target of the Soviet propaganda machine since it was established as a new state. Russia's attitude toward Transjordan was a "man-date for trouble," diplomats said.

Transjordan's application also should be welcomed into the U. N. on the same basis as Syria and Lebanon, both of whose members after their release from French mandate.

There were no indications of opposition to the application from Ireland, Portugal and Iceland, the Swedish and Norwegian delegates muster when her application is received.

However, a controversy may develop over Siam, the eighth applicant to be considered, because of her dispute with France over the Indochina frontier territories along the Mekong.

Further consideration of Albania and Outer Mongolia was held in abeyance while the Security Council engaged yesterday over a Russian objection declaring the membership committee had overstepped its powers by failing to receive and solicit pertinent information before on the qualities of the applicants.

BITTER STRUGGLE WRITING STATUTE FOR TRIESTE ZONE

Four Separate Drafts for Submission to 21 Powers Prepared

By LOUIS NEVIN

Paris, Aug. 8 — (AP) — A bitter struggle in the Paris peace conference over the writing of a statute for the Italian international zone of Trieste was forecast today following the disclosure that the four-power commission had written four separate drafts of the statute, due tomorrow to the 21 conferring powers.

A highly-placed authority, who asked to remain anonymous, said the commission had failed to agree after nearly a month of consideration.

The principal disagreement, this source said, is over the question of insistence that the governor of the proposed international council representatives of the United Nations security council must be a Yugoslav and that the governor should be as broad as possible.

The Soviet Union and the Americans, British and French representatives, insist the governor should be neither Yugoslav, Italian, nor an inhabitant of the free territory of Trieste, according to degrees of authority to be granted the legislative assembly, to be elected by direct universal suffrage.

The informant said the commission also must decide whether agreement on detailed frontiers for the zone and would suggest that the governor should be appointed by the legislative assembly.

The Anglo-American proposals, he said, also provide that citizens of the land-locked territories of Austria, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia be eligible.

All three statutes proclaim Italian, Slovene and Croatian equal rights in the free territory's official languages.

COMMONS SWINGS ATTENTION TO EX-SERVICEMEN

Conservative Members Ask Foreign Exchange Bill be Amended In Several Respects

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL.

Ottawa, Aug. 8 (CP) — The Commons swung its attention to veterans legislation today after devoting yesterday to continued debate on the bill that will extend into peacetime foreign exchange control regulations enacted during the war, the Trading-with-the-Enemy Act.

Features of the debate was a concerted drive by Progressive Conservative members to have the bill amended in several respects particularly as far as the veterans' land act is concerned. Their efforts were unsuccessful.

By a standing vote of 38-21 members rejected an amendment by J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Muskoka-Ontario) that would have allowed a person availing a bona fide move outside Canada to export up to $15,000 without a permit. Government supporters voted without a permit.

Another defeat was another of Mr. Macdonnell's amendments which would have limited the legislation to the war period, so that next year parliament could review the continuance of exchange restrictions was necessary.

R. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) saw members turn down his amendment which would have made necessary for the Foreign Exchange Control Board to make public its holdings. Acting Finance Minister Abbott said he could not accept the amendment. This information would be made available to the Bank of Canada.

Mr. Macdonnell said that the bill was given added importance by the fact that in the early days after the King Gold Hotel bomb explosion, and was similar to a decree issued earlier after five British officers were kidnaped at Tel Aviv June 16.

Release of 1,700 Jews, taken into custody by authorities June 29 in a roundup of clandestine extremists, was also announced by Mr. Bevin. Authority said 970 more would be freed in a few days.

London, Aug. 8 (CP)—Rabbi Morris Samuel Lazaron of Baltimore, Md., called on the United States today to "stand together" with Britain in the fight for "complete" the Anglo-American explanation of its aim to separate Arab Jewish provinces in Palestine. He also urged that "immediate" steps be taken to put 100,000 Jews in the United States, Canada, Australia and other countries to the situation in Europe."

Rabbi Lazaron said in an interview with the press: "We do the fear rising anti-semitism both here and at home" was wrongful that the feeling against Jews "has already manifested itself here in barriers hitherto friendly."

"It is my own judgment that Jewish people should be free to mediate immediately and in the best possible way to bring about the amicable arrangement that Americans of Jewish faith will vote for one part or another on the basis of all the facts in the case of Palestine," he said.

Rabbi Lazaron said: "I see no yielding to Zionist or Arab pressures at home or abroad," he added that Anglo-American "must stand together on this issue."

No. 1 White Honey Scarce

Ottawa, Aug. 8 (CP)—

St. Thomas, Aug. 8 — (CP) — Honey production prospects reported here today that No. 1 white grade honey is scarce in Elgin district but that the fact that little nectar was secreted in the clover blossoms is encouraging to beekeepers along the north shore of Lake Erie. The crop of clover honey is reported to be virtually a failure.

Arab Leaders Turn Down Invitation To Roundtable Talks

Dramatic Statement Seen Within Next 48 Hours

Jerusalem, Aug. 8 — (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, said today that Palestine Arab leaders had turned down an invitation to roundtable talks in London on the future of the Holy Land.

Sir Alan's statement said the Arabs had also raised the question of whether British government plans to halt unauthorized Jewish immigration into Palestine and of the release of Arab political prisoners. The statement gave no details of the Arab objections.

(London dispatches said a dramatic announcement of policy on Palestine might be forthcoming within 48 hours. British Foreign Office sources said yesterday the Cabinet was considered farreaching military plans which might include a tight blockade of the Palestine coast to halt the flow of uncertified Jewish immigrants and the establishment of displaced persons camps and frontiers in Austria, Germany and Italy to intercept underground pipeline feeding the immigrants into Italian ports.)

The high commissioner's statement said: "Arab leaders of Palestine in conference with Jamal Bey Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab executive who returned from Egypt last night after consultation with Arab leaders in Egypt.

Military authorities are reported to have rescinded an order forbidding Arabs, apart from Jewish night clubs, restaurants and other places of entertainment.

The order was issued July 23, three days after the King David Hotel bomb explosion, and was similar to a decree invoked earlier after five British officers were kidnaped at Tel Aviv June 16.

Release of 1,700 Jews, taken into custody by authorities June 29 in a roundup of clandestine extremists, was also announced by Mr. Bevin. Authority said 970 more would be freed in a few days.

Crowded Contacts In German Home Lead to Murder

By JAMES DEVLIN

Rheine, Germany, Aug. 8 — (AP) — The separate lives that, starting from three and four families living in one flat or house, led this week to a murder case are reflected in a murder case that has become a public conscience to a woman and two men.

The murder was committed in the home of Adolf Dierkes, a tailor, were typical of the crowded living and mess of occupation where 8,000,000 dwellings were damaged or destroyed in the war.

The consequent potpourri, of human beings and human blood led to tangled romances, suspicions, arguments and plans for Dierkes' murder and plans for another slaying.

The complications of Dierkes' home included his wife, Klara, the wife's lover, Heinrich Rudolf Ewig and Erich Rudolf. With these as the principals, the outlines of the summary of the complex situation reads like a scenario of a Greek tragedy in movie thrillers.

Dierkes and Rudolf argued and fought constantly over a woman elsewhere.

This was a source of grievance," said the British report, because Dierkes separated Hilde Fran Wedler, who was separated from her own husband, had been living with Rudolf in the Dierkes home.

"Dierkes and his wife, Klara, did not get on well together, there was a love affair had sprung up between Dierkes and Hilde.

"In these circumstances Dierkes became a nuisance and hindrance to them all and they decided to get rid of him.

Frau Wedler, Dierkes to the "Peace Inn" at Bentlage in the provincial town of Rheine, and "on the return trip he was to be murdered by Rudolf and Ewig and Hartwig."

In addition, the official report continued, "this unholy quartet were found guilty of conspiring to murder Herr Wedler, who had refused to agree to his wife living in love with his child. The arrests were made before this second murder could be carried out."

Frau Wedler, Hartwig, Rudolf and Ewig were found guilty of plot to death, but the court commuted Frau Dierkes' sentence to life imprisonment because she is expecting a baby.

Vivid Personalities Highlight Peace Treaty Talks at Paris

By FRASER WIGHTON

Paris, Aug. 8 (Reuter)—August heat and the languor of the gilded conference salon would send delegates at the Big-Power peace conference to sleep but for persistent interludes provided by high-powered diplomats such as Russia's Vyacheslav Molotov and Australia's Herbert Evatt. Yes, Evatt.

Dr. Evatt, at 52 "The Australian Bevin," is literally. He often walks the length of the chamber to talk to other delegates. Everyone is familiar now with his great broad-shouldered figure, loose gait, flowing locks from-grey hair and twinkling eyes.

Most frequent talker, and most frequent listener, is Dr. Evatt. He is as good a listener as he is a speaker. He makes occasional notes in exercable handwriting.

Dr. Evatt's political career started in the placid Belgian chairman, Paul Henri Spaak, whose suave smooth countenance and horn-rimmed spectacles surmount a figure fit and sturdy athletic.

Mr. Molotov also tends to relax. He has not, on his feet, the strokes his moustache and smiles infrequently, but broadly when he does.

Seated almost directly opposite Mr. Molotov is Russian Foreign Minister Mackenzie King. During translations in the conference, the English and Canadian leader often sits with eyes riveted on the opposite wall.

Cornwall Ann (CP)—Mayor Frank Follwell of Belleville gained home wall ahead of the field this morning to win the Mayors' Race for Health.

Alexandria Bay Boat Wins Jenkins Trophy in 225 Class; 'Pops' Cooper's Boat Sinks

Rotary Regatta at Massassaga Point Attracts Large Number Who Witness Thrilling Races

Roaring over a perfect course under the glare of a hot August sun, "Mr. Dockit" owned and driven by Jim Dockit of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., won the feature race, the 225 class, for the Jenkins Trophy of the Rotary Club Regatta at Massassaga Point on Wednesday afternoon.

Thousands of spectators thrilled to the sight of the sleek, fast 225 Division 1 hydroplanes as they zipped through the course which was well in excess of sixty miles per hour. "Mr. Dockit" averaged almost 60 miles per hour three lap course was 56.457 miles per hour.

Dr. Robinson who drove a speedboat in the first heat and third heats but dropped back to third place when he was held up by engine failure in the second. He stayed on the course and effected repairs to the engine then giving his boat the full gun, he raced back to the finish line and managed to nip "Blitz" driven by Bobby Bogle of Brooklyn, N.Y. to first to rounded the turn for the finish line.

Wins Second Heat

Gibson Bradfield, of Barrett-ville, Ohio, driving his "Buckeye Baby" winner of the Prince Edward Yacht Club Gold Cup on Monday, roared over the course to near record time to finish in second place behind "Mr. Dockit." Bradfield won the second heat of the 225 class after three slots in the first and third.

"Pops" Cooper still hung doggedly to Jackie "Pops" Cooper's "Jackie Pops." The speedy craft which raced over the Prince Edward Picton time trials at a speed of 56 miles per hour struck a pleasure boat swell on the back stretch of the first heat of the Division 1 225 Class and damaged its bottom so badly that Cooper was hurled clear of his boat and was given the worst ride his experience outside of a ducking.

Heavy Swells Caused

"Mait 'N Hops" driven by Jed Hanley of Providence, Rhode Island, finished in third place with "Flint" finishing in 4th position.

Pleasure craft moving across the lower stretches of the course caused heavy swells to roll across that part of the bay and constituted a dangerous hazard to the drivers. "Pops" struck one of the swells with terrific force and the veteran driver could get her back under control she dipped her bow and went to the bottom. Regatta officials and divers were rushed to the scene of the accident but it is believed "Pops" had moved out from the original position. Ford Fords were being made to secure aircraft in and in locating the sunken speedster.

Drives Magnificent Race

Jimmy Middlesworth of Sarnia, Ont., driving his "Miss Sarnia" again drove a magnificent race to win the 135 cubic inch class in his "Stingaree II" which won handily in Picton on Monday again finishing well in the course at a speed of 53 miles per hour to finish in first place in all three heats of the race.

"Ariel" won second place with two seconds and a third, while "Donna Bob" which was forced out of the first heat due to engine trouble got third position. "Bing" driven by Bert Fisher of Cooper was much slower than usual and was in fourth.

A Grand Battle

One of the features of the regatta was the duel between Mike Stefan, Welland, driving his "Sea Imp" and Harvey McFarland Jr., Picton, driving his "Miss Quinte" in the 135 Runabouts. "Sea Imp" defeated "Bugeye" in the action packed stepping races at Gravenhurst and Bracebridge on Monday and Mike Stefan evened the score here yesterday. The rough water on the back stretch favored both of the "Sea Imps" liking and she finished first in the first and second heats. Engine trouble affected her in the third heat and "Miss Quinte" won the heat, but only after sighting at the determined bid of "Pop" Don" driven by Jack Le Heup of Picton and owned by Ted Sprague, Mountain View.

Fine Co-operation

In fact "Mar Don" constituted a big threat to the other boats throughout the regatta. She failed to finished second in the first and third heats and took a third in the second. Fine sportsmanship was seen between the second and third place boats in the 225 class as various boats "pitched in" to assist McFarland who had developed engine trouble and was momentarily was out of the running.

"Miss Quinte" driven by Jack Abbott of Belleville raced pluckily against the faster craft and finished fourth and "Miss Red Cap" owned by Ed. Pine of this city brought up fifth position.

In the Bay of Quinte free-for-all "Curly" Boulter took first place with two wins in as many heats and Judd Vaughan bringing up the rear.

Perfect Weather Conditions

The weather conditions were perfect and aided a great deal to the success of the regatta. There were heavy swells during the afternoon and the water in the back stretch was fairly rough but not enough to hamper the speed of the boats.

After the regatta which ended practically on scheduled time at 5.15 the drivers, their wives and mechanics were guests at a dinner tendered them by the Rotary Club and of the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Prizes were presented to the various winners and all the Americans visitors were loud in their praise of the fine reception and hospitality accorded them by the fabulous inhabitants and the city in general. President Bert Howard expressed the appreciation of the visitors to the drivers and to the general public for its patronage.

Donald Duck Enjoys Vacation In the Village

Another pet has been added to the list in Marmora and district. On Tuesday afternoon two young ladies who were walking on Forsythe Street, Lake View Estates, Marmora, were seen to be followed by a young duckling. When crossing the street one was seen to pick it up and carry it safely to the other side. It was later ascertained that the young ladies were Helen Jean of Rev. R.H.F. (W.D.) Lachine, Que., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Regan and a friend. Upon being questioned, it is the mascot of Barrack Room No. 6, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), Lachine, and was presented to the barrack room by Helen, and looks after it. The duck seems to be enjoying its vacation away from home and after becoming attention as it went sightseeing in Marmora.

Falmouth, England, Aug. 5 — (AP) — The collision - battered United States merchant ship American Farmer reached Falmouth today under her own power, and then the perils of the sea but still the centre of a stormy salvage controversy.

Nazis Planned Skull Collection Of All Races

Nuernberg, Aug. 8 — (AP) — Letters exposing a gruesome German plan to collect skulls and skeletons of all races for an anatomical Institute at Strasbourg were read today at the war crimes trial.

The International military tribunal heard that Professor August Hirt-nein, bearded Wolfran Sievers, a major S. S. officer, but he would not acknowledge the letters.

Maj. F. Bowyn Jones of the British prosecution staff produced a letter he said Sievers had written saying:

We have nearly a complete collection of skulls of all races and peoples at our disposal. Of the Jewish race, however, only a few specimens are available. The war in the east now presents us with an opportunity to overcome this deficiency. By procuring the skulls of Jewish-Bolshevik commissars, who represent the prototype of a repulsive but characteristic sub-human, we have a chance to obtain a pecial scientific collection.

The plan was for the German army to collect the field profiles of all living Jewish-Russian commissary prisoners. Hirtnein was to be given special attention until the end of the war, Sievers wrote.

A letter dated June 21, 1943, said:

"Altogether, 115 persons were experimented on, of the twenty-eight were Jews, 20 Jewesses, two were Poles and four Asiatics."

The anatomical collection was assembled at Strasbourg. On August 1, 1944, the scientist, survey-ing the future possibilities of museum economy, reported that no humans would be aboard the first interplanetary rocket ship for a blinding, 40-million-mile "swish" through space, but he estimated it would take 15 days to reach Mars, provided speed schedules are maintained.

Firefighters Hope For Rain to Help Control Bush Fires

(By The Canadian Press)

There was little change in the forest fire situation in Eastern Canada Sunday, though forecasts of rain for Ontario and Quebec Provinces cheered firefighters "barely holding their own" in the north and eastern districts.

In New Brunswick, a party of Indians joined the battle against a new forest fire menace in the province's northeast.

Ontario's situation was somewhat improved in the Parry Sound district and the fight against forest fires was centred in Northwestern Ontario.

Province of Fear Threatened

On the Wenagosbon river, 60 miles north of the Manitoba community of Blind River, 300 men fought a fire which had 300 dozers and 35,000 feet of hose, struggled to establish a line against the flames which had 5,000 acres and threatened millions of dollars worth of standing timber.

More men were recruited hurriedly from the Sault Ste. Marie and Blind River offices of the Lands and Forests department to supplement the small army of men fighting what is considered the worst fire in many years in that district.

All tourist traffic has been cut off north of Hawkesbury on the Ottawa River, Provincial highway as a precautionary measure. Planes from North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie kept the fire under constant observation.

Early yesterday afternoon fire threatened the Petawawa Children her Co., camps in the Mississaugan area but reinforcements were brought in and checked the threat.

Still Hope for Rain

Near Fort Frances, where approximately 100 men battled two fire outbreaks, rapidly clouding skies held out hope for rain. Small fires in the Lake Abitibi area were under control or extinguished.

A total of 16 of the 36 fires in the Parry Sound area were reported out of control but improvement was reported. Light showers in the Kenora district were of considerable benefit.

Prominent Liberals Express Concern Over Party's Future

By JACK BEATTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 8 —(CP)— Some important Liberals today expressed a growing concern of the party's future under new leadership as they saw signs of a parallel of the 1911 situation when Henri Bourassa's Quebec Nationalists contributed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's defeat.

Offering their comment on the understanding it would not be attributed, they said that as a matter of caution they would like to see their present leader, Prime Minister Mackenzie King —pilot them through the next general election.

But they accept Mr. King's repeated statements that he has thought his last campaign, and would like to see him retire in the near future rather than wait until the end of the government's present term of office. After 1950 they would like Mr. King to take with him into retirement many of his veteran Cabinet colleagues who have served with them so that successors can deal with their best and close ranks before the next general election.

Reunion at Madoc

Madoc village with the surrounding district has been celebrating this week one of those happy events, a reunion of the people who live or have lived in this happy, industrious and progressive community. The function brought hundreds of former residents back to the place of their birth or early residence, some even from South America, to re-live in memory and in the old familiar scenes of the past associated with the village, to meet friends of the long ago and to feel the fullest realization of what it has meant to residents and former townsfolk to have spent their lives or some of their happiest years in a community favored and richly blessed by nature's bounty, by the sterling character of the people and the very spirit of the place as Madoc.

The village of Madoc remains forever home to those who have known it by dwelling there. This centre has been able to make a notable contribution to the life of the district, to the County of Hastings, to the Province of Ontario and to the Dominion of Canada and abroad. It was in the very nature of things that this was to be, because national resources and the moral fibre of the founders of the community and their descendants have meant the building of a community which can look with pride upon its history and record of service in every field and in every effort for the good of the country. Of such fine communities this great Dominion of Canada is made—the best assurance that the Canadian way of life with its love of freedom and its sense of moral responsibility, will continue to exert its influence for good. In communities like Madoc village and its environs lies the future as has been its past, so rich in everything worth while in life. Those who have lived there and spent their days in this industrious community and those who left for other parts, have definitely served the cause of democracy and civilization. Those who in the years moved from Madoc to other parts carried with them the kindly influence of their Hastings County village and the associations with which they were familiar in this place and lived them out in their new home whether they might be. This loyalty to the family hearth is something of which Canadians are proud and the people of Madoc are proud. Many of those who came back brought their families with hearts full of gratitude for the influence this community had been in their lives and for the start it gave them in life. These returned residents of other years and those who still dwell in Madoc feel stronger from the evidence of the strength of the ties and associations attaching to the village. The reunion brought many happy scenes and renewal of friendships and communicated a spirit of good will and loyalty to the ancestral spot that will not be forgotten.

Programs of entertainment and events joined with the meeting of old friends to recall in its fulness the spirit of the people and of the community. The war of 1939-1945 is not long closed and the fervor of the spirit of service of Madoc and the district found former citizens and other visitors was to be noticed everywhere. Madoc and its district and this county gave a record of service in the struggle for the preservation of freedom of which it is proud and which served in all branches of the services and in many a theatre of war with great distinction and the home front's service was tireless and unstinting. The presence of Major the Rev. John Foote, winner of the Victoria Cross for valour in and after the Battle of Dieppe Beaches, was a high note of the reunion. Church and school, societies and business men in every way worked to make the memory of the scenes of the reunion abiding. Community hospitality for which Madoc is marked was seen in all phases of the homecoming.

Such scenes as gather about a reunion are inspiring, they serve to stir the hearts of the home folk and the former residents. Madoc township dates back before 1830 and its settlement was rapid. Among the first natives of the township recorded are Cyrus Biggs, Barnabas Vankleek, James O'Hara, Donald Mackenzie, Thomas Allen, James Wilson, Jacob Hazard, Otis Seymour, Louis Empey, William Allen and Robert Cooper. Donald Mackenzie built a grist and saw mill and opened a store, the first in the township, on Deer Creek, a tributary of the Moira River, which formed the nucleus of what became Madoc village.

Events of the week at Madoc are never to be forgotten. They enrich the lives of the people who are the hosts and of those who come back home for a few days into the old haunts and places of memory.

32 Years Ago

Veterans and others of middle life and older remember this week thirty-two years ago when Britain became at war with the Central Powers in the First World War. Between the end of the first struggle and the beginning of the Second World War there was a space of slightly less than twenty-one years. The period covered by the two conflicts and the intermediate peace between them the years covered no less than thirty-one years, more than a generation of time and just less than a third of a century.

To the people of middle age and older, it seems a long period that has elapsed, so much associated with war and the effects of war.

The time two struggles were the greatest of all time and it has been and is the sincere wish and prayer of mankind that the lessons of these wars and these periods may lead to a peace that will endure.

Today marks the great deal of the passing of war in its terrible losses and the forces it releases.

Montreal Herald in a comment says "Many of us are trying to forget. It would be unwise for us to forget. We are rooted in forgetfulness. Let us rather scan anew the darker lessons of that war that started thirty-two years ago as well as those of its sequel."

Significant

Today it is tacitly recognized that what is meeting in Paris is more a peace conference among the victors than between victors and vanquished. That magnifies the difficulties, but also the importance of its solution. And the fact that the conference is gathering at all does record a step toward solution more significant than is generally realized. The Mediterranean and Balkan questions are, no doubt, "perpheral," but the advance toward their settlement did represent a major triumph of statesmanship which, if now confirmed, can carry us a good way toward the settlement of the grimmer central problems that lie ahead.

—New York Herald Tribune.

Two Kinds of Power

There are just two kinds of power in the world. One is military. A nation which can mobilize and equip millions of soldiers can speak with force. A nation with a unique weapon may have a frightening authority. Its people do not want and would like to get rid of — as is the case with the United States today. The other kind of power is in men's minds, and it can exist in twenty nations having a total population of about 140,000,000 as easily as it can in one having the same or a greater population.

The situation in men's shirts, seems to be growing more tense. A gentleman who two months ago sent some to a shirt hospital to be mended has just received the following urgent note on a penny postcard: "Your shirts are ready. BISHOP AND THURSDAY

Approaching Friday, I can see
The Bishop slyly look at me.
Though dull am I, without a word,
I read what thought his mind has stirred
And well I know, with rod and reel,
He wants to angle for a meal.

Those eyes of his are blue and clear,
Especially when Friday's near.
They plainly tell he wants to get
A change from beans and omelet.
His smiling face betrays the wish
To catch a few Lake Huron fish.

Oh, there are times I wonder what
He thinks about the human lot!
I see him, sombre and sedate,
Observe this world of greed and hate,
But then in silence deep he sinks
And seldom tells me what he thinks.

But Thursday comes, and then I see
The smiling Bishop nearing me.
On such occasions I don't need
My spectacles his mind to read.
"Come drop your work," his twinkles say,
"And let's go fishing in the bay!"

INFORMATION BOUNDUP

What element was discovered in the sun?

Helium is known as the "sun element." Found in it was discovered in the sun long before it was known to exist on the earth.

In 1868 the French astronomer Pierre Paysen observed a brilliant yellow line in the solar atmosphere that he could not account for. He told the matter to Sir Joseph Norman Lockyer, astronomer. Sir Edward Frankland, chemist, while observing an eclipse of the sun in 1868 with a spectroscope, concluded that the brilliant yellow streak in the sun was from a new solar element, which Lockyer named helium, from Greek "helois," sun.

An American chemist named William F. Hillebrand in 1889 expelled some of the gas from the mineral uraninite without identifying it as helium. In 1894 the British chemist, Sir William Ramsay, seeking a new source of argon, treated cleveite, a crystalline variety of uraninite from Norway, with acid and found that the chief constituent of the gaseous mixture given off corresponded identically in the spectrum with the element detected in the sun. He then succeeded to obtain the first pure helium ever isolated.

Helium was later detected in certain stars and was found in the earth's atmosphere, meteoric iron, mineral waters and natural gases. At first helium was mined, that is it was obtained from uraninite and other minerals that were mined. In 1926 Dr. H. P. Cady, professor of chemistry at the University of Kansas, analyzed gas from a near-by oil well and found that it contained 1.47 percent of helium.

Until shortly before the First World War helium was little more than a laboratory curiosity that sold for $2500 a cubic foot. The new element proved to be of great importance in aeronautics because it is inflammable and does only a negligible lifting less. It is inflammable because it is strictly "noncoal" and, unlike hydrogen, will not combine with any other elements. The first dirigible airship to be inflated with helium in 1917.

Helium is a rare element that does not solidify when subjected to temperatures approaching absolute zero. The chief sources of commercial helium now is natural gas found in Kansas exclusively in Texas and Oklahoma which supply the United States a virtual monopoly of the element. By 1945 it was being produced in a government plant near Amarillo, Texas, at a rate of 24,000,000 cubic feet a year and at a cost of only about one cent a cubic foot. The cubic foot of helium will lift slightly more than an ounce.

This element occurs in the air in the proportion of about one part in 250,000 parts of atmosphere, but no commercially practical process for extracting atmospheric helium has yet been developed. More than 2 trillion cubic feet of air would have to be treated to obtain enough helium to inflate a dirigible airship of average size. The lifting power of dirigible's helium is about 93 percent as great as that of hydrogen. A rare form of lightweight hydrogen in the atmosphere has a lifting power nearly three percent greater.

Helium is now used for many other purposes — to inflate airplane tires, in "breathing mixtures" for treating asthma and other respiratory diseases, as a synthetic atmosphere in diving bells, as a protecting atmosphere in arc welding torches and as a "tracer gas" in mineral explorations.

IT'S NOT YOUR NERVES

A doctor's social handicap persists as long as it have practiced without being aware that many ailments of nerve origin are due to short trouble, dirty trouble, flagging trust conditions, any kind of chronic infection, focal or systemic ailment, including the tonsils, diseased teeth, a glandular disorder or not.

Many people are terrible they suffer from pure nervous weakness, regardless of what I think or my colleagues think. They are afraid, to the days when American medicine was under the sway of the Weir Mitchell rest cure for nervous ailments. Rest is the subject of physiology and scanty consideration in modern medicine and exercise little place in therapeutics. The very assumption as, when I say that of "neurasthenia", "nervous exhaustion" or "nervous breakdown" was based had no support in physiology. No one has ever defined what is meant scientifically "nerve energy" or say such energy apart from the energy from the heart of your breathing muscle (diaphragm) or your biceps' used when it functions or, works. I repeat, for other energy than that measured by the combustion of calories is wholly imaginary. Less say "Well, so what?" I'll add that in carefully controlled scientific tests some college students taking a hard examination used up by two or three hours of mental concentration the energy a half of a pound of calories. What is the sight of the fact that I am no authority it is my sincere belief and respect that no one, no matter what the trouble may seem to be, should supporize with the trouble by taking medicine or any other form of treatment for "nervous exhaustion" or "nervous breakdown" or "tired nerves" or any such hyr, potential condition, without making a determined effort to find out what really is the matter with himself. It is the duty, folks, my advise is this. Don't de-

Record Tobacco Crop this Year

Toronto, Aug. 8. (CP)—Despite serious shortage of rain in many parts of Ontario in recent weeks the most favorable reports of the cured tobacco look for a record 90,000,000-pound crop this year, it survey figures released today.

There was little report on the prospect for the province's crop of Burley tobacco, grown chiefly in the Chatham district.

Growers of flue cured tobacco said that while there was the need week or 10 days will likely boost average yield to about 1,100 pounds an acre, the main concern is the shortage of labor.

Harvesting is due to start Aug. 10 and primers, leaf-handlers and strippers are in demand. In the tobacco districts of Brant, Oxford, Kent, Durham and Prince Edward counties, 4-H Clubs are scheduled to be brought in from Georgia, Virginia and North and South Carolina but it is the shortage of native labor which is causing most concern.

Primers, who pick the tobacco leaves as they ripen, last year were paid about $8 a day. Handlers received $6 and strippers as much as $6. Reports this year indicate some will receive $10 a day, with handlers and strippers seeking corresponding increases.

Another matter of deep concern to tobacco growers, is the financial Post said yesterday in a report on the situation is their export quota.

Would Limit Life Of Exchange Control Board

Ottawa, Aug. 5 — (CP) — J. M. Macdonnell, (C-Muskoka-Ontario), financial critic for the Progressive Conservative opposition, moved in the House of Commons today that a time limit be placed on the duration of the powers of the Exchange Control Board following extended into peacetime under a guaranteed bill before the House.

Opening a debate as the bill went into committee stage, Mr. Macdonnell suggested the board be put on a basis of yearly operation so parliament annually could review its operation and decide whether its powers should continue.

Specifically, the bill would put into statutory form the wartime order-in-council under which the Board was established.

Mr. Macdonnell moved in the Commons to consider the rigid and drastic powers that are granted under the measure and said the Board should operate as sparingly as possible, whether they wished to grant these powers and grant them on an indefinite or a limited basis.

He agreed that they had been necessary during wartime to control the flow of foreign currencies from this country and to safeguard the country's reserves, but he doubted if there was any necessity to continue them on a basis of indefinite duration.

Mr. Macdonnell said he was not opposed to some of the powers being granted but he thought the board should be under the control of parliament.

The Chamber rocked with laughter when Acting Finance Minister Abbott, referring to a statement by Mr. Macdonnell that the country is heading for a severe buddy stated that "this Liberal Mrs. Burton Ford and town by or Wellington.

But, apparently, white satin is one of the shortages; but, as designers are turning to other exotic, such as delicate marquisette. White marquisette with blue headpanel of bowknots and flower-sprays is used for the captivating wedding gown. The sleeves are breakaway, the neckline is off-the-shoulder. The midriff is of close-fitting pointed blue satin, with the long, full sleeves are gathered at the wrist. Said trim is used for the crescent-shaped headdress. A beautiful gown for a late Summer garden wedding.

You like to look at her, listen to her, be with her. But sometimes she is not that kind of a girl. Very often she is a spotlighter. Before she ever goes to a party she is thinking up cute things she is going to say. She puts on a rehearsal with her ever-ready mirror.

She does not do it as a part of her existence. She does it to gain attention. Sometimes she gets it, sometimes she doesn't. The wallflowers know how; the smart they are by the by. Sometimes that is a pretty nuisance. Living up to the reputation of being a wit and a roll-up is hard work.

Late Arrival

The show-off makes it a practice to arrive late at the party. She will have a larger audience for her perfectly killing remarks. She uses a good many features that disrupt her shoulders, like the shrug, the eyebrow, to give expression to words that would not have the dramatics herself.

She makes it a business to do all the talking. At first, other guests may try to crowd a word in edgewise. After a time, they give up. It's no use. She monopolizes the conversation.

Everybody Avoided

This girl may discover in course of time that she isn't asked to as many parties as she has been invited to in the past. Hostesses have a way of wanting to direct the affairs of the evening. They know the interests of the various guests, want to draw out the shy ones, and limit that will bring everyone in.

Eventually the spot-lighter shows evidences of strain. She develops nerves. Showing off takes it out of one. After the party evening she comes home exhausted. She has suffered considerable emotional wear and tear, and she'll get right on playacting. She'll never learn that a charming woman has poise, is a good listener.

BEAUTY, by HELEN JAMESON

The Problem of Dry Skin

Nature provided human skin with a protective oil. This lubricating oil is secreted in the underlying tissues. It helps to waterproof the skin, to keep it soft and supple, to prevent flaking and scaling. Without its oil, the skin would have a dead, lusterless and rough appearance.

Fat, which is a vegetable lubricant, is not any more use. Probably the reason is due to chemical changes in the fat, but dermatologists that diet is a factor. Dryness of the skin is added when a woman goes on a reducing diet. Old age, also, helps to dry the skin. It likely to be sold. Overheated houses have a drying effect on the skin, and constant exposure to the air contributes to the misery of the dry skin. Failure to drink sufficient water is a common cause of dry skin.

Powder Goes on in Patches

Powder goes on in patches, because the underlying tissues are dry of water, more cream and still more cream, as pleasing as it is to put on the flesh. A thin coating, like a second skin, is needed for the removal of make-up. What it is, is a thin film of cream, which is rubbed away when you wash your face.

Rinse with tepid water. Both hot and cold water are likely to produce coarse wrinkles. Dry gently. The skin of this character needs gentleness, must never be treated roughly. Apply cream again. Let it remain on for 15 or 20 minutes. Wipe most of it away, and the skin will be in a receptive condition for powder.

The more frictions the swifter will be stimulation. Better circulation means that the sebaceous glands. Always, when putting on creams or lotions, give your countenance a brisk smacking. The more slapping and tapping, the better.

You may find that a foundation cream will be helpful. It forms a barrier against blistering sunshine and harsh winds. One usually has to experiment with these beauty aids.

Be fussy about your powder. It should be of light consistency, with a fine texture. Be sure especially that it does not spread easily. If it does, it has compact soap, apply powder, then the synthetic blush, then powder again to blend with a special pad kept for the purpose.

Astringents are not for the "dry," though some skin tonics are helpful because they make the flesh, give it warmth. Cream rouge is more easily applied. Powder is likely to pumple the delicate epidermal cells.

One rule to remember: put more cream in your coffee, more butter on your bread.

It's About Time

By DOLORES BOLAND

IT'S ABOUT TIME to plan how you will make a Fall dress for the theatre and dinner in mind. Instead of the usual little black crepe dress, consider bronze or copper colored moire. Then top it up gloves and a bag of the same material.

Fashion Flashes

AFTER MANY SEASONS of loose coats, the fitted coat, with accent on the slim waistline, becomes important. Yarn-dyed grey suede wool makes a handsomely cut coat. The slim waist marked by a silver-studded tailored self belt. Bodice buttons snugly down the front with tiny silver buttons below a small club collar. Tucks make big pockets soft and pouchy.

A new accent marks many of the latest Persian lamb coats—such as the model with enormous cape sleeves, at the edge with soft loops of Kob-i-fur mink tails that give a soft, whitish touch to the black Persian lamb coat which is made with four deep flares in back.

It's nice to welcome back beautiful pure silk prints. A charming late summer evening frock cut on slim lines, is in a multi-colored floral print on pure black silk. Peplum is draped in front; short-sleeved bodice has a very deep, narrow V neckline. Skirt is slit in front.

Never too many party silver-ware pieces for the girl who entertains on a small scale. Triple silver is black is used for a pretty design made of small and large balls, and shaker, ball and bar. Sculptured effect of real silver is underlaid with pale blue. Tray is 12 inches long and 7 inches at the base has a pale blue underlay.

Look out for the tipping hemline in late afternoon dress as it is the most outstanding style a change. Instead of the long hem, the front is cut short, the back long with sections of the skirt falling in graduated points from the waistline to the hip. Chiffon velvet is back under the tipping hemline.

Every year now finds that interest is the with the ripples becomes more pronounced. Even if it is not the tipping hemline, it is the tipping of the jacket, the tipping of the sleeve, the tipping of the pelerine or more long loops.

All tioked off Mr. Timpkins?

Polio Epidemics In Scattered States Reported

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP)—Infantile paralysis reached epidemic proportions today in scattered sections of the United States as health authorities took further steps to combat spread of the disease.

Epidemics were reported at Minneapolis; in Pulaski County, Arkansas, and in Jones, Forrest and Lowndes counties, Mississippi.

In Ohio the state health director predicted an epidemic year "unless there is a sharp drop within the next 10 days."

Many states throughout the south, west and middlewest reported the number of polio cases for the year already higher than last year's totals. New England and Middle Atlantic States appeared only slightly affected.

Precautions taken included cancellation of some boys' and girls' activities in Louisiana and Mississippi and closing of some swimming pools in Nebraska state parks. Ohio's health director told parents to keep children away from crowds, allow them plenty of rest and prevent over-exercise.

In Mississippi, a state epidemiologist told the area was on the verge of a "near epidemic" while in Florida there were 325 cases this year, compared with 38 for the same period last year.

In the west and southwest, cases also were reported above normal but the July 31 week reported the most cases.

The Minnesota Health Department report of 706 polio cases and 58 deaths this year, including 344 cases in Minneapolis and 57 in St. Paul. Wisconsin reported 75 verified cases against none to Aug. 1 last year with six deaths so far.

ELLSWORTH VINES SHATTERS RECORD TO LEAD IN OPEN

Former Professional Champ Cards Seven-Under-Par 65 at Winnipeg

BY WILF GRUBOR

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—(CP)—Ellsworth Vines, 37-year-old veteran of professional golf and the theory, practice and playing of tennis, today let loose a barrage of birdies and eagles that shattered the course record and left Vines in the spot as the tentative leader in the Canadian Professional golf championship.

The former tennis great, perfectly paced and supremely confident as well as experienced, fired a seven-under-par 65 in the first 18 holes yesterday.

That par-shattering, record-equalling round for this tricky, 6,304-yard layout gave the former Canadian champion a four-stroke lead over four others, including a Canadian amateur and professional, in a field of more than 80 top links artists from Canada and the United States in search of first-place money of $5,000.

Less than an hour after wiping the precipitation from his brow following his last putt for a par-four, the six-foot-two opening round leader, who has been called golf bag around his caddy's shoulders and quietly slipped away from the crowd to practice his putting at his motel-cottage home which he says is the weakest part of his game.

Canada All Time

The runner-up quartet of Freddie Wood of Toronto, amateur Nick Winnock of Toronto and A. Windsor, Ont., long-hitting Jimmy Thomson of Los Angeles and Byron Nash and George Fazio of Los Angeles had the lead with six until Vines counted seven.

A stroke behind these four came former Trenton golf star Bob Rosburg of New Orleans, La., winner of the Canadian amateur title at Winnipeg in 1936, and little Eddie Furgol of Tacoma, Wash., five strokes behind by British Open Champion Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., tethered in the next spot with 71s.

The others were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, runner-up in this year's Canadian Trader's Ltd. Monday Dixie Meet, at Arkansas City before setting out to settle by Friday a double-barrelled challenge by Little, former British and U. S. amateur champion, and Jim Ferrier of Chicago.

Next with 72 were Bobby Burns of Burlington and Hamilton, Ont., Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C., Johnny Palmer of Durham, N.C., and Dick Metz of the St. Paul open winner, Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas, and Walter Blevins of Kansas City, Mo.

SWACOS DEFEAT TRENTON TEAM UNDER THE LIGHTS

Alemite Field Under Arcs as Bright as Day With Players Enjoying It

Floodlighted baseball has its initiation in the city Wednesday evening as the SWACO Pirates defeated the Trenton Golden Arrows 13-4 in the opening game of the Alemite field under the lights.

And Alemite did themselves proud in the new baseball setup. A diamond under artificial light. The girls' batting eyes were apparently not affected as they seemed not to lessen individual batting ability.

Softball fans also took kindly to the fast-fine games played under the floodlights and approximately 300 lovers of the game turned out to cheer their favorites. And the rules worked through with an unusually efficient collection.

As to the game the SWACO gals had a bit too much experience for their Trenton opponents and after a few early scares managed to the lights their heavy bats started to swing out. The final score was 13-4 in favor of the locals.

Kept Opposition in Check

Lois Calcutt hurled for the locals and kept the opposition in check limiting the Spotless Cleaners to one run in the second and fourth and two in the fifth while in the later innings the SWACO gals began to get merciful at the expense of Robertson, the Trenton hurler. In the sixth Calcutt helped her own cause as she conked out a round tripper with one mate on base. The second duplicated as she hit a homer with the bases loaded.

Following the game the players and umpires were entertained by the SWACO club at the SWACO park. Manager Tommy Colden was much enthused over the reception given, at the first night game in the city and promises more to follow.

Line score—

Spotless Cleaners 010 120 0— 4
SWACO ..... 100 220 2—13

Batteries—Robertson and Jeffrey; SWACO: Calcutt and Farrar.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was hurrying up going home for dinner, half walking and half running on account of being late again and not having any excuse except old ones that dont work any more, such as not knowing what time it was and forgetting how long it's been taking to get back lately, and I thought, Heck, I'm going to get heck, tho'll be about the 3rd time this week.

Which just then I saw pop getting off the buss, and I said, G, pop, that's funny, I thought you'd be home half ways through your supper.

That's where I ought to be, but it's not funny, pop said. Your mother particularly warned me to be home on time this evening for F'or 4 reasons which escape me at the moment but which your mother po doubt remembers perfectly, he said, and I said, Well anyways, pop, we're both late. Do you think that makes it better or worse? I said.

Maybe it just makes it, pop said, and I said, I suppose we are we kind of got delayed by meeting each other, how would that sound?

Awful, pop said. For Pete sake I must be seeing things, he said.

Meaning ma just going up the front steps on her way in, and she saw us and waited, pop saying to her, Well, this is a fine time for you to be getting home. I wont go so far to say that we've been out looking for you, but this is certainly a surprise, he said.

Which it was, and ma said, I had no idea how time was flying, Nora will probably be furious.

And we all went in, and what was on the empty dining room table but a note from Nora on the back of a paper bag, saying, My sister is sick again, you all help her to go to a restaurant.

Which we did, going to the New Era Delicatessen and Dining Room.

"I am not going to advise labor to kid itself. I am going to advise labor to fight for what is right.

Mr. Conroy recalled the prediction made to the committee by Donald Gordon, Prices Board Chairman, that increases much in excess of 10 cents would make it impossible for him to continue his efforts to control prices. The statement had later been supported by acting Finance Minister Abbott, but said Mr. Conroy, neither Mr. Gordon nor Mr. Abbott had produced a single figure to back their opinions. They were "going on hunches."

Conference Sessions

In the United States prices had advanced eight per cent between Jan. 15 and July 15, accompanied by marked increases in wages. In Canada, during the same period, there had been a 8.2 advance in prices with no increase in wages.

Reconstruction Minister Howe suggested in seeking uniformity in steel wages labor was ignoring differences in the financial position of three companies. Mr

Johnny Mikan, Rookie Lefthander, Has Splendid Record Since June

(By The Canadian Press)

Although Rochester Red Wings are mired in the International League's second division, they have in Johnny Mikan one of the circuit's most promising hurlers.

The 27-year-old rookie left-hander of the seventh-place Wings has pitched some excellent baseball since June and at the moment seems to have even won three lost record.

Pounded from the hill in his first three starts early in the season, Mikan didn't receive another start until Wednesday, until June 18. Since then, the moundsman has turned in six complete games including two shutout triumphs in 10 starts.

In 131 innings, Mikan yielded 96 hits, walked 57 batters and fanned 66.

He ended a five-game losing streak last night stopping the league-leading Baltimore Orioles, who had won eight of their last nine games, were held to six hits.

The lanky pitcher aided his own cause by banging in four runs on two hits, Clyde Vollmer and Steve in four tallies for the Wings.

By winning, the Wings swerved temporarily into the cellar as the tail-end Jersey City Giants defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 to remain half a game behind Rochester. Mike Mellis limited the Leafs to four safeties while the Giants clipped Joe Coleman for 10 including Norm Jeeger's seventh home run.

The league-leading Montreal Royals edged Syracuse Chiefs, 3-2, as Steve Nagy scattered eight safeties in clutching up his 13th win of the year. Nagy also belted a two-run homer and a single to help win his game.

Newark's fifth-place Bears moved to within half a game of the Chiefs by trouncing Buffalo Bisons 13-5. The Bears broke up a hurling duel between Al Tote and Denny Horton of the Bisons by counting six times in the sixth frame to take a 7-3 advantage. Newark completed its scoring with a four-run blast in the sixth that was featured by Silas Mosco's three-run homer.

Given $26,000 Advance Money Says Pasquel

(By The Canadian Press)

Mickey Owen, former Brooklyn Dodgers catcher who has quit the Mexican League, walked off with $26,000 in advance payments, Bernardo Pasquel, Vice-President of the Mexican loop, declared last night at New York. Pasquel said he knew of no reason why the players had quit unless it was the "Mexican players were too good for him. He spent many days on the bench."

Bernardo added the circuit proposed to buy six of the best players in United States baseball next year. He named Ted Williams of Boston and Bobby Feller of Cleveland as among the "best six."

Owen was reported on his way to see baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler about reinstatement and the latter was he would not play in the United States this year.

While unofficial announcement was made yesterday the Pittsburgh baseball club had been sold to Col. Frank McKinney of Indianapolis, there was other news from Harrisburg, Pa., that the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Board had directed the Pirates to take a standing Aug. 20 to determine if the American Baseball Guild is to be the collective bargaining agent.

Yorkshire accounted for 248 runs for only five wickets yesterday against Leicestershire in English cricket while Essex scored 67 in its innings against Lancashire.

CHAPTER 2.

"It sounds very delightful, but...." The shining head gave a decided shake.

"You know, Miss Anthony—" Cutter settled back in his chair and succeeded in fill his glass. "Mind if I light up in here?"

"No indeed."

"Thanks. I was...about to say—" The letter was going into action. That I was wondering if you were not like one of Sapling's stories. He was about a timid little creature that always creeps about the walls in the dark, trying to get up courage to run out into the middle of the floor to see what's there. But it never does."

A musical laugh greeted this illustration. Jacqueline also leaned back in her chair. Her face was in the shadow cast by the floor lamp.

"You're talking about Chuchunder the Great," she accused. "I don't think that's very nice. But perhaps you're right, after all," she concluded soberly. "I may be like that."

"So you have your India, too," Cutter went on unheedingly. "You'll use it on your trip to the valley. Calcutta, Benares, the Ganges. Isn't that—"

"If only I could." The words came across the desk with a little sigh.

"But you can!"

Cutter had himself upright. He bent forward until his face was full in the light. There was a determined glint in his dark eyes. His low jaw was thrust forward aggressively.

"Why do you say that?" was the girl's quick reply. "How could it?"

"Simple enough. You can marry me, by the way . . . My name's Larry Cutter."

"Well"

Larry Cutter made a peremptory gesture with his pipe at Jacqueline Anthony as she stared at him in wide-eyed bewilderment. He leaned still nearer, speaking in a low impetuous voice.

"You're thinking one of two things," he insisted. "That I'm as fresh as paint and you should call the house detective, or that I've some idea Either way, you're wrong. I meant what I said then. And I've never talked marriage with a woman before. I don't expect you to believe that or...anything. But you've got to let me explain now. I've no apology to make."

"Excuse me, Mr. Cutter." Jacqueline spoke in a flat, cold voice. "If you have a letter you wish written, I will take it. Otherwise, I am busy."

"Never mind the letter. It can wait. I'm on your pirates. I've simply got to tell you...."

He broke off the growl at a small rain-coated figure that appeared in the doorway. The lanky trader was looking inquiringly at the little stenographer. Larry was aware of a sudden suspicion he wondered if the girl had found some way to summon aid. But that could not be, by any stretch of imagination.

"Oh, Mr. Dennison!" There was no question about Jacqueline's pleasure at seeing the newcomer. "You've finished here in a second," she volunteered.

Dennison grinned. "There's no hurry whatever about my work," he announced blandly. "It's the care of this gentleman, Miss Anthony. I'll drop back when you're not busy."

Larry brushed past the man in the rain-coat and retreated to his favorite chair in the lobby. He flung himself into it with a sigh of relief. After a vicious tapping of his pipe bowl against a smoking stand beside the chair, he turned his disenchanted attention to the office he had quitted so abruptly.

He was rather too far away to be sure of the expression in Miss Anthony's eyes, but the watcher was convinced that she was listening to something unpleasant.

Who the devil was this guy? What was he saying? What did he want? Larry wished he could see the man's face now. Hadn't liked his looks, anyway. Maybe he was the boy friend. Maybe he had been watching the scene in the office and was registering an objection.

Dennison's raincoat, didn't fit any too snugly. Plenty of slack between the shoulder-blades. One could get a very fair handful of cloth there and walk the bounder out to the street door. Sally...

Silly, of course.

The Cutter hands would be full enough when it was time to go back and square things with Jack. Jack Anthony. How in the world would he make her know that he wasn't a common cad? That he loved her? That he had fallen in love with her that first day?

Larry believed that profoundly. The sense as he believed that Jack Anthony was going to love him is return, or he'd know the reason why. There was no reason why he could not win her. Jack would listen. She had to listen... She would give him his chance. She must!

Hello....There was Dennison leaving. The girl was sitting there alone now. She was looking into the distance. So very small and helpless.

Before he should lose courage, Larry strode purposefully to the goal of his desire. He entered, closed the door gently and helped himself to his former seat.

Jacqueline regarded him without the slightest display of interest, or resentment. She waited for him to speak.

"I'm back," he hazarded.

"You didn't have a letter at all," came the quiet accusation. Larry wished Jack would move out of the shadow so that he might read her eyes. But she didn't.

"No," he confessed calmly. "I had no letter."

"You don't even know Royal Allen."

"Never heard of the blighter," was the cheery admission. "How did you guess it?"

"I happened to read that article this morning. Is some one you marked. Why?"

"Why, naturally I would give me a chance to talk to you. I knew you liked adventures....that sort of thing."

"I think you mean travel." Jacqueline still spoke in that flat, expressionless voice.

"Sure. That's what I meant. I knew it from watching you. Noticing the things you read. Those pirates, for instance. I've spent a lot of time getting acquainted with you at long range, Perhaps it wasn't very clever, but...I had to."

"Oh."

"Won't you let me talk to you now and then? Afterwards...."

"Well, you won't see me again.... If you say so, Please!"

"Go on." There was no encouragement in the permission.

"Thanks. I've told you my name. Does it mean anything at all to you?"

"No."

"It wouldn't. But it was pretty well known in this part of the country once. I'm speaking about my father, John Cutter. He was a scientist. You'd scarcely know about him....Long before your time, that was."

There was no reply.

"Now this is going to be a strain on your credulity. Would it surprise you to know that I consider myself a gentleman?"

"Oh, no."

"I get it. Don't blame you in the least." Larry conceded gloomily. "It's one of many things I'll have to prove. It may take time. The same as proving that I'm sane. And yet I am. Also I'm thirty-five and weigh one hundred and seventy. I drink a bit, in company, and can't quite be up on Kipling. He said there was hope for such a man. Also I smoke, as you see. Profession, engineer of sorts. Just a few of the obvious details," he apologized.

Only silence greeted this effort.

"Ever run across the Val O'Connor book wanderings, Miss Anthony?"

"Yes." It came out with obvious reluctance.

"Then you know what a wilderness it was. I'm an ultra-modern prospector and ride a plane. Well, I've been there off and on for over two years.....Somewhat to the north of the main diggings, however. Primitive enough to suit anybody."

"I imagine so."

"Yes, ma'am. But it's worth it, if you find something! I've found mine, myself."

"Gold!" The firm traps of incredulity.

"Some....Good enough show-ing to get a diggers pick and a bit interest fit my claim. It was to a syndicate that wanted to put up the development cost and take over the worry. I figured I could get a stake. Besides, I have another job I want to do."

"That is very nice, I'm sure."

"I'll say it is. I came back here on purpose to....But you won't go into that. Goodness knows. No family but some distant cousins that I don't know. They may be dead. One of my ideas was to get married. Been knocking around alone long enough. I decided that I wanted a home.... companionship. And comforts. I suppose every man does at one time or another."

"And you decided to offer yourself to the first girl you met."

Larry Cutter was unable to detect either amusement or sarcasm in that comment. It was a colorless statement and offered, seemingly, to clarify a situation.

"Nothing of the sort!" he objected hotly. "I want somebody to belong just to me. Somebody who will be interested in what I do....care a little. Look here, Miss Anthony. You may not have seen very much of this world, but something tells me you understand things. You even know what the Val O'Co looks like. Right yes' you've been picturing the trackless miles of snow and scrub pine. The camps. Tarpaper shacks in dirty snow. There's not the romance about it your magazine yarns made out. There's a lot of riffraff. Unsavory men and unsavory ways. Hours of hard work and those other hours when you sit glum into a fire and smoking your pipe. That's harder than any work. The solitude...."

ELLSWORTH VINES SHATTERS RECORD TO LEAD IN OPEN

Former Professional Champ Cards Seven-Under-Par 63 at Wheaton

By WILF GRUBOR

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Niakwa Golf and Country Club, Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Here's how you can never earn your game by proxy. Ellsworth Vines, retired over from the days when he was one of the world's outstanding golfers, put on a demonstration of the lucky and affable millionaire Vines in the open championship golfers on the professional tournament circuit.

The Chicago pro, who switched permanently to golf a few years ago, smashed the country's professional record for nine holes tonight in 1936-32-30 and 31, 125, today equalled the second round of the United States Professional Golfers' Association open tournament by a spectacular 63—seven-under-par 63 on the first 18 holes yesterday.

Vines' brilliant card—record-equalling round for this tricky, 6,304-yard layout gave the former tennis champion a four-stroke lead over four others, including a Canadian amateur and professional, in a field of more than 80 top U.S. professionals and Canada and the United States in search of the first-place money of $3,000.

Less than an hour after wiping the perspiration from his brow following his last putt for a par-four, the 27-year-old ex-Wimbledon lawn tennis champion a four-stroke lead over four others, including a Canadian amateur and professional, in a field of more than 80 top U.S. professionals and Canada and the United States in search of the first-place money of $3,000.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

Toronto, Aug. 5.—(CP)—The industrial, base metal and Western oil sections led the Toronto exchange at mid-day, the index totals adding nearly a point. Gains ranged from fractions to a point or more of 34. Volume was light at 272,000 shares for the first three hours.

Giant Yellowknife advanced 40 cents. Base metals posted only minor changes.

Prices were higher in the industrial section for the most utility and beer stocks and 12 liquors were down.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 5 — (AP) The direction shifted one way and then the other in today's stock market although a little selling now and then provided a restraining influence.

VACATION PLAN PROVES POPULAR IN SASKATCHEWAN

Jobs for Women Under Canadian Vocational Training Classes Range from Air Pruning to Photography

Regina, (CP) — Saskatchewan dentists are on the lookout for veterans who can stand the sight of blood—women veterans, that is.

A new opportunity for ex-service women particularly is presented by Eastern dentists who have asked Edythe Coulter, forestry, C.W.A.C., captain and now woman's supervisor for Canadian Vocational Training in Saskatchewan, whether she knows of any suitable applicants for jobs as dental assistants.

The dentists have other specifications too regarding applicants. One asked for a blond about five feet, two inches who likes mention only typing and bookkeeping as requirements.

The C.V.T. course for dental nurses—a position which requires a university degree and perhaps help with instruments if not required full-time at receptionists. Dentists would prefer assistants who had done the same job in the forces.

Under the C.V.T. plan those taking the "training on the job" should receive the regular $60 per month allowance.

Variety of Jobs

More than 600 ex-servicewomen have been interviewed for training under the C.V.T. scheme since it got under way. These figures range from fur finishing to photography. Many of the enquiries in both these jobs now call girls are reluctant to take up the work because of the hours.

The C.V.T. has placed a number of girls in jobs as nursing aides, relieving the critical shortage of nursing just now across the Dominion.

A nurses' aid course, which had been in existence with the approval of the Saskatchewan Registered Nurses' Association. Fifteen students will take the nine-months course including work in dietetics, nutrition, family relations, cooking and sewing. There are prospects, all answered jobs with new hospitals scheduled to open throughout the province within the next year.

Non-servicewomen are beginning to be included in training under C.V.T. They will include girls there are vacancies in the nurses' aid course and also in a course in beauty culture opening at Saskatoon in August.

The latest group starting under C.V.T. in Saskatchewan are taking a pre-matriculation course. But jobs going begging in the "training on the job" program include: Fur finishing, photographers, florists, dry cleaners and cake finishers.

Broker's Arrest Latest Move In Commission Drive

Toronto, Aug. 8 —(CP)— The arrest yesterday of Harry Don Miller, 37, Toronto-old broker, on a charge of false representation in the sale of mining shares valued at $100,000 was the latest development in the eight-months-old drive by the Ontario Securities Commission "to clean up our own backyard."

Head of the commission was formed last December, the registrations of 1,000 persons, Ontario brokerage houses and stock salesmen have been cancelled and several have been arrested on charges ranging from theft of $23,000 to bribery of commission officials.

Miller, a director of the Frasmore Mines, Ltd., was taken into custody by provincial police in the company's offices in downtown Toronto. The arrest followed investigations by the O.S.C. and was made at the order of Crown Attorney Norman Borins. Police seized books and documents pertaining to the affairs of the company and to the sale of Fresmore stock.

Miller was freed on bail of $10,000. The charges against him, laid under Section 414 of the Criminal Code, state that in 1945-46 he did "make, circulate, publish or concur in making, circulating or publishing certain statements concerning (Fresmore Mines) each of which he knew to be false. . ."

Mine In Quebec

The mine is in Dufresnoy township in Quebec.

Investigating officers said about 600,000 shares of Fresmore stock were disposed of to the public. They estimated the stock's value at $100,000.

At Queen's Park officials announced that Miller's licence as a broker had been suspended indefinitely. A spokesman for the O.S.C. said the action arose out of advertisements which the commission said contained false statements and misleading statements regarding the results of drilling operations on the Fresmore property.

A recent announcement by the O.S.C. said a thorough investigation under oath would be made into all transactions involving stock of the Resilines Yellowknife gold mine. The announcement followed by about a month a charge by Samuel Climan, president of the company, that pro-

Survey Shows Montreal Only Part of Canada Where Polio Considered to be Serious Health Director Says Increase of Disease Presents Serious Situation

(By The Canadian Press)

As health authorities in Montreal, Canada's largest city, received the evidence of 109 cases of infantile paralysis — including 20 new cases in less than 24 hours — a survey by the Canadian Press showed today that nowhere else in the Dominion is the incidence of the dreaded poliomyelitis greater.

Dr. Adelard Groulx, Montreal health director, said the increase of the disease this year presented "a serious situation." He said the 109 cases might be the start of an epidemic but that it was too soon to determine whether an epidemic would develop.

Complete statistics were lacking in some provinces but the survey indicated Montreal probably had more cases of polio than the rest of the country combined. Dr. Groulx said 74 deaths from polio had taken place in Montreal this year.

Canada appeared to have escaped the serious outbreak in the United States, the worst since 1916. The United. States public health service reported a cumulative total of 8,454 cases throughout the country, including all states but West Virginia. The 1916 total was 26,000.

Close Watch Being Kept

In remote Canadian communities near the United States border officials said a close watch was being kept to prevent transfer of the disease to Canada by visitors.

No complete total for the Dominion was available but the apparent general increase in polio cases was before the House of Commons at Ottawa and acting health minister McCann was expected to give first report today. He said yesterday that the health department had been receiving reports from provincial health departments for the last day or two.

In Nova Scotia only three cases of polio have been reported this year. All were in Halifax and two were reported as recently as June. No polio has been reported in Nova Scotia. New Brunswick officials said that province had had five cases.

In Quebec City health authorities reported only one case in recent weeks and said there appeared to be no immediate cause to fear the disease would spread in the Quebec district. The children's ward at Laval hospital, however, has been temporarily banned to visitors as a safety measure.

Five definite cases and one suspected case are under treatment in the Ottawa area, where three deaths have occurred this year. Latest polio death in Ontario was reported in Windsor. It was the first in that city in two years. In Detroit, across the border from Windsor some 46 cases have been reported.

Situation Not Alarming

Ontario Deputy Health Minister Dr. John T. Phair said the incidence of polio in Ontario was not alarming. Dr. L. H. Pequegnat, Toronto Medical Officer of Health, said the Toronto figure of 16 cases and one death was far below that of epidemic years.

In Sarnia, the sixth definite fessional market operators had "attacked". Resultieu stock caused losses of more than $1,000,000.

Yesterday the commission warned that prosecutions would be launched against mining companies who had failed to make application under the new Securities Act. Companies notified under the old act had been given until June 1, 1946, to file applications but 1,545 corporations had not yet done so.

Mr. Frank Potts, of Campbellford, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams.

FATHER DIVINE

Divine's new wife sat unmoved at the wedding banquet occasionally murmuring about the speed "peace," "love" and "wonderful" is the motto of her husband's cult.)

Divine insisted that he placed the spirit of his first wife, who died in 1941, "on Aunt Jemimah-ette" in the person of his new bride.

Divine said then shouted that the new marriage, like the old one, was in name only.

"God is not married," he sermonized.

"It's beautiful," "Thank you, father," "It's true," and "Peace" followed chanting and singing and clapping their hands.

Divine, whose various properties are known as "heavens" and "mansions," often with names like "prodigal son," "tree of Life," "Miss Charity," etc., insists he is "not interested" over the death of his first wife.

"When mother Divine seemingly deceased about three or four years ago," he said, "I was about as all the time — holy virtue untouched by mortality . . ." he asserted.

The guests ate what followers described as a small banquet", four meat courses, chicken, fish, seven vegetables, five kinds of bread, hot biscuits, three ice cream flavors and two cakes, lingering from the wedding cake. ("Big banquets" last more than five hours with as many as 200 courses served, cult members said.)

"Martha blessed love," secretary to Divine said that "Eve was to propagate virtue . . . and to give the whole nation a new political and religious birth of freedom."

Since 1942 when Divine moved out of New York's Harlem section, including New Yorkers of prejudice and mis-recognition, he has made his headquarters in Sayville, L.I., which evicted him as a nuisance in 1931 and 1937a. During the depression years he built up a huge following in Harlem.

He usually visits Harlem now only on Sundays, a day when the civil courts cannot serve a summons. Since 1943 a former woman's "angel" has been unsuccessfully to collect a $6,000 judgment for savings she said she entrusted to him.

SOVIET CHARGE BRANDED "LOOSE, WICKED TALK"

Union Disclaims Responsibility For Scene at Hamilton

Mob Rule Will Not Reign In City Says Police Chief

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 9 (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) today disclaimed responsibility for a demonstration and sympathy hat parade at a special meeting of the city council to discuss the strike situation and from Controller Nora Frances Henderson came a statement that "mob rule reigned" at the scene where she ran a gauntlet on a roaring mob estimated variously at 1,000 to 4,000 persons.

"Mob rule will not reign in Hamilton, unlawful assemblies will not continue and the law will be enforced, even if we have to bring in outside police," Chief Constable J. R. Crocker of Hamilton said today. He termed Wednesday night's demonstration "a disgraceful exhibition for labor men."

The steelworkers union who called a sympathy strike at the Steel Company of Canada plant June 15, said its members were instructed to remain on the picket lines at the Stelco works, accused company officials and office workers from Stelco and the strikebound Lighthouse Cove tripartite plant of booing and heckling Mayor Lawrence and other prolabor members of the council during the debate and said the organization of the crowd outside the city hall "emanated not from the union movement of the city but from a Labor-Progressive rally held the previous evening."

Controller Henderson said the action of the crowd there last night proved more clearly than any words that I used that there is unchecked lawlessness in Hamilton today". She added that she said she will "wait for a few hours—or it may be a day—to decide."

Order-in-Council Reference

At the meeting the council voted 10 to six, to ask Justice Minister St. Laurent to refer the Order-in-Council placing the basic steel industry under a conciliation and settlement panel, for failure to obey his orders would be enforced. It rejected by a two to one a motion asking nine to seven a motion asking immediate assistance from the Ontario Government in enforcing law and order.

Controller Henderson, who supported both motions, said this morning she was almost through the ordeal by the several times during her walk from the city hall to her car "but if it were the last thing I was going to do, I was going to get through that mass of shrieking, yelling men and women." At her car she was pushed against the door by the crowd. However, she appeared little the worse for the ordeal, suffering the loss of one shoe.

This development in the strike situation as negotiations conducted by L. W. Brockington continued in an effort to settle the basic steel strike. The steel union called a 24-hours stoppage, sympathy at Stelco, Algoma Steel at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Dominion Steel & Sydney in protest demands for wage increases amounting to 19 1-2 cents an hour here and at the Sault and 24 1-2 cents at Sydney. The union has since expressed willingness to settle for 15 1-2 cents. Partial production continued at Stelco where more than 2,000 workers reported on the job and are reporting to be receiving 24 hours pay for eight hours work.

Steelworkers' Statement

The statement issued by the steelworkers today:

"We wish to make it explicitly clear that the demonstration late in the city hall last night was in no way organized by the steel union.

"That suggestion has been made.

"The steelworkers were told to remain at the picket line at the Stelco gates to forestall any incident at that point and not to attend the city council meeting.

"We would like to point out that company officials and office workers Frank Smith and Stedman Westinghouse had crowded out the public gallery of the chamber at least one hour and a half before the council meeting was scheduled. They hooed and heckled mayor Lawrence and other labor members of council during and after the debates.

"The actual organization of the crowd at the city hall emanated not from the union movement of the city but from a Labor-Progressive rally held the previous evening."

The statement issued by the United electrical workers (C.I.O.) has been in progress at Westinghouse since July 5 for a 25-cent hourly increase and a 40-hour week.

The meeting of delegates outside the council chambers after the meeting and police reported that ten or twelve some council members as they left.

Inside the council chamber, there appeared a wide difference of opinion as to the cause of the present strike situation. Two of the chief speakers were two women council members—controller Nora Frances Henderson and alderman Hilda Watson—and they opposed each other with determination.

Controller Henderson apparently was chief target for angry shouts and denunciations from the surging mob. Earlier she had expressed belief that the acts of lawlessness existed in the Hamilton district and placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of the striking leaders of the Steel Company of Canada.

As she emerged from city hall last night, she was engulfed by shouting steel policemen and the crowd surrounded her. Police escorted Nora Henderson from a sour apple tree.

The first two council members to come out of the building—Controller Frank Bellamy and Alderman Heddle—were shoved back in by the mob. Then, as each one emerged, policemen walked on either side. The crowd pressed closely shortly before midnight.

Focal point of debate during the meeting was a request by the minister of justice whether under-recognition No. 2901, providing penalties for workers who did not obey the government appointed steel controller, would be enforced. It was carried by a vote of 10 to 6.

Another motion, however, was rejected by a vote of 9 to 7. It asked for action on the part of the council in seeking assistance from the Ontario Attorney-general to maintain law and order.

HOUSE COMPLETES STUDY OF BILLS OF VETS CHARTER

Legislation Speeded Up By Motion To Hold Sittings On Saturdays

By DARCY O'DONNELL

(Ottawa Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 9 (CP)—The Commons, handling routine legislation then on any single day this session, yesterday completed work of bills that will form part of the veterans charter and then adopted a motion to continue extending foreign exchange control regulations.

The Commons adopted the remaining nine of 12 bills recommended by the Commons committee on veterans affairs, with most of them being passed after only minor debate. An exception was the bill extending to the 405 members of the Canadian Fire-fighting Corps that went to London during the blitz the benefits given veterans under rehabilitation and unemployment insurance legislation.

The measure was debated — sometimes heatedly—for more than two hours and nearly revived the battle as to whether or not the firefighters had been given a definite promise on enlisting that they would be given the same benefits on discharge as members of the forces.

The measures:

1. Bills dealing with the allowances and grants in other cases, including some council members as they left.

British Arrange Land, Air and Sea Forces For Imposition of Blockade

London, Aug. 9 (CP) The British government announced today it will buy today arranging land, air and sea forces for imposition of a blockade on unauthorized Jewish immigration into Palestine.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Britain had requested the Russia and Canadian governments to do everything possible to stop the embarkation of immigrants from Constanza and other Roumanian ports. Similar representations have been made to France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, where the ships the movement of Palestine-bound Jews at the source. The spokesman said one ship was now in Romanian waters waiting for a load of immigrants.

The cruiser Alax arrived at Haifa Harbor, Palestine, where the fate of 1,500 immigrants aboard three ships is undecided. They have not been allowed to land although they arrived several days ago.

Dispatches from the island fortress of Malta in the Mediterranean said all units of the British Mediterranean fleet were preparing to rendezvous in Grecian waters for a "Summer cruise" which observers say must put them in position to intercept Palestine-bound ships.

The Admiralty denied knowledge of the cruise, however, a spokesman said the Royal Navy was "constantly on the lookout to prevent illegal immigrant ships". Montgomery Attends.

Field Marshal Montgomery, the chief of the Imperial General staff, who attended the special cabinet meeting Wednesday when Palestine was said to have been discussed, held a conference with chiefs of the armed services today.

Exchange Telegraph, a British News Agency, said hundreds of miles more of barbed wire were laid around Palestine frontiers and other security measures taken.

Informed government sources said camps were being prepared at the island of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean for unauthorized immigrants. Exchange Telegraph said the Palestine government was trying to arrange a flight to Cyprus for newspaper men who wished to investigate reports that Jews already had been intercepted and taken there.

The Foreign Office spokesman was encouraged by cooperation notations to other European governments in the suppression of clandestine activities had fallen all past efforts to halt the Arab movement. Many of the ships carry papers bearing the stamps of South American countries, indicating they were bound for South American ports, he said. As they approached, the South American authorities denied such a port and they could do nothing about it.

A spokesman for the United Missionary Interior said in Rome there had been only one "authentic" case of unauthorized Jews for Palestine from an Italian port. He added, however, he said this was at a small port near Savona when a ship flying Panamanian flag loaded a cargo of refugees and sailed in defiance of Italian police orders.

Tidal Wave Smashes Over Levelled Towns And Creates Panic In Many Sections

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, Aug. 9—(1:45 p.m., E.D.T.)—(CP)—Fifty-two persons were killed and three drowned so far in the series of earthquakes and tidal waves which have struck this island republic, and two fresh tremors were reported last night and this morning.

Both of the latest earth shocks, one at 3:20 a.m., and again at 8.05 a.m., were comparatively mild.

All of the deaths were reported in the northern coastal area, where the tidal waves smashed villages and swept inland. No deaths have been reported in this capital city.

First dispatch, phoned to Miami, Fla., came with indistinct transmission and it was impossible to obtain further details.

Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, Aug. 9 (AP)—Planes today rushed aid to stricken areas of Haiti, the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico, shaken anew yesterday by earth tremors described as worse than the original shocks which cost at least 30 lives last Sunday.

Dr. Pierre Hudicourt, who has come from a shift in the bed of the Atlantic Ocean at its deepest point, 27,972 feet down, 100 miles northeast of the Dominican Republic—another tidal wave assaulting across leveled towns of the Dominican Republic and spread panic among residents of many sections. No casualty figures were available.

Towns along Mona passage—the rough stretch of the sea separating the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico—appeared to be hardest hit. Many were leveled. Matanzas, on the Dominican northeast coast, felt the full force of the wave, but many residents of that town already had fled to the interior. Earlier reports said 424 houses were destroyed in Matanzas Sunday.

Millions Transmitted

Many buildings which withstood the previous shocks collapsed in San Juan, Puerto Rico, said there had been no deaths reported during a 40-second tremor yesterday morning and reports from the Dominican Republic said panic-stricken people jammed streets in search of safety. Frightened residents refused to

Voting Procedure Decided by Bloc States Molotov

Delegates Reject by Vote Of 15 to 6 Russian Proposal

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Paris, Aug. 9. (AP)—Delegates to the Paris Peace Conference rejected today, by a vote of 15 to 6, a Russian effort to restore the strict two-thirds all of the parley's decisions, a rule earlier rejected by the Soviet Committee by the same vote.

The plenary session of the 21-power conference thus gave approval to Rules Committee approval of a British compromise proposal under which both two-thirds and simple majority decisions would be considered by the Foreign Ministers Council in preparing peace treaties, but with varying weight.

Byelo-Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia ,the Ukraine, Russia and Yugoslavia voted for the Russian proposal after a hot debate during which State Secretary Byrnes of the United States blasted as "loose and wicked talk" a Soviet charge the voting procedure for the conference was decided in committee by a "Anglo-American bloc".

Why, Mr. Byrnes inquired of the 21-power conference's plenary session, are "all those who do not vote with us called a Soviet bloc?"

"I think," he continued, "that those nations which sent their sons overseas to fight for freedom have a right to participate in the peace. I take exception to the charge that those nations want to recognize these rights are dominated by Soviet World War.

"It is more than a year since our fighting men won the war," Mr. Byrnes added, "They worked together, fighting together and dying together.

"We of the Allied countries should show that we are worthy of our sons and daughters. To make peace one must be inspired as well to make peace.

"Why should we have this intermittent struggle over the rights of nations which won the war to participate in the peace?

"All of us agree that the final texts of treaties will be drafted by the Foreign Ministers Council, and to be effective they must have behind the them the votes of members of the Council, Mr. Byrnes continued. So he took up again the argument on Russia's insistence that a recommendation for peace treaties should be made to the Foreign Ministers Council only by two-thirds majority votes present.

The Rules Committee of the 21-power conference adopted and recommended to the conference a compromise of a modified two-thirds rule suggested by Britain, under which recommendations made by either two-thirds of the delegates or by majority majority of them would be sent to the Foreign Ministers for consideration, but with varying weight.

FBI Identifies Members of Mob Which Lynched Four Ga. Negroes

Washington, Aug. 9 — (AP)— The Washington Post said today it has learned that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has identified some of the members of the mob which lynched four Negroes near Monroe, Ga.

The Post story said:

"Evidence leading to a complete round-up of the mob which participated in the lynching will probably be laid before Atty. Gen. Arnall of Georgia and Attorney General Tom C. Clark here soon.

"A state official in Georgia disclosed that more than two mobs were involved in the lynch attempt.

"The second group was guarding another road which the farm hands and their wives, later slain, could have travelled. That group did not participate in the actual killing, the official said. The group, however, was prepared to act if the other mob had not stopped the Negroes.

"Within a few hours after the murders were reported, Attorney General Clark ordered the F.B.I. to make a complete investigation. "Another state official, who asked that his name not be used, said F.B.I. had put its finger on at least three of the leaders and is tying up the threads of other evidence while making arrests of the entire lynch mob."

Monroe, Ga. — (AP)—Walton county officials said today they had no information on the reported identification of three members of the mob that lynched four Negroes near here July 25, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation declined to comment.

Sheriff E. S. Gordon said he had heard nothing of any identifications or arrests in the case.

John F. Frost, head of the Atlanta office of the F.B.I., said simply that he had no comment to make on the report.

BRITAIN READY TO ACT ALONE IN IRAN DISPUTE

Troops Moved to Basra in Event of Disorders in Persia

London, Aug. 9 — (CP) — Foreign office spokesmen said today that if any "violent or sudden" threat to British lives or property took place in Iran, Britain would not be obliged to consult the United Nations security council but would feel justified in taking "unilateral action."

The government of Iran announced yesterday that it had protested the movement of Indian troops from Iraq to Basra, at the head of the Persian Gulf, and had requested withdrawal.

The British government previously had explained that the troops were being sent to replacement of other troops stationed near the Persian oil fields in adjoining southern Iraq. It was a routine matter of the troop movement, which came from the Indian government, and had been under way being sent in case of any disturbance. Labor difficulties exist in the British-owned oil installations.

The spokesman told a press conference a state of "law and order" in the Mesopotamian valley and "there may not be time to consult the United Nations."

When a questioned remarked that the United Nations security council was permanently in session, the spokesman replied, "the security council will be no stronger."

He said the presence of British troops at Basra represented a "precautionary measure in the event of complete collapse of law and order in Persia."

The spokesman said the Iran note of protest was not unfriendly in tone, contained no ultimatum or threatening terms. The maintenance of law and order in Iran was the concern and responsibility of the Iranian government.

From the point of view, tod'y, the spokesman said.

He said a reply to the Iran government is being prepared.

LABOR LEADERS TO BE QUESTIONED BY COMMITTEE

Mediator Remains Silent on Report He is Certain to Fail in Steel Strike

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 9 —(CP)— Members of the Commons labor-industry committee today took time out to read briefs by three labor unions dealing with steel. The members will meet later today to question leaders of the unions.

Mr. Brockington, mediator in the steel dispute, meanwhile continued his conferences with officials of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, Sydney, N.S.; Algoma Steel Corporation, Sault Ste. Marie, and Steel Company of Canada, Hamilton.

He remained silent on reports that he was certain to fail in his efforts to end the steel strike which affects 15,000 workers. He stuck to his statement that he will make his report only to the Commons committee which appointed him. It was considered likely he would make that report early next week.

The briefs of the three other unions dealt with the steel committee late yesterday. Some members wanted the briefs read in full, but the chairman and others who favored the filing system won out. It was the duty of the committee's business so it could be printed in full for reference.

The briefs came from the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.); United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.), and United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.).

Wage Rises Increases

All dealt with wage demands which are the issue in the strikes. The steelworkers' brief said 10,000 members on strike in Ontario and Nova Scotia since June 23 in an effort to get wage increases of 24 1-2 cents an hour. The electrical workers have 5,700 workers out in Ontario plants seeking 25-cent increase. The automobile workers are engaged in strike involving 4,000 workers at the Windsor plant of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, who completed his testimony yesterday. Mr. Conroy had contended that employers could meet wage increases—he said up to 15 cents—from their profits and without increasing prices.

The floating boat left the shoreward bound one left the gambling ship at 4 a.m.

Cries of "They can't do this to us" were heard from Cornero.

"I'll never come on another gambling ship"—"Break out the lifeboats and let's swim for it," were heard by reporters from the crowd on the landing platform.

Cornero, arrested earlier and released on bond, told officials: "You've bounded the law" (water taxis). You get the patrons off."

City prosecutor Albert C. S. Ramsey of Long Beach asked the United States Coast Guard for assistance in removing the persons. Ramsey said the Coast Guard headquarters said a cutter would be dispatched to remove any persons whose life or health had to leave for other emergency reasons.

Ramsey said he asked Cornero to remove the gamblers and remove the patrons, promising there would be no arrests of the operators. Cornero refused, he said.

Just 48 hours after craps, roulette, slot machines, poker and other games of chance began operating on the converted seaplane tender the district attorney and sheriff stopped Cornero at the source; they arrested all the pilots of the water taxi fleet that was plying between Long Beach and the Bunker Hill, anchored 7.8 miles off Los Angeles harbor lighthouse.

Lorne Goodman and Edward Sherry, Stewart Warner Alemite employees of this city, had a narrow escape from death on Thursday afternoon, when the truck they were riding in was almost completely wrecked after being struck by a fast Canadian Pacific Railway mixed train at the Stephens-Adamson crossing.

Sherry elected to jump from the truck when he saw the train practically on top of him and escaped with a shaking up as he rolled in the dust.

Boy Rides Bike Into Side of Truck

Cutting across the street behind a railway train which was proceeding at considerable speed, Ronald sliding, 13-year-old Ronnie Trice, 84 South Foster Ave., Thursday afternoon rode his bicycle directly into the side of a truck accidentally. Damage was done amounting to approximately $30 resulted to the bicycle. Ronnie sustained receiving a sprained ankle as he was forced to abandon his bicycle away from the truck.

Missing Boys Seen

Missing from their homes in Deloro in North Hastings since August 1st, Ronald Hart, age 13 years, and Arthur Hart, age 9 years, were seen in Belleville on Thursday by a resident from that section of the county. When the man went to the Belleville police station to report that one of the two boys disappeared down a nearby alley and the matter was reported to the police station. It is believed that the two boys were staying with relatives in the city.

Expensive Snooze

It cost Percy Badgerow of Hanesh Park, Trenton, just $15 to have an hour's snooze in Victoria Park yesterday afternoon. Waiting in the park until time for the Trenton bus to leave, Badgerow dropped off to sleep on the grass. When he awoke he found that $15 in cash and valuable papers had been missing from his person.

Wild Canada Annoyance.

Drivers of motorcycles without mufflers who make a nuisance of themselves by causing unnecessary noise are having the long arm of the law directed at them yesterday two such drivers were apprehended and each was charged under the H.T.A. Complaints of motorcycles making unnecessary noise on Sunday nights have also been received by police.

WILD SCENES

Mayor Sam Lawrence said he felt it was the leadership, particularly with negotiations going on at the present time, to ask for enforcement of the Criminal Code. No, 2901. He remained that the government had not seen fit to enforce the measure.

Alderman Chandler labelled mayor Lawrence's address "the same old communistic line of propaganda."

Proposes Petition

Controller Henderson said citizens should not be misled by by the "wild talk" and "glowing assurances" of union leaders that no one is prevented from coming out of the picket line peacefully, a petition signed by 2,500 workers inside the Sicilco plant, which said to hev been flown out shortly before the meeting, the petition called on the council to urge removal of "the illegal picket line around the plant" and enforcement of law and order.

Alderman Anderson charged that the steel controllerstore was "one of the most vicious places of legislation ever passed."

Alderman Chandler declared, "I would like to ask controller Henderson, does she want the soldiers to come to Hamilton? Does she want to see a blood bath which would be the darkest page in Canada's history.

VOTING

Quickly Translated

As Mr. Byrnes spoke, Mr. Molotov's personal interpreter poured a rapid translation into the foreign ministers ear. At Mr. Byrnes' exclamation concerning "loose and wicked talk" Mr. Molotov's fingers drummed on his knee.

Mr. Byrnes pointed out that he had voted for the proposal of Yugoslavia to permit countries bordering on the Axis powers to bring their grievances before the foreign Ministers council.

Kuzma Kisselov, leader of the White Russian delegation, followed Mr. Byrnes.

Mr. Byrnes had been scheduled to open today's debate, but he withdrew his name and then, after Mr. Manuilsky spoke changed his mind a second time and took the floor.

Mr. Manuilsky, head of the Ukrainian delegation, opened today's session with a blast at the decision that the modified two-thirds voting rule adopted by the rules committee was "a flagrant contradiction of the procedure suggested by the foreign ministers council and that used at the San Francisco conference."

Try to Impose Will

The Ukrainian foreign minister, renewing yesterday's debate on Russia's attempt to override the two-thirds rule was a very bad example which could become "dangerous" and should show its effects in consideration of peace treaties.

Urged Rule

Overnight, the Soviet Union and her satellite European adherents—Byelo-Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, the Ukraine and Yugoslavia—had lined up in swing over new votes to upset the lineup which refused to approve a two-thirds vote or a simple majority vote on peace terms in the Big Four foreign ministers, but with varying weight.

The Russians were said to be hopeful of winning over Norway, which now has a majority in the new eastern bloc, and possibly France, although this still would give the Russians only seven votes to the seven in the voting of 13 to 8.

Should there be a straight vote in the plenary session, as in the rules committee, Russia seemed certain to lose her fight for a veto requiring two thirds of the delegates' concurrence in recommendation for the peace treaties, but several diplomats privately expressed belief that such a vote would not end the problem.

LABOR LEADERS

The electrical, automobile and agricultural implements which the recent wage increases paid in the United States, widening the difference between these industries and Canadian wages for the same jobs. In many instances the Canadian workers were employed by subsidiaries of American concerns.

Mr. Conroy, under questioning from committee members yesterday, said the government would have to change its attitude toward labor's demands if a settlement was to be reached in the existing strikes. With that change and with increases of 15 to 17 cents an hour strikers would go back to work immediately.

Tangled Briefly

Mr. Conroy and Labor Minister Mitchell tangled briefly at the afternoon session. Mr. Conroy said Mr. Mitchell had been loud in his praise of the Trades and Labor Congress although one of its affiliates, the Canadian Seamen's Union, had tied up the shipping.

The afternoon's discussion covered a wide field with Mr. Conroy defending on views as he had given the committee earlier on labor-management committees, industrial councils and a standing peacetime labor code.

Mr. Conroy left with the committee a list showing 65 instances since June 1, 1945, in which the Prices Board had refused increases on a wide variety of goods. The statement said Canada at present was "three-quarters of the way through price control" and there appeared no likelihood of a serious inflation.

The United Rubber Workers of America (C.I.O.) attacked Labor Minister Mitchell for adopting "a partisan position" in strikes in the Ontario rubber industry which have involved 10,000 workers since June 24.

The criticism was contained in the filed brief to Mackenzie, Canadian director of the union.

Reference was made in the brief to the report of Judge C. A. Cannon, Belleville, who investigated the dispute as a commissioner. Judge Cannon proposed settlement for an eight-cent increase with other adjustments which would not bring the total increase to more than 10 cents.

Proposal Rejected

The proposal was rejected by the union. Mr. Mitchell then sent the recommendations of the chief of the report with a letter asking that the proposals be accepted. The union said it had not received a copy of the report with a letter asking that the proposals be accepted. The union said it had not received a copy of the report but obtained it through the personal intervention of the minister.

"The union contends it was not proper for the minister to take a partisan position in the dispute and that it was even more improper for him to attempt to bypass and circumvent the duly organized bargaining agencies by direct appeal to individual employees," the union said, adding, "The latter was, of course a complete failure."

The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union (C.I.O.) brief filed yesterday said the Dominion employers were on a "hit down strike" against wage increases of more than 10 cents-an-hour.

The Electrical Workers brief, was signed by Harold Jackson, Toronto Canadian director. The union also charged the government was a "full blown conspiracy" on the part of the Canadian manufacturers to impose the cost of the war and reconversion on the Canadian people while corporations proceeded to take expanding profits.

"By virtue of such a conspiracy, all the so-called risk of investment of private enterprise is removed from the owning interests and carried on the shoulders of the people," the brief said.

spend the night in their homes and stretched out in the open.

In Haiti, which jointly occupied Hispaniola Island with the Dominican Republic, the tremors knocked pedestrians off their feet, while in the Puerto Rican towns of Aguadilla and Mayaguez panic developed. In Ponce, Puerto Rican south coast, school children rushed from their classrooms.

Food Dropped to Refugees

In Ciudad Trujillo, capital of the Dominican Republic, the United States Embassy said it dispatched to naval district headquarters at San Juan for docktys and nurses, while 15 doctors were reported to have arrived at Ciudad Trujillo from Curacao, Netherlands West Indies. Food was being dropped to refugees in the interior and the Red Cross was setting up emergency camps.

Observers returning from flights along the north coast reported that a Pan-American Airways pilot said "I counted five breaks beating"—reported cliffs breaking down and sliding into the sea, altering the entire shoreline. Another observer said the course of a river between Ciudad Trujillo and Cabrera in the Dominican Republic had been altered.

No Connection Seen With A-Blast

By FRANK CAREY

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP) — Two scientist said today they could see no connection between the two Bikini's subsurface atom bomb blast and the current series of earthquakes in the Caribbean.

"Some of the shock from the bomb blast was transmitted to the earth's surface," geologist Howard Meyerhoff, executive secretary of the American Association for the advancement of science, told a reporter, "but it wouldn't be sufficient to touch off an earthquake, particularly a 'quake occurred in the Caribbean, almost on the other side of the earth from Bikini."

Arid Dr. J. H. Rush, an atomic physicist who is treasurer of the Federation of American Scientists commented:

"Even if all the energy of the bomb were set off below the surface of the earth, it would still be a pin-prick compared with the forces involved in an earthquake; and her pleasure and that of nature.

"Why, a good healthy volcano makes an atom bomb explosion look like the explosion of a one-inch firecracker."

IN MEMORIAM

COOKE—In loving memory of dear wife Zetta Cooke, who passed away on Aug. 1, 1940.
What would I give her hand to clasp,
What would I give her face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
To be with her once again.
But sadly must I say that sad to be
But some sweet day we'll meet again
And clasp each other's hand once more
And never more to part.
—Sadly missed by her husband, William Cooke.

COOKE—In loving memory of our dear mother, Zetta Cooke, who passed away on Aug. 1, 1940.
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we lived was called away,
To part from home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she lyeth still.
—Sadly missed by her son, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Bonter.

COOKE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Zetta Cooke, who passed away on Aug. 9th, 1945.

To hold once more down by her side,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
Dear Mother, I cannot.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

How to Introduce Her Fiance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin became engaged two or three weeks ago to a young man whose home is in a distant state but who has come here to work and to make his home. Since few people here have met him, there are many introductions for her to make. . . and she always introduces him as "my future husband". Her family and my family (we live first door to each other) think this sounds "flick" and have kidded her about saying "my future husband" instead of "my fiance", but she insists her way of introducing him is correct. Now she has promised to abide by your advice.

Jean

Obviously your cousin is fascinated by using that phrase "future husband" . . . and I agree with you that her form of introduction would certainly "sound flick". I have known two or three girls who adopted what they considered this alluringly "different" kind of introduction . . . and it was a great temptation for many of their relatives and friends to imitate them (when they weren't present) making this kind of introduction! I hope you can persuade your cousin to change to the correct form: "Miss Foster, may I present (or "introduce") my fiance, John Harrisson"; or, more informally, "Tom Allen, this is my fiance, John Harrison"; or, most informally, "Aunt Clara, this John."

Use Your Company Voice Even When Hostess to the Family

Vivacious Paulette Goddard has a lilting, charming voice

By HELEN FOLLETT

EVERY woman should make it a rule to use her company voice all the time. Most of us have company voices; we turn them on and we turn them off. No use denying it.

The boss of the domestic works who is blessed with a voice that is sweet and restful adds to the home a tranquil atmosphere, no matter how many troubles or anxieties she may have ugly faces at the door. Her voice passes on strength and courage to the members of her family. She hates discord, realizes the futility of discord, so stays serene. Her face carries a sort of radiance.

Family Balance Wheel

Find a woman who is the balance wheel of the family, who directs its affairs wisely and with understanding, and you will find a woman who never lifts her voice above natural, easy tones.

Men, who don't believe that all the gabbing that goes on in th eworld is done by women, are susceptible to a pleasing voice. A shrill one disturbs and distresses them.

In public places it makes a woman conspicuous. A fellow likes to have people staring at his girl in a disapproving way. Public attention makes him feel uncomfortable, the poor thing.

An unpleasant voice can be muted by training. A horrid voice will undergo a change if a woman will put a little music in it. Some voices are annoying because they run to a monotone.

Pleasing to Ear

The alert, fastidious mind expresses itself in cadences that are pleasing to the ear. Loud speakers of the human variety seem to be everywhere ,at social gatherings, on the air, in restaurants. They are no help to the peace of the human species.

Loud voices have a deplorable effect upon the delicate nervous systems of little children. A shouting mother is undermining their vitality. In due course of time, they'll be shrillers and shouters, too, which will not add to their popularity.

Voices sweet and low! That's the charm platform.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This Man Seem to Have "Aunt-in-Law" Trouble"

It's not always mothers-in-law who throw monkey wrenches into matrimonial machinery. Other relatives —and I'm afraid, usually female ones—can do just as much damage with that traditional tool.

Look at this letter, for instance:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My wife has left me and is going with another fellow. I don't know who she left me. The only reason she seems to have is that I go to see my mother on Saturdays and go to ball games once in a while on Sundays. But I have asked her to go help places with me time and again.

"I don't know if it is all her own doing or not. One thing that makes me think it isn't, is that her aunt said right from the first time we had a date that it wouldn't last that she'd break it up.

"But when we wanted to get married, she was all for it, and after we were married, she said: 'I'll give you about two years together. Doesn't that sound kind of flaky to you? And my wife is living with her aunt right now."

If you mean, as I asume you do, "Doesn't that sound as though this aunt had a finger in the pie?" I don't need to think twice for an answer. I think Auntie has no doubt been right in there pitching the trickiest kind of curves ever since that first day you mentioned. She's definitely not on your team, brother.

The letter then goes on to tell how, when he left her work one morning, his wife "kissed me goodbye, gave me a big hug and told me how much she loved me." When he come home at noon, sick, she was gone, clothes, belongings and all. A note said she was through, never coming back. Now, when he sees her on the street, she won't even look at him; returns his letters unopened. She has been to see about a divorce, he says, but "has no grounds whatsoever," adding: "I love her so much I hate to lose her. What do you think I should do?"

Well, the fact that she cannot file suit for divorce immediately gives you at least time to think the whole thing over and see what might be done. It also gives her time to do a little thinking and, perhaps, decide that she's made a mistake in leaving you. That could happen, you know.

It seems to me your best bet right now is just to sit tight and wait developments. In fact, that seems about the only thing you can do, since your attempts to get in touch with her have failed. You don't say that you have ever written directly to the aunt's house to try and see her, but I don't believe that would be a very good strategy. You'd be walking right into the enemy's camp and running a very good chance of having a door slammed in your face.

Why not stop trying to see or talk with her, and, instead, keep out of her way entirely? That might get her so curious that she would make an opportunity to come and find out what you're up to.

If that should happen, don't start a quarrel.! Surprise her by inviting her out for a good time, and, if she accepts, really give her one. Don't take her to see your mother, or to a ball game. Do something that she hardly ever enjoy. Maybe those week-ends of yours have been rather hard on her. She may not be interested in baseball, and if you give every Saturday to your mother, that's hardly fair to your wife. Ever think of that?

So, if she gives you a chance to begin all over again, I'd suggest revising your schedule to make room for things that interest her. She may be you haven't been paying enough attention to her, taking her too much for granted.

And if she doesn't give you that chance, if it turns out that she really means it when she says she is through, then I'm afraid you'll have to accept that hard fact and try to adjust your life accordingly, as many another man has had to do. You might even find that a happier in the end.

Felt derby worn with calfskin pumps

THE BROWN derby comes into its own for distaff wear come Autumn. This classic felt derby is relieved of its severity by the oversized ostrich feather trim in front, the colors of which run the gamut from beige to brown. Brown is the color, too, of this sling-back calfskin pump trimmed with corded touches around the collar. A corded bow is at the instep.

RIDING ACADEMY BURNED

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 9 —(AP)— A spectacular fire yesterday destroyed the stables and arena of the Amherst Villa Riding Academy, about a mile north of Buffalo airport.

Employees rescued about 65 riding horses from the horse barn and 50 cows in a dairy barn on a nearby farm which also was destroyed. One horse was lost in the academy, owned by Michael Moran.

and she and I have been invited by a girl who used to work in the office with us, to come to see her at her hotel. We are to call her up soon after we arrive and make an engagement with her. Under this circumstance, should we announce ourselves from the desk in the lobby when we arrive?

S. T. R.

Although it is not really discourteous for you, when you have a definite engagement with her, to go directly to her hotel room without announcement when you arrive, it is considered much more courteous to have yourselves announced by telephone from the desk in the lobby. Or if, as is usual, there are in-hotel telephones on or near the lobby-desk, you may use one of these to ask the operator for the room and then announce yourselves to your friend.

Bride-Elect Chooses Every Detail of Her Attendants' Costumes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it the bride's privilege to choose what the bridesmaids are to wear? Or can the bridesmaids wear the color style that most become them?

Irene

Indeed it is the privilege (and the responsibility) of the bride-to-be to plan every detail of the costume of each of her attendants . . . and it is the duty of each attendant to be completely co-operative in carrying out these plans, as well as her financial responsibility for her own costume. No matter what type of wedding the bride-elect is planning to have, naturally she must first choose the general color-scheme. . . . and the bridesmaids' costumes must harmonize with this scheme. If each bridal attendant were allowed to choose the style and color most becoming to her the effect would certainly be incongruous!

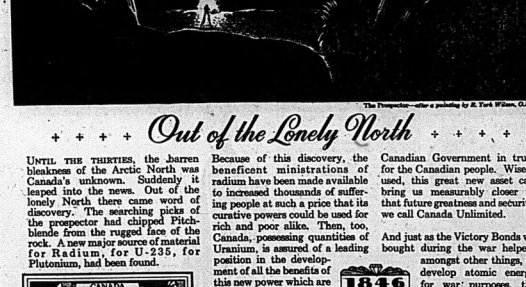
CANADA UNLIMITED — The Formative Years



The Prospector—after a painting by E. York Wilson, O.S.A.

Out of the Lonely North

UNTIL THE THIRTIES, the barren bleakness of the Arctic North was Canada's unknown. Suddenly it leaped into the news. Out of the lonely North there came word of discovery. The searching picks of the prospector had chipped Pitchblende from the rugged face of the rock. A new major source of material for Radium, for U-235, for Plutonium, had been found.

~ Canada Unlimited ~

Because of this discovery, the beneficent ministrations of radium have been made available to increased thousands of sufferers—people at a cost that its curative powers could be used for rich and poor alike. Then, too, Canada, possessing quantities of Uranium, is assured of a leading position in the development of all the benefits of this new power which are indicated but as yet unproved.

Today the pitchblende deposits at Great Bear Lake belong to the Canadian Government in trust for the Canadian people. Wisely used, this great new asset can bring us measurably closer to that future greatness and security we call Canada Unlimited.

And just as the Victory Bonds we bought during the war helped, amongst other things, to develop atomic energy for war purposes, the Bonds we hold will provide for the utilization of the fruits of Canadian discovery in a better, finer, world.

Keep Perfume off Clothing Says University Professor

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE fume seems difficult to tak—

New York, —(AP)—Where a woman should and should not place her perfumes, and why, is told by Ralph Harris, professor of pharmacy, University of Oklahoma, in a book entitled "The Subtle Sense" (University of Oklahoma Press).

The book deals with odors, what makes them, and how they are used. The first place to put perfume, says this scholar, is on the dress. Not that the scent will hurt the clothing. But the perfume by capillary attraction diffuses into the cloth.

As a result the perfume is exposed to air on both sides, and the alcohol portion of the liquid is quickly dissipated. That leaves the fragrant substances. These have differing degrees of volatility, some evaporating faster than others. Finally the least volatile alone remain. And often no longer have a pleasing fragrance.

The collar—what has been said about the dress applies equally well to collars, says Professor Blenfang.

Wrists—this, he says, is personal in a way, but gets pretty close to the hands. Forearms and arms also are open to the same objection as wrists.

Palms—"That is," says Prof. Blenfang, "a favorite place with some women why, it is hard to understand. If the scent is at dinner, every mouthful of food has perfume as a prologue. Every scent has its place, and food in close association with per-

Australian Women Ponder Advancing Prices For Food

By JACK HOLDSWORTH
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 8 (CP) —Most foods are fairly plentiful in Australia, but prices are about 30 per cent higher on the average than they were before the war. Housewives estimate that it costs $18 a week to feed a family of six, including four children, as against $8 in 1939.

Prices of many foods were controlled by the federal government during the war, but since then there has been a gradual relaxing of this control. Meat and vegetable prices are among those being relaxed.

The retail prices of beans, peas, sweet potatoes, pumpkin, lettuce, marrows and rhubarb no longer have government price ceilings. Greengrocers now fix their own retail prices by adding, under government supervision, a margin on the cost prices shown on their invoices.

Official New South Wales government price lists show that peas have risen from 4 cents a pound to 18 cents a pound in 1940, beans from nine to 27 cents a pound, individual cabbages from nine to 25 cents, and tomatoes from six to 22 cents a pound.

Ceiling on Fruits

Apples, pears, peaches, oranges and potatoes are still sold on fixed government ceilings. Before the war the four fruits were sold by the dozen but under government regulations now are sold by the pound.

Apples were 36 cents a dozen in 1940 and now are 20 cents a pound. Pears have gone from 18 cents a dozen to 20 cents a lb., peaches from 37 cents a dozen to 40 cents a pound, oranges from 27 cents a dozen to 35 cents a dozen.

Potatoes, one of the basic foods, have been much in the news over the last few years with periodic shortages lasting for weeks at a time and causing much hardship in many capital cities. The causes have included bad seasons and strikes tying up transport between states.

Meat prices, on an average, have risen about 50 per cent since before the war. They are now government-controlled, and meat itself is rationed, with beef considered a feature of the local scene. Meat is less plentiful than before the war and some special cuts, such as chops, and lamb's fry, are most difficult to obtain.

Egg, bread, milk and butter prices have risen little. Eggs are appreciably but milk, butter and bread less noticeably.

SUMMER

Summer is astray today
Over hill and plain and vale
And her spirit calls away
Out upon the magic trail;
Trailing are her robes of light,
Golden, misty and sunny bright
Limpid pools her eyes so bright
Scattering blessings every-where.

Oh! the glamor that she flings
Over all our northern land,
Flowers in bloom and birds a-wing,
Enchantment felt on every hand;
Strewing gold in harvest fields,
Cooling shade in sheltered woods,

Luscious fruit her orchards yield,
Gifts she brings that seemeth good.

Let us with the summer stray
Over hill and, vale and plain,
Joy with her from day to day
Ere stern winter comes again.

APPLE GROWERS

Get More Fruit . . . at Better Prices

AT the first sign of early droppings, spray trees with PARMONE, the C-I-I hormone concentrate so successfully used by many growers.

PARMONE prevents or greatly reduces premature drop of both apples and pears. Fruit clings longer and more firmly to the trees. — Fewer windfalls — Improved colour, quality and size. — a longer picking season. PARMONE does not delay normal ripening processes. Consequently fruit should be picked at the proper stage of maturity.

PARMONE costs little. Just one four-ounce bottle makes 100 gallons of spray. PARMONE is highly effective. In some cases increases crop as much as 25%.

• This year, market better fruit, more fruit, by using PARMONE.

GEO. POLMANTER IN PICTON BOUT DEFEATS ELLIS

Splendid Card Offered by Rotary Club in Aid of Crippled Children Fund

Success attended the first venture of the Rotary Club of Picton into the realm of boxing as a medium for raising funds for their Crippled Children Fund.

Belleville, Trenton, Napanee and local boxers staged the first card held in the Prince Edward county town on Thursday night at the Armouries where 800 fans packed the first leather-pushing show staged there in years.

Headlining the card was George Polmanter, Belleville's promising 145-pound sprayer, whose fine ring work during the past couple of months has attracted promoters in many places, and Polmanter slapped out a close decision over "Uber" Ellis, Trenton's outstanding 145-pounder in a battle that was one of the best on the card.

Bruce Polmanter, brother of George Polmanter, Bobby Vigo, Trenton, in the semi-final attraction while Cecil Cooper won over George Visa, of Trenton.

Bill Anderson, throwing leather in all directions knocked out Reg. Wannamaker, while Belleville's Harry Downes got a technical knockout over Harry Dennis, also his city mate.

Cecil Anderson decisioned Harry Ayres and "Soup" Mondeville took the nod over Bob Calhurp of Madoc.

One of the shortest bouts of the evening, reports from the ringside stated, was that between Gene Cole, Picton and Frank Morton, Napanee. Morton won a TKO decision after some fast and furious slinging in the second round when Cole gave up.

George De Vuyst, Belleville, was the referee and Station Manager Hugh McDonald did the announcing. Another card will be staged in the Armouries in two weeks' time.

BLIND MAN VICTIMIZED

Instead he left $83. But the cashier told Faulisi, who is blind, his "good samaritan" had disappeared.

NAPANEE TAKES KIWANIS KIDS FOR FIRST WIN

Bunton, Switzer Hook Up in Pitching Duel With Latter Winning 2-1

The luckless breakless, Napanee squad which has been doing a consistently good job on the mound for his team, this year, turned in another real job the other night beating Allen Kelleher-Kiwanis Juniors southpaw in a pitching duel and winning his game 2-1.

The two hurlers battled on even terms for nearly six innings with neither showing any signs of weakening. Both squads were going down in monotonous regularity and in the second best, Kelleher retired the side via the strike-out route. In the third innings Jack Elliott smashed out a triple to deep centre field, Smith went out and Latchford drove Elliott home. Latchford bore down and retired the side with no damage done. He struck out five and walked two.

Bunton was never in any serious danger and buried fine beauty ball to win his shutout. He walked but one batter, whiffed five, and scattered four hits.

Napanee scored both runs in the sixth innings when they touched Kelleher for a pair of timely five hits. Fitzpatrick started the ball rolling when he drove out a single to right centre. Latchford and Rowbotham went out, and it looked like the second innings. Walt Gerow got hold of one at double and an error by Smith scored Gerow.

Johnny Ronsky connected safely with a single to centre scoring with the fourth hit of the inning and Stephen Latchford came out to end the innings and the scoring.

Bush, V. Green, Seamark and Strahan, were the only Juniors to connect safely with the visitors' slants.

The game was one of the best played here this season and both teams are rapidly rounding into form for the closing days of league off series.

SWACOS DEFEAT KIWANIS JUNIORS BY 2 TO 0 COUNT

Ernie Smith and Allan Kelleher Hook Up in Hurling Duel

Till Ernie Smith, SWACO right-hander who has been doing a consistently good job on the mound for his team, this year, turned in another real job the other night beating Allen Kelleher-Kiwanis Juniors southpaw in a pitching duel and winning his game 2-0.

The two hurlers battled on even terms for nearly six innings with neither showing any signs of weakening. Both squads were going down in monotonous regularity and in the second best, Kelleher retired the side via the strike-out route. In the third innings Jack Elliott smashed out a triple to deep centre field, Smith went out and Latchford drove Elliott home. Latchford bore down and retired the side with no damage done. He struck out five and walked two.

Smith was never in any serious danger and buried fine beauty ball to win his shutout. He walked but one batter, whiffed five, and scattered four hits.

Napanee scored both runs in the sixth innings when they touched Kelleher for a pair of timely five hits. Fitzpatrick started the ball rolling when he drove out a single to right centre. Latchford and Rowbotham went out, and it looked like the second innings. Walt Gerow got hold of one at double and an error by Smith scored Gerow.

Johnny Ronsky connected safely with a single to centre scoring with the fourth hit of the inning and Stephen Latchford came out to end the innings and the scoring.

Bush, V. Green, Seamark and Strahan, were the only Juniors to connect safely with the visitors' slants.

The game was one of the best played here this season and both teams are rapidly rounding into form for the closing days of league off series.

DR. W. ROBINSON DISQUALIFIED FOR MISSING BUOY

Power Boat Official Makes Ruling After Records of 225 Race Checked

A check-up of the scoring sheets of the Rotary Regatta held here on Wednesday, by Chairman Robert Schelling of the American Power Boat Association, revealed that Dr. W. Robinson, driving Steve V.'s Outboard Special, the victory in the Division 1 225 hydroplane class failed to round a buoy in the first heat, and accordingly was disqualified.

The incident was not noticed by those on the barges at the time of the lap, but Mr. Schelling's keen eyes caught the "miss" and later corrected the records.

The Belleville Sargent Gold Trophy, therefore, and the race now goes to Gibson Bradfield, of Barnesville, Ohio, winner of the Percy Edward Gold Cup at the Picton Regatta on Monday, while Walt "Al Hijis II" driven by Hasley, Providence, Rhode Island, and "Hijis II" driven by Bob Bogie, Brooklyn, N.Y., are awarded second and third places respectively.

The Gerald Jenkins Silver Trophy goes to B. Southam, of Hamilton, driving "Mercury". In the only Division II Class 225 boat on the course, although "Donna Bob" and "Arab III" raced against him in the various heats.

There was some splendid sportsmanship shown by "Al Hijis", Vice Chairman Lloyd Hicks of Belleville commenting on the case. "Mr. Bradfield, who was following closely on the heels of Mr. Dockit, noticed her driver missed the buoy, but refused to report it to officials. On the other hand, Dr. Robinson, who drove a magnificent race smilingly gave up his first position, knowing it was one of those things that is liable to occur in speedboat racing.

WINDSOR AUTO WRECKERS OUST BROCKVILLE NINE

Eastern Team Falls Apart in Sixth When Winners Score Nine Runs

Labatt Park, London, Ont., Aug. 9 (CP)—Windsor Auto Wreckers were well in the van in the sandlot Congress Baseball Tourney as they knocked off Brockville by 14-11 count in a grim game which ended early this morning. The game had few fans left when the final sight was made.

It started out to be quite a battle but Brockville fell apart in the sixth when Windsor scored nine runs and it was strictly no contest from that stage on.

Windsor picked up 16 hits off three Brockville pitchers. The Wreckers were way off the form they showed in beating Toronto in the opener in the first game of the second series. London Majors were upset by Toronto Columbus Grads.

Today's card sees Brockville and Toronto meet in the opening game at seven and Toronto and Windsor clash in the nightcap.

Catcher Merl Gibb led the Windsor sluggers with two of his team's 16 hits.

Catcher Menard led the Windsor sluggers with four hits while the pitcher-fielder Stojan was next number to contribute to Brockville's cause. Menard and Wrigley slammed out three-baggers for the Wreckers.

Eight Struck Out

Pitcher Griffin struck out eight Windsor batters before the sixth inning deluge. He walked two batters.

Brockville came back in the bottom of the seventh to score three runs while holding the Wreckers scoreless, but Windsor went further ahead in the eighth and ninth with two runs in each. Both teams were charged with six errors.

London fell only one run short in a ball-game of dropping the game to Toronto Columbus Grads. The Columbus team champions for the last three seasons, went out in two straight games, to be knocked off yesterday night to Windsor Auto Wreckers.

Pitcher Jake Crosco garnered the Grads with four hits for four trips to bat, one a two-run homer in the eighth inning.

In the final frame London trailed 3-1. They squeezed two tallies home on pinch-hitter Swift's triple but with the tying run on third. Tommy White fanned to end the contest.

Russ Evon led the Majors with a batting total of three for three. Babe Cresco was top hitter with his four for four.

Hurler Johnny Krycia gave out seven hits for his triumph. Loser Tommy White was nicked for 10 hits.

Flyers scored two runs in the first and seventh innings on the first three hits Curtis struck out four and walked three while Muffitt whiffed three and walked the same number of free tickets to first.

The beautiful three-year-old, making his fifth start in a trotting event and his first this year, never did better than eighth in the three heats of the $50,000 harness racing classic.

He might have done better if it hadn't been for a bad break in the first mile.

Victor in the 21st running of the Hambletonian was Chestertown, the favorite. Van Riddell finished ninth in the first heat, but came back to win third again in the last mile.

Mr. Rowe, member of the House of Commons for Dufferin-Simcoe and a leading Ontario breeder of trotters and pacers since 1918, drove his colt himself—the only owner to do so.

After the race he expressed satisfaction with Van Riddell's performance.

The parliamentarian, farmer, breeder and sportsman visited Van Riddell ran his second mile yesterday in 2:04—and received congratulations on the best time of a Hambletonian heat winner since 2:02¼ when Peter Manx ran one final quarter in 30 seconds. Also good time even in the big race.

It was while Mr. Rowe was resting after his efforts that an unidentified horseman offered him $25,000 for Van Riddell.

Van Riddell was purchased by Mr. Rowe from the late Dr. W. H. Riddell, of Orangeville, Ont. It was reported that Dr. Riddell during his final illness asked Mr. Rowe to enter him in the Hambletonian.

DONALD BROWNRIGG wins Dow Award

At Dow's Lake, near Ottawa, night was falling. All the swimmers were back on shore except the young English war bride who hesitated on a log boom, 75 yards out. She felt dizzy and had a headache. But she started to swim in just the same.

18-year-old Donald Brownrigg was the first to notice her floundering. He plunged in immediately . . . but by the time he reached her she had gone down twice. She was sinking for the third time when he grabbed her arm. Panic-stricken, she began to struggle, endangering both their lives.

Thinking and acting quickly, Brownrigg struck her sharply on the jaw. Her struggles ceased . . . and the rescuer managed to pull her unconscious body back to the boom to safety.

For his cool courage we are proud to present The Dow Award to Donald Brownrigg of Ottawa.

The winners of that series, Kingston, Picton or Trenton then take on the winners of the Port Hope-Lindsay tilts on Sept. 7 with the second game scheduled for Sept. 8.

In the Intermediate "C" grouping, Mountain View will be a host to Tweed on August 16, fish day in these parts, with the return game set for August 23. As far as we understand it, the Mountain View team will play their home games in the Fair Grounds here. The first game will be played in Tweed has been pilled against Napanee, Campbellford against Wooler, and Hastings against Omemee.

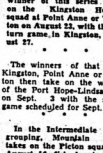
Winners of the Mountain View-Picton bouts will meet either Tweed or Trenton and the winners of this series take on the winners of the Napanee-Tweed battles.



Secretary Feaver reminds teams that all fields used in play-off games must conform to the official playing rules as laid down in the book of words. The fields should be approved by the group convener. He also calls attention to the fact that all balls must be taped for twelve inches. Umpires for play-off games must possess a registration card to the convener. Cards may be obtained from the OASA at the request of the local association on payment of 25 cents each.

The OASA secretary also points out that all rained-out games will be played the day following the scheduled date, except under special arrangements made with the OASA convener. Floodlight games will be played for the first two tilts in each series, he says, but the third and subsequent games must be played in daylight, unless both squads are agreeable to battling under the arcs.

All changes in dates must be made by the OASA convener who in this case is E. A. Sheppard, 345 Colborne Street, Kingston. Long distance calls are allowed in play-off games.

Ernie Smith, SWACOS' righthander and Allen Kelly booked up in a neat pitching duel at Picton last night with Smitty getting the nod with a 3-0 win over Picton's Ed. Ivanhs Juniors' southpaw. Kelleher allowed but five smacks the pitcher, and Smitty scored a nifty 2-0 win.

"Moose" Matthews' Trenfirers' war clubs pounced on the offerings of Balawa's Muffitt in a double-header ball game on Wednesday, and clouted the latter right his for five runs over the seventh-inning route. Trenfirers headed a 5-1 victory under their belts, one of the most impressive victories scored this year against the Shoemen. Gibb started and did shelling duties for the Flyers and was relieved in the 7th by Curtis who stifled the Bata bats allowing them only three clouts for one run in five innings.

Tonight should see another Battle of the Diamonds at the Hume Arena, and all indications point to one of the most exciting main bout seen here in many a moon. Lee "The Scowl" Hennigar, with his battering ram tactics against dashing Morgan Hart last week, using his noggin as a ram in an effort to dislocate Hart's ring, will resume his feud with the Limeys Lion in the chief attraction. Bob Feller will be on hand who's here. None other than the Italian villain Al Bunny Dunlop who will essay the air force's best. Both guys had better behave tonight, or the cha'd the Bun this morning, or, if Hart should get a load of his wrestler in there with 'em. I'll stand for no fooling and if they start their funny work they're liable to find themselves draped over the City Hall clock tower-er.

Allen (Hoorsw) Kelleher, Orlando Juniors pitcher is considering attending the baseball school being held in the Toronto Maple Leaf stadium for two days next week. Starting Monday, Allen figures that his baseball player can advance league something new, and he's not taking any chances of passing any information up. Gotta give the kid credit for trying.

Bing Crosby Now Part Owner Of Pittsburgh Pirates

(By The Canadian Press)

Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker, Actor Bing Crosby and two others yesterday announced the purchase of the Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball Club in the National League for the reported price of $2,225,000. The sale was made by President W. E. Benswanger in behalf of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss, and himself. Benswanger is being succeeded in the presidency by McKinney.

One stroke behind Reginald Whitcombe, Actor Ralph Horne, British links veterana, Walter Smith, former pro of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, carded a 70 yesterday for the first round of the tournament at Stoke Poges, England.

All players of the Philadelphia Phillies were reported yesterday to have denied making any vicious statement of Catcher Mickey Owen by Manager Ben Chapman before his five-year suspension is completed. Owen jumped the Brooklyn Dodgers to play in Mexico and is said to be seeking his return to organized baseball.

Pat Madden, 120, of Montreal, was knocked unconscious for more than half an hour when he was struck by Jackie Harris, 126, of Malden, Mass., in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-rounder at Fall River, Mass., last night. Madden woke up in the local hospital.

The fellow on the tractor lawn mower at the Fairfax Country Club, Washington, D.C., got off his machine to show a novice how to drive the darn thing. He did, swung at the ball and it dropped into the cup 185 yards away. The man with the tractor was Bill Glover, the club pro.

With rain delaying English cricket yesterday, Glamorgan's Pre retired Derbyshire twice through brilliant bowling to win by an innings and 115 runs. Between showers Gloucestershire registered a seven-wickets victory over Hamshire.

Like an optical illusion are some of the card combinations that you play in bridge. Your first glance may see them as doing one thing. Give them a closer scrutiny and you can see them do something else.

In the play of the cards, the player who leads is known as the first hand. The one who plays next is second hand. That makes partner of the leader as the third hand.

General rule says that third hand should play high in the suit led by first hand. One of its branches says: Unless the rule of 11 advises third hand that a high play will lose more tricks.

In some card combinations, third hand high play is not so good. Such a one was the declarer at four hearts and the spades in that deal were as shown here:

NORTH
♠Q 10 8

WEST
♠J 7 5 3

EAST
♠K 6 2

SOUTH
♠A 9 4

West led spade trey and dummy covered with the eightpot. Third hand put the queen high with the king. South won with the ace. Then by leading through west, declarer got two more spades.

Let east play low on the first trick and it makes a difference. Thereafter, west and east should not lead spades. It will hold the declarer to only two spades no matter what he tries to do.

If dummy is left on queen, east covers; with king, South goes with ace. West gets a trick with jack. If dummy plays the ten, east ducks. Whether south ace plays now or later, west or east has a trick.

Nor can declarer do any better by leading from the south. His lead of ace and nine or nine and then ace is sure to give a trick to east. It happens to be that kind of a card combination.

Should east have known this? It is tough for a beginner. But an expert player would. Against a suit contract, west would not have led away from ace. That would be a clue for a hotshot.

Maybe you have too many other worries.

Hollywood, Aug. 9 (AP) — Here's how a star arrives in Hollywood after a three-year absence in the army.

A score of newspapermen, almost outnumbered by press agents, stood in the waning sun while an airplane taxied up and emitted its single passenger. Then out stepped Marlene Dietrich, looking rather like Marlene Dietrich.

While shutters clicked, Marlene accepted bouquets of red and yellow roses from four wounded veterans, kissed them, her director, Fitchell Leisen, her press agent and several other people, including a total stranger.

How did it feel to be back in Hollywood? She didn't know yet. How long would she stay? She didn't know; she had only one picture "Golden Earrings", to do. Why did she refuse to kiss Jean Gabin while photographers were in the background when she left Paris?

"I didn't even know photographers were there," she said wonderingly. By this time she resumed kissing people, but was whisked away in a black studio limousine before she got around to everybody.

Now look who's acting in the movies—Quentin Reynolds. The tenderness correspondent is also emoting in "Golden Earrings" and explained to me he has been in movies before, but they were British documentaries. I asked if he considered this type of work difficult.

"Are you kidding? That's the kind of business we should have gotten into."

Then he thinks writing is tough work?

"Certainly. It's among the toughest work there is. But I'll say one thing for it—you can do it sitting down."

STAN LEONARD LOOMS AS THREAT TO U. S. GOLFERS

West Coast Golfer Only Two Strokes Off Lead of Ellsworth Vines

By WILF GRUBON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Nlakwa Golf and Country Club Winnipeg, Aug. 9 (CP)—Vancouver's Stan Leonard, small in stature but a giant in the Canadian golfing world who could be — in the opinion of one who is in the right spot to know—high among the game's greatest, today stands at an ideal point to begin peeping just that.

As the $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association Open tournament went into its third round today the 145-pound, West Coast Links master was two strokes off the 136-stroke pace set by Ellsworth Vines of Chicago, who took the lead after the first 18 holes with a 67 and held on his second payoff tour.

Leonard, a fiery little under-par 67 in the second round to close in on the former Canadian Vines who could only do a one-under 71 after his par-smashing and record-setting first round 65. The bespectacled Vines' 71 was the same figure that the Canadian star picked up on his first 18.

In getting his 67 yesterday, Leonard travelled at a fast clip as he went out in 31 and home in 36. He muffed an eagle deuce on the 5th and followed with a birdie picked up four birdies, getting two in a row on the back nine, the first on the 15th.

Putter Won't Bolt

The little putter wasn't behaving as it did on his first 18. He needed only 29 with the 15th and 18th to go one over on each hole and wipe out the three birdies he snared starting on the ninth. He had two other birdies coming in, three in a row but in addition to his bogie holes on which he three-putted, he had two other holes.

Vancouver's other bright light on the links, Freddie Wood, shot a 70 which with his 69 yesterday gave him 140 and a third-place tie with Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, La., and Al Balding of Toronto. One stroke behind these two was Jimmy Thomson of Los Angeles, and New York, with 141 scores of 70 and 72.

Jim Ferrier of Chicago, held sixth place with 142 fashioned from two 71s, and for the twelfth position there was a three-way tie with 143. Sharing the spot were Lawson Little of Monterey, California, with 71-72, Sammy Snead with 71-72 and Dick Metz with 72-71.

Two players, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Henry Ransom of Houston, Texas, ended up with 144. Hogan, with 71 on his second round, was four strokes better than his first day's effort but Ransom had to settle for the same score he bagged yesterday a 72.

HAMBLETONIAN STAKE WON BY CHESTERTOWN

Defeated in First Heat by Victory Song but Comes Back to Win Last Two and $28,047

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 9 (CP)—Chestertown, brilliant dark bay driven by 55-year-old Billy Haughton, son of the late famed driver, Ben Haughton, rallied from behind the heaviest odds yesterday in the 21st running of the $51,000 Hambletonian Stake, classic of trotting racing, at Good Time Park here.

Canada's first entry in the big harness-race event—the red chestnut stallion Van Riddell from the stable of the Hon. Earl Howe, of Newton Robinson, Ont. —finished ninth twice and eighth once in the three heats of the 1-1/16 horse race.

Chester Chestertown, the colt who was rated so low in 1945 he wasn't even sent to the post as a two-year-old, and Berry, who hurt his back and wrist in two spills in the last week, got together to take two out of three heats yesterday and pick up the $28,047 winner's pot.

But of almost as much interest as the victory of the first California-owned horse ever to win the trotting world series was the way Dr. Hanchett's records for crowd and betting were slashed. At the finish, the 16,015 customers poured $300,000 into the mutuel machines to start the proceedings. Of this, $159,824 was fed to the iron men on the big race alone—three heats and the pre-race result pool for an all-time Hambletonian night that put the trotters up among the big business members of the sports clan.

Of chief interest to Canadians at the trotting classic was Van Riddell. The red stallion didn't finish up in the money but he drew a lot of attention and satisfied his owner, member of the House of Commons for Dufferin-Simcoe, and a former Dominion cabinet minister.

In the heat "Van" broke the barrier and cost Mr. Rowe $100—in addition to the $960 it cost him to enter the colt. He had to be pulled up sharp at the first turn because of Deanna's cutting in but nevertheless he ran a strong race.

Mr. Rowe said later: "Van has the heart he can go in this class. He's a'take horse now—he wasn't before. I plan to enter him in the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington in September."

The Kentucky Futurity is usually worth about $20,000.

'POPS' COOPER'S BOAT STILL AT BOTTOM OF BAY

225 Class Boat in 24 to 30 Feet of Water on Outer Leg of Course

"Tops" crack 225 cubic inch class hydroplane owned by Jack-ie "Pops" Cooper of Kansas City, which plunged to the bottom of the bay off Massanaga Park on Wednesday during the first lap of the first heat of the feature race, is still resting beneath the water.

"Tops" is said to be in from 24 to 30 feet of water and efforts were renewed yesterday to bring the craft to the surface.

At first it was thought that a swell from a passing pleasure craft was the cause of the loss of the hydroplane. It was learned later however, that "Pops" Cooper, veered his boat sharply to round a buoy and the swell buffeted the boat into the air, turning it over before it dived to the bottom. Cooper managed to clear of the boat just before it went on its plunge.

The elderly driver, however, does not appear to be worried too much about the loss of 'Tops'. He was more concerned about the loss of his eye glasses which went to the bottom. "I can't see a darn thing without those specks," he has drawled in his Kansan accent.

Rotary officials have undertook to help "Pop" out with his problem and Rotarian Dr. Locke looked after his needs.

TORONTO LEAFS EARN EVEN SPLIT WITH THE CHIEFS

Win First by a Shutout but Fall by One Run to Capture Second

(By The Associated Press)

Alex Mustakik' six won and none lost record is a small indication of the value the veteran righthander has been to Newark Bears in their battle for an International League playoff berth.

The 34-year-old hurler,/used entirely in relief roles by manager George Selkirk of the Bears, has saved for other hurlers almost as many games as he has gained credit for winning.

Summoned from the bull pen last night when starter Walt Dubiel weakened in the ninth inning and allowed Rochester Red Wings to put two runners on base with one out, Mustakik retired the next two batters to preserve a 7-6 victory for Dubiel.

The victory enabled the Bears to move into a Fourth-place deadlock with Syracuse Chiefs who divided a doubleheader with Toronto Maple Leafs. After Bill McCahan blanked the Chiefs, 2-0 in the seven inning opener, Syracuse came back to take the nightcap, 5-4 despite a three-run four-bagger by Austin Knickerbocker and a nine-circuit clout by Jack Wallaas of the Leafs.

Montreal's front-running Royals scored a 3-2 10-inning triumph over the tail-god Jersey City Giants. Jackie Robinson counted the winning marker from third base with a brilliant slide after Lew Riggs flied to Nick Solomon.

The third-place Buffalo Bisons advanced to within half a game of Baltimore's runner – up Orioles by nosing out the Orioles 6-5.

Young Art Houtteman started for the Bisons and was nursing a 5-3 lead going into the seventh inning but the Orioles drove him to cover by scoring four times in the seventh. Zeb Eaton came to his rescue and put out the fire and Houtteman gained the decision, his 15th of the year.

The Bisons also pulled the circuit's third triple play of the campaign in the third frame. Houttteman began it when he snared a liner from the bat of Ed Robinson with runners on first and second. The hurler's throw to second doubled one runner and the relay to first got the batter. Merrill Moss of the Orioles, the loop's home run hitter, clouted his 29th round-tripper of the campaign.

CHAPTER 4.

"I know," Jacqueline said unexpectedly.

"I told you so. You always would. I've been making sure of that for a week now. Such things do happen. I tell you. If only there was some way to let you know how deadly in earnest I am."

There was no reply. But Larry Cutter did not know that his dark eyes were subscribing to the truth of his claim more eloquently than any words he might find.

Too late, he realized that he had gone about things in the wrong fashion. The worst possible. He should have been more cautious in his approach. Made Jack's acquaintance and won her confidence to some degree. But it was too late to go back now. He wouldn't run.

Perhaps he should have admitted that his Canadian strike had netted him more money than most men see in a lifetime, with more to come from it. On the other hand, that would be too much like trying to buy what he wanted—led her to love him and not what he had to offer.

If only she would believe that he loved her. In him. At least, she had listened and that was more than he had any right to hope for.

"I told you, Miss Anthony, that I had a particular purpose in coming here to the city," he resumed steadily. "I can see now that it was meant to be.... that I would find you. Call it fate, if you like. Nothing will make me believe otherwise. It's rather difficult to explain just now.... But if anything were to happen to me, I'd like to leave what I have to some one I care for.... to whom it would mean something. To my wife. She wouldn't have to worry or want for most things. Please...." as Jacqueline started to speak.

"That sounds rotten, I guess. But I want it to be you because I truly love you. See here. Let's go at it this way."

He regarded her in a puzzled fashion, then resumed:

"I've been thinking about your situation, but I take it that you're in business for yourself.... you're a business woman. That should make it easier for us both. Here's the way it stacks up."

Larry spread apart the fingers of his left hand and tapped the thumb with the end of the pipe stem.

"First. I'm asking you to marry me. You've nothing but my own word for it that I'm decent, healthy and respectable. I'm all three.

"Second. I'd prefer to make it a straight business proposition at the start. I've something to sell, if you want to put it that way. My name and the promise to care for and respect you as long as I live. You will be running no great risk.... I think. I would protect your investment from the start. Let me be frank about that. I mean financially. It's no inducement.... a bond. And with no strings whatever.

"Third. I ask nothing in return. Until you wish to give it of your own accord. You would be free to keep your name, your present way of living.... your job, if you wish. I.... I'll see me no oftener than you like. No one need know of our marriage until you are ready.

"Fourth. If it doesn't work out after a fair trial, the deal is off. You'll be as free as air.... and forever.

"Fifth.... But you get me. I'm ready to draw up a paper covering all that and sign it. You're my lawyer, I suppose." Larry permitted himself a slight smile at this practical note. "And that covers the ground about as well as I can do it. I suppose it sounds pretty bad for me...."

There was silence as he waited for an answer. Jacqueline was the one who broke it.

"Aren't you forgetting something?" she asked slowly.

"I dare say. What is it? We'll include it."

"You know nothing about me." "Oh, that." Larry gave a relieved sigh. "It seems to me that I have known you always. But until the day I came into it, your life is just your own. It doesn't concern me. Your life will always be your own. Please be assured of that."

"You are generous." Still that expressionless note in the girl's voice.

"Don't say that! I'm not trying to be generous.... to you. All I'm trying to do is to be fair.... dreadfully fair. I know what a great thing I'm asking of you. I was at my wit's end. I wouldn't even listen to me. Well?" Anxiety gave almost a harsh tone to the last word.

Jacqueline leaned forward, leaned forward until the light fell relentlessly upon her small face. Her dark eyes were inscrutable. She was searching her mind for the words she needed.

"I don't know why I did listen," she admitted wonderingly. "An hour ago, I.... I must be mad.... too."

Then.... you mean...." Larry caught his breath sharply. Waited.

"I am mad." Jacqueline Anthony was deciding that for herself.

"But you will do it? I ask for nothing until you can give it me."

The little stenographer's face was vividly white. Her lips trembled a whispered answer that Cutter barely heard.

"I'll.... I'll do it."

Little Miss Anthony breathed an incoherent prayer when she found herself alone once more in her office, and with the door closed. The final petition was that no one look at or speak to her until she could collect her scattered senses.

The entire world was gone from her survey. It still moved shakily through a dull haze.

There had been no suggestion of so vast a cataclysm when Jacqueline opened her eyes in the warm comfort of her small apartment on Courtland street. She had lain in bed until the last minute lingering to the steady drip of water from a leaking snout above her window, wishing that there were no need of going to work.

Another dull day and, probably, few customers. But each customer counted just now. They counted tragically.

After a cold bath, she had gone through the familiar rite of preparing some juice in the tiny kitchenette, started coffee in the percolator and attached the toaster to its plug.

Arrived at the hotel, the little office had seemed unusually cozy in the lamplight. There being no sign of customers, Jacqueline strolled out to the newsstand and on good-natured Felix Kuhn's personal recommendation, she borrowed a copy of "Tales Afloat" and soon was on her way to the China Seas. Just another rainy day.

Then now!

Jacqueline's numbed brain still was trying to get across the message that she had now promised to marry a man. A man she never had seen before. A man who had walked into her office and asked her to take a letter. It must be a dream.... A nightmare, rather. And yet....

It might have happened. Because this man had told her his name after he proposed.... Larry Cutter. And he wanted to marry Jacqueline Anthony. She still couldn't comprehend any clear reason for it. Some absurd idea that having fallen in love with her from a distance. And he didn't ask her to give up her name or her job or.... anything. She was to take Larry Cutter on a contract basis.... tear up the contract, if she didn't like it.

"I.... I still didn't make sense. Cutter barely heard.

"I'll.... I'll do it."

Just another rainy day.

Then now!

Jacqueline's numbed brain still was trying to get across the message that she had now promised to marry a man. A man she never had seen before. A man who had walked into her office and asked her to take a letter. It must be a dream.... A nightmare, rather. And yet....

It might have happened. Because this man had told her his name after he proposed.... Larry Cutter. And he wanted to marry Jacqueline Anthony. She still couldn't comprehend any clear reason for it. Some absurd idea that having fallen in love with her from a distance. And he didn't ask her to give up her name or her job or.... anything. She was to take Larry Cutter on a contract basis.... tear up the contract, if she didn't like it.

And this Mr. Cutter apparently had been perfectly satisfied with her halting, foolish little acceptance. He had asked Miss Anthony to have dinner with him tonight.... anywhere she liked. There were things to talk over. Arrangements to make.

Arrangement! Jacqueline shivered. That meant a wedding. He would want to talk about their wedding.

She was positive that she had declined the diner invitation. But she did recall admitting that she was registered at the Mrs. Raynear cafeteria and might do so tonight. Mr. Cutter had accepted that as a promise and taken himself off with a smiling, "I'll see you this evening. Thanks."

Just like that.

Sitting motionless behind her desk, Jacqueline watched this dream man cross the lobby and stop in front of a cigar counter. She saw Virgie Blake at the cigar stand greet him after the manner of an old acquaintance. She watched her fiancee talking to another woman. The sight of it it only added to the unreality of everything. She saw him pocket his change and hurry away.

Jacqueline Anthony had been entirely truthful when she told Larrimore Cutter that she didn't know why she had listened to him in the first place. As she recalled it, she had been more interested than angry at his startling proposal. She was intensely interested in his remarks about travel. She had been attracted by him as well. There was something in his direct assertive manner that appealed to her, especially his definite assurance that she would some day realize her greatest ambition. Of course he misunderstood her.

His casual solution for a trip to the Orient stunned her for the moment. Left her almost speechless. Then he had gone away without giving her a chance to reply. When and if, he returned, she would put a stop to any further conversation on that topic.

But the call from Mrs. Dennison had changed everything. Everything in the world. How could he have picked that very moment to come in To put the finishing touch on an unbelievable situation? Why?

There was no answer.... unless it was fate. Mr. Cutter said it was fate.

Grant Dennison was a partner in the brokerage firm of Falk and Dennison. Jacqueline had made two modest investments with them and her contacts always had been with the junior partner.

He was a sharp-visaged little man who managed in some way to give an impression that anyone who played the market was more or less a fool. But if the fool was determined to part with his money, Messrs. Falk and Dennison might as well have the commissions.

This morning, Dennison had come directly to the point of his errand in the Raynear.

"I found a memorandum on my desk yesterday, Miss Anthony, that you had called. Sorry I was out. No, I won't sit down. Too wet. You wanted to ask me about Southern Furnace?"

Jacqueline nodded apprehensively.

"I thought so. Well, I'm afraid I have go very good news for you. But you're not to take my word as final."

Jacqueline nodded again.

"I'm afraid you've got your tip to buy that stock in the first place. But you have plenty of company. When it started going up the way it did, we were a little suspicious of inside manipulation. We couldn't see any logical reason. It looks now as though we might have been correct."

"You mean...."

"I'm afraid so. If you remember, I suggested that you clear your original investment before buying that second lot. I don't believe you are not doing it.... the way it was moving up. But you may have held on too long. Of course you've been following it."

"Oh, yes."

"And now you want to know what the chances are for its staging a comeback. Most of the stockholders would like the answer. We don't know it, of course. The whole list has been exceedingly erratic these past weeks. May I ask if you have most of your surplus capital tied up in that stock? You might be able to recoup partially with some other issue.... Though I would dislike to recommend anything in particular at the moment."

"I couldn't.... now!" Jacqueline tried valiantly to muster a smile, but it was a complete failure.

"Too bad. I question if there is a market for your holdings at the moment. Your loss would be heavy at the last quotation. It might be wiser to hold it for a time.... But whatever you say. Let us know at any time. Was there anything else?"

"Oh, no. Thank you very much, Mr. Dennison for your trouble." "No trouble at all, Miss Anthony." And Mr. Dennison had hurried out with his hands thrust deep into the pockets of his flapping raincoat.

With him went all of Jacqueline Anthony's dreams of the future. All security. And in a state somewhere between inertia and panic she had listened to a renewal of Larry Cutter's amazing proposal. In a moment of sheer and unreasoning desperation, she had said she would marry him. She was sure by this time she had promised.

WAGE BOOST IN MAJOR INDUSTRY IN U.S. REFUSED

Ruling Implies U. S. Govt. Wants to Keep Wages In Line at Present

By HOWARD WALKER

Washington, Aug. 9. (AP)—The government today stiffened its inflation resistance policies in the United States by refusing to sanction a sweeping set of reconversion pay boosts in a major industry.

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman made the ruling in a case affecting only Pacific Northwest lumber workers. But his decision implied that the administration wants to keep wages in line for the time being.

The government's only remaining control over wages is a requirement of approval by the price czar any increased pay costs can be subsequently passed on to Price Administration as a basis for higher price ceilings.

Nevertheless, Steelman's new ruling serves as a warning that employers may find it hard to get any substantial boosts. Then the C.I.O. and A.F.L. unions involved negotiated a new contract calling for an hour pay boost.

The Wage Stabilization Board which passes on such matters subject to Steelman's review decided that because of "special circumstances" it would approve 15 cents an hour of the five-cent second increase for application toward relief.

However, Mr. steelman in his review noted that individual postwar wage increases had been established industry by industry, taking into account the cost of living standards and other factors. There was no reason, he said, why workers in every industry should have received the same raise.

The affected lumber workers now are receiving the full 20-cent post-war increase in most cases the companies had agreed to pay the full amounts regardless of whether the government approved.

In a second wage ruling made public last night, a presidential-appointed fact-finding board turned down a demand by the International Association of Machinists for an approximate 18 per cent pay boost for employees of Northwest Airlines. The Board was appointed as the result of a strike early last month by the machinists.

GENERAL STRIKE TALK IN BRITISH COLUMBIA
Vancouver, Aug. 9—(CP)—British Columbia labor leaders last night talked of a "general strike", following announcement that the regional war labor board will hold hearings here to 10 cents an hour pending recommendations from the Common Labor relations committee.

"There is a possibility of a general strike out of this," said Harry Bennett, C.C.F. president of the Boilermaker's Union.

The order affects thousands of workers and they will not look kindly on a board that beats about the bush," he said.

The board yesterday released its decision on wage increase applications from several unions setting raises at an "interim" of 10 cents an hour against 10 requested.

Rain Quenches Some Fires But Situation Remains Dangerous

(By The Canadian Press)

Heavy rains in the last few days have battled forest fires in many parts of Central and Eastern Canada, extinguishing efforts today and looked analogous for signs of morethe of the long-awaited rain which yesterday helped to improve the situation in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

At Moncton, N.B., Chief Forester G. L. Miller said a half-inch rainfall yesterday was the first in more than a month to battle with flames which have blackened 30 square miles of eastern New Brunswick and crept to within five miles of that city. But he warned that heavier rain was needed to remove the fire menace completely.

In the Apple River area, 50 miles southwest of Amherst, N.S., a blaze which destroyed more than 7,000 acres of valuable timber, 20 by five days was all but extinguished by a heavy rain. Firefighters said it was the rain left off and brought the stubborn fire under control.

In Ontario where bush fires are burning in many sections, rain will be badly needed. In the sprawling Sudbury forest districtin 24 hrs were raging over an estimated 700 acres of scrub land. Settlers were reported safe. Wednesday but none was considered a menace to valuable timber or to settlements.

Rain Badly Needed

Officials of the Sudbury division warned, however, that the rains remained off in all forest areas because there has been no "good" rain for 20 days.

In Toronto officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests estimated that about 1,- 900 men were battling blazes throughout the province. Most of the fires, some of which have been under way for two weeks, have been confined to slash and scrub stands of poplar and birch.

A 50-man crew fighting a fire in Massaga area north of Blind River was augmented by some 300 men but the potential danger to valuable timber in 40 square miles of holdings had not been erased. Forestry officials said a high southeast wind would place rich timber stands to the north in the direct path of the fire.

Thirty men were reported fighting a new outbreak at Spragge, 20 miles east of Blind River. The fire was said to have been caused by sparks from a logging train.

In the Timmins district townships about 50 persons remained mill berry-pickers to go into the bush after residents had been ordered closed. Rangers have been given orders to charge anyone who tried to enter the fire forbidden townships.

Ten the week before travel was restricted in the Timmins area, 17 fires were declared. Most were believed caused by berry-pickers and fishermen. None had been reported since the Aug. 2 ban.

Fires at Key Harbor, near the mouth of the French River, and on the Lake Nipissing Reserve at Long Inlet, roughly 40 miles south of Sudbury, are not yet under control.

One short-lived blaze in the Haliburton district was blamed on a cigaret reported dropped from an aircraft. Visitors at a tourist lodge extinguished the fire.

Campers who left a fire smouldering near the powerhouse at Haliburton caused another fire to break which the village fire brigade brought under control after several hours.

Man-made Weather Seen As Future War Weapon

Tidal Waves, Glaciers, Disease Germs and Atomic Dust Could Destroy Whole Nations in Next War, Says Admiral Who Urges World to Learn How to Apply Latest Scientific Discoveries to Improvement of Mankind

Man-made tidal waves, glaciers, onslaughts of disease germs and atomic dust are the terrifying weapons that can be expected to be used in a future war unless "we develop our minds to use the tremendous power we have acquired for the good of mankind, we surely face destruction," Rear Admiral Luis De Flores, USNR, warns in an article in the September issue of The American Magazine.

The day of man shooting man, plane downing plane, and ship sinking ship has passed and will the next war the objective will be the complete wiping out of populatioln of whole areas, the destruction or at least complete disruption, of whole nations," declares the Admiral who is deputy director of the Navy's office of Research and Inventions.

"We must reckon with rivers and lakes as potentially terrible enemies," he states in a signed article. "Sea disturbances —call them man-made tidal waves—may well be the factor in the next war. Great onslaughts of cultivated bacteria are a possibility. Atomic dust could be used to make whole areas uninhabitable, killing off human and animal life.

"It is conceivable that we could control the climate of Europe, and possibly bring on another ice age in that continent by such means at altering the flow of the Gulf Stream. This could be done by filling in the Florida Straits to slow down the flow of warm water that warms Europe. On the other hand, we have it in our power to make warmer the climate of Europe by widening the Straits and increasing the flow of the Gulf Stream to the Continent.

"We once had a glacier over the northern part of this continent. What if a future enemy should bring it back by manipulating the Japan current which warms the Pacific Northwest? Great harbors would be lost to us. Much of our food supply would disappear. . . ."

In visualizing the revolutionary potentials of atomic energy, the Admiral points out that today man has the power to change the course of the giant Mississippi river with disastrous results to the Midwest.

"Our lakes present still another possibility of wholesale destruction," he asserts. "Think what would happen if the water level of the Great Lakes was lowered, say 25 or 50 feet. Man has the potential power to do this—and, if he does, cities like Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Duluth, Milwaukee, and Buffalo would be crippled.

"By cutting into certain areas of the Sahara Desert, the whole level of the Mediterranean might be lowered to make harbor approaches useless for years and change the whole course of life in that area."

Admiral De Flores believes the best way of avoiding another war and such terrifying destruction is to educate people before along scientific and social lines.

"If we could raise the level of knowledge sufficiently," he says, we would become too intelligent to fight another war. Instead, we and the rest of the world could sit back and enjoy in peace the abundance of good things that science can produce. This must be our objective."

The Navy recognizes that America is far behind in her homework, scientifically speaking, and is doing everything possible to speedily replenish our scientific bank account, says the Admiral.

PRE-PROROGATION DRIVE SPEEDED UP IN COMMONS

One of Tasks Facing Members is Adoption Of Bill to Extend Control Regulations

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 10 — (CP) — The Commons, in its midst of a pre-prorogation drive, moved today for its first Saturday sitting of the session and one of the tasks facing members was adoption of a bill extending foreign exchange control regulations.

Clauses-by-clause study of the bill, under strong criticism of Progressive Conservative members for several days, was completed yesterday after unsuccessful attempts to have the powers of the board reduced and the term of its existence limited to one year.

The measure, now put on only one to three opposition fire, has several members criticized government plans to develop Ottawa into a national memorial at a time when more "vital" needs of the people were not being met.

Debates on the bill have highlighted the day's sittings, which also included first reading to six bills aimed at giving effect to the budget resolutions adopted last week. Third reading was given to a bill amending the Family Allowances Act to broaden the provisions dealing with school attendance and equivalent training.

Wants Powers Limited

Attempts to have the foreign exchange control board's powers limited in one year were made by J. M. Macdonnell (PC — Muskoka-Ontario), who argued the legislation should be emergency.

being of an emergency nature. As such it should be dealt with in review by parliament within a year.

Acting Finance Minister Abbott said he had given serious consideration to the desirability of restricting the measure, but felt it was the practice of British parliamentary procedure not to put a time limit on legislation.

There was no indication the international currency conference such that removal of controls would be possible within a year. Abbott said he hoped it would be three, four or five years before there would be a return to normal.

The court made a "special finding" in the case.

U. S. Observers Pessimistic Over Peaceful Settlement Of Spreading Civil War in China

By JOHN RODERICK

Nanking, Aug. 10 (AP)—Peaceful settlement of China's spreading civil war appears impossible, Gen. Marshall and United States Ambassador John Leighton Stuart declared today in a frankly pessimistic statement issued even as United States marines in north China exchanged shots with Chinese who blew up a coal train they were guarding.

Whether the two American peace negotiators were throwing in the towel after numerous fruitless conferences with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Communist Gen. Chou En-Lai was not yet cleared. Their dour statement said "every possibility" had been explored toward ending the conflict and developing a democratic type of government in China.

They said the fundamental issues involved concern the type of local government to be maintained in areas evacuated as the result of the U. S. withdrawal of troops of both sides.

Marine headquarters at Peiping announced that four marines riding the caboose of a coal train were fired upon by 50 Chinese (presumed in Peiping to be communists) after charges placed on the tracks derailed the locomotive and eight cars. The marines, unhurt, were picked up by an 80-man rescue patrol. Two Chinese casualties were reported.

Government officials warned after the July 29 clash with communists on the Peiping-Tientsin highway, in which four marines were killed, that the United States could look for further clashes with communists hoping to force American withdrawal from China. A United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration agricultural expert from Tientsin, Carrol Deyoe reported at the same time that he and his Chinese interpreter were fired upon Thursday by more than 40 Chinese dressed in the blue-grey uniform of communists as they rode in a jeep 10 miles from Tientsin after agricultural talks with communist leaders in Jehol Province. Neither was hit but the jeep was holed by bullets.

DUTTON VILLAGE PARTLY ISOLATED BY HEAVY GALE

Townspeople Describe Storm as Tornado, Five-Minute Blow Causes Heavy Damage

Dutton, Ont., Aug. 10 — (CP)— A high wind described by townspeople as a tornado swept through this Elgin county village 25 miles southwest of London, Ont., early today, disrupting hydro and telephone services, uprooting trees and causing extensive damage to many buildings.

First reports indicated no persons were injured.

The wind, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, left the village of about 800 partially isolated.

Streets were blocked by dozens of fallen trees and an estimated 40 telephone and hydro poles were levelled in the eastern section of the community. Telephone lines were reported down from Dutton half way to Wallacetown, 26 miles distant.

The storm was part of a violent electrical storm which struck many points in Southern Ontario.

In London an eight year old boy, William Scott, was burned when lightning struck his bed set the mattress ablaze. He was taken to hospital suffering undetermined injuries.

Only one building in the business section of Dutton was damaged—the Miller Pea Grain. The front of the building was blown into the centre of the street when a sudden gust of wind struck it.

Residents said the storm struck at 12:15 a.m. and lasted only five minutes. Most of the damage was reported to be in the residential area, where many roofs and verandahs were smashed by the tumbling trees.

Within a few hours repair crews were on their way to Dutton from outside points to help local repairmen restore communications. Townspeople joined forces to clear the litter of debris.

No estimate was available of the damage caused by the storm.

Cabinet Statement On Palestine Policy Will Outline Plans

Determined to Clamp Down On Illegal Immigration

London, Aug. 10. (CP— An authoritative government source said today Britain would warn the world next week that ships of any nationality suspected of carrying illegal Zion-seeking immigrants from Europe, may be intercepted, searched and escorted by units of the Royal Navy.

The warning will come in an official white paper statement on Palestine policy which will outline plans to effect a European breakdown on illegal Jewish immigration.

An spokesman at a Foreign Office press conference today said he could not comment on the reported British intention to intercept or search ships flying foreign colors, but this will be dealt with in a statement to be issued shortly".

The Foreign Office declined to say whether Britain already had conveyed its intentions regarding shipping to any individual foreign power.

"That, too, will be dealt with in the forthcoming statement," the spokesman declared.

The British government, he added, was "pleased" with the measures being taken by the French and Italian governments to stop illegal immigration at its source. The Soviet government, he said, had conveyed an oral reply to British representations but he would not indicate whether this was "favorable".

The information was available on the attitude on the Polish or Czech governments either, he said.

In Jerusalem authority predicted today that "things in Palestine will get worse before they get better.

"Immigration is the key to the future, at least the immediate future of Palestine," this source said. A Correspondent Carter in Davidson. "If the British stop it the Jews will cause trouble. If they let it continue the Arabs will be trouble from the Arabs, and it must come within weeks."

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL COMMITTED ON 2 OTHER CHARGES

Ralph Turner, Coe Hill, Will Face Five Charges in Higher Court

Ralph Turner, age 35 years, public school, Coe Hill Continuation School and C.C.F. candidate for Hastings-Peterboro in the forthcoming election, was committed for trial in county police court here Friday afternoon on two charges of gross indecency.

Turner now has been committed for trial on five different charges of indecency, three of the alleged offences claimed to have involved juvenile boys under the age of 14 years. Preliminary hearings in the Coe Hill area were heard last week with the last two charges concerning Gordon Card and George Urbach being heard Friday afternoon before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Malcolm Robb, local barrister, acted for Ralph Turner, while Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan is prosecuting the Crown evidence.

Bail Refused

Turner was arrested in Toronto on July 29th with bail set at one thousand dollars. Bail was refused when Messrs. and George Boyd and George Urbach, who have been resident in Coe Hill for years. Following his committal bail was renewed for Turner at $5,000, while bail for Urbach was renewed at $2,000 and for Willard at $3,000.

Gordon Card, 20, of Bancroft, against whom one of the alleged offences by Turner is stated by police to have been committed, told the court that in 1941 at the age of 15 years he had to go to high school at Coe Hill. His parents at Bronson were unable to help him financially and Mr. Turner had secured for him the janitor's position at Coe Hill school at a wage of $25 per month.

73 ARE KILLED, 20,000 HOMELESS IN RECENT QUAKE

Huhger Threatening Weary Population After Six-Day Ordeal

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, Aug. 10 (AP) — Panic spread through the northern provinces of this battered country today, with hunger threatening many populations in the wake of a six-day ordeal of earthquakes and floods which have killed 73 persons and left 20,000 homeless.

With earth tremors of varying intensity jarring the terrain throughout the republic about every five minutes, fear has gripped the inhabitants, particularly about Bahia Escocesa (Scotch Bay) in the northern part of the island, where there is a strong apprehension that violent shocks will take place.

Not a single inhabitant remains in the shattered coastal towns of Matanzas, Puert Plata, Sabley, Sosua and Cabarete, where there was a swift evacuation following Sunday's earthquakes. Many refugees from the destroyed towns are living in tents and the shelter of hilly. The Red Cross has set up refugee camps in the northern provinces, but present accommodations are not sufficient for the thousands of homeless.

"Travellers arriving in San Juan, Puerto Rico, from the Dominican Republic, add virtually no details to reports of wild chaos, which had a population of 1,000 reported washed away by the tidal wave and that the destruction was equally severe in Julia Molina and San Francisco De Macoris.)

Attempts by the government to rush food to the stricken areas have been seriously hampered by the washing out of roads and bridges by flooded rivers. The food shortage is particularly acute around Bahia Escocesa, where there is also an acute shortage of clothing and medicines, authorities said.

DRAWFED BY NEWEST SKY GIANT

The sleep, silvered XB-36, U. S. newest and the of the world's largest land-based bomber, completely dwarfs a war-veteran B-29 Superfortress on the Convair, Fort Worth, Texas, division ramp. The giant plane completed its first test flight of 35 minutes recently during army air force material command officers looked on. Wing span of the XB-36 is 230 feet compared with 141 feet for the B-29; length of the new bomber is 163 feet, the B-29 99 feet; XB-36 has a maximum range with bomb load of 10,000 miles, the Superfort's a 4,100 miles with bomb load. The new plane's take-off is 18,000 horsepower as compared to the B-29's 8,500.

Strike-Caused Shortages Threaten Canadian Industry

Toronto, Aug. 10 — (CP) — J. S. Duncan, president of Massey-Harris Company, Ltd., plants in Toronto, Brantford, Ont., and Woodstock, Ont., said last night these points have been closed down for a minimum of three weeks because of the strike-caused shortages of steel and other vital materials.

As manufacturers and distributors here warned that danger of industrial paralysis throughout Canada increases each day the strikes in steel, rubber and electrical plants continue, another report from Hamilton said more than 1,000 Industrial workers have been laid off in the last few weeks alone because of strikes.

From Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., it was learned that lack of steel and other products manufactured by the strike-bound Algoma Steel Corporation had led to restriction of operations of other industries in that city to the layoffs of 400 men in all. The other industries affected are Dominion Plate, Northern Foundry, Sault Structural Steel, Industrial Welding Ltd., and Industrial Boat Building, Tractor and Trailer Corporation.

In the same district, electrical industry strikes have hampered operations of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company and the Great Lakes Power Company.

Strikes in Hamilton in the steel, electrical, rubber industries directly affect 10,500 men and are starting to cut production in fabricating plants.

The steel and electrical strikes have caused National Steel Car Company in Hamilton to lay off approximately 800 men, and R. S. Hart, company president, said last night he did not see how the company could get into its stride again until the strike-bound plants were again in full production. C. O. Flowers, superintendent of Canada Iron Foundries, Ltd., said 75 of his firm's 300 workers had been laid off owing to a shortage of pig iron.

Closing of the Massey-Harris plants in Toronto, Brantford and Woodstock affects about 5,000 employees. J. S. Duncan, company president, said that for the last six months more than 50 per cent of Massey-Harris suppliers have been on strike. He added:

"The steel strike, coming on top of the others and tying up an industry upon which implement manufacture is so vitally dependent has made it impossible for us to carry on."

A survey of executives in several other industries showed that the following week-end many like that if the steel, rubber, brass, motors, glass and electrical strikes are not settled soon.

Said Ralph Pepall, executive vice-president of a large steel-distributing company (Samuel Sons and Company, Ltd.):

"One by one the ramifications of the supply shortage will broaden until there is chaos. We have just got a parcel of galvanized sheet metal in the place . . . and building of homes will stop . . ."

Most Modern Highway in Canada To be Built From Toronto to Barrie

By GEORGE FORSTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 10. (CP— The most modern highway in Canada is being built between Toronto and Barrie. The new 30-mile four-lane, sealed-access highway will enable motorists to drive from Fort Erie on the United States border to Barrie, gateway to a vast playground of mountains and pass through only one urban area.

But even the most optimistic Ontario Highways Department officials won't hazard a guess as to when this dream will be realized. If supplies were adequate and the weather ideal, 2,000 men could finish the job in six months. But there are enough uncertain factors to delay the completion until late in 1947, or even until 1948.

More than 800 men now are working on preliminary grading. The first section of the superhighway is ready for motorists, 1,250,000 truck loads of earth must be excavated; 1,200,000 square yards of concrete must be laid and 800 post holes dug for the more than 90 miles of fences.

Extreme congestion of No. 11 Highway, leading north from Toronto, necessitated construction of the new road. Highway officials say the sealed-access type of highway eliminates all accidents except those caused by careless drivers.

Stretching from Weston, on the northwest outskirts of Toronto, to Barrie, the route will lie midway between the present No. 11 and No. 27 highways. The route follows the hot lines of the latter between farms to minimize property damage and to eliminate purely local traffic. The new road lies clear because of the impracticability of transforming existing roads into sealed-access highways.

Only access to the road will be at the junctions of southern ends and at controlled clover-leaf intersections spaced approximately five miles apart. Special entrances and exits will be built into the clover-leaves, allowing motorists to sift in and out of the traffic stream without interruption.

Overhead and southbound lanes, each 40 feet wide, are to be divided by a 16-foot-wide boulevard. Near Weston, a special cut-off will divert through traffic south and east to the Queen Elizabeth Way, spanning Fort Erie and Niagara. Another feeder line will carry westbound traffic across the northern fringe

Townspeople Describe Storm as Tornado, Five-Minute Blow Causes Heavy Damage

Dutton, Ont., Aug. 10 — (CP)— A high wind described by townspeople as a tornado swept through this Elgin county village 25 miles southwest of London, Ont., early today, disrupting hydro and telephone services, uprooting trees and causing extensive damage to many buildings.

First reports indicated no persons were injured.

The wind, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, left the village of about 800 partially isolated.

Streets were blocked by dozens of fallen trees and an estimated 40 telephone and hydro poles were levelled in the eastern section of the community. Telephone lines were reported down from Dutton half way to Wallacetown, 26 miles distant.

The storm was part of a violent electrical storm which struck many points in Southern Ontario.

In London an eight year old boy, William Scott, was burned when lightning struck his bed set the mattress ablaze. He was taken to hospital suffering undetermined injuries.

Only one building in the business section of Dutton was damaged—the Miller Pea Grain. The front of the building was blown into the centre of the street when a sudden gust of wind struck it.

Residents said the storm struck at 12:15 a.m. and lasted only five minutes. Most of the damage was reported to be in the residential area, where many roofs and verandahs were smashed by the tumbling trees.

Within a few hours repair crews were on their way to Dutton from outside points to help local repairmen restore communications. Townspeople joined forces to clear the litter of debris.

No estimate was available of the damage caused by the storm.

San Francisco Business Man Marries Negress

San Francisco, Aug. 10 —(AP) Dustin Woerner, 78, wealthy San Francisco business man, said today he married Juanita Smith, 45-year-old Negress, in Albuquerque, N.M., after a recess of 30 years, in order to get a birth certificate" for their 15-year-old daughter.

The story was revealed after the couple returned here by plane from their Thursday wedding.

The San Francisco Examiner quoted Woerner as saying: "In 1916 I was married to Juanita's mother. She died, I married this woman. She is the mother of my child. It was the honorable thing to do."

He said Mrs. Woerner lived a block away from his own residence.

At her address she hurled disparages of water at a reporter and said, "Leave me alone."

Woerner was divorced by his first wife, Lillian, for the second time in 1914. In 1931 she obtained an interlocutory decree, but they were remarried in 1931.

Cabinet Statement On Palestine Policy Will Outline Plans

Determined to Clamp Down On Illegal Immigration

Drew Believes In Federal System Of Government

Kenora, Aug. 10 (CP)—A blunt warning that the Dominion government has been overloaded with work "to the point of breakdown" was given by Ontario Premier George Drew in an address here last night. Coupled with the warning was an assertion of Ontario's belief in the federal system of government.

The occasion was a banquet honoring the Ontario Premier on the first day of a visit to northern Ontario centres.

He said there was now ample evidence that the Dominion government House of Commons and Commons' Committees were finding it difficult to dispose of business they are called upon to handle. The remedy would be found in returning to well established principles of the federal system and leaving to provincial governments and provincial legislatures responsibility for dealing with local affairs.

This would relieve the central government of a great many detailed tasks which would be dealt with more improperly by governments and legislatures, while at the same time provincial, territorial and international affairs which are their responsibility.

The premier challenged what he called "planned propaganda" to this effort that Ontario has been unwilling to adopt measures which would strengthen the hands of the Dominion government in meeting the important problems which Canadians must face.

Concerning the attitude of the Prairie Provinces, Premier Drew said: "A great deal of false propaganda has been directed to convey the impression that Ontario has opposed their interests. This is untrue. The proposals of the Ontario government in this matter for every province than were the Dominion proposals, from the financial point of view, giving to each province the financial and economic independence."

The impression that Ontario adopted a selfish attitude in relations with the less populous provinces, particularly in parliamentary representation," the Premier said, "We made it perfectly clear at the dominion-provincial conference that Ontario wished to see the powers of its natural resources with provinces that have not the same financial resources."

He urged continuation of the work of the dominion-provincial committee and formation of a "permanent inter-governmental secretariat at Ottawa, coordinating the activities of all Canadian governments.

Hunting Seasons To Be Curtailed To Protect Game

Ottawa, Aug. 10 (CP)— Resources Minister Glen announced today that in no part of Canada will the fall hunting season for waterfowl extend 2 1-2 months this year.

Reflecting a sharp reduction in the numbers of wild ducks in North America, his statement disclosed increased protective provisions in the hunting laws and regulations and followed even closer consultations between officials of the days ago for the United States.

Mr. Glen said shooting hours would be limited to the period from half an hour before sunrise to half an hour after sunset. Reductions in bag limits for both ducks and geese were announced.

The hunting seasons for waterfowl will begin at various dates across the country but nowhere earlier than Sept. 1.

FARMER BEMOANS COONS' APPETITE FOR NICE SWEET CORN

First it was corn-borers, then it was raccoons, now it is the moaned a 6th concession of Sidney farmer this morning after looking at his ruined crop of corn in his corn field on Friday.

The coons are raiding hob and getting fat at the expense of the farmer's crop. They have raised part of a large field and if I don't get a coon dog pretty soon, or a machine gun I'll be minus a lot more plenty more."

The coons he claims, do not wilfully destroy more than is necessary, but in his estimation if the ear is too high for them to reach, they break down the stalk to bend the husks and nibble at the kernels.

If the ear is low enough, they merrily reach up and tear it off the stalk.

Locally grown field tomatoes dropped to a low at 85 cents per six-quart basket on the local produce market on Thursday as district farmers sought to realize on high prices before the opening of canning factories.

Eggs held firm at 50 cents the dozen for grade "A" and for a few extras brought 55 cents. The fowl offering was on a large but prices for broilers held at 45 cents with mature fowl prices ranging from 40 to 45 cents.

The outside market was well attended with garden vegetables and other produce being profuse. Cucumbers, selling at 25 cents the peck, corn on the cob at from 40 to 50 cents the dozen ears and bunched vegetables at regular prices.

301 Polio Cases Under Treatment In the Dominion

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada today had 301 cases of infantile paralysis under treatment — more than four times as many as during all of 1943 and less than one-tenth of the 3,700 of the epidemic year 1937 — the Canadian Press showed.

Montreal, the Dominion's largest city, still was the hardest hit with 156 cases, an increase of 11 over yesterday's total, and health authorities there predicted they expected the situation serious.

Elsewhere in Canada the incidence of the disease, against which authorities say is most apt to strike down children, was not as great but health officials urged precautions.

Dr. Adelard Groulx, director of the Montreal Department of Health, said it was too early to consider whether autumn school openings would be delayed. There was no indication that attendance in other provinces had dropped because of this week's day-to-day increase in polio cases.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, whose 1937 epidemics was severe and where a combined polio and encephalitis (sleeping sickness) epidemic caused almost 100 deaths in 1941, had a total of only 56 cases, a two-case increase brought the Ontario total to 67.

Up 56 From Friday

The total of 301 was up 56 from yesterday's total but there were not 56 new cases in the last 24 hours. The survey showed that, while some were new, it was apparent that many cases had not been accounted for in press reports earlier this week.

A more serious outbreak of polio in the United States — more than 5,000 cases are being treated — was seen as a danger in some Canadian border communities. But in Windsor, Ont., near Detroit, the total of 20 cases was not increased yesterday.

Detroit authorities banned hydrant "baths" for children and said the "sudden chilling is a contributing factor to poliomyelitis." In New England, a serious outbreak was reported from the area London, where 17 persons have been stricken with polio.

Canada's 301 cases were spread across the country as follows:

Nova Scotia, three; New Brunswick, 12; Quebec, 184 (Montreal, 156; Three Rivers, 17; Shawinigan Falls, 10; Quebec City, one); Ontario, 67 (including Windsor, 20; Toronto, 16; Ottawa, five; Sarnia, four); Manitoba, 10; Saskatchewan, five; Alberta, 20.

There were no polio cases in British Columbia or Prince Edward Island.

Of the 156 persons being treated in Montreal hospitals, 89 were from points outside that city.

Dr. J. T. Phair, Ontario Deputy Health Minister, said most province's total of 67 was "higher than last year" but "fewer cases in 1944."

Toronto Youth Arrested Inside Service Station

Kenneth Wiggins, aged 19, of Toronto, is charged with breaking and entering following his appearance in Belleville Tuesday morning at Clarke's Service Station on Dundas Street shortly after 6 o'clock Saturday morning.

Investigation of a break-in which had occurred earlier during the night at the Goodrich service station on Dundas Street, interested police in the apprehension of Wiggins. The Goodrich station is directly behind the service station from the Clarke station.

A check-up by the proprietor of the Clarke station revealed that nothing had been taken at the Goodrich station, but entrance had been made to open the safe as the combination dial had been knocked off, presumably with a hammer. Entrance to both stations is gained through a rear window with Wiggins believed by police to be connected with both robberies.

Provincial Police Officers Sampson and Detective Sergt. Dixon assisted P.C. Warring in the apprehension of Wiggins who was arraigned before Magistrate Clarke on Monday.

McFarland to Race Class D Runabout At Valleyfield

Harvey McFarland Jr., of Picton, whose mother is the former Miss Steffen, Grand Island, New York is the lone Bay of Quinte driver to have featured the district regattas during the past ten days, has left for Valleyfield, Quebec, where he will again take up the racing career which he has followed during the last race meet of the Canadian Vacation Circuit of the Canadian Power Boat Association.

McFarland, driving the Lloyd Hicks-built "Eugene" has won eight first places, two second and one third in his four outings with Steffen's "Sea Imp" while the Belleville boat has gathered four firsts and four seconds in competition with his youthful opponent and others in his class.

Garnet Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hicks accompanied McFarland to the Quebec racing centre and will assist with the mechanical care of the "Eugene" experienced some engine trouble during the Rotary Regatta here, but it is hoped repairs will be such that she can win in the last meet of the regatta circuit year.

City Resident Hurt in Crash

Traffic was tied up for the better part of an hour Friday night on Dundas Street, West, near the Albert College as a hydro pole crashed to the pavement after being struck by a car driven by Roddy Cameron, son of Judge and Mrs. C. A. Cameron, Queen Street.

According to police the driver was coming east when in some manner the car left the pavement and struck the hydro pole. The car then continued across the sidewalk and struck a tree before being brought to a standstill.

The injured motorist was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital in Bush's ambulance suffering from facial and possible chest and back injuries. The car was seriously damaged.

Search Neighborhood For Escaped Convict

Kingston, Aug. 10—(CP)—Ontario Provincial police and Kingston penitentiary guards today are searching nearby areas for Cranberry Lake, Ont., and Brewer's Mills Out, for Henry La Fortune, who escaped from the penitentiary farm here Aug. 2.

Prof. T. V. Lord, of Queen's University, who has a summer cottage near Brewer's Mills, telephoned tp La Fortune Thursday and made an effort to keep him long enough to permit the arrival of police summoned by Mrs. Lord, however, La Fortune dashed into the bush behind and disappeared. Prof. Lord said La Fortune still wore penitentiary clothes.

Other residents said they had seen him in the area. Police said several cottages were broken into and food and other supplies stolen, traces of which were found in a nearby camp in which La Fortune had apparently been living. La Fortune was last seen Saturday on Highway 15, heading towards Smiths Falls, Ont., police reported.

Three Brief Storms Cause Some Damage in District

Three brief but severe storms accompanied by a heavy driving rain swept over the city and district late Friday night leaving a burned barn, damaged crops and disrupted hydro systems in their wake.

The first storm struck about midnight, with the second thundering out of the west about 2.30 a.m. and the third sweeping over the area in the vicinity of 4.45.

A large barn and contents owned by Sherman White, Bloomfield, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

A survey of the district revealed that the rain drove down with terrific force in some sections. A farmer on the sixth concession of Sidney township stated that corn in one of his fields was literally washed out of the ground.

Branches and heavy limbs were ripped from trees in many places. Trenton reported that the storms while of brief duration were the worst since 1916. Trees were down in the Hallowsy district, and tree debris littered the streets in Picton.

Power Affected

Flickering lights in the city as early as 2.30 in the afternoon heralded the approach of the storms and for a period of fifteen minutes power was shut off completely.

District reports state that power was affected in most parts with thunderheads without lights for some time previous to the arrival of the first storm.

Power went off in Amelisburg at 1.30 in the afternoon for considerable time and later reports stated that a number of spale trees were blown down by the force of the wind.

Foxboro, Bloomfield and other nearby centres reported plenty of rain with slight power interruption.

City Used Record of 104 Million Gallons Water During Dry July

An all-time high for the amount of water pumped at the Belleville water purification plant was established during the hot and dry month of July, it was announced today by Orwald H. Scott, public utilities manager.

During the month a total of 104,410,000 gallons of water was pumped, an amount which exceeded by 12,441,000 gallons, the previous high monthly pumpage which occurred in August, 1944.

In addition to the above quantity of water pumped to the city, there had to be filtered 8,881,900 gallons of water back washing the filters. Thus the filters were called upon to handle 113,291,900 it was stated.

PRE-PROROGATION

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) and E. B. Jolliffe (PC — Kamloops) spearheaded their party's drive to have the powers of the Board limited.

Members from practically all sections of the country participated in the debate on the beautification of Canada's capital.

May Increase Members

They spoke on a bill increasing from 15 to 18 the number of members on the federal district commission. It would also increase from $200,000 to $300,000 the annual grant to the commission whose task it is to supervise the beautification of the city.

Mr. Macdonnell said there apparently was nothing in the bill directing the commission how the gallons during the month.

Long-term plans of the Highway Department call for a four-lane highway from Toronto to the Quebec border as well as from Fort Erie to Barrie. Extension of the highway north from Barrie is still in the planning stage and final details as to route and type of road have not been worked out.

money should be spent. They might start on projects which before the war would have cost hundreds of millions.

T. L. Church (PC — Toronto Broadview) urged that the bill be left over until next session so members could not the time for expenditures such as contemplated.

Ross Thatcher (CCF — Moose Jaw) said the beautification could be termed a "luxury" while irrigation and other projects were needed in the west could not be placed in that category.

Sheold Beautify Country

R. R. Knight (CCF — Saskatoon City) said the whole countryside should be beautified. He had no objection to the beautification of Ottawa, but he would not contribute five cents towards any plans that would leave standing along highways and elsewhere glaring commercial signs.

C. Jaques (Labor — Temiskamaing) urged a fireproof library be made part of the beautification plans. Frank Lennard (PC — Hamilton Wentworth) urged the building of a new mint.

Fickering lights in the city as Monday by Mr. Macdonnell and others.

Russia Reserves Right in Austria To Veto Control

By JAMES M. LONG

Vienna, Aug. 10 —(AP)— A Soviet about-face on the nationalization of industry threatened today to disconcert Austrians, as the Russians bluntly "reserved the right" to invalidate four-power control by following a separate set of rules for their own occupation zone.

Col.-Gen. L. V. Kurasov, Russian commander in chief, last night declared for a showdown by demanding an Allied veto of Austrian nationalization legislation as an "artificially set," after having supported it on a general communist principle until discovery that it would nationalize several eastern Austrian assets in the Soviet zone which the Russians now claim as their own.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, United States Commander in Austria, refused to comply with the Russian demand. He announced flatly that he would withhold his veto. Unless the commanders reach mutual veto legislation, it becomes effective by default in 31 days.

Gen. Clark said his government recognized the right of Austria to nationalize industry, including that of foreigners, provided it does not discriminate. Foreigners in Austria were not clear because Gen. KKurasov has refused to discuss the definition of German assets under the broad terms of the Potsdam agreement.

Ready to Draft Report to Govt.

By JACK WILLIAMS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 19 — (CP) — The Commons Industrial Relations Committee today went into what most members hoped would be the final day of evidence before it should draft a report to parliament.

The agenda was a heavy one. It included further questioning of Harper Wheeler, Montreal, and the examination of officers of three unions which have filed briefs from the union.

Questioning of one of those officers, Mark Starr, International representative of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) was completed the entire night session of the committee yesterday.

George Burt, Windsor, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) and C. S. Jackson, Toronto, Canadian director of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) are still to be called.

The committee members also have a good many questions they of Toronto to the east and meet the halfway in Montreal near Rouge Hills. It is proposed to build a 400-mile toll road to link with downtown Toronto.

Construction of the new road marks post-war resumption of the province's four-lane highway program which began with the building of sections of the Queen Elizabeth highway. Work on that road was chosen for immediate construction because the recently built section of highway dating from the Queen Elizabeth Way were causing grave concern on the part of ready-crowded roads leading north from Toronto.

Britain Ends 64-Year Occupation of Citadel

Cairo, Aug. 10 —(AP)— Great Britain's 64-year occupancy of the Citadel, built 700 years ago by a Sultan who fought the Crusaders, ended today when King Farouk raised the green and white flag of Egypt over the site.

Premier Sidky Pasha broadcast that the Citadel had been the first Egyptian fortress occupied by British and was the first evacuated, as part of a complete withdrawal promised by the British government. A new Anglo-Egyptian treaty is being negotiated.

Cannon boomed and Egyptian piloted Spitfires overhead as the plump young monarch, dressed as an Egyptian general, kissed the colors and hoisted them to the top of the staff towering over the ancient stronghold.

Representatives of other Arab states, some wearing headdress and robes, and diplomats from Iran and Afghanistan joined the Egyptian army and Egyptian officials in the pageant beneath a blazing sun.

Exhibit by Canadian Artists Viewed Favorably by Philadelphian Critics

By MICHAEL O'HARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Philadelphia, Aug. 10 (CP)—Canadian actors succeed on their merits in New York and Hollywood, Canadian writers get a fair hearing in the United States, but exhibits of Canadian painting are rare in American galleries.

Philadelphians, however, have had a chance this summer, to look at what one type of Canadian artists—the water colorists—are doing. They like it.

The annual spring show of the Philadelphia Water Color Club features a number of Canadian works selected by H. O. McCurry, director of the National Gallery at Ottawa, and critics have been generous in their praise of the exhibitors while local art-lovers came in greater numbers than usual to the exhibit.

The Canadians' work on display hes falls roughly into two categories: that inspired by the countryside and that distinctively Canadian in content.

In the latter group perhaps the most striking painting is the forest-field study, "The Fence, Haliburton," by G. Roland Hood of Toronto. Mr. Kettle has caught the pioneers' fight to clear ground and set it with pictorial drama.

Other notable Canadian scenes are "Drying Nets" by Peter Haworth of Toronto, a bit of fine brown-and-white design; "Street in Winter, St. John," by Jack W. Humphrey of St. John, N.B., with a realism seldom seen in water-color; and Charles Goldhammer's "Street Scene, Quebec," an expert use of contrasting shades.

Not necessarily Canadian, in inspiration but falling outside the gear group, "Traffic" by David Miles of Toronto drew considerable comment.

Turning to the battle pictures, among the best is the "Church of St. Hommage, Ortona" by Maj. Charles F. Comfort of Toronto. Maj. Comfort has seen the desolation in the wake of war clearly and got it onto paper deftly.

Abstractions and social-significance pictures are not widely represented although Pegi Nicol of Ottawa and Fritz Brandtner of Montreal have a pair of paintings on view that might be so classed.

The best thing in show is not in the paintings themselves—the standard is very uniform and some of the work bears marks of warfare—but in the interest it has given this art-condition town in Canadian painters. Those who have seen it now want to see more Canadian work.

Employment of Municipal Recreational Directors Expected to be Factor In Decrease of Juvenile Delinquency

Toronto, Aug. 10 (CP)— The number of municipal recreational directors in Ontario has increased enormously in the past year, with more than 30 now appointed as full-time officials in various towns and cities in the province. The desire to halt the increase in juvenile delinquency and a cooperative spirit derived of necessity in wartime has aroused community interest to develop recreational facilities, a Canadian Press survey shows. Although several centres—such as Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie and Cornwall—have had certain recreational programs for a number of years, until recently few had full-time directors.

Edward Daughtery, recently named recreational director for Ottawa, is typical of the men chosen for these jobs. Daughtery is a veteran of the former World War and his experience includes three years as playground supervisor for the Ottawa Playgrounds Department and some time as a director of camps for boys sponsored by the Ottawa Community Chest Organization.

Sault Ste. Marie has had a program of sports, particularly emphasing hockey, since 1935, when W. J. Edwards became unofficial supervisor for eight outdoor rinks. As the work increased he was found necessary to appoint a full-time director, and George Wallace took over the job. Last year Moose Jaw, Sask., playground director, Walter Hall, was appointed recreational lins. His job is mainly with children up to 15 years in the 12 city playgrounds and emphasizes hockey, baseball and basketball. Skating is high with as many as 1,500 using the rinks every day and the city has been host to juvenile delinquency cases are almost unknown in Sault courts.

Theodore Lambert, Welland's latest appointed recreational director, has just returned from four years work as Y.M.C.A. war services supervisor. The program he plans is for all age groups and will include all types of athletic and cultural recreation. Waterloo made Jack Dahmer full-time director this year to supervise the youth centre which was started by the Kinsmen Club two years ago. More than 200 youths under 12 years belong to the centre and the record of only two juvenile delinquency cases last year is felt to be the result of this recreational program.

Toronto has had a recreational program for almost 40 years though only this year has there been a director appointed on a full-time basis. Oscar Pearson has the task of supervising the city's many playgrounds and the 130,000 persons of all ages who last year participated in the program. He has spent many years with the Y.M.C.A. and was overseas in both wars organizing recreational activities for service organizations like Kiwanis or the Y.M.C.A. in Canada and overseas.

Salaries range from $1,800 to $4,500 a year as paid either by the municipality alone or in combination with a provincial grant. Many will grant up to $2,100 to help a community pay for a director with the province to pay 50 per cent of the operating and maintenance costs up to $400. Results are hard to predict especially as the majority of the schemes are relatively new. Few officials would say whether juvenile delinquency had dropped because of the program, but communities such as Waterloo, Sault Ste. Marie and Timmins do report a decline coincident with the development of recreational facilities.

Memorial to Col. John McCrae

In Guelph this week there was unveiled a memorial to Col. John McCrae, who wrote the lines of that memorable poem which has become a classic, "In Flanders Fields." Minister of Veterans Affairs the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, who is a descendant of the Clan McCrae, was present and said this tribute to a native of Guelph was "a great task accomplished."

Col. John McCrae was the author of other poems of note but to the people of Canada and the Empire and to the United States, the poem "In Flanders Fields" will always be his greatest work.

It possesses the truest essence of poetry — it is truth and it is inspiration itself. Like all great art it has universal qualities. Yet in clear cut, it is written from the deepest motives of human conduct, and it possesses a rhythm that is in tune with the human spirit.

In the latter days of the First World War it was a ringing challenge to the democratic nations and to every citizen of these nations not to fail in the cause. In the period between the two wars while the aggressive Germany waged against the free people, it was still a challenge for the peoples to be on guard for freedom's sake. In the recent struggle it was a ringing call that stirred men everywhere into action — to down the tyrant and aggressor. In these post-war days it is as true as ever — it is the inspiration of the people and of those who attend the peace conference.

Born of the bitter conflict of war in the second decade of the twentieth century it touches the heart by the depth of the emotion with which Col. McCrae, himself a victim of the First World War, viewed the irrevocable loss of the best of the nation's manhood and freedom's great debt to those who served and fell. Much needed was his warning at the time of the last war — wars to "take up our quarrel with the foe." Time proved it also true in the second of the wars.

World Food-Shortage

The British White Paper on the food shortage points out that there is considerable drop in the average consumption of calories per head for April to June this year. The United Kingdom figure has dropped somewhat below the 2,850 calories of April. The British ration is limited by fifty calories to 3,100. Denmark and Sweden show a reduction of 50 daily. France, Belgium, Holland and Norway remain at 2,200 to 2,500. The figure under UNRRA will exhibit the greater range of course — 1,700 to 2,400, and Germany remains at 1,600 to 1,800. Canada remains at the 3,000 level and Australia has risen from 2,900 to 3,000.

As for the bread ration that of 4½ to 5 ounces weekly is below that of all European countries, except Sweden, Italy and Germany the White Paper says. It however points out that the nation is more necessary in making comparisons as some peoples are far more dependent upon bread for their diet than others. In fact in spite of successive sacrifices in the United Kingdom and lack of variety as compared with pre-war standards, the average consumption in the United Kingdom of the more desirable foods, such as meat, fats and sugar, is considerably above the general European level and closer to that of the overseas exporting countries. The current U. K. consumption is eighty per cent of pre-war for meat and fats and seventy per cent for sugar.

Comparative figures for Canada, U.S.A., meat 120, fats and sugar 90; Canada, meat 110, fats 90, sugar 70; Australia, meat and fats 80, sugar 90; Sweden, meat 110, fats 70, sugar 90; France, meat 80, fats and sugar 70; Greece, meat 50, fats 80, sugar 70; Germany, meat 30, fats 25, sugar 40.

The White Uaper goes on to pay tribute to the equitable distribution of food in the United Kingdom as compared with other countries. Not only has luxury feeding been greatly restricted but many families now have a better diet than they could afford in the days of apparent plenty before the war. Though the average reduction in supplies has been fifteen to twenty per cent, it has been smaller for the less well-off sections of the community.

The paper points out that substantial contributions made by Britain towards the urgent needs of the hungry countries. From D-Day to the end of June this year nearly two million tons of foodstuffs were sent to Continental Europe from stocks in the United Kingdom by diversion of supplies on the way to the United Kingdom. Of these wheat and flour accounted for 833,000 tons, other cereals, biscuits and pulses nearly 300,000 tons, oils and fats, sugar and syrup for over 200,000 tons; canned meat, with fish, dairy produce for over 200,000 tons and potatoes 305,000 tons.

The total includes 130,000 tons of cereals from an emergency loan made by the United Kingdom Government, subject to replacement from the U.S.A. A further 70,000 tons from this loan went to India and South Africa.

At the beginning of this year the United Kingdom wheat and flour import program was reduced by 215,000 tons for the first six months of the year. More recently, the United Kingdom Government agreed to a reduction of 200,000 tons in wheat and flour import requirements for May to September.

The result of these contributions has been a reduction in stocks of food and feeding stuffs in the United Kingdom from 5,400,000 tons in June last year to 3,700,000 tons this June. By the end of August stocks are expected to fall to about 3,400,000 tons, i.e., 2,000,000 tons less than at the end of the war.

Among measures taken to reduce the requirements of the United Kingdom this year has been a progressive raising of the wheat flour extraction rate from eighty to ninety percent, a reduction in the weight of the loaf from two to one-and-three quarter pounds, a reduction of the biscuit manufacture by 50 per quarter, a reduction in fats and sugar allocations for cakes and a fifteen percent cut in beer production. An anti-waste publicity campaign was launched and bread consumption in restaurants strictly controlled. Finally, as the above measures were not enough to guard against a possible distribution breakdown in view of the present stocks and prospects, rationing, including bread, was introduced from the 21st of July with a basic ration of nine ounces of bread or its equivalent, daily.

Germans Train British

Strange outcome of the war in this topsy-turvy age of atomic energy may be the winning of Olympic medals by British athletes trained in Berlin by German coaches and physical culture experts.

Within the magnificence of Berlin's Olympic Stadium, British occupation troops are running, jumping and hurling weights about in an effort to keep fit and to cheat monotony.

They have not only the finest track in the world on which to perform, but Germany's greatest coaches and doctors of physical culture have been employed. And whatever your opinion of Germans it is a fact that nowhere can be found more efficient or more skilful athletic coaches.

Arousing Bruce and Wallace

We do not think it will rise to a point of civil war, but the Scottish people are in near revolt because while there are shiploads of oatmeal, that staple of their existence is being fed to horses in England.

It is no new conflict. In his dictionary, Samuel Johnson defined oats as "A grass which in England is fed to horses, but in Scotland supports the people."

"Yes," was the Scottish answer, "and England is famous for its horses, while Scotland is famous for its men."

Newspaper Facts

Typical of the ingenuity of newspapermen, all four of the Wales daily newspapers, after they had been bombed out, contrived to publish all four editions on equipment built to handle only one.

A householder in Goderich the other day had milk delivered in a bottle which bore the name of a Charlottetown (P.E.I.) dairy. There appears to be free trade in milk bottles, but this one had travelled rather more extensively than most of its fellows, says Goderich Signal-Star.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HEART AND MIND

"I'd never have done as he!" they said
The gossips who stood apart.
"Fool! Why didn't he use his head
Instead of heeding his heart?"

"Fool! Why didn't he stop to think!"
The neighbors were heard to say.
But the heart will rush to disaster's brink
When the mind will stay away.

The gossips talk when the blunder's made.
To censure, the critics start.
On the mind of the failure the blame is laid,
Since never they read the heart.

FALL ARRAIGNMENT

William Hehrens, thrice-confessed killer, described as having a "Jekyll-Hyde" personality, is apparently unconcerned by the seriousness of his present predicament, as he smiles after learning that his assignment for the kidnap-slaying of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan and that of exWave Frances Brown had been continued until Sept. 4. Chief Justice Ward, who granted the continuance, was told that Dr. William Haines, director of Cook County Behavior Clinic, and Dr. Harry Hoffman, state alienist, will conduct an examination of the 17-year-old University of Chicago student's mind.

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

Arranged For Accommodation

Turner had arranged for accommodation at the principal's residence in Coe Hill, the same place at which Turner was boarding. Early in the month he occupied the same room and bed, witness stated.

The witness stated that the alleged offences started "possibly at the beginning of the opening of the school term."

In the cross examination by defence counsel the witness stated that at the time he did not know that his statements to Mr. Turner constituted a criminal offence. "Now that's why you replied "But I now understand that it was wrong."

"Do you realize that the evidence you are giving incriminates you as well?" asked Mr. Robb.

"Yes", was the reply.

On further questioning witness stated that he had been seen by the Provincial Constable Keays, the investigating officer, that he would not be charged.

Agreed to Face

"Did Constable Keays make suggestions to you as to what the facts" asked counsel and he was asked Mr. Robb. "Yes, he said I should act like a brother to the other boys and give the information possible."

The physical features did Constable Keays say Mr. Turner had committed against other lads, then suggest that he "become one same with you?" "Yes," was the reply.

At the same time he was summoned to appear in court witness stated he had believed Mr. Turner had not been charged with anything concerning him but that it was to give evidence in another case.

The charge against Mr. Turner indicated the alleged act had taken place on a night in the month of October, 1941, but witness under cross examination could not remember whether it was before or after Christmas.

Constable Testifies

Constable Keays testified as to Turner's arrest. The witness then stated that the accused had given a signed statement to him admitting the Card offence. Extracts from the statement were read in evidence.

"During the second year I was at Coe Hill," the statement read, "attending school at Coe Hill and he and Turner shared a room in the extract.

The incidents alleged in the charge against Mr. Turner, occurred with mutual consent, according to the accused's statement to police.

George Urbach was not called to the stand , to give evidence when his case against Mr. Turner was heard, committal for trial being made by Magistrate Wills following the evidence of constable Keays who read extracts from Turner's statement given to police. Robt. McCullough, counsel for Urbach on the request of agency yet to be heard, asked and received the protection of court for his client.

Gives Some Information

"There is another man in Coe Hill who should be stopped," an extract from Turner's statement to police read. "He gives liquor to young kids and I can see no use for him.

"Last fall, I think it was in November after a dance at Coe Hill, he got after me.

"What is his name?" the investigating officer had asked.

"George Urbach, but don't mention me as squealing on him because I am not a squealer. Urbach also invited me to his house but I never went," the extract concluded.

POISON IVY AGAIN

Although frequently and even recklessly exposed to poison ivy, one of my childhood I never had ivy poisoning until I was again exposed after an interval of several years, this time unknowingly (like a snake in the weeds it sneaked up on me while I was mowing the grass around a lakeside cabin, in my swimming trunks), and, boy, I can tell you now what variety of itch is the worst this side of a place I'm sure good doctors never go. It still rankles when I recall that it was right after my bout with ivy poisoning that the wonderful one-shot treatment (well, anyway, one, two or three shots) was introduced . . . a single hypodermic of the serum, injection of a homeopathic dose of ivy toxin or extract gray being relief within twenty-four hours, and it not, then a second dose, and sometimes a third shot the third day may be required to restore peace and stop at any rate the madness.

Not only the acute ivy poisoning, but the intolerable itching that persists or recurs for many months after the inflammation has healed, in some cases, responds to this treatment.

In this column recently several remedies for ivy poisoning were given—remedies reported by my readers.

I have a pamphlet on Ivy Poisoning available on written, signed request — slipping will not suffice—if you inclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

Now according to a news story, Australia is reading the one-man health magazine published by the U.S.A. and came across an article in which a health specialist advanced the theory that poison ivy affects only those who have been sensitized to it by previous exposure.

The theory is interesting. If the theory is sound, it would throw considerable light on what has always been a mystery to me—at least to me — why some persons like a snake in the weeds is so immunized and others so sensitive to ivy poisoning, and why an individual who has been insensitive for years finally proves highly sensitive.

If ivy poisoning is a matter of sensitization the seasonal immunization treatment would seem more applicable than ever — I mean taking a course of extremely attenuated or diluted ivy leaf tincture in homeopathic doses 3 times a day gradually increasing, for a few weeks before the season arrives. This immunizing treatment is described in detail in the pamphlet mentioned above.

Finally, this new theory of ivy sensitization suggests that to establish the claim of many that they have kept immune to ivy poisoning by rubbing ivy juice or using a wee bit of ivy leaf from time to time—frankly, I do not advise this in any circumstance—but if you try it you do so at your own peril.

What I don't know about sensitivity, sensitization, immunity, allergy, anaphylaxis would take a long time to tell. But I know this—every doctor knows that it is advisable when treating a patient an injection of tetanus (lockjaw) serum or antitoxin for example to give a second dose on injection within five to seven days after the first, the interval between the first dose and the second the effect is much more likely to be some unpleasant reaction. That's as much as I can tell about it, because I don't know any more about it.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Are there real mermaids?

Mermaids are mythical beings of the sea with the form of a woman above the waist and that of a fish below. According to mythology, these woman-like fish were allied to the sirens and nymphs of ocean classical lore, which they lured amorous men to destruction in the deep. The first element in "mermaid"—is from "mere" ("sea"—"mer"), and the term literally means "sea maid."

Most of the stories about mermaids were probably invented by sailors to amuse their families. It is not uncommon to find credulous people even today who believe in the existence of mermaids, and fake mermaids are frequently displayed at museums and other shows.

The physical basis of the myth perhaps lies in the fact that some species of manatees sometimes human beings when seen at a distance in certain attitudes. These, for instance, have a way of lifting their heads from the water with a human, perpendicular body, their faces, and the females hug their young to their bosoms much like human mothers.

When Henry Hudson was on a voyage between Spitzbergen and Nova Kembla in 1608, he reported that one June morning one of his sailors saw a mermaid who came close to the ship's side and gazed at them intently. Her face and breasts, wrote Hudson, were like a woman's, but below she was a fish as big as a halibut and had a tail like a porpoise's. Another of the sailors were not spinning a yarn to amuse their comrades, captain it is probable that what they saw was a seal, an animal with little known habits and appearance. A few years later Captain Richard Whitbourne reported seeing a mermaid in St. John's harbor on the Newfoundland coast. Whitbourne, like Hudson's sailors, was no doubt the victim of careless observation or an over-energetic imagination.

Glamour Hat by Evening

By FRUNELLA WOOD

MARILYN MAXWELL, besides being pretty enough to be in pictures for MGM, is also an excellent hat model. She has lovely blonde hair, but is willing to add a hat to it, which is a tip which a lot of other pretty girls might take if they had a fashion sense with it. And she does.

This big, lantern-shaped hat of black faille is a good wardrobe number, for it can be worn with tailored suits when unadorned, and turned into a glamor model for evenings by adding a lush veil.

Color For Youthful Date Dress

But it is hard to understand how you could have been so foolish as to marry this man while knowing so little about him. It does not by any means follow that just because a man has a plate in his head, he is necessarily incompetent. But you certainly should have checked with some one thoroughly familiar with his injury to make sure that in his particular case there was no danger of mental difficulty. It may be that this would account for his extravagant claims.

Even though so unfortunately late, I'd advise you to do some checking on this man before letting any more think is by-word. Certainly before you think of going overseas to join him. The Veterans' Administration Centre in your city should be able to tell you how to go about it, and you might also write to the man he claimed as a "boss" to see if this man has any knowledge of your husband. And obviously his own family would be the source of the most information.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Developed the Bust

No need of telling anyone, these days, that the composition of the female form—divine or not so divine—accents the bosom. Look at photographs in newspapers and magazines. The screen lovely sits erect, pushes forth her chest. We believe that this whimsy has gone a bit too far. Also, though we feel like a traitor to the sisterhood, we must reveal the fact that "falsies" are having a terrific sale. What are "falsies"? Guess. You're right.

With all the various types of brassiers and foundation garments, support or shaping of the breasts is easily accomplished. Designers have the uplift idea in mind, to conform to the standard of the moment. For the bust that has an inclination to cling against the chest, there are boned effairs. But the flat-busted girl hates them. She wants to grow her own beads. That this can be done by diligent treatment is true in some cases; in others nothing will avail. Nature made breasts of many patterns; the flat ones is as normal as the full one, though not as flattering to the silhouette.

The girl who would be buster can experiment with home treatment. No harm will be done if the manipulations are light; there is a possibility that tissues will become firmer and fuller.

Bathe the breasts with warm water, dry gently. Anoint the palms of the hands with cocoa butter. Rub round and round with slight upward pressure. While doing this, sit in a straight-backed chair; head on the level, chest lifted a high as ever you can get it. You do that by pulling up the spinal column, drawing in the abdominal muscles.

Following this with exercises designed to lift and lower the breasts. 1. Wing-flapping movement. Hands doubled on either side of the chest, elbows bent in circles. Forward movements for a time, backward movement and repeat. 2. Lantern-swinging. Double up the fists, swing them high, wide and handsome and far back. Stand while doing this one. Pause now and then to take several deep breaths. Do all this at night.

Every morning, stand before an open window, hands on hips, and breathe deeply.

"Falsies" are having a terrific sale

Sequence of Service at a Dinner Without a Maid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a dinner without a maid, is the hostess the first to be served, or should the guests be served first? Someone told me that the hostess serves herself first, then serves the guests, and last the host. Is this right?

E. H.

Whether the hostess or the host is doing the serving, the hostess should not be served first. First to be served by either host or hostess is the guest of honor, the woman seated at the host's right; then the lady seated at the host's left; and then the other women guests. If the hostess is serving, she serves next the men guests (first the man seated at her right, next the man at her left, then the other men guests) then the host, and last, herself. If the host is serving he serves the hostess after he has served the women guests; then the men guests, and last, himself.

His sequence in service, which so hospitably makes the proper and gracious bow to each guest at table, is just as easy and convenient as passing the plates without regard to quite sequence. Whoever is carving finds out the lady preference ("white or dark meat?", or "well done or rare?") and then indicates to whom the plate is to be passed, "This is for Mrs. Hall (or Margaret)", etc.

There Will be Ushers, But No Bridesmaids

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In my wedding party I am having a maid of honor, ring-bearer and flower girl, no bridesmaids. My fiance will give me in marriage. The groom is having a best man, and there will be two ushers. Will you please tell me the order of the processional? I would particularly like to know if the ushers take part in the processional, since I am not having any bridesmaids.

K.C.

Yes, the ushers should walk in the processional: they lead the procession, walking together. Next comes the maid-of honor, alone. Next may come the flower girl, alone, followed by the ring-bearer alone, or they walk down the aisle together. Last, you on your father's right arm.

Gift for Her Fiance's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance lives in another state, and I have planned to spend a weekend soon at his home. I have never met his parents, but I have corresponded with them and have spoken with them over the telephone. Would it be appropriate for me to bring his mother a gift? If so, what would you suggest?

J. M.

Yes, it would be appropriate, and I think a very nice idea, for you to take your fiance's mother a gift when you go to visit. Something that the chances are, she would welcome and enjoy: for example, a purse for general day-time wear, or a smaller purse for more "dressy" afternoon wear; some fine white handkerchiefs, perhaps monogrammed; cosmetics—or her purse or evening bag; a lovely scarf, for Summer or Winter; or if you know or can find out what she wears, a pair or two of nylons (if you can!).

However, you may, if you wish, take with you a gift for the family (a box of candy, box of various kinds of "sweets", an assortment of hors d'oeuvres or small jars of jams and jellies or other food-accessories; or one or two currently popular books, or a group of current magazines). Then, when you have had time and occasion to observe, during your visit what would be welcome as a thank-you gift, send this when you send your bread-and-butter letter.

Marrying in Haste Twice as Risky When It's a Wounded Veteran You Marry

"Marry in haste, repent at leisure", may be just about twice as true when you marry a wounded veteran about whom you know little or nothing.

Don't get me wrong now. It's one thing where a girl was engaged before her man was wounded, or at least was sufficiently acquainted with him, and his background, to know what kind of person he was; and where she fully understood the nature of his wounds, and what they would be up against in that respect after they were married.

But it's an entirely different matter when, after the briefest of acquaintanceships, she rushes into marriage with a man whose injuries are of a type that might conceivably have affected his whole personality, even his mentality. Under such circumstances, she may ignorantly be assuming a terrific liability instead of gaining a devoted husband, and risk her entire future happiness.

That is the position in which the girl who writes the following letter finds that she may have placed herself.

"Several months ago," she writes, "I married a soldier that I had known only a short while. I loved him very much. Having re-enlisted, he left for overseas one week after our marriage, and I am now living with my parents.

"He told me I was not entitled to an allotment, as the soldiers were given a $600 raise and that would take care of my support. I suppose I was too much in love to give it much thought at the time, but I have since investigated and found that soldiers were given no raise, and that I am entitled to an allotment. This makes me doubt everything he has told me.

"I know nothing about his family, but he is said to be in a distant city. He told me he owned a home in his home town and also a brick house. He calls one of the richest men in his town, nationally known his boss, and said he rode his horses in the races. Now that he is overseas, he writes me that he has a German car and radio, has bought a new trumpet and saxaphone, and that he has a beautiful room. He says he will

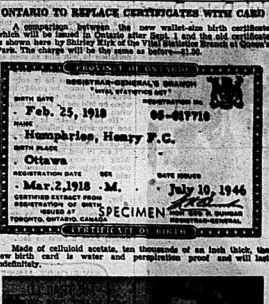
ONTARIO TO REPLACE CERTIFICATES WITH CARD

A comparison between the new wallet-size birth certificate which will be issued in Ontario after Sept. 1 and the old certificate is shown in a display by Miss Kirk of the Vital Statistics Bureau at Queen's Park. The charge will be the same as before—$1.50.



Made of celluloid acetate, ten thousands of an inch thick, the new birth card is water and perspiration proof and will last indefinitely.

This hydraulic press which Margaret Wilson is feeding subjects the cards to 20,000 pounds' pressure and 340 degrees heat. It turns out 300 daily.

First of the new cards is received by Municipal Minister Dunbar from his Registrar of Vital Statistics, R. B. Wallace. In the event registration cards are dispensed with, Ontario's new certificate would be invaluable for identification.

Miss Lorene Wilson Honored by Carrier Boys' Organization

Miss Lorene Wilson, a member of the staff of the Toronto Daily Star, and this city, was honored last evening, by the Carrier Boys' Organization of the Toronto Daily Star when a delightfully arranged party was held at the Y.M.C.A. Miss Wilson's popularity with the paper boys was revealed by the appreciation of the boys in remembering her unique interest in them. Jean and Kay Galbraith during the evening sang and gave several dances and song numbers which delighted their audiences as well. Jack Gilbert, Norah proved his versatility at the piano and the dancers for during which everyone heartily enjoyed. At the close of the programme the gifts were brought in and presented to Miss Wilson. The gifts were assembled for Miss Wilson and one of the boys for the lovely speech.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were followed after which the office manager and staff presented the bride-to-be with a lovely electric Mixmaster. Miss Wilson once more thanked her friends for their thoughtfulness and the evening was brought to a close.

V.O.N. News

For chronic patients those who are in bed all the time, or elderly patients who can get about a little but who cannot care for themselves, the Victorian Order of Nurses "chronic" service is greatly in demand. For a small fee the patient is visited about once or twice a week, according to their needs, are given baths and other attention by the nurses. In this way they have regular, expert nursing service and in the meantime those looking after them can give their whole care.

The service is not only valuable for the nursing care it affords but those who are confined to their beds day after day look forward with pleasure to the visit of the nurse whose cheerful presence is a welcome break in the routine of their week. And at the same time, the nurses very often find that such invalids, many of them suffering, have a special brand of humour and patience of their own to share with their visitors.

Such nursing treatment supplements the daily care given in the home and is of a more professional nature. With the first visit the nurse points out the necessary articles she will require and these are kept in readiness for her at all times.

WOOLER

Way Family Holds Reunion At Wellington

Wooler.—A very pleasant day was spent at Wellington on Wednesday when about sixty members of the Way family gathered for their reunion. The first reunion was held in 1922 and continued annually until 1941. Due to war conditions no reunion was held for five years.

Dinner was ready at one o'clock and all did justice to the bountiful supply of delicious food.

After dinner, the President, Mr. A. D. Way, of Picton, called the gathering to order and welcomed those present. After some community singing a brief business session was held when the Secretary, Mrs. J. J. Way, of Wooler, gave a report of the recent executive meeting held in Trenton and a report of expenses to date. The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. A. D. Way, B.R. 2, Picton; Secretary, Mrs. J. J. Way, Wooler; Executive Committee, Miss Bernice Way, Wooler; Mrs. K. Bird, Bellville; Mr. Ernest Anderson, Frankford; Mr. Merritt Adams, Consecon; Mr. Percy Way, R.R. 2, Trenton.

Mr. Glenn C. Way, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., family historian, gave an interesting address on the three pioneers who come to Northport, in 1800. They were Daniel Way, John Way and their cousin, Daniel B. Way.

A program of sports was enjoyed by the children under the capable leadership of Miss Prince Way, of Trenton.

The oldest person present was Rev. Rufus Garrett, of Wellington, and the youngest, Roger Harder, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Fawcett, of Los Angeles, Calif., came the longest distance.

The race for women over forty was won by Mrs. John A. Pile, of Newburg, and for those under forty by Mrs. Ernest Way, of Bethel. Mr. W. Latchford, of Mountain View, won the men's race.

Others present from a distance were Mrs. Alice Fawcett, Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Glen C. Way, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Mr. R. Puff, of Moose Jaw.

Letters of regret were received from many who were unable to be present this year.

Several of the family enjoyed a picnic supper together and as goodbyes were said, all departed feeling the outing had been a day well spent and looking forward to the family re-union next year.

What Happens When You Sit?

Actress Lynn Merrick sits straight to relax fastens her stockings.

BY HELEN FOLLETT

TELL ME, my paper friend, are you a pretty sitter? If you happen to be a teen-ager, it is possible that you sling into the chair, one unconscious of the fact that neither hands nor feet have taken on pleasing poses. It is well to be mindful of such matters. People do notice. Youth should always be at youth's loveliest.

Perhaps you have never given a thought to the purposes for which your back bone was intended. In normal position it has a neat, slip-it at the waistline. This curve is there why? one keeps the body tall. That is the graceful, energized, vibrant position. It throws the chest up, pulls in the abdominal flares, sends the hips back where they belong.

Sit Far Back

Sit far back in the chair. The more the thighs extend beyond the chair's edge, the more muscle strain there will be. Also, when sitting on the edge of a chair, one looks as if one were ready for flight.

In a straight back chair, the shoulders should touch the chair back; the waistline shouldn't.

Feet should be placed flat on the floor, their toes front, toes pointing straight ahead. From the knee to the foot there should be a straight line.

A wrong sitting picture will throw the shoulders forward. Keep the head balanced. Slumping in a chair weakens the muscles of the abdomen; now we are addressing the older students in this beauty school.

Bridge Player

The bridge player will suffer less fatigue, will be less likely to get late discomforts in her partner, if she will assume the correct sitting posture.

Look around you when next you are in a restaurant. You'll see some peculiar poses. Girls with their toes on chair rounds, a habit that indicates nervous tension. Girls with arms far on the table with the elbows close to etiquette Hoyle. Girls with feet sprawled far under the table. Or those with toes on the floor, thighs tipped, a position that puts a strain on the calves of the legs.

BANANAS BIG NEWS IN ENGLAND

All that Britons have known of the luscious fruit, the banana, is that they have to ripen in a certain way. They have seen little of them around for purchasing in years. All kinds of fruit, commonplace in Canadians, have been lacking in the British diet, so that when this group, sitting on the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral to enjoy the music of the Royal Marines were spotted by newspapermen, eating bananas, both the fruit and the crowd made headlines in British newspapers. P. S.—They refused to tell where newspapermen could buy some.

Fort St. John, B.C., Aug. 9 — (CP) — The Alaska highway's "moonstruck well" continues to baffle science. For ten months the well has been flowing true to form under close observation. It was sunk by the United States Army engineers to about 1,400 feet and gave plenty of water for some months. Then it became temperamental and started flowing with the moon.

Bill Westfall To Meet LaPorte In Main Bout

The Pride of Trenton", Bill Westfall, Trenton, will make his ring-lay-off, with make his return to the Hume Arena ring on Wednesday night according to word received from the Belleville Boxing Club today. "Boomer Willie", always a great favorite in this district, is getting his first five-round main event with LAC Rosario Laporte, the Italian boy who is presently stationed at RCAF Station, Mount Hope.

Laporte made his first appearance in the local ring last Wednesday night when he defeated Bill Westfall, Trenton manager and dropped the decision. It was a mighty willing scrapper and should make things more than interesting for Westfall, for Ernie Bullis at Mt. View feels quite sure that the Montrealer can take care of the big district when he finds his bearings. He's training hard for the go, as he is quite anxious to make his second Belleville start a winner.

In the semi-final, Bill Westfall and district 118 lb. champ, "Gus" Monteville will tangle with Toronto's Ernie Mascarin. Mascarin has been previously in Belleville and created a good impression when he decisioned immensely recently and figures to make Gus Monteville work. Mondeville has other ideas however after gaining a decision over Oshawa's Bowling in the last Wednesday's card. He is in the best of condition, all of which makes for a very interesting go.

Six other good bouts have been arranged featuring boxers from Trenton and Toronto, the starting time of the card has been changed to 8 and next Wednesday's show will get underway promptly at 8:30.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By George H. Carver, Sports Editor

Dispelling a lot of street rumors as to when and where the Kiwanis Juniors will enter the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns, OBA convener for this district Ernie Summers informed this desk this morning that the team will meet the Peterboro squad in the first round but the date has not been definitely set as yet.

The OBA has announced that Belleville will begin their start on Saturday, August 17, and that fact gave rise to a lot of interest that the local Juniors would play in the Littlest City on that date. Convener Summers states that no arrangements have been made with the Peterboro squad as yet, but in all probability the opening game will be played on that date in Peterboro.

He has been in touch with the Peter mentors but so far had no definite answer regarding the series. Belleville fans were of the opinion the first game would be played today, and no doubt some of them are on their way to Peterboro at this minute.

Official announcement regarding the series will be made in the Intelligencer the first part of next week, so that the fans will be assured of viewing the Junior stanzas can be lifted.

Summers states that the same condition exists in the other playings. Trenton Flyers are scheduled to meet Oshawa in the Intermediate "A" group, while Lindsay and Peterboro battle a clash with Picton meeting Napanee in another group. No other playdowns have been set for these groupings which are scheduled to get under way on August 21, have been completed.

That word "Kiwanis" sneaked into a paragraph of this pillar from Toronto and therefore, the much regatta sun or sumpin. Anyway it was not his evil eye and should have read Goodman Juniors. So sorree please.

Tows rumored along the Bay of Quinte stable today that Cobalt Speedy St. Louis has relinquished the master-and-driver job for the Kiwanis Junior baseballers. Nothing definite on the situation although the report came from what is usually regarded as an authoritative source. Scout 14 on the "Front Street patrol has it that Manager Summers has stated that Walt Grewar Jr., will be appointed to succeed to the coaching job for the blue and white youngsters.

Leo Goyer, hobbling along in a wheel cast the other day, refuses to let his morale be scuttled by the fact that he might be out of sport for the rest of his life. The guy has plenty of intestinal fortitude and still flashes that open smile. He's not downhearted over the issue, but deeply regrets the fact that his sports future may confine him to the bleachers and the sidelines.

Via mail comes a letter from Anthony T. Pascoe, 9 Schru Park, Buffalo, who says he has a colored team of baseballers called the "Black Bronco" under his coaching wing. Tony states the Barons are open for engagements and expect to take the road shortly. They recently played the London Majors before a crowd of 3,900 fans, and are claimed to be some punkins in the ball and ball. Any city or district team desirous of crossing baseball swords with the Barons at some future date are asked to contact Pascoe.

There'll be plenty of "hootin' and monolin' " down Lachine way on September 7 where the 87th annual Lachine Regatta conducted by the Caledonian Society of Montreal get under way. There's brew bright program o' dancin' for the babes and the grown-ups too including the Highland Fling, the Shean Trews (please, Sandy, what is that?), sword dances, hornpipes and the whatnots. There's pipin' events too for the lads and lassies, but the program can not to mention field and track events from dashes to tug-o'-war. Here's the low down and other events dear to the heart o' the Scottish.

GENTLEMEN ALL

There was some fine sportsmanship been here on Wednesday by drivers of various speedboats which took part in the Belleville Regatta off Massassa Park. Mr. W. Cummings, veteran mechanic from Alexandria Bay, N.Y., steered a boat in the first heat of the 3-litre hydroplanes, and was accordingly disqualified when the records were checked. Up to this point, Cummings had missed the incident and it was the boast of many that the "doc" had won the event and the Belleville Sargent. Gold Trophy.

Behind Robinson's boat roared the Prince Edward Gold Cup winner, Jim Bradford, from Barnesville, Ohio, driving his flaming red "Buckeye Baby", modified with a vengeance. In the wake of "Mr. Dockit" the Robinson mentor, Gerry Gagne and the buoy, but refused to report it to officials. A grand gesture and one that was later rewarded by circumstance.

In the Class D Runabout race youthful Harvey MacFarland, Jr. of Picton ran into some sudden trouble between heats, and other drivers, especially Jack Le Heup, Picton was driving the Hamilton Review, Jay Sprague owned boat, "Miss Jay", reasonably assisted MacFarland to the "Engine" back into racing condition. Both drivers received full and "Bargee" went on to take second place behind the flying wake-spray of Mike Steffen's "Sea Imp" from Grand Island, N.Y.

Grand gestures these. Small they appear, but symbolic of the splendid spirit that reigns among drivers of this outstanding summer water sport. Their example is one that is followed by many in other fields of athletic endeavor.

SACOS, newly - crowned city softball league champions meet Frank Sedore's Flashes, Monday night in the first game of a two-of-three series to decide which squad will represent the city in the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns. This was decided by the majority of the league

EDDIE ROBINSON PROVING WORTH TO THE ORIOLES

Regarded As One of the Finest Prospects in International League

(By The Associated Press)

His career interrupted by three years hitch in the United States navy, Eddie Robinson, hard-slugging first baseman of Baltimore Orioles is picking up where he left off in 1943 when he was regarded as one of the finest prospects in the International League.

Currently among the first five hitters in the individual batting derby and leading the league in home hits and runs batted in, Robinson apparently has lost none of his power that marked him as one of the finest young first baseman rookies four years ago.

Before the present campaign ends, Robinson should better his 1943 marks of 16 home runs and 100 runs batted in as he already has batted 34 round-trippers and driven 84 runners across the plate in 100 games.

The 6-foot-one-inch infielder sparked the Orioles to a 12-3 victory over Buffalo Saturday night by batting three four-baggers and knocking in three tallies.

The big Baltimore first baseman's three-point margin to half game ahead of Montreal Royals vaulted over Syracuse Chiefs into fourth place in the league standings. Red Wings, 12-3 while the Chiefs dropped a 6-4 contest to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Ken Holcombe limited the Wings to six scattered hits while his mates clubbed four Rochester pitchers for 12.

Toronto staged a four-run sixth-inning rally to down the Chiefs 6-4 in the only game that went the triple climaxing the uprising.

Montreal Royals, meanwhile, made it two-in-a-row over the Jersey City Giants by downing the Giants, 5-3.

The Royals rapped five markers in the first inning and never relinquished the verdict with three runs in the fifth. Tommy Lasorda, who started for Montreal, received credit for the victory, the story of the season although he needed help from veteran Curt Davis in the ninth to stop Jersey and finished up without allowing a marker.

There was another neat fielding at the RADOS game last night when Ann squabble at the Fair Grounds last night, with Bruce Northrop, Al Adams, the new pongo, and Jim Lalonde turning in brilliant chores. Barstay's fine running catch of a low liner with the bases in three on, saved at least two runs, and perhaps the game, while Gene LaBeane's fine peg to the plate from centre field cut off a threat Or Point rally. The fielding was the master-piece of the game between the two squads as Marcelo and Halleran both turned in good pitching chores.

SLAMMIN' SAMMY SNEAD AHEAD IN CANADIAN OPEN

Fires Four-Under-Par 68 to Forge to Front of the Pack

Niakwa Golf Course, Kingsway Club, Winnipeg, Aug. 10. (CP) — The Gravy train was loaded today for the $10,000 first prize in the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association open tournament when Sam Snead in the choice position of those within reaching distance of it.

The British open champion from Hot Springs, Va., one of the pre-tournament favorites, held the lead with a 54-hole total of 211 over two others as the field neared the half-way point today. He was two strokes in front of little Ben Hogan of Hershey, the other pre-tournament favorite and likeable Dick Metz of Arkansas City.

Slammin' Sammy forged to the front in today's play with a four-under-par 68 that included a sensational hole-in-one on the 245-yard par number 13 to split the tournament wide open as the Hershey open champion, Stan Leonard of Vancouver, and Ellis Stines of Chicago, blew sky high with one of the worst rounds in tournament golf.

The club swinging Snead and Hogan are both among the eight golfers who broke par on the 6,700-yard course in the first round.

Leonard, who could have added to his early start with a disastrous 78, blew himself out of the running, hopes for a Canadian to take top money and ended in the direction of Freddie Wood, Leonard's fellow pro and amateur partner from Vancouver, who was still well up there after the two-over-par 74 third 18. He was 41 on the fourth place with Vines and Fredrickson, Jr., of New Orleans, La., who also had 74 on his third round for a total score of 214, the same as Woods and Vines.

Hogan, one of Maynard's biggest boosters, shot another par sub par round of 70 to the Hogan, the game's leading money winner this year with $37,000 in prizes now second place with a three-quarter mark of 213. . . .

Al Clark Still Leading Int. League Hitters

New York, Aug. 10. (AP)—Al Clark, highly-regarded outfielder of New York Stars, returned to action during the last week and increased his batting lead over .363 to .373 to retain the lead in the International League's individual batting championship.

Out with a leg injury for more than three weeks, Clark appeared in three games during the seven-day limit that includes games of Wednesday, and collected four hits in eight trips to the plate.

Jackie Robinson, Montreal's negro second baseman moved from third place in the runner-up spot by rapping out 13 safeties, for a .419 mark in 31 times at bat from .333 to .367. Ed Robinson, Baltimore's first baseman, dropped to third from .375 and was followed in the big 10 by Danny Murtaugh, Montreal, .360; Tom Tatum, Montreal, .332; Bobby Brown, Newark, .331; Lou Ortiz, Montreal, .332; Ford Garrison, Newark, .311; Lew Riggs, Montreal, .308 and Al (Dutch) Mele, Syracuse, .307.

Although relinquishing the runner-up spot in the batting derby to Jackie Montreal nameskin, Robinson of Baltimore retained his lead with .419 and runs batted in, 87. Ira Hutchinson, replaced Montreal's Marv Rackley in the Montreal batting department of play with 87 to Rackley's 83.

Montreal, Aug. 10 — (CP) — Those four agonizing thuds you heard Wednesday night from a place called Providence, R.I., weren't all caused by Eddie Sanrin falling backwards onto the canvas.

First of all, Eddie was whacked unconscious in 96 seconds and it would be hard to believe he fell down more than three times in that rather short space of time. But in fact, it's hard to see how he found time to get up to get knocked down again.

That fourth thud was round Sammy Gibbs, Petrolia manager, keeling over into the ring-side seats as he threw up his hands in his head. Even as he sprawled on the hard, cold cement near the ring, he was desvious to the world at large as was the hammered Petrin, a darned flush crept up his neck and turned his usually jovial face.

For Sammy ("I love that boy") Gibbs had just finished telling the boxing world that his boy was Canadian bantamweight champion by virtue of a victory back in 1941.

The calamity that overtook Petrin was bad enough but worse was to come. Sammy's now to be tried to slip unrecognized out of Providence.

Out in Vancouver, that very same night, Kenney Lindsay, who also claims the bantam crown, pounded off Jackie Turner in 12 rounds in what was billed as a title bout.

It was the billing that got Sammy. He waved his arms, spluttering. Finally he got his breath. "Title bout!" he screamed, going up on the tips of his toes. "My boy is champ, and Lindsay is nothing but, but" — he groped for the worst name he could think — "my boy was licked? So what? This Lindsay has had his ears beaten off by American fighters plenty of times. So my boy was in the army for five years so we gotta get in shape yet."

Sammy paused, inevitably: "I love that boy."

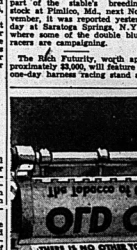
Boxing Promoter Raoul Godbout announced last night that Dave Castilloux, Canadian lightweight and welterweight champion, will meet Johnny Greco in a 10-round bout at Montreal Aug. 28. The promoter estimated a $30,000 gate will be needed to show a profit on the go.

Because of the Mickey Owen developments, President Jurge Weichel of the Canadian Baseball League was reported as saying at Moncton yesterday he would redouble efforts to keep star players of the major leagues up here. Weichel made the statement.

DUNKERQUE HARBOR OPEN

Dunkerque, France, Aug. 9 — (CP) — The Dunkerque harbor, scene of the British army after France fell in 1940, again was reopened to navigation yesterday. The port was destroyed in the early battle and again by the Germans five years later, and has been bombed frequently in between.



Seven Major Loop Clubs Sell For $12,000,000

(By The Canadian Press)

With the transfer of Pittsburgh Pirates this week, a baseball family to the Frank McKinney Syndicate, the total sales in the National League and three American League clubs have changed hands in less than a month. The property consideration in the deals has an estimated value of $12,000,000, according to a survey of New York last night, which the National loop teams which have been sold comprise Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

The largest transaction was the $5,100,000 purchase of New York Yankees by the Larry MacPhail group. Boston Red Sox passed in the direction of Freddie Wood, Leonard's fellow pro and amateur partner from Vancouver, who was still well up there after the two-over-par 74 third 18. He was 41 on the fourth place with Vines and Fredrickson, Jr., of New Orleans, La., who also had 74 on his third round for a total score of 214, the same as Woods and Vines.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A finesse is an attempt to win a trick with a card that is not higher than one an opponent holds. A bridge rule that is taken too literally is: Don't finesse against your partner.

This is a good rule for those who can carry only one idea at a time. In expert play, it is often ignored. There are times when you should finesse against your partner's lead.

The time to ignore this rule is when you know it will gain more for your pair. Like in a situation where the spades are as shown here:

NORTH
♠K 6 3

WEST
♠J 10 9 4

EAST
♠A 7 5

SOUTH
♠Q 8 5

Your partner in the west starts with an opening lead of spade jack. If dummy in the north does not go at once, with the king, what is your thought in east? Not the ace. Positively not the ace!

When partner leads the jack, he denies holding the queen. It is not in dummy or your own hand. So, the queen must be in south. If you take the jack, what happens? Figure it out.

South will take the second round with the queen. On the third round of spades he will take a trick. Opponents will then take two tricks in that suit. One of them will be the ace.

On the first round if you play the ace, it is a sucker play. It asks partner to lead that suit again when he gets in. You will win that first trick. But see what happens after that.

Your ace will kill a threat over the dummy king. When that suit is led again by partner, you are clearer, the dummy king is trapped by your queen. You get only one trick instead of two.

Let me hope that this does not start you off on a series of always finessing against your partner. The only time to do it is when it is obvious that your side will gain by it.

It is not always necessary to take the trick you can first. Give up a trick at once if you can save more by doing so.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 10 (AP)—Lon Chaney, the man in the thriller, is scared.

"All these strange faces on the set," he shuddered. "I'm used to knowing everybody on a picture. And these people seen I'm working with—Peter Lorre, Jack La Rue, Chen Hoyt. They've got me scared."

The screen's ace chiller, you see, has deserted Universal to Universal to play a harmless hospital attendant, in "My Favorite Brunette."

But he recovered from the shakes sufficiently to explain why he left Universal City after eight years of curdling blood and tingling spines. It wasn't because of any distaste for his roles.

"As long as the kids enjoy the horror pictures," he said, "I'm willing to make them."

It's pretty safe bet that Lon will be back at his home lot one of these days. As he says:

"Some day they're going to need a goon and they'll have to send for me."

If you want to see a confused town, come to Hollywood. Not since the advent of sound has there been so much doubt and indecision among the movie bigwigs. Some of the reasons:

1. The government crackdown on corporation deals, which is causing million dollar headaches.

2. The wrangling over whether the United States will permit film studios "auction" films to distributors, another system which the lawyer is now king of every company.

3. The scramble to ascertain the post-war movie tastes, now that some of the most hopeful movies have flopped.

New York, (Aug. 10 — (CP) — There's nothing much doing along Broadway today so let's go on down to Greenwich Village and look at the Bohemians.

There aren't many of those left —the genuine artists—and sleazily villagers are inclined to sniff over the good old days when artists were Roman togas in the streets and champagne was 30 cents a large glass. But in many ways it's still the most interesting part of New York, and doesn't dwell completely in the past.

We'll get out of the subway right here at Washington Square. This tiny park with trees in leaf, ice cream vendors and children playing through a fountain is built on a potter's field.

Nowadays the Square is noted mostly for the outdoor checker tournaments and the art exhibits. It's generally mighty poor art, but that's hardly the point. Some of these old boys shoot a sharp brand of checkers, though.

There's all sorts of things you ought to see around here. There's the narrowest house in New York and the shortest street in New York that is not a cul-de-sac, and two of the oldest theatres in New York — Eugene O'Neill's Provincetown was first produced here—and all sorts of superlative places and things. (I'm a New Yorker, I love superlatives.)

I'd like to show you where Walt Whitman lived, but it's been torn down. In the bar where John Masefield used to work as a dish-washer and short-order cook, but they've done the same thing there. Over there, though, is where "The Crisis" — but it's a tough night club now. A clip-joint, at that.

Let's go back uptown.

Cooper Race Boat Recovered From Bottom of Bay

"Pops," crack 225 cubic inch hydroplane speedboat owned by the seventy-five-year-old grandfather of racing, Jack "Pops" Cooper, Kansas City, poked a muddy nose on a sandbar at the entrance to Big Bay off Manasquan Inlet Friday afternoon following her two-day immersion after plunging to the bottom while racing in the Rotary Regatta on Wednesday.

Members of the Rotary Club here, mechanics, Fred MacDonald of Point Anne, motor boat and engine expert and personnel of the Trenton Air Station are a fringe around divers assisted in raising the craft.

The speedster, which attained a speed of 82.643 miles per hour in a mile trial over the Picton course, Monday, was only slightly damaged, observers stated. A piece had been torn out of her side, but the expensive "bottom" of the craft was practically undamaged. Her motor was somewhat the worse for wear, but no great damage had resulted to the costly power plant.

to 25 Feet of Water.

"Pops" lay in approximately 25 feet of water and was partially buried in two feet of mud, when Fred MacDonald of Point Anne finally located her about 8 o'clock this afternoon in the entrance to Big Bay, with his grappling irons.

Efforts to locate and raise the boat on Thursday proved futile. Dragging operations covered the greater part of the area where Pops was believed "Pops" had sunk but no success attended the efforts of Rotarians and others.

On Thursday, a diver was brought here from Kingston, and he searched the bottom of the bay in that area with no success. Assisting in the operations were Rotarians Bert Howard, Harry Moorman, Ken Reid, Perc McGuire and Fred Chamberlain and Cooper's mechanic.

The clubmen engaged in two-minute relays pumping oxygen to the diver who spent considerable time trying to find the boat. About five-thirty MacDonald located it and the diver went down and attached ropes to the craft. Express Appreciation.

Rotary officials today expressed their appreciation of the fine gesture of the Trenton Air Station commanding officer in sending a crash boat and a diver personnel to assist in the recovery of "Pops."

Chairman Lloyd Hicks, of the Regatta committee of the services club, stated that "we could not have gotten along without this assistance and the fine co-operation of Pops" Cooper and all concerned are deeply grateful to the officer commanding the station and his personnel who assisted.

"Pops" will be rushed into immediate condition to race at Red Bank, New Jersey. "Pops" Cooper shipped the hull to the Vent-nor Company at Atlantic City last night and ordered a new motor rushed there from his home in Kansas City. It is said that the veteran driver has no less than eight of these expensive power plants.

RARE CRIBBAGE HAND

Woodstock, Aug. 9 — (CP) — One of those rare perfect hands yesterday turned up in a cribbage game between Jack McGinnis of Ingersoll, and Stewart Lyoit of Woodstock. McGinnis had two fives and the Jack of Spades in his hand and his opponent cut the five of Spades, giving him the full 29 count — he won the game.

Sacos Win Championship Of Belleville Softball Assoc. By Defeating Point Anne, 3-1

Game Highlighted by Brilliant Fielding and Timely Clouting

In a game that was highlighted by brilliant fielding, timely clouting and masterful hurling on the part of their righthander Marty Halloran, the SACO softball squad won the Belleville Association championship at the Fair Grounds Friday night when they defeated Point Anne 3-1 for their second straight victory in the city tinhar series.

SACOS' ace Flashes Monday night in the first game of a two-of-three series to decide the right to represent Belleville in the MASA Intermediate "A" playdowns.

Halloran for SACOS and Pat Marcelo for Point Anne turned in excellent hurling chores, but the SACO bats came through with timely hits when they needed runs. The SACO fielders were outstanding and on two occasions cut off runners streaking for the plate.

Strikes Out Five

Halloran struck out five and walked three and on more than one occasion pitched himself out of dangerous situations. In the eighth with runners on second and third, he struck out the last batter to kill the attempted rally.

Marcelo whiffed six and issued five passes. He lashed out a brace of hits in an effort to pull the game out of the fire but his mates couldn't do much with the offerings he sent to the chicken.

SACOS made a strong bid for the lead in the first inning. Herbie Henn smashed out a lusty double but went out trying to stretch it to three.

Carson Gets a Hit

Carson got a life on a Point Anne error and galloped home when second on Gene LaBonde's timely clout to centre. SACOS were held scoreless until the 5th when Jimmy Barriage started a two-run rally with a towering triple to left centre. He scored on Henn's second hit of the game, and that batter moved home when Point Anne bobbled Carson's smash to shortstop.

A Point Anne threat was cut off by a brilliant catch by left-fielder Jimmy Barriage who galloped in to make the shoestring grab of what looked like a sure hit with the sacks loaded. Al Adams likewise pulled a fine play when he ran in close to gobble a fly ball that was labelled.

Gene LaBonde perfect throw from centre to catcher Temple of Sero's clout in the seventh saved the situation once again.

A walk and Pap

Bradshaw and Maracle were on bases when the Point Anne short stop drove the ball to centre. Gene Bonne made a brilliant peg from centre field to nip Bradshaw at he came into the plate, it was a close play and a clever one.

Point Anne scored their lone marker in the sixth. Sero drew Murney Green's hit to left centre. He went to third on Horwood's fly and then beat it after Generaux looped a high one to left centre field.

Jimmy Barriage led the SACO hitters with a triple and single. Henn got a double and a single and Carson, LeBonne and Temple got singles. Pat Maracle and Murney Green Sr. got two hits apiece for the losers with Bradshaw and Sero donating singles.

Score by innings:

Point Anne ..... 000 001 000—1 6 1
SACOS ..... 100 020 00x—3 7 1

Umpires: Thomas, plate; Schrieden, bases.

Henning's Crafty Judgment And Use of Old Trick Helps Him to Defeat Toar Morgan

Opponent, However, Puts One Over The Scowl and He Was Quite Unhappy

The dashing ex-Marine Toar Morgan perhaps missed his calling calling insofar as it affects his wrestling. Perhaps the rugged young Lindsay lad should have joined the Air Force, for his error in engaging in aerial preliminary to what appeared certain victory over Lee "The Scowl" Henning Friday night proved his undoing.

The two mayhem gladiators had each taken a fall with Al, "Bunny" (Quick Count) Dunlop supplying plenty of referee color, and La Toar apparently had the Scowl in a bad way. In fact it that third heat, Morgan had Henning thinking of his old town home and its tall cornstalks as he whirled him high overhead in what is known in wrestling parlance as an airplane spin.

He whirled him high and he whirled him low. The crafty Henning once allied a hold on the ropes, but the Dunlopion tendance in which the Bunny bricked slightly over twelve inches clear of the floor with one foot and shuffled with the other, unhooked the grip. Then it happened.

Morgan again whirled Henning aloft, looked like a helicopter with blond hair and a scowl, but failed to complete the movement in t.. minor. He slipped and the duo crashed to the floor. The Henning, always a opportunist, calmly pinned the Morgan shoulders to the mat and the bout was over.

Henning Wins

Morgan was mad. He took to the decision like a youngster to castor oil. He whirled on Dunlop, but the crafty wrestler-arbiter swung a mean fist and the expected fireworks didn't materialize.

Fans crowded around the ring and La Bunny was the recipient of the faithful's disappointment. A few minutes previous they were cheering the ol' personal! as he clouted both wrestlers wildly-nilly when they failed to obey instructions. But Henning won the third and final fall and still remains undefeated in a Belleville ring.

Plenty of Color

Dunlop showed plenty of color in a referee's role, a matter of fact it was a pleasant departure to the usual style of arbiting seen here for the big wrestler was not the least bit timid about manhandling the recalcitrant main bouters if they weren't nice boys.

Henning was quite the villain-ous one, but Dunlop from the start showed he would stand for no fooling and that was that.

In the first fall, Morgan gave Henning plenty of punishment but the lowan was again up to his old tricks and his crafty judgment won him the first heat. He was in and out of the ring like a Hollywood star- uses nuptials and again used his favorite stunt of using whatever is be picked off the floor during this periodical jaunts outside the ropes.

Worked Well For Time

His trick of ramming the opposition's head against the ring posts worked well for a while, then he tried the old trick of chucking Morgan outside the ring and using his noggin as a ramrod as he ran the ring out of the corner. But this time it back-fired. Morgan caught on in the nick and it was the Henning's head that caressed the ringside.. The crowd howled.

But Henning recovered quickly from the fall and grimaced at his way through the second heat before he resorted to his old tricks, Morgan punished him more or less severely and after the minutes of rugged battling made the lowan say uncle.s he knelt outside the ring trying to figure which was his head and which..was the ringside.

Morgan Wrestled

Then came the third fall and Morgan was disappointed when he had the fee in a bad way only to have the goda frown upon him. Dunlop evoked shrieks of laughing approval from the crowd

AT THE BELLE—Wallace Beery has had many a leading lady in his long career as a film star, ranging from the unforgettable Marie Dressler to the popular Marjorie Main. But none was as affectionate as his latest co-star Margaret O'Brien, who appears opposite the screen's most famous Bad Man in "Bad Bascomb", due to open today.

as he threatened to count the assailants, especially Henning, out in rapid-fire time. It proved a sure cure for stalling.

In the semi-final dashing Mike Sharpe, another youngster who took the short end of the decision from Karl Krippler Davis. The pair battled furiously for the better part of the 30-minute time limit, then it appeared, Sharpe hurt his shoulder. Davis was quick to name an advantage and he punished the injured member severely. Sharpe was forced to admit defeat and lost an unpopular decision.

In the preliminary, Frankie Taylor, a newcomer to Belleville from Hollywood held villainous Jim "Goon" Henry to a draw. The young good-looking youngster showed plenty of wrestling ability and he made a hit with the crowd on his first appearance here.

The management is looking for a new wrestler who can pin defeat on Henning next week. Three names were mentioned today and they include "Crusher" Casey, Frank Sexton, world champion, and Wild Bill Longson. Any of these will suit.

CHAPTER 5.

Her decision was a gamble, nothing more or less. It was the sort of thing her father would have done, Jacqueline reflected. Promise first, think afterwards.

Perhaps she was more like her father than she suspected.

Vincent Anthony, loving and irresponsible failure that he was, had been his daughter's outstanding trial during her more mature years. She accepted him as her particular charge when she was seventeen, the year that frail little Maude Anthony had laid down the same burden. Jacqueline was the pair's only child.

For years, Mrs. Anthony followed her vagrant happy-go-lucky mate wherever he saw fortune beckon at the moment. Vincent always was in quest of and about to overtake big money. Never discouraged. Steady work and systematic saving held no appeal, for the little man with the tousled brown hair, the shade of Jacqueline's, bright blue eyes and fascinating smile, had others plod if they cared to. Anthony knew he would strike it rich some day and had a ready excuse for each succeeding failure. With the fading of one dream, he was off in fresh pursuit.

Mrs. Anthony endured her intinerant life uncomplainingly, much as it wore her spirit and her longing for a well-ordered life. She had been reared in a New England village where her youth had conformed to patterns narrow and prosaic. Romance came with Vincent Anthony, who at the moment, was promoting sales of a remarkable patent medicine. Madge had fallen in love with him and had ridden blissfully out into a new life, perched beside her husband on the high seat of a shining red wagon. As far as anyone knew she never had repented of her bargain.

It was not until Jacqueline reached grammar school age that Madge insisted upon plotting a permanent tent—the family was sojourning in the Middle West at the time—and giving her girl the benefit of a less sketchy education and proper companions. As it worked out, it was the mother who was forced to provide most of the necessary income for herself and Jacqueline, and for Vincent when he chose to favor the small home with his presence.

"Vince"—that was the name Jacqueline bestowed upon her parent almost as soon as she was able to talk—was quite the most charming companion a child could know. His daughter adored him. It was he who fired her vivid imagination with tales of adventure in strange places, culled from a life of restless wanderings. Many of the stories were untrue, but Vince never allowed minor details to interfere with art.

At the time the wife and mother passed unobtrusively from the family picture, Jacqueline had managed to complete a business course and was happy in her first position. Vince, harboring an idea that the motherless girl needed his care and protection, took time out to give the world some needed inventions. He always had intended to do that when he got around it. The Anthonys' living room promptly became a workshop, housing an amazing miscellany of gadgets financed from Jacqueline's meagre salary.

Several years passed without material change in this unusual situation. Jacqueline prospered in one position led to another and a better one. Finances became less of a problem.

The girl lived two separate lives.

One, was the world of business where she exhibited unusual proficiency, appreciated by employers of her winsome personality, the speed with which she accomplished tasks and her almost unfailing accuracy.

The other life was almost entirely between the four walls of that living room where she listened with patient enthusiasm to Vince as he puttered with his conceptions.

One of his favorite pursuits was to outline a world trip they would take as a first celebration. Vince could produce an old atlas and, with Jacqueline's shining head close to his, map out routes and ports of call. This was one recreation in which the girl always was ready to join.

Outsiders almost never intruded in this life. The Anthony home had no room for guests. Nobody else would understand Vince. But they never should make fun of him. And so, all her acquaintances were made in the workaday world and remained there.

With the building of the twenty-storey Raynear had come a change in the life of Jacqueline Anthony. A former employee, a man of financial importance in the city, arranged an opportunity for her to become the new hotel's public stenographer. She was highly delighted; it meant being in business for herself at last.

At that time, the serious little stenographer with the shining cinnamon - brown hair had reached the age of twenty-two. And looked eighteen.

Deep in the poor and fashionable Raynear opened an entirely new vista to Jacqueline Anthony's bleak eyes. Glimpses of luxury that heretofore had been a stranger to her. So many new contacts. Here was a small world in itself, the inhabitants of which she came to know in a quietly friendly fashion.

The result was an ever widening circle of acquaintances—Henri, maitre d' hotel; the room clerks, the bookkeepers, cashiers and all the modishly garbed employees who garnished the "front" of this modern hostelry. Even the pompous Archibald Potter, resident in morning coat by day and a tuxedo by night, was wont to pause for a word at the little glass enclosed office during his sauve but eagle-eyed touring of his domain.

And there was the atmosphere of the hotel. The Raynear was the popular setting for afternoon bridges and teas. Its smart Empire Room was crowded at the cocktail hour. Jacqueline observed the stylishly gowned women passing daily through the lobby, had glimpses of the grand ballroom prepared for the entertainment of favored guests, read morning bits of gossip from the Raynear's housekeeper or its official hostess. All these matters had a fashion of coming unsought to the eyes and ears of the stenographer. She absorbed them with quiet interest, but always as something vaguely apart from her existence.

They were much like that romantic-the-world trip.

Yet it all exerted a strange and steadily growing influence: it planted seeds of revolt. Jacqueline Anthony began to appreciate more and more what her mother had endured for so many years. Growing fears assailed her. She was following the same path. Already she had missed the life enjoyed by most girls her age. A home, intimate friends social contacts. Men had no part in her existence, save as she encountered them in business.

It was all wrong.

There were no regrets for the sacrifices made for Vince's behalf. But what of the future? Jacqueline was beginning to feel very mature. What would happen if and when she could work no longer? She would take care of her?

Then one day Vince announced blithely that one of his pet schemes had been adopted precisely by a fellow inventor. He was dropping it for another project that offered infinitely greater returns and—

"It won't be long now," he assured his daughter airily. "In six months, we'll be sailing."

"Vince, I've got to tell you something. And Jacqueline found herself hurriedly reciting her Declaration of Independence.

Vincent Anthony had been on trial in his own house for a quarter century. Hereafter, he might find bed and board there, but not one cent for dry batteries. The family must and would have a growing savings account. Jacqueline managed to keep her voice steady.

There was no answering outburst. Vince assumed a politely injured air. If Jacqueline wished to throw aside the leisure and riches he was about to give her... After all, it was about what a father might expect these days it wasn't the first time that a genius' family had proved a stumbling block.

It was a hard task for the girl to steel her heart against this martyr complex, but she knew instinctively that she was doing the right thing. For the two of them. It was doubly hard to witness his hurt air, going about like a small boy waiting for solacing negotiations.

Three days of the new order, then Vince was missing when Jacqueline came home to prepare dinner. She found a note, a brief "give in," had her father known.

On the table was a note, a note the girl deciphered through blinding tears. Vince was very sorry, but he must conduct his work in a more congenial atmosphere. He would return shortly and be very glad to repay his daughter for the trifling assistance she had given him from time to time. He forgave her freely and she was not to worry.

Despite its untidy clutter, the little living room seemed strangely empty and forlorn that night.

During the next week or two Jacqueline lived in an atmosphere of worry and remorse. She spent many wakeful hours reproaching herself, but there seemed nothing to do now.

She never occurred to her to report his absence. As long as she could remember, Vince had a way of dropping from sight and coming home unannounced, quite as if nothing had happened. It was a line felt that he would resent any effort to locate him.

Following her first season of depression and anxiety, Jacqueline was rather ashamed to find a certain feeling of relief taking possession of her. It strengthened as the first loneliness passed. But memories are not easily disposed of, so Jacqueline resolutely sent her father's paraphernalia to a storage house against his return. She found a modern one-room apartment in a much more attractive part of the city and established herself there.

She planned to start life over. To really live.

A great mental uplift came from that Courtland street home. It was on the ground floor of what, at some time, had been an imposing family residence. The combined living room and bedroom retained its lofty ceiling and there was an old-style marble mantelpiece between two high windows that looked out into a rear yard. Two indisputable trees were out there. The architect had achieved a delightful bath room in one corner, also a kitchenette with gas stove and a diminutive sink and electric refrigerator, the new housekeeper's particular pride.

Very different from Jones street.

And business at the hotel was satisfactory, for the most part. Miss Anthony, public stenographer, gained the reputation for rapid and accurate work. Slowly but surely, she built up a local trade in addition to the hotel's transients. She was busier now, owner of a shiny hand seal that gave her a thrill of importance—in addition to a fee—each time she was required to use it.

Dreams seemed to be coming true at last. Even the great dream that them all was slowly taking shape. Jacqueline was saving her money with calculating fervor. First, there must be something against a rainy day. And Vince. When that was attained to—

The crossing!

Guessing on Cabinet Make-up Should Prime Minister Retire No. 1 Topic in Ottawa Circles

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 10 — (CP)—New government leadership and a consequent cabinet shake-up still is the No. 1 topic of conversation in parliamentary circles and editorial net-making is one of the most popular hobby games.

On the assumption Prime Minister Mackenzie King will carry out—his frequently reiterated statement and retire and that certain ministers will go with him, a very general guess on the shape of the next cabinet has been worked out.

It was worked on the basis of several considerations. In the first place the recent departure of Walter Harris, minister without assistant to Veterans Minister Mackenzie, from federal field to lead Saskatchewan provincial Liberals may be taken as indication that an early shuffle in party leadership across the country is in progress.

Might Need By-elections

Another consideration in any political pundituing is the matter of by-elections that would be needed if certain widely-named persons were brought into the cabinet. For instance, if the suggestion has any foundation that either L. B. (Mike) Pearson, Canadian Ambassador to Washington and native newspaperman, or Stuart Garson of Manitoba, were to be drafted for cabinet seats they might enter the House thru Mr. Tucker's Rosthern riding or the vacant seat of Portage La Prairie, caused by the death of Harry Leader.

While it is known the government has purposely been cautious to avoid a test of strength until after post-war reconstruction and rehabilitation programs have jelled and industrial strife is settled, it is possible that party leaders now might welcome such a test, hoping the result would endorse their policy and strength-en their hands.

Other factors entering current prognostications are the limited number of Senate vacancies — five — their geographical availability, provincial representation and the fact that Mr. King's practice in recent years has followed an orthodox political pattern.

Predicted Line-up

A line-up has been drawn up by a pair of Liberals who hope it will turn out to be at least 75 per cent correct. The only present ministers who remain in the new cabinet with their present posts are: Mr. Mackenzie, who is rumored is in line as well for a new Canadian appointment as President of the Privy Council; Agriculture Minister Gardiner, Labor Minister Mitchell, Works Minister Fournier, Transport-General Bertrand, Solicitor-General Jean and Hon. Wishart Robertson, government leader, in the Senate and minister without portfolio.

Here is the lineup:

Mr. King to retire and be succeeded for an interim period by Ralph Maybank of Winnipeg, Transport Minister Chevrier to be succeeded by former Montrealer, Ottawa member and parliamentary assistant to Mr. Howe.

State Secretary Martin to be succeeded by G. Edouard Desy of Montreal.

Defence Minister Abbott to be succeeded by Fisheries Minister Bridges.

Revenue Minister McCann to be succeeded by David Croll, Toronto member and former Ontario provincial cabinet minister.

Fisheries Minister Bridges to be succeeded by J. W. MacNaught of Queen acting capacity on many occasions.

Resources Minister Glen to go to the Senate and be succeeded by Ralph Maybank of Winnipeg.

Transport Minister Chevrier to be succeeded by former Montrealer, Ottawa member and parliamentary assistant to Mr. Howe.

State Secretary Martin to be succeeded by G. Edouard Desy of Montreal.

Defence Minister Abbott to be succeeded by Fisheries Minister Bridges.

Revenue Minister McCann to be succeeded by David Croll, Toronto member and former Ontario provincial cabinet minister.

Fisheries Minister Bridges to be succeeded by J. W. MacNaught of Queen

Cornwall Crowd Applaud, Cheer as Mayors Race in Street

All set on starting line just before the pistol cracked. Right to Left: Mayor Horovitz, Mayor Follwell and Cont. Frame. Clown also ran.

Shanghai Business Firm Writes To Hydro Office

That the name of Belleville is known on the other side of the world was indicated here this week by a communication from a business firm in Shanghai, China, which was received by Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the local public utilities, asking prices on a by-product from the Belleville Gas Plant.

The letter was from Dowell's and Company, Importers and Exporters with head office in Shanghai and branches throughout the Asiatic seaboard mainland. Manager of the company is Chinese.

Quotations on sulphate of ammonia a by-product of gas plants which is used as a chemical fertilizer, was asked by the Chinese company. The letter arrived by air mail carrying stamps to the value of $950, indicative of the terrific inflation existant in China.

Size of the local gas plant is such, however, that it would not pay to produce sulphate of ammonia, it was stated by Mr. Scott.

Two More Ships With 1,200 Jewish Refugees Arrive off Haifa, Another Ship Near; Tension Mounts Over Situation in Palestine

Jerusalem, Aug. 12 — (CP) — Two ships carrying, with approximately 1,200 Jewish refugees from Europe anchored just outside the Haifa breakwater today, provoking a bitter protest from British authorities striving to halt illegal immigration to a restless Palestine.

Arrival of the two vessels brought to almost 3,700 the number of Jewish refugees detained aboard ships at Haifa because of lack of proper immigration certificates.

Still another vessel loaded with illegal immigrants was reported en route to Haifa under escort of a British destroyer after being sighted off the coast by an R.A.F. plane. At least one more was believed at sea.

The newest arrivals were identified as the Yagur, carrying 700 refugees, and the Henrietta Szold, a one-master sailing craft loaded down with 500 passengers —half of them children and 30 of these babies in arms.

Both ships were well stocked with water and food, most of which bore United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation labels. The refugees said they sailed from a French port on June 30, but refused to say where they had obtained their supplies.

Stir in Harbor

The appearance of the two ships caused a stir among the 1,-600 men and women still detained in the harbor aboard the refugee ships Hagana and Jewish Warrior. Dawn broke after they saw the Yagur lying at anchor they began singing Hatikvah —the Jewish national anthem.

Arrival of the ships increased the tension which has been building up here for days.

So tense was the atmosphere that many observers — including soldiers and civilians, Jews and Arabs — expressed fear that "the balloon is likely to burst at any time."

Lt. Col. Campbell will attend the semi-annual meeting of the N.H.L. to be held Sept. 4, when final arrangements will be completed to make Campbell successor to Dutton. "I'm pretty sure he will accept as N. H. L. president," said Dutton.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Aug. 12—(CP)—Synopsis at 7:45 a.m. Temperatures are still a little below normal today but are expected to be somewhat higher tomorrow. An extensive area of high pressure centred near Lake Superior covers the eastern half of the continent. In Ontario, to the east of the centre, the weather is cloudy with a few very light showers. Dutch War Bride Delayed on Mercy Trip to Vancouver

Halifax, Aug. 12 — (CP) — A Dutch war bride, hurrying to her dying husband's bedside in Vancouver, was delayed in her mercy trip when the liner Queen Mary docked here early this morning several hours late.

The bride, Mrs. Elizabeth Morris, was given top compassionate priority for her trip and was to have boarded a trans-Canada plane last night if the ship had arrived on time. The giant liner was due about 5 p.m., yesterday but was delayed by fog outside Halifax harbor and could not dock until 1 a.m. with her load of 2,000 Canadian service dependents.

Mrs. Morris is rushing to her husband, Leo Ralph Morris, a former private in the Canadian Army, who is in Vancouver hospital suffering from tubercular meningitis. He is given only one month to live. New arrangements were made for her to take the first plane out on Halifax today at 11 a.m.

The arrival of the Queen Mary broke a two weeks' lull during which no troops' or dependents' ships arrived from the United Kingdom. The former hospital ship Letitia is expected to dock later today with 850 dependents.

The liner Aquitania is due Thursday with more than 2,000 troops and 1,100 wives and children.

6,000 TONS BACON ON SHIP

Liverpool, Aug. 12 (CP Cable) —A record cargo of 4,000 tons of bacon, hams and hams was aboard the liner Cavina which arrived here yesterday. The ship carried 145 passengers, including four 20-year-old evacuee girls returning to Britain from Canada after completing studies at Canadian universities.

'Ghost Rockets' Shower Sweden, Being Investigated

Stockholm, Aug. 13 —(AP)— Swedish military authorities plan a report on the source of the mysterious spool-shaped missiles, but it is generally believed that the rocket-propelled objects come from some place along the Baltic coast of Germany. Only a few cases it is known that the "ghost rockets" have landed in Sweden.

Between July 9-12 authorities received 300 reports of the phenomena and since then reports have poured in daily. Fragments examined by scientists gave little in the way of clues, except to indicate the presence of coke and other common materials.

BODY RECOVERED

Peterboro, Ont., Aug. 12 — (CP) — Body of E. J. McKeown, 65, of Carnegie, Penn., was recovered from Mud Lake today following two days of dragging operations by tourists, Indians and provincial police.

Missing since Friday evening when he did not return from a fishing trip a search was organized today at first in the surrounding woodlands but later in the lake where his boat was found to Mr. McKeown and his 13-year-old grandson have been at Woodlawn Lodge, Mud Lake since early summer. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. R. Beading and Mrs. Nettie Neal of Santiago, California.

No Hot Breakfasts for Londoners Because of Strike by Gas Workers

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 12 — (CP Cable) —Restaurant keepers and housewives prepared for wartime expedients today in a desperate effort to cook meals as London gas supplies approached the "zero point ever" because of a strike of gas workers.

A walkout of 2,000 maintenance men in 11 districts of Gas, Light and Coke Company — now in its fifth day — shrivelled supplies at effectively a halt in the worst city. Pressure was reduced from 60 to 30 per cent over an area of 500 square miles.

"This is the worst cut London has ever known," said a company spokesman. "Any further breakdown will mean a complete cutting-off of supplies."

The strikers seek a new wage agreement which would bring the scale of skilled men up five pence to three shillings (60 cents) an hour.

Thousands of workers went to their jobs today without a hot breakfast.

"I put on a kettle at a quarter to 8 last night for my husband's tea but when he got up at five o'clock it still hadn't boiled and he had to go to work without," said a Lambeth housewife.

Some cafes served only cold drinks and cold lunches. One large chain stated it was getting some food cooked in coke-fired ovens at a large bakery and a spokesman added:

"We had this experience during the war. We overcame it then and we are determined to carry on now."

Bread supplies were expected to be affected since many bakeries have gas ovens. Laundries and industrial plants using gas found work virtually at a standstill.

HOWE ANNOUNCES "DRASTIC STEPS" TO MEET NEEDS

Will Try to Prevent Lack of Materials From Hobbling Govt. Housing Program

Ottawa, Aug. 12 — (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe today pledged "drastic steps" to prevent lack of materials from hobbling a government program with an objective of 80,000 new homes by March 31, 1947, and warned that "if the present (strike) situation continues, construction of all kinds will virtually come to an end within a month."

Sketching a five-point plan to take effect immediately, the minister said "serious consideration" was being given to the method of providing "an effective method of controlling building materials into housing of a desirable type, whether it be built by private agreement or private enterprise." This, Mr. Howe stated, would in large measure decide just how successful the 1947 program would be.

His immediate steps, as given in a lengthy statement, were:

1. The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a Crown-owned company set up to administer the National Housing Act and make loans on home building, is establishing an organization to deal with priorities for materials.

2. Incomplete 1946 construction is being kept continuously under review by the corporation and will receive assistance to meet material shortages.

3. Co-operation with Municipalities

4. The minister will be talking to proper departments of provincial governments about their co-operation, as well as advising municipalities of the views regarding the needs of municipalities.

5. Within the next three months the government will confer with some 120 municipalities on ways and means of assisting them in their housing problems.

A Consultation Service will be given to the portion of the 1947 program that can be started in the fall of 1946.

HOW ANNOUNCES—Page 3

Production in Canada Declines During June

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP)—Production in Canada continued its fall off during June, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The seasonally adjusted physical volume of business declined 2.9 per cent to 178.9, continuing a downward trend which has been in evidence since early in 1944.

A marked decline was shown from the previous month in the output of a number of industries, including textiles, lumber, iron and steel, and the index for the half-year was 16 per cent below the corresponding period of 1945.

Two of the five components of the index fell to lower levels during operations by tourists, Indians and provincial police.

Missing since Friday evening when he did not return from a fishing trip a search was organized today at first in the surrounding woodlands but later in the lake where his boat was found to Mr. McKeown and his 13-year-old grandson have been at Woodlawn Lodge, Mud Lake since early summer. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. R. Beading and Mrs. Nettie Neal of Santiago, California.

Talking Dog Says 'I Want One'

London, Aug. 12 (Reuters) — In the middle of the "dog days" the Daily Mirror today sprang a talking dog on its readers which, the paper said, has been found to be the world's only canine which could articulate human speech.

The Mirror told how two well-known British veterinary surgeons had examined the phenomenon and had found that the "Hen," boarded in Royston, near Cambridge, could say: "I want one."

Just what "Ben" wanted remained obscure, although the dog performed his trick with particular success in a tavern, the Mirror said.

Compromise Plan To Partition Palestine On Way to Truman

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Aug. 12—(AP)— Suggestion for compromising Britain's plan to partition Palestine are being prepared by under-secretary of state Dean Acheson and probably will reach President Truman's desk by next week.

Authorities predict that if Mr. Truman approves suggestions for early reaction on all sides—Britain and Arab and Jew—will not be too favorable. But they predict in the long run something may be worked out along the lines on which Mr. Acheson is known to be working.

Mr. Acheson asked a committee of experts working directly under Mr. Truman's special assistant committee on Palestine to look into the matter. The committee is composed of Britain but with such well known men as:

1. Assignment to the Jews of a much larger area than the 1,500 square miles which would be allocated to them under the plan worked out in London.

2. Changed political arrangements which would give the Jews greater autonomy in their zone particularly in regulating admittance of additional Jews from Europe.

3. Liberalization of basic proposals governing Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Some officials believe Mr. Truman will announce his views in the latter part of the week and therefore expect the new proposals to be British government.

SUSPICION POINTS AT CABINET IN SPY RING CASE

Montreal Gazette Says Former M.P. Now In Cabinet Gave Rose Assistance

Montreal, Aug. 12 (CP)—The Montreal Gazette said in a newspage story today it had learned "from reliable sources" that the accusing finger of suspicion in the Russian spy ring case naturalization and false passport activities today points directly at the Federal cabinet.

"Veering from the known Communist path angle," the paper said, "the report held that a Russian master spy obtained false naturalization papers and a false passport in a period of less than a month."

The Gazette said Fred Rose, member of parliament for Montreal-Cartier, now under sentence of six years for conspiring to communicate information to Russia, had been elected "and with the complaisant assistance of a member of parliament, now a member of the Federal cabinet, the spy, a previous resident of New York City, received his papers with dispatch and sailed for England where he became a member of the Red network there, according to the most reliable reports available."

The newspaper said that the spy reached the U.K. island in the Woolwich Arsenal in England.

"Final disposition of his case is not known, although it is believed he was imprisoned and shot by the Nazis in Holland after war when he may have been deported to the Soviet Union."

The Gazette said that in October, 1938, Rose "led the matter of naturalization papers for spy-fixers and contact men. Then came the need of persons to swear he had been in Canada five years and that he was a respectable citizen. The first signature was that of Rose... His prison sentence for seditious utterances, however, dimmed the value of his name. It was necessary to obtain the signature of another man—and would be—like Cessar's wife—above suspicion.

"A member of parliament—who did not and could not know the spy under his own name which it is fixed. —

"Repeated excuses have been given and the latest statement is that 'it is in the hands of the minister of justice.' Either the deputy minister is taking with the spy's guilt is concerned, is difficult one to solve."

Committed For Trial On Attempted Murder

Brantford, Aug. 12 (CP)—John Carey, 32, who police say attempted to murder Mrs. William Holder, 42-year-old farm laborer's wife, here July 20, pleaded guilty today, that he was asleep on a couch in the Holder home on the Pleasant Ridge Road, when Holder entered the room with a knife in one hand and hammer and coil of wire in the other, threatened to kill them both and said "I'm glad he'll. I'm going to kill you." The two men are brothers-in-law.

Holder appeared before Magistrate R. J. Gillen for a preliminary hearing on a charge of attempted murder. The case was committed for trial, and will be held in custody to appear at the Fall Assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court here in September.

Gordon Claims Statement Is Misunderstood

Ottawa, Aug. 12 —(CP)— Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, in a letter to the Industrial Relations committee of the Commons, said today while he had estimated the breaking point of wages on price control as increases of 10 cents-an-hour, he did not intend it to be regarded as "the exact breaking point."

In the letter, filed with the committee, Mr. Gordon said his evidence before the committee had been "seriously misinterpreted and misrepresented, particularly by the wage committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Canada's Butter Situation Shows Improvement

Ottawa, Aug. 12—(CP)—Canada's creamery butter situation showed steady improvement last month and at July 31 was 7,000,000 pounds in storage and in transit amounting to 58,552,215, compared exceeding the 53,552,000-pound average for Aug. 1 stocks during the last five years, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported today.

Stocks were 39,911,785 pounds on July 1 and 56,520,964 pounds on Aug. 1 last year. In July, the net in-storage movement of butter totalled 19,500,000 pounds was reported—equivalent to 47.6 per cent of the July production.

Lawless Bands Sweep Out of Hideouts Set Torch to Polish Villages

By LARRY ALLEN

Rzeszow (Reuters), Aug. 12 (AP) —The torch of terror burns often among the Polish villages along the San River, deep in southeastern Poland not far from the Russian frontier.

Many homes are burned and many villagers killed in raids made by lawless bands officially described by government men as Ukrainian attacks to resentment against the Lublodzkich or one time Nazi SS officers. Their activities became most pronounced after the government started moving Ukrainians out of Polish territory under the Potsdam border a repatriation agreement.

Many villages have become all Ukrainian; attacks to resentment being forced out of their villages to make way for Polish settlers. Others say the bandit bands are fighting in the hope that Rzeszow were organized to levy against farmers for foodstuffs. If the farmers refuse their villages are burned and men and women carried off to forest hideouts.

The latest spot in southeastern Poland is along the San River, which forms from Rzeszow. Over a period of several months scores of villages have been attacked and burned.

At Sankowa, July 7, six Polish soldiers were killed.

At Tarka, bands sweeping in at night from their hideouts hanged five Poles and a Ukrainian who refused to flee to Poland.

Troops hunting down outlawed bands recently killed 100 bandits within a week.

Four Countries Will Be Heard On Italian Treaty

Albania, Mexico, Egypt, Cuba Invited to Appear

By WILLIAM B. KING

Paris, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Paris peace conference voted unanimously today to invite Albania, Mexico, Cuba and Egypt to appear for hearings on the Italian treaty.

The vote came after long discussion on the technical question of which department of the 21-power conference should draw up rules governing the hearings.

The question of inviting the four countries to appear drew no opposition, but the conference hours were spent in discussing whether the general secretariat or the general commission of the conference should arrange details for the hearings.

A group of six countries, with Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky as their spokesman, opposed a British proposal to refer the problem to the general commission. This opposition was maintained all day, even after Britain had already been charged with attempting to murder a daughter-in-law of Mr. McConnell and had been free on bonds.

Coroner Sidney E. Haigh said that he planned to exhume the bodies of the following persons, all of whom had been under the care of Dr. Lockman in the last years of their lives: Mrs. Mary Gidding, a retired farmer who died at 83 as a result of a fall; Mrs. Calhoun, a recluse; Frank Lockman, blacksmith husband of the housekeeper and his brother, Dr. Harger.

Dr. Harger's report said that "nearly a grain of mercury was found in a 3½ grain specimen" of Mrs. Minnie McConnell.

Mrs. Lockman was re-arrested by Detective Graham Tevis.

"Murder," Tevis replied.

"That's an awful thing," Mrs. Lockman said.

Wearing a faded blue cotton dress, she was taken to jail.

Makes Way to Shore After 6½ Hours In Choppy Lake

Brantford, Ont., Aug. 12—(CP) —Rescued by a speedboat after dark and in a choppy lake, John Powell of Brantford made his way to shore at 2.30 a.m. this morning after his sixteen-foot boat capsized yesterday in Lake Erie.

A still offshore wind overturned the boat at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, approximately six miles out, where it was found at 2.30 a.m. Sunday morning when Mr. Powell reached it. Realizing that there was no thought exhausted, he appeared to have suffered no serious ill effects.

Because he did not want to lose his boat, Mr. Powell clung to it for two and one half hours, hoping that a rescuer might turn up before darkness.

Mercury Poisoning Found in Viscera Of Dead Woman

Gladstone, Ind., Aug. 12 (AP)— Authorities today planned to exhume four more bodies after finding mercury poisoning in the viscera of a woman who died in 1945 while under the care of Mrs. Lotie (Tot) Lockman, 62-year-old housekeeper, who has been charged with murder.

Mrs. Lockman was arrested on the murder charge last night after state toxicologist Dr. R. N. Harger reported finding the mercury in the remains of Mrs. Minnie McConnell. The woman had already been charged with attempting to murder a daughter-in-law of Mrs. McConnell and had been free on bonds.

Coroner Sidney E. Haigh said that he planned to exhume the bodies of the following persons, all of whom had been under the care of Mrs. Lockman in the last years of their lives: Mrs. Mary Gidding, a retired farmer who died at 83 as a result of a fall; Mrs. Calhoun, a recluse; Frank Lockman, blacksmith husband of the housekeeper and his brother, Dr. Harger.

Dr. Harger's report said that "nearly a grain of mercury was found in a 3½ grain specimen" of Mrs. Minnie McConnell.

Mrs. Lockman was re-arrested by Detective Graham Tevis.

"Murder," Tevis replied.

"That's an awful thing," Mrs. Lockman said.

Wearing a faded blue cotton dress, she was taken to jail.

The victim was John D. Baldwin, of Bethlehem, Pa.

Gilead Farmer Loses Buildings, Crops in Storm

Picton, Aug. 12—A severe electrical and wind storm swept most of Prince Edward County early this afternoon. It brought rain worth many thousands of dollars to farmers, since crops of all kinds were suffering from the dry weather. But the rain Saturday was not sufficient to fill the need.

Volunteer fire fighters joining a bucket brigade saved the home. Hay in the driveshed first ignited and the flames spread to the barn. A pig pen and other barn were also lost.

Two Lads Let Public Finance 'Business' But Worry Over Supplies

Belleville's newest business venture, seven-year-old Jack Burrows, Bridge Street West, is not a spectacular gazed thoughtfully at the sky, and remarked that it looked like rain to you $1.50. Today, that is. Tomorrow they may be up a cent.

His partner, Bobby Bobby Stewart, a quiet reserved young ten-year-old, nodded agreement.

The boys are in business in a big way, Unions and strikes do not them. Factory space is not one of their concerns.

Both Jack and Bobby are staff. The place of business the wide-open spaces, where there is, or will be the brisket.

Their equipment consists of a stand, several glasses, a large container and their product, Sugar Scarce.

And they have an unique idea of financing the business. Capital and sugar are their two chief worries, and the way things are going at present, the sugar is the more difficult to get.

Jack is the finance and business head, and he has arranged a plan whereby the general public can "invest" in on this profitable producing business.

For instance you can buy fifty shares in the business at the current rate. Today it was three cents. Cost of shares tomorrow partner $1.50 and for that investment Jack will pay you back the profits. The remaining fifty belongs to the firm because they supply the location, equipment and labor.

"We've made plenty of money," Jack says in his quiet serious manner. "An average day's entertaining', if we can get the sugar, is from three to five dollars."

"Supposing it rains, or something happens?" a prospective partner asked.

"Then you lose your deposit. That's the chance you take."

Mobile Business

The business is a mobile one. It can be transferred quickly to a location where the trade prospects look good.

For instance the firm "cleaned up" on Civic Holiday when it pitched camp on the corner of Bridge where patrons of the motorcycle races at the fair grounds passed. Cash was the order of the day.

On other occasions the firm has done a twenty-dollar a day progress. That, too, is a good day for Belleville trade.

But Jack is worried a little. This sugar problem is a serious one. He is seriously considering the possibility of obtaining a purchase of the supply sugar of the sweet kind instead of that "Cash on the Barrel."

"We may," he said rubbing his chin, "have to change our line of production. That is assuming that doesn't need sugar. I haven't got it figured out just right but, but it will be something."

Cash on the Barrel

There is no margin on which Jack can buy shares in the firm. The cash must be laid "on the line" and the profits are forthcoming. Each day the day's trade is realized, counted and shared. Cost of share fluctuates. For the boys hold a directors' meeting on the morning of the day they operate, take the weather prospects under consideration, the amount of sugar available and the general activity which may affect the day's business.

If the weather promises to be fine, the share cost is low, if it points to a day, and the general situation is fair, then the cost goes up.

PERPETUAL MOTION PLANE

London, Aug. 13 (CP)—A Sunday newspaper, The People, said yesterday British scientists were developing a "perpetual motion" airplane that could fly seven times around the world non-stop at 1,650 miles an hour. Prime Minister Sees Battlefields Of Normandy

By ROSS MUNRO

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Caen, France, Aug. 12 — (CP Cable) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King's pilgrimage to the Canadian battlefields of Normandy during the weekend is to him one of the greatest experiences of his life.

As his two-day trip drew to a close last night he said in an interview: "What a superb tribute the Norman people, pay to our soldiers and our country! It has been spontaneous, sincere and full-hearted. It has been to me a moving, dramatic trip — one of the greatest experiences of my life. To come to Normandy and hear these people speak so glowingly of our gallant men is more moving than words can say. I wish all Canadians could have been with me on this trip."

Every major battlefield on the Normandy beach-head from Berniéres on the coast to the Trun Gap, was visited by Mr. King in his exhausting tour. The visit went on frfm morning until far into the night but he seemed to come through it more buoyantly than men half his 71 years.

Few places of Canadian importance were missed. Late Saturday night in the moonlight he and his party, which included Health Minister Claxton, Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier, Canadian Ambassador to France; Dana Wilgress, Canadian Ambasador to Russia; A. D. P. Heeney, clerk of the Privy Council and secretary to the Canadian Cabinet; Col. Maurice Forget, military attache at the Canadian Embassy in Paris, and Col. Charles Stacey, Canada's official historical chief, drove from Falaise to St. Lambert-sur-Dives in the centre of the Trun Gap and saw the spot where Maj. David Vivian Currie of Moose Jaw, Sask., won the Victoria Cross with tanks of the South Alberta Regiment of Medicine Hat, and a company of Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Hamilton, Ont.

In one of his last visits Sunday Mr. King went to the Chateau at Pavie where 19 of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles were murdered in June, 1944, by the 12th S. S. Regiment. Mr. King visited the scene of the shooting.

Following another visit to Caen where "O Canada" was played on the Cathedral organ, the party returned to Paris.

HOWE ANNOUNCES

Referring to the recent consolidation of all branches of housing sponsored by the government, Mr. Howe said the new organization is devoting its first energies toward ensuring the fulfillment of the government's target of 60,000 housing units by March 31, 1947.

"I need hardly point out the seriousness of present strikes," he warned. "Already the construction of houses and other forms of construction has been slowed down by the steel and other strikes. If the present situation continues, construction of all kinds will virtually come to an end within a month."

Announces 1947 Plan

The minister outlined the second part of the program, the making and implementing of a plan for the 1947 construction year.

The 1947 plan was the first part of the five-year program of 480,000 housing units. Steps would be taken to determine optimum distribution of the first target — 80,000 units — between metropolitan areas, other urban centres, and rural housing. In the metropolitan areas consideration was to be given to a desirable division between housing for rental and housing for sale. An appropriate division between houses built under government approved plans and houses built by private enterprise would be determined.

Want 80,000 Units

"I have already mentioned," Mr. Howe said, "that we are anxious as far as possible for private enterprise to meet the housing requirements and government schemes will only be used to make up any deficiencies as they become apparent."

Two prime objectives would be kept continuously before the government housing organization, namely to keep the carry-over of incomplete houses as low as possible, and to ensure the construction of 80,000 units in the year ending March 31, 1948. To accomplish this the minister said he realized any realistic plan or program would be in a continuous state of revision month by month. Many problems were involved. One of these was land assembly.

"There is not a plentiful supply of serviced land upon which to build the 1947 program," he said.

As for materials, methods would have to be considered to assure an ample supply, not only in the aggregate, but for housing requirements in each municipality.

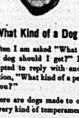
BE KIND TO ANIMALS

DR. BAKER'S COLUMN

Edited by Dr. Charles S. Baker, D.V.Sc.



What Kind of a Dog?

Often I am asked "What kind of a dog should I get?" I am prompted to reply with another question, "What kind of a person are you?"

There are dogs made to order for every kind of temperament.

Dogs have personalities as do people. The Scotch Terrier is usually a "one-man" dog. Fox terriers are highly strung and very active; the spaniels are quiet and sedate. There are old men's dogs, young men's dogs, ladies' dogs and children's dogs.

City people who live in apartment houses or flats do well to choose from among the smaller breeds—the Pomeranians, Pekes, Cocker Spaniels, Fox Terriers, Scotch, Irish or Wales Terriers—those breeds not exceeding 20 pounds.

This advertisement is approved and endorsed by THE SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Hi, MacPherson! . . .

. . . you're a grand wee fellow. You're a "one-man" dog we know, but a whole lot of people want to know and pet you.

As Scotch as the hills and as dour as his original breeders, the little Scottie is a friend who will repay in companionship, loyalty and devotion every kindness and attention his master can bestow.

Those are the attributes of all dogs—Scotties, pure breds and mongrels. The dog asks of us only kindness and understanding and will repay us many times over in faithfulness, loyalty and affection.

Apple Crop

Last year through the failure of the apple crop, Canadians saw one of their favorite fruits so scarce apples sold higher than oranges. This land of plenty which imports oranges had a scarcity to face in its own fruit.

But this year the signs are favorable. Already people have been eating the earlier apples, they have had apple sauce and also apple pie, the latter one of their favorite desserts.

The return of the apple will be a happy event for Canadians.

Apples provide the mainstay of the fruit industry in Canada and the value of commercial production averages about ten million dollars annually. In the year 1939 the production was 3,476,300 barrels for a value of $10,343,100 while in the previous year the crop of 5,222,004 barrels was worth $12,569,100.

The Weather

The exactness with which probabilities of the weather are forecast today has been much studied. In recent days the predications have been most exact as for instance on Saturday evening the clearing after rain. Now that people can know the weather as they will be able to take advantage of forecasts of weather, in arranging business or pleasure trips. The Weatherman admits that there is always to be allowed a margin of variation but results have been quite in accord with the forecasts.

The weather took a different course over the weekend as compared with what it had provided last week. There was the spell of cooler weather, ideal after the rain, possibly it dipped a little too much for some who were looking for an outing, but after the considerable amount of really warm weather it was a pleasing interlude, which man and crops could appreciate.

Elemental Power

Nature in all her moods, calm and sunshine, tornadoes, tempests, earthquakes, even the hour-by-hour progress of the weather serve as a reminder to mankind. Man has spent his whole existence in the lap of nature, because he is a very part of nature. In nature's presence the generations of men live; in wind, in heat and cold, he appears upon the stage of nature and her settings are always of profound importance to him. Time will never come when her varied aspects will not appeal to him.

In these latter years the world has witnessed much of the power of destruction which is in the elements of nature when man's hand has seen two displays of atomic power, in the use of the atomic bombs over the two Japanese cities, and the second display the tests at Bikini atoll. This latter has greatly gripped man. Atomic power suddenly to the world, though science was for a long time on its trail.

Now last week nature rose in her elemental might and struck through earthquakes and tidal waves swept against the frail settlements of man and crumpling and bashing his homes and taking toll of human life in the Caribbean. There have been intermittent tremors which have made man tremble when the things that seem stable are found to shake as if they were without foundation.

The earthquake man has always had with him on earth, though many will not fortunately little familiar with this manifestation of the wild power of nature. But the atom power has just come and man has brought it. So it is possibly not to be wondered at if some persons might hazard a guess there might possibly be a connection between man's use of the atomic energy and nature's outbursts. However scientists do not see any possible connection between Bikini and the quakes which hit the Caribbean region. There have been more disastrous quakes than those last week in the Caribbean, disasters as there have been volcanic eruptions which have caused widespread ruin and entailed the deaths of thousands, history records show.

Now whether for the first time has within his power atomic energy. Now he can use it, he confidently believes, for the improvement of the world, by lifting men's physical burdens. He must not use it as nature uses her mighty forces in storm and hurricane, he is taking every step to preserve it for human betterment and to prevent its use in war where its destructiveness might obliterate the race.

Man has learned through the ages to protect himself, his race against nature to a degree though nature in her wild cataclysms has exacted a terrible toll of life in hurricane, in earthquake, in fire.

If he can use A-energy for the betterment of the world by bringing nature's elemental forces to work for man in a way they have never done before, the human race will no doubt make gigantic strides in every field of effort. It has been recently predicted that in five or ten years use of the newly tested forces of nature wrenched from the atom may be applied to industry.

When Atomic Power Comes

A paper on nuclear research which was read at the recent meeting of the American Physical Society by Dr. Farrington Daniels of the University of Chicago's now famous Metallurgical Laboratory and which is reproduced in Science deserves far more attention than it has received, and this for the reason that it presents a picture of radioactivity which ought to rekindle the fears of atomic warfare in a public half-reconciled to blasts like Bikini and Nagasaki. If a few uranium piles were at work now generating power the meaning of radioactivity would be driven home every day.

Imagine yourself in the boiler room of an atomic power plant of the future. You see —what? Nothing but a mass of concrete within which lies the precious uranium. That concrete is at least five feet thick. The few men in the plant behave as if they are in the presence of death. And they are. Radioactive dust may settle on clothes, to be transferred by hands to food. When that happens the consequences may be serious. Worse still are scratches or abrasions through which radioactive particles may enter the blood stream. The men must wear rubber gloves, and they must change their clothing regularly and frequently. Physicians must watch their eating habits.

Dumping radioactive materials down a sink may well become a punishable offense because sewage is purified. Even the air must be cleansed by hoods, filters and precipitators. A trapped rat may be a menace. Dr. Daniels assures us that it cannot be thrown even into an ordinary collection can or buried because the wandering animal may eat its radioactive carcass and because disintegrated radio elements with a life of centuries will persist in the ground.

Laboratory technicians who must work with radioactive elements are exposed to all these dangers. Perhaps they will help to spread information which, though it has been given time and time again in the press, needs refreshing. Mankind has a way of accepting death and destruction. It builds its houses on the sides of active volcanoes and hunts for gold in fever-ridden jungles. After one generation of horror when a new high explosive is discovered apathy follows. And so it seems to be with the atomic bomb. But we are dealing not with "just another" weapon of war. We are toying with what Dr. Daniels calls "simple, silent, powerful giants," who are "waiting for man to decide between abundant life and race suicide." His message ought to be widely read.

JUST FOLKS

SUMMER COTTAGE

Life at a summer cottage is one of a thousand joys,
And a thousand strange distractions
and a thousand sorts of noise.
There is ever the squeak fn the stairway and ever the squeak in the floors.
And the racing feet of the children, and the ceaseless banging of doors.

Just try for a nap after dinner, and somebody's child falls down,
And the iodine bottle is empty and it's up for a trip to town!
Or the youngsters get into a squabble,
or soon it is time to swim—
And a little boy bent on swimming lets nobody silence him.

But this is the way it should be. With anguish my sould 'twould fill
To be in the cottage a minute if ever the place were still.
This purpose is youthful laughter and the noise of the children's play.
And if ever the doors stop banging I'll pack up and hurry away.

Commons May Prorogue On August 23 or 24

By JACK BRAYLEY

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP) — The Commons was prepared to place remaining government departments into supply today after a busy first Saturday session that knocked four more items off the order paper and given some assurance that prorogation Aug. 23 or 24.

There were some optimists who hoped the end of the marathon session might come a week from today.

A seven-hour session Saturday saw J. G. Gardiner tackle bills on the beautification of the national capital as part of the war memorial scheme, the re-instatement of veterans in civil employment, the establishment of a Canadian Legion to the immigration act and the continuation in peacetime of the dismissal powers of cabinet.

The Senate, which adjourned Friday, will meet again tomorrow night.

Reconstruction Minister Howe provided a pleasant interlude by treating news Saturday when he told Dr. Conningham that Fernand Chalifr, co-ordinator of housing, will become timber controller Aug. 15, succeeding David Sinclair, Liberg. He also said the report of the Royal Commission on coal would be completed at an early date.

Stopped With Amendment

The bill embodying government plans for the development of the national capital was adopted with an amendment by George Black-more (CCF—Yukon) to give each province representation on the Federal Capital Commission, which will have the task of supervising city development.

Before the veterans reinstatement bill passed, Labor Minister Mitchell announced that in 170,000 cases of reinstatement only two employers were prosecuted for attempts to violate the regulations.

British Columbia members occupied much of the time of the evening. They moved to have deleted a clause from the immigration bill which would have given permission for the return to Canada of persons who had been naturalized as citizens of the side of Canada's enemies.

Then they joined in calling for speedy action on the works department to get rid of the hazardous Rapid Rock, a navigation menace of the Pacific coast. They discussion brought from Todd Field (Liberal—Westminster) a suggestion that a small-sized Diefenbaker be built.

RECOMMENDED A DIVORCE

Camden, N.J., Aug. 12 (AP)—Husband for a day, that's what 36-year-old Jay Ferguson terms his first day in court. Actually, he told Camden Chancery Court judge in asking for divorce, he never married July 17, 1937, at Elkton, Md., "for more than a day." "The next day she told me she had enough of married life already. She went to her own home and never returned." Advisory Master Frank Hommendola a divorce for desertion.

aroused in capital military circles when full details of the 17-day itinerary of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery showed that he was taking time off for military business in Paris and at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont. Earlier it had been intimated that his visit was to be purely social.

When L.t.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, C.B., D.S.O., chief of the Canadian General staff, left for Britain last week to exchange views with the chief of staff of the British chief, it was declared the Field Marshal probably would also have time to discuss these questions when he made his brief tour of Canada.

The inclusion of staff conferences with the chief of Kingston might indicate Gen. Foulkes and Montgomery would be able to be able to go into the matter of training facilities, equipment standardization and closer liaison on these problems effect the Canadian Forces.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, Aug. 12. (CP)—Reliable information borne out by the attitude of party members at Commons Radio Committee sessions indicates the Progressive Conservative Party is going to make a concerted effort to have some suggestion on an independent radio, appeal board included in the committee's report to parliament.

They are supported by Social Credit members of the committee and if their wishes are overruled by Liberal and C.C.F. members, it is understood they will give battle in the Commons when the report is introduced there within the next week.

From the course of the questioning it is possible to surmise the committee majority likely will affirm the principle of public ownership of all high-power clear-channel transmitters fortified by privately-owned stations with community coverage.

The report may also suggest extension of CBC borrowing limit to carry out their $2,000,000 expansion and payment to the corporation of the full amount of broadcast licenses must that may increase the annual revenue by more than $300,000.

YOUNGSTERS TODAY SELDOM GET SECOND WIND

Athletic "training" is largely a process of getting rid of "wind," as the strength power or capability of the heart, particularly the right side of the heart, the object of the trick, which pumps blood through the lungs for purification by the loss of carbon dioxide (carbonic acid gas) which is blown off by the lungs and voluntary breathing of oxygenated or purified blood is then returned from the lungs to the left side of the heart to be pumped through the great artery (aorta) and the arterial system throughout the body.

As the right side of the heart develops the individual begins to get wind, as we commonly say—meaning he is able to run a hundred yards or up a few flights of stairs without getting quite out of breath or "winded," because his or her heart is now quicker, a greater amount of reserve power, to draw upon in such emergencies. The reserve power in the heart of the trained athlete is the difference between the treatment of patients with valvular heart trouble, although the valvular trouble may be considerably necessary as well as graduated exercise in the treatment of valvular trouble.

Second wind was a familiar phenomenon to youngsters when we had to run in Canadaigua. When I was a little kid to slide today they seldom know what I'm talking about. That is not so strange, because the traffic does not permit it as dangerous to run except in occasional spots in the country and off temporarily as for bicycle riders.

A healthy person breaths harder and faster with any vigorous exercise. Such drills on deep breathing up-hill, bicycle riding, in order to blow off more carbon dioxide and absorb more oxygen. If the vigorous exercise continues the breathing may become distress—breathe as hard as he will he can't get rid of enough carbon dioxide and get enough oxygen to satisfy the demand of the hard working tissues and cells. At this stage the heart becomes over-filled with blood, particularly the right ventricle which pumps blood to the lungs. Now for a minute or two he does not give up the effort, but presently, if he conquers the desire to quit and keeps on running he feels blessed relief, his lungs seem to expand and there is a surge of new vigor comes to his tiring muscles. This is "second wind." At this stage the heart recovers its efficiency to pump the venous blood (with its load of carbon dioxide) through the lungs again, and the person can continue running for miles or until he is overtaken by general fatigue.

Can the four-leaved clover be propagated?

There is no species of four-leaved clover. The four-leaved clover leaf containing four leaflets instead of the usual three.

All species of "Trifolium," including red clover, white clover and alsike, as well as many other species, produce individual plants that have a tendency to produce leaves with four or more leaflets. This tendency is particularly pronounced in white clover, Trifolium repens, a low-growing, creeping, white-flowered species common in pastures and lawns.

The four leaf clover more than three leaflets are mutants or variations that do not reproduce true to type from seed, but they can be propagated by cuttings.

A single white clover cutting has produced patches in which 50 percent of the leaves carried more than the normal three leaflets. Plants bearing leaves

Commons Sitting Tonight

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 12 (CP)—The American veterans of the Second Great War—and there are around 10,000,000 of them now in civvies—are busily exercising the rights wanted from the adjourned 79th Congress.

It will take more than 25 per cent of the total budget of $40,000,000,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30 to pay for benefits to veterans and their families.

The major veterans' organizations, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and the American Veterans' Committee, worked closely together to get the successful and orderly lobby.

Amendments to the National Service Law to insure job-saving, limiting conversion of service policies to a limited time, leave of ordinary insurance and permit lump-sum payments of dismissal salaries, was one of the most acceptable changes to the veterans.

Another important change in the amendment which makes it unnecessary for veterans and their families to take sharp pension cuts when the pensioner is sent to hospital.

The burial allowance for veterans was increased from $100 to $150 and the hospital and other facilities in the Veterans' Administration were ordered to be expanded and improved.

So far the new veterans have failed to come out but their organizations are already lining up future legislative programs to be launched when and if the necessity arises.

They will push for a veterans' job program, a housing program and for increased pensions and other benefits if wild inflation or other economic changes make such action necessary.

George ("Gotta Gag") Dixon, syndicated humorist-columnist, who is in Washington to cover the United States, is just back from Southern Europe and Asia and a party of his Washington writing colleagues visited him on an air line junket. If the Latins have a sense of humor—and they have—Dixon is finding that he's have returned intact—his collapsible typewriter mission probably will do more to improve relations than anything that has happened recently. It may be a coincidence but a few days after the junket to George's wise-cracking, Gen. Peron, president of Argentina, told an interviewer that if the United States ever got into another war his country would be in there fighting on the American side.

No Salvage Report On Jet Plane Near Blind River

Ottawa, Aug. 12. (CP)—Air Force headquarters said Friday they had received no progress report yet from a salvage crew working at Helsmer Lake near Blind River, where Flt. Lt. Bill McKenzie, "pitched" in R.C.A.F. jet fighter plane two years ago. Mechanics are nursing a 36-day ordeal in the bush country.

In command of Flt. Lt. J. C. Herbert, of Trenton, the salvage crew arrived on the scene several days ago and reported the speedy jet "is not resting on a sandy shoal in the otherwise deep-water lake. This will make their salvage task lighter.

It is planned that divers will affix deflated rubber pontoons to the sunken aircraft. These will be inflated to raise the plane and it will be floated to shore, hoisted on a lorry and conveyed to the nearest railway siding for shipment to Trenton.

Air Force regulations call for the salvage of all wrecks so that evidence of a technical nature can be given at the court of inquiry. The most important results of the salvage operation will be the attempt by air technicians to definitely establish the cause of the crash.

Simple and Convenient Treatment for HAY FEVER

What is LANTIGEN?

Lantigen is made in a Government Licensed Laboratory in Australia and therefore all their stringent regulations have to be adhered to. Lantigen is not a patent medicine—and is devoid of drugs. Lantigen is a vaccine in a DISSOLVED state.

Being a completely Oral Dissolved Vaccine, it is operative immediately it is taken. It is operative in two ways, firstly by absorbing into the open tissue, such as the tongue, throat, and intestinal tract, and secondly it is also operative by means of its distribution through the alimentary—stomach system. The antigens being fully released begin to immediately excite the system to produce antibodies, which in turn destroy the toxic poisons given off by the poisoned germs and also render the poison germs harmless.

LANTIGEN—A dissolved vaccine to be taken by mouth

Start your LANTIGEN treatment for hay fever at least one month before the usual onset of the infection

Hay Fever is due to a variety of causes. In the case of seasonal Hay Fever, attacks are precipitated by the presence of pollens, dust or other irritants in the air to which the patient is allergic. These irritants obviously do not cause Hay Fever but only bring on an attack to sufferers who are allergic to their effect — in other words, to a predisposition to Hay Fever which is present in the mucous membranes or the lining of the Bronchial tubes, and the poison, which is not, yet, definitely known, but which is known as Hay Fever. This is similarly demonstrated with certain ointments which cause irritation to the skin of people who cause a rash. Although in certain areas everyone breathes the air charged with pollens which bring on attacks in only about 20% of the population, the other 70% breathing the same air do not have attacks of Hay Fever. Therefore, the pollen laden air is not the cause of Hay Fever. In many cases the attacks of Hay Fever occur fight throughout the year, even when the allergic conditions such as ragweed pollen are absent. All this proves that a sensitivity exists in the mucous membrane or bronchial tissues, and as it exists, poisons.

It is from this background of facts that we have approached the treatment of Hay Fever. The specific treatment of Hay Fever by means of pollen extracts is well established. Our Bacteriologists have taken this study as a basis and have worked on a further discovery of the poisons that are found in the mucous membrane and Bronchial tissues so that an attack of Hay Fever will not be brought on by contact with the pollen, dust etc., or at least to greatly reduce the violence of the attack. The results are that Hay Fever or Asthma is closely related to sinus, antrum and catarrhal conditions, and that Lantigen has been successful as an oral vaccine for these conditions, to which we add an extract of mixed pollens. The clinical results have been excellent.

BANK ROBBERS PENNED

Atoka, Okla., Aug. 12—(AP)—Two bandit bank robbers, relentlessly pursued for four days, were penned up in the inaccessible Klamichi Mountains today as more than 100 police officers and fliers under brush-in an effort to flush them out. The pair robbed the First National Bank of Walters, Okla., of nearly $32,000 last Thursday, had the advantage of the rugged terrain in the southeast corner of the state, long a haven for bandits, but officers were so hot on their trail that once they could hear their voices.

Menu From Denmark Lists Choice Food at Low Prices

Not a souvenir of the days when all that was necessary to buy a first-class meal was to present a few pounds of a bill of fare in the Cakes Devonian restaurant in Copenhagen, but it seems like next to the Twelve-Course Meal Offered by Gordon Ave. Dated Saturday, June 29, 1946, there are 194 different dishes from which to choose, prices for below those charged in Canada.

The list was published by the "royalty of Denmark and a visitor whom it was said by a Dane to be "Comparable to a comment in sending the bill of fare was this: "Copenhagen is everyday in this city," where a thick juicy steak with a fried egg on top is just a snack. The menu is printed in English oyster sauce, 18 cents; with the prices in Danish currency. We give the approximate Canadian values. Here are a few of the "snacks":

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Before Marriage is the Time to Set the Pattern

Admittedly the little personal things in the relationship between a man and a woman—the thoughtful courtesy, the affectionate word or gesture, the simple gift— mean much more to the woman than they do to the man. Where the average man feels that having made her his wife he can not live without her, she should be willing to accept his declaration as their due and forgetful that the woman wants the sweetness and constant flow of the little, specific demonstrations, however trifling.

Sometimes she carries her emphasis on such things to heroic extremes. And this is wise wife who knows which small things are the important ones, and which are the ones to be tolerant about.

Among the former—the things that are important between man and his wife—I definitely place common courtesy. And it's the common courtesy that many people slip up right here. They love each other, but they don't take as much trouble to be courteous to each other as they do to be polite to others. It's odd but unfortunately true. Once the wedding ceremony is over they them sure of each other, they relax.

Here's a girl who's worried, even tho' she's married, about this very thing.

She writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am 19, and am engaged to a fellow who is 23. He is very very much and he says he loves me.

"Lately there has been a change in him. He forgets the little things which are so very important to people. He forgets to offer me a cigarette when he takes one. He lets me stand alone while he talks to people he forgets that I like him to hold my hand once in awhile and not act as if we have been married for years instead of just engaged for a few months. And there are other little incidents of the same nature.

"Before we were engaged, this never happened, so I know he doesn't have to be told. I think he has just forgotten his manners for a while.

"Tell me, do all men do that after they're married, or am I wrong? I don't want to hurt him, or anything like that, and please don't get the impression that we are always "Arguing" over our little spats, but not often, and everyone has arguments once in awhile.

"The only thing that I want to know is can I tell him, or show him, that by his forgetting all these little things in life he's beginning to put a doubt in my mind about his love for me?

"Anxious".

Yes, "Anxious", as I said in the beginning, most men do seem to attach less importance than women do to the little things, and so have a tendency to forget them. But don't let the fact that your fiance seems to have begun a little early to slide into his premarital decision in your mind about his love for you. It's not likely that it's his love that's at fault. The chances are it's just what you yourself say—his manners.

And it's very right that you should tell him so on this, because right now is the time for him to bring into the habit of being properly courteous to you. Set this pattern before marriage, and after you're his wife, it'll be second nature to him.

How can you tell him, or show him, that he should act more courteously toward you? Well, I doubt whether there is any effective way you can show him. I think you'll have to tell him. And of course you won't start deadly serious about it. No quarrel or heaven forbid—cry! Just the light touch but make it plain that you really mean it. You can be diplomatic. You must be careful not to appear by word to sense how to do it.

But right now is the time! Don't wait till after you're married.

Smart Slacks Suit

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

SHOWN IS a pretty neat slack suit—nice with or without the jacket. Make the jacket yellow with it. Of dull blue flannel in a light weight weave, it is cut very simply. The attractive blue and brown color scheme is enhanced by the brown leather belt. The straight trousers have a scalloped bottom. The separate blouse has its own matching ascot. The seams across the jacket shoulders are released for extra fullness across the bust.

Fashion Flashes

The contrast of color is used to spice up smartly simple daytime dresses for general wear. An early Fall frock in this category is of nutty draped black wool jersey in aqua, gold, American Beauty or gray. Large black V inserts are joined at the shoulder and on the hips for color contrast. The fabric soft front fullness; bodice is softly draped. Self belt.

Distinction and beauty are conferred on a dress by a touch of fine lace. The black crepe after-five frock, cut on straight, simple lines, with elbow sleeves and high, rounded neckline has as an insert of lace around the bodice, at the waist, around the hips and near the hem. Underlays of nude satin show up the fine black Chantilly-type lace.

New charm is extant in high-bracket hostess gowns and negligees prepared for Autumn wear. Silmply cut black satin is used for a lovely hostess gown, made with bracelet- length let-o'-caution sleeves. Rows of tiny tucked pleats at the waist. Rounded hips slim down to a fresh-all narrow skirt. A very low, satin-edged square of black net, with ruffled neckline, makes the bodice top, through which can be discerned a pink and blue bra-shaped satin insert.

The interest continues to center on sleeves. One designer gives sleeves down to the cuff rich with metallic thread embroidery, sequins, beads or stones. A tiny collar with matching embroidery dresses up otherwise quite plain after-five fashions.

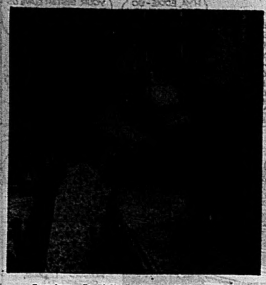
Hungry? Then You're Healthy



Songstress Jo Stafford takes pride in her cookery.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DO YOU LIKE to eat? Do you look forward to the dinner hour with pleasure and anticipation? Do you love to sniff the appetizing smells that come from the kitchen? If so, you are a healthy girl, not likely to be troubled with many beauty problems. Your digestive motors are in order, your nervous system steady.

Do you have goosie flesh at the thought of food? Does the sight of a pork chop put your teeth on edge? Do you sit down to the table thinking "I have to eat, I suppose, so here goes?" If you are that girl you are not in a tiptop state of health. Some part of the physical system is out of kilter. A normal individual has a normal healthy appetite.

Destroyer Appetite

Food that is not properly cooked or served daintily will destroy appetite. Cooking in America is not the fine art that it should be. Every wife and mother should endeavor to become a culinary expert.

It should be her pride and her pleasure to offer to her family simple, nourishing meals that appeal to all of them. If Daddy and the kids are properly fed there will be less worry about sickness.

Hurried meals are a strain on the digestive organs. It was never intended that we should gobble and run as so many people do at breakfast time.

Argue at Dinner

People who argue and quarrel at the dinner table are plain crazy or ignorant. For one thing, it is a demonstration of bad manners, a bad example to set before the children. It creates emotional strain that interferes with digestion.

Dinner should be a pleasure, a time when every member of the family has something pleasant or interesting to offer in the way of conversation. All these matters of family habit have an effect upon the appearance of the daddy, the mamma and the young ones.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Friendly Spirit Creates Facial Radiance

One quality of beauty that every woman should cultivate is friendliness. When the facial expression of the bath-tub, the sunshine and cream, the mud pack, the manicure, or the dry goods counter, or the 'phone is a pasted-on smile or a lemon? She might as well wrap herself the weakly sops in the boudoir and stay there. Nobody wants artificial luxuries by cold.

She wanted dignified features with make-up. The slender form has little appeal if it carries the soul of a rollicksnake.

What makes a woman a lemon? An over-developed sense of her own importance, maybe? A hello-then-thou attitude? Perhaps she has no tolerance for those who don't think or act precisely as she does.

It's too bad that mirrors can't reflect our souls.

Let every woman who would be beautified and beloved try it herself, at least once a day, "Dear Lord, help me to be tolerant. Help me to be friendly, gracious, thoughtful." No woman is so wise that she can set herself up as an oracle, believe that her way was infallible, right.

There is one line that is nearly always fatal—gossip, diverting, talking others what they should do.

Another is a great unconsciousness in trying to change the circumstances of those people lives.

Personal beautifying is a duty. Good appearances engenders self-respect. It contributes, to a certain extent, to happiness. It is part of the technique of living, like putting one's clothes on hangers instead of to the dentist's office floor, or answering the boss in order, answering letters promptly.

Beautifying the character and spirit is an ever more important duty. It makes for pleasant friendly life. It is a wonderful satisfaction to feel that one has learned through experience, that one won't keep on making the same mistakes, that—as the years advance one will become free of prejudices, more mellow, more lovable.

If a woman can't get along with herself or her fellow creatures it is because she is blind to her defects. Why rail people the wrong way? Why start arguments? It is senseless.

It is too bad that we haven't mirrors to reveal our souls, as we have mirrors that reflect our faces. Some women would be shocked to find that they are back-biters, that they withhold affection and sympathy when others are perishing for kindly, friendly consideration.

Beauty doesn't look to be. Observe the clenched jaws of the heavy woman, the dragged-out look of the witcher, the sharp, cold eyes of the calculating adventurer. Worth thinking about, all that.

Hands out for the dreamiest bags seen since before the war. Jewelled frames, gold bracelet handles and gold bands decorate fine suedes and mochas.

By VERA WINSTON

THE DRESS-UP dress that isn't too fancy, so that it fits smartly yet unobtrusively into any daytime social event, is a rare gem. Pastel or black crepe is used for a dress of this type that is made with a simple neckline, slit part way down, a good fell for jewelry. The pannier pockets at the hip are draped from a V section below the tie string belt. The narrow skirt has a small slit centre front and the cap sleeves are double for extra measure.

EVEN THOUGH we are going in for shorter skirts, the full hat remains, the open crown appears in advance models. This black felt is used for the brim of an open-crown hat, the full crown being of navy and brown-striped grosgrain ribbon. Short veil has polka dots.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Concerning Losses and Lads

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a girl meets and knows a boy for a short time (for example, in the Summer) and the boy returns to his home some distance away, who should be the first to write when nothing had been mentioned about corresponding?

2. When a girl meets a boy on the street, who should speak first, the girl or the boy?

3. At a school dance, when all the girls in my group have been asked to dance and I am left alone, what do you suggest I do?

4. Every week a group of us girls goes on a bus to swimming instructions, and just lately I have been doing some thinking about the way we have been behaving. When we enter the bus, we take up a great deal of room, more than is really necessary, and so crowd the other passengers. We make a great deal of noise, again more than is necessary, singing, shouting, sometimes yelling to one another, and while doing this, we push against the other passengers. Until now I took this conduct as quite natural and certainly did my share of the pushing and shouting, but lately I have noticed that most people look at us with a very annoyed, disgusted expression, and I have begun to wonder if it isn't very rude of us to make so much commotion and noise. I'd like to talk over with the girls what you advise. Of coffee. I don't want them to think I'm a "wet" . . . but, on the other hand, I don't want anyone to think I'm a rowdy.

M.

1. It is generally expected that the boy start the correspondence, particularly when he is the one who leaves first. But the girl may, if she wishes, send the boy a greeting card or picture postcard . . . though not too soon after his departure!

2. The girl always has the privilege of speaking or bowing first . . . but usually there is, and quite naturally, a simultaneous greeting of recognition.

3. If this is the only time you are left alone during the dance, I suggest you be candid about it; either (1) waiting there unselfconsciously until the others return, or (2) joining another group for the few minutes of waiting, or (3) going to the dressing room. If, however, this being left-alone occurs too often during the school dances or other dances, you should analyze your dancing and see if the fault is there. To be a success at the dance, a girl just must dance well . . . and in these days she has opportunity to learn.

4. I can very heartily by this pleasure is often in her family simple, nourishing meals that appeal to all of them. If Daddy and the kids are properly fed there will be less worry about sickness.

"Woe is me—to think I'd never get time to a tempting bowlful of those nutty-rich, nut-sweet Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes!"

"Forgive me, Dear! But I'd never be able to carry on myself, without Grape-Nuts Flakes' carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscles; and phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood and other food essentials!"

"Farewell, Rest, Hubert — and be sure to bake the children some Grape-Nuts Flakes cookies from the recipe on the package!"

The Bicycle that came out of an Apple Barrel!

"You must think bicycles grow on trees!" said Billy's father, when the young lad suddenly announced that he wanted a new bike. But although no one would expect such a thing . . . the bicycle grew on Farmer Brown's apple tree, anyway!

In quite a magic kind of way, many other strange things grew on those apple trees, too. It all started when the barrels or crates of apples were sent across the sea to London, where everyone was hungry for Canadian apples. The English people were glad to get our apples, and to pay for them they shipped us some fine china dinnerware.

Billy's mother was delighted to see her favourite china again . . . so one day she went to town to help Billy buy his new bicycle with the apple dollars, and there was enough money left to pay for a new set of dishes, too.

By this magic chain of exporting and importing, the English families had fresh apples, and the Canadian ladies had pretty dishes . . . and there was still enough money over to buy the bicycle that was made here in Canada. But most important of all, many jobs were created. There was a better living for the farmer, the bicycle factory mechanics, the storekeepers and many more. Everyone got something which they would have had to do without if it were not for Canadian trade abroad.

You were in this, too. For, at least 35 cents of every dollar you make comes directly or indirectly from Canadian exports and imports. Think of this again—one-third of all the money you earn comes from our trade with other countries.

What you can do to help your prosperity

1 Even if you have to wait a bit for many of the things you want, by sharing with nations overseas now you are helping to fill your own pay envelope . . . and also insuring your own job or business for future years. So be patient and wise, and help Canada take care of her customers across the sea.

2 If you help to make or produce any kind of merchandise, put your best into the work. Then Canadian goods will be asked for, and preferred, in other countries. Your sincerity will pay off in better jobs and higher wages.

Everyone who buys or sells merchandise abroad makes jobs in Canada. That is why we have a Foreign Trade Service in the Department of Trade and Commerce. It maintains able trade commissioners in 29 countries, and an experienced export and import staff at head office, to collect the most-up-to-date information on foreign markets and give practical help to every business that wishes to buy or sell in other countries.

Chips Off The Sports Block

Softball Tie-Off Tonight

With the city senior softball title already decided, the SACOS will gird their athletic loins tonight and test out on the Park diamond, confident that they can break the misery of the Dodgers-Army and Navy flashes in the first game of a two-of-three series to decide the intermediate "A" representatives for the city.

SACOS took the powerful Point Anne team in their stride in two games straight, and feel they can take the measure of the veterans' squad via the same abbreviated route. Flashes, however, have other ideas. They have the edge in hitting on their rivals but the Marines have a sturdy hurling staff and that makes the squads about even. Mixed Doubles Star Bert Rex Young, and Max Peoples will probably give tall Jim Hunter the "go" sign for the mound job. The games start at 6:45.

In the other side of the city at the Alemite Field, SEACOS and Latin, fresh from recent victories over Kiwanis Juniors will tangle at scheduled Bellevilles Baseball Association joust. Both teams show marked improvement of late and the battle tonight should be one of those thrillers. Latin will faithful fête to see. No dope on the starting hurlers but our guess is Joe Marsh against either Titus or "Chuck" Hardigan. Details of this game, goes up at 6:30 p.m.

• • •

Stan. Hagerman, member of the former Belleville and Ontario Baseball League squads that represented this city, informed this desk that Jim Dorris, Peterboro sports columnist, in turn informed him that the "Abbie" Rose Memorial Game between Dorris for Selects, August 24th. The Peterboro boy is in charge of the Rose Game activities have secured the services of Jimmy Foxx who will oppose a Peterboro squad. The game has been set for 5:45 p.m. on that date, due to baseball games taking place earlier in the afternoon.

The late "Abbie", it will be recalled, especially by the former OBA fellers of old city ere were present, died following a heart seizure complicated with flu. The late Old Boys game last year in Peterboro was the most successful known in the circuit and those who attended the game will recall his fine ability, sportsmanship and other qualities of a baseball star as an athlete and a gentleman.

• • •

There is little doubt that a goodly number will be on hand "Abbie's" old friends, and former diamond "enemies" to witness the Memorial Game, and pay a last tribute to a baseball player, athlete, and a friend. The date has been set for August 24th at Peterboro with the game called at 5:45 p.m.

Jim Dorris stated that a large crowd should be present, and that one nearly overflowed into the river is expected to be on hand. Twenty prizes from 5 to $100 in merchandise, and including an enlarged radio, a $75 wrist watch, $50.00 bond and a $100 bond are on display for during the game. Longball hitting will be featured in retrig. lnia an 1899 Model Stanley Steamer.

Goodmans' softball juniors, who defeated a boy in the first round of the OABA playdowns last week, have handed their softball hands before starting on the long trail to the provincial finals, and the anxious to play exhibition games with and for baseball as to whom they play. Vern. Geyer, 32 pound athlete, (he gained that extra pound since the bundle arrived from heaven a few weeks ago) leaves for Toronto today where he will go into training for the Dominion championship meet . . . football squad. Geyer's freshman on the team last year, won his spurs as a fine, fast back and Jack Argo gang lost little time in contacting the big frolic after the season was over and the championship was decided.

He should have little trouble making the varsity this year, for he has kept himself in good shape all winter and summer with hockey, softball, basketball, etc. to say nothing of building a new home for "little Miss Geyer."

Rumors prevalent that Coach "Speedy" St. Louis of the Kiwanis Juniors baseball entry in the Belleville Baseball Association intends to ask representatives of the city in the OBA playdowns next Saturday, contact with Ray Sawyer, contact that another coach had been approached, at Madden dash over the weekend.

The veteran coach himself has no fear of the OBA champs and that killed the series going the rounds. "The team that wins the best of 3 along the last two or three games," opened Speedy, "is the winner and the championship tasked to the limit."

"I decided," he went on, "if the fault was mine, or that the team as a whole had no confidence in me, that I would resign, providing they could find someone better, or that the kids thought would do a better job. We held a meeting the team, myself, manager Jack McVeigh and others of the Kiwanis committee, and the players voted that I remain in there."

• • •

"I did not want to quit the team, nor do I now. I am not a quitter and after all they are my kids, from baseball point of view. The Kiwanis Club is the sponsoring organization but the boys are mine, and I care for some years. Quitting the team especially when it is in some part of a league, is not the thing I would do, but I made up my mind that if it was my fault or that the players had no confidence in me, then it would withdraw, for the team's sake."

"These juniors are of championship calibre. They proved that a year ago — and have proved it in every game this year. True, they have not played up to their usual form in the last two or three games, but show me a squad that does not have its off moments. I have the greatest faith in these kids and I know now they believe in me. Jack McVeigh, the manager has been of the greatest assistance to me, and so has to the team individually and as a whole. Officials of the local Kiwanis Club who are actively interested with the team, are also in there pitching and helping out in a fine manner," St. Louis said.

"The team with a lot of armchair coaches and alleged baseball experts is the team that they scream to the high heavens when a team is going badly. They are the first to help out in early season prehistoric days, when it was the cold shoulder. They shout their loud mouths off at the homeslops when anything does not pan out the way they figure it should. If the boys were known, the majority of them would be ashamed to appear as any in a three-legged race. No, they are not to be found in the bleachers, or stand around the pool-rooms and other places and tell the world how a team should be managed. They are the same sidewalk "Happy Chandlers" privie up to the ball park on Saturday afternoons and somehow these fellers in an effort to help out with any kind of a team — unless there is something in it for them."

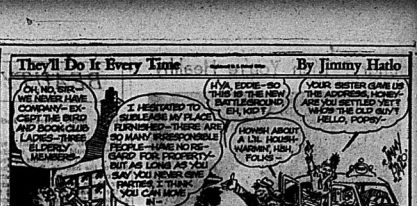
LIKELY HAVE LEFT DISTRICT

Atwood, Aug. 10—(CP)—The cash haul for three robberies at Atwood yesterday after an unsuccessful attempt to rob the post office, today was moved further afield with the reported theft during the night of two cars at Monkton, 8 miles south of here. Atwood is a Perth county village 20 miles north of Stratford.

Police say they believed the three men had hidden out in the farm lands near Atwood yesterday and then got away from the district in the two cars stolen last night.



INT. LOOP FANS CONCENTRATE ON PLAYOFF BERTHS

Montreal Has 14½-Game Lead With Only 34 Games to be Played

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal's 14 1-2-game lead with only 34 to play has forced International League fans to concentrate on the battle for playoff positions rather than the flag "race." They're getting a run for their money from Baltimore, Buffalo, Newark and Syracuse, separated by only three games in the fight for the three vacant berths.

All the clubs in "Shaw" Shapiro's sweep whipped doubleheaders yesterday, leaving Baltimore in second place, half a game ahead of Buffalo with Newark another game back and Syracuse 1 1-2 games behind the Bears.

Buffalo and Newark concluded their season series with the Yankee farmhands enjoying a 13-9 edge in games. After bowing to rookie Ted Gray's slants in the opener, 4-3, the Bears came back to square matters, 5-2, as Steve Peek parcelled out four hits.

Montreal's leaders poured it on Baltimore, 15-4, in the first game, backing up Jean Pierre Roy with a 16-hit attack to delight 18,000 fans. Ed Robinson's second homer of the day and fifth of the season helped the Orioles even matters, 6-2.

Syracuse missed a chance to pick up some ground on the other contenders when the second game to lowly Toronto, 4-3, after grabbing the opener, 9-4, in 12 innings. Hank Sauer's second homer won the first tilt in the third overtime frame.

Lefty John Mikan, Rochester's most dependable hurler, shattered nine Jersey hits in winning the first tilt. Mary Grissom stopped Rochester 1-0 in the finale.

Stymie Defeat Strong Field In Whitney Stakes

(By The Canadian Press)

The one-time player, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, defeated a strong field Saturday to take the $50 first money in the 19th renewal of the Whitney Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N.Y. The five-year-old had two lengths to spare over Mahout and Tryneence, the latter being last year's winner. Stymie has now earned $289,710 in 87 starts including 19 victories and has passed Alsab and Assault to earn fifth place among the turf's money winners.

Calumet Farm, Chicago, Say Blue, a 14-to-1 shot, won the $50,000 first prize in the Princess Pat Stakes for two-year-old fillies. Rubble Bubble, another long shot, finished second, more than three lengths back of the winner. The favored Four Winds and Fairy Foot were well to the rear.

Winners of the doubles title in 1937 and 1940, Gordon Robinson of Stamford and Ned Spafford of Niagara Falls, Ont., are starting today in quest of a repeat in the post-war revival of the Great Lakes tennis tournament at Erie, Pa.

Infielder Augie Galan of Brooklyn Dodgers said yesterday the Mexican Baseball League was flooding every team in both major circuits with offers to key ball-tossers to go south and suggested the owners "may wake up without ball clubs."

President Jorge Pasquel of the Mexican Baseball League warned baseball officials of Mexico City he would make every effort to induce Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Bob Feller of Cleveland Indians to cross the Rio Grande. The star players immediately announced they had no intention of making the jump.

Foreign Secretary Bevin of Great Britain watched baseball at Paris yesterday for the first time, then left after "I've seen enough." I might have been — the final score of the game was 21 to 20.

BEN HOGAN WINS CANADIAN OPEN WITH 281 SCORE

Raises His Earnings to $29,500, Some $9,300 Better Than Nelson

By WILF GRUBON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, Aug. 12 — (CP) — To the list of Ben Hogan's tournament victories — nine so far this year — has been added the $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfer's Association Open which says he "had no business to win."

He did win it, nevertheless, and the pressure was probably never greater as he threw off a stout challenge Saturday by that golfing-farmer from Arkansas City, Kan., Dick Metz, to win on the 18th hole of their final round that saw Metz muff his approach shot, a chance to tie, and by a difference between victory and a playoff-tie.

All came until the 18th the Hershey, Pa., golfer got down in a standard par shot to Metz' bogie five for a four-under par 68 and a 72-hole total of 281, a stroke better than Metz' 282 which brought him second-place prize money of $1,400.

The $2,000 that Hogan, the game's top money winner this year, gained for his effort raised his earnings to $29,500, some $9,300 more than this year's earnings of Byron Nelson of Toledo, O.

The five-foot perfectionist won over 9 field that included some of the best and who couldn't match what Hogan said was the "worst golf of my career." It was so bad, he said, there was no one any more surprised than himself when he had won.

First Win Since June

It was his first victory since the Goodall round-robin at Memorial Park, Flint, in early June, and played in six tournaments after that and when he failed to place any better than fourth he decided he'd get a real vacation by not fishing for several days at Minaki, Ont.

The brush-up from at least a two-month vacation from the links has increased shots before and after his regular rounds to try to find out where he had gone sour. So serious did he bear down that one day he went out during a heavy rain to practice and though no one else but those playing tournament rounds stayed out.

British Open champion Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and Ellsworth Vines of Chicago tied for third place with 283, Snead leader at the three-quarter mark, but fired a par-equalling 72 on his final round and Vines, the pace-setter after the first and second 18, a three-under par 69.

Vancouver's Freddie Wood, top Canadian pro, was with 290 and was tied with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C. for eighth place in the entire field. Stan Horne, 295, was second among the Canadians and Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Gordon Brydson of Toronto third with 295.

Phil Farley of Toronto led the amateurs with 294, a stroke better than the 295 of Nick Weiskopf, Ontario Open title holder.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 12 — (CP) — Britain's dog racing, as one expert writer is almost sure to quip, "going to the dogs".

Taken in terms of box-office and betting appeal, greyhound racing has advanced far beyond the puppy stage and the two meetings-a-week at the 30-odd tracks around the country keep turnstiles clicking at a clip now surpassed only by the almost fantastic tote figures.

With this upsurge in the sport, there have been confirmed and unconfirmed reports of dog-doping; owners have doubled and trebled entries; dirty owner dogs and stadium managers have strengthened their track police. Strong-arm methods against would-be hooligans seem to be the order the day.

Crowd excitement reached a high pitch at Hardingay and White City, two London tracks, during the week. At Harringay incensed bettors started to smashed windows and were bent on wrecking the place until police were cooled off by hastily-summoned firemen and police. The flare-up was a demonstration of their displeasure at the judge's decision on a race.

The same "let's-tear-the-place-apart" attitude was adopted by the crowd at White City two days later.

This "mob rule" drew some fire from sports writers and outspoken Peter Wilson, Sunday Pictorial columnist, didn't pull any punches in his criticism. He said "a crime-wave has hit the dog tracks" and compared the sport to "the days of the gangsters" as seen "in Sing Sing and Alcatraz." He went on:

"The scum of humanity and the dregs of society, who, unfortunately, seem more attracted by this sport than by any other, have their own reasons for these acts of criminal gangsterism. The sinister thing about the Harringay riot was the way that a hard core of some 30 men ignored the giddy-headed burning and wrecking and went straight for the tote, where there are those hundreds of pounds in notes to be plundered.

"I do not say that these thugs incited the riot. But they were mighty quick to turn it to their own dirty advantage.

"The same must be handled toughly—even though no decent man would want to dirty his hands on them."

Wilson noted that the number of attendants at Harringay had been doubled since the outburst and added that "any sordid little thug who thinks he can pull an Al Capone will find that he's taken on a mouthful too big for his teeth." Such an approach as false as the rest of him.

Once a crowd gets out of hand, the police authority with the flinty eyes can get to work with a vengeance—and next time it may not only be money and property that are lost," he warned.

200 CHICKS DESTROYED

Woodstock, Aug. 10 (CP)—Two hundred young chicks perished in a fire which destroyed a brooder house early today on the west road premises of John Pattinson. Firemen prevented the flames from spreading to an adjoining barn. Cause of fire was not immediately known.

BASEBALL RULES

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS OF RULES

DELAYING THE GAME

If a batter is standing in his proper position in the batter's box the pitcher is not permitted to throw the ball to any player other than the catcher except in an attempt to retire a base runner.

If a pitcher repeats this motion after a warning by the umpire he shall be removed from the game. The exceptions to this rule are as follows: (a)—at the commencement of each inning the pitcher is permitted to "warm-up" with five practice throws not exceeding one minute or (b)—when a pitcher relieves another pitcher during the course of the game.

BY SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

With nothing else to guide him, your partner should follow such popular rules as: bid and raise low; third, hand high; cover an honor; never finesse against your partner.

These are good maxims for a palooka who is just learning to talk, bridge. But you are a big gift now. Or one of the other genders. You should be able to modify trite sayings to fit circumstances.

For instance, when partner leads a fourth best, apply the rule of 11. It tells you how many higher cards in that suit are held by the others. If it tells you to finesse against partner, do so.

Sit east when your partner leads the deuce of spades. Dummy is the north hand that will be exposed. You are now able to see these spades.

NORTH
♠K 7 4

WEST ♠ 2 EAST ♠A J 5

If dummy does not put on the king, will you run with the ace? Of course not. It would be unworthy of you. If I caught you doing such a thing, I would turn over in my gravest mood.

Read partner's lead as his fourth best. Win with the ace in my and three in your own hand, south must have three spades. So, you need not fear having your ace trapped on the next round.

Play your jack on that trick. It is a finesse against partner. And if south has the queen, it will win the trick. So what? Such a queen would have taken a trick no later if not now.

You still have the ace and the king trapped. It should keep the opponents from taking any more spade tricks. If you went at once with your ace, opponents get two tricks with queen and king.

More than likely, however, partner has the queen and your jack would hold the first trick. It may keep declarer from all the spades.

When should you finesse against partner's lead? When holding at least four, is higher than the unplayed high one in dummy.

A wrong may be right in the proper place.

Cards Breathing on Necks Of Loop-Leading Brooks Due To Hitting by Musial, Slaughter

Sweep Both Ends of Double-Bill From Reds While Phillies Nick Dodgers Twice

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

St. Louis Cardinals once more are breathing on the necks of the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers, principally because of the prodigious stickwork of their great one-two punch, Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter.

Led by these thumping twins, the runner-up Cards swept both ends of a doubleheader from Cincinnati Reds 15-4 and 7-3 yesterday to advance within half a game of the Dodgers, who lost twice to their erstwhile "cousins," Philadelphia Phillies.

Musial and Slaughter, who between them lead the National League hitters in six of the eight major offensive departments enjoyed one of their best batting days of the season, with Musial getting eight hits in 10 times at bat and Slaughter six in nine.

The Reds staged a batting display of their own in the eighth inning of the opener, tying the league record when Grady Hatton, Ray Mueller and Max West hit successive home runs.

Apparently aroused by Chicago Cubs General Manager Jimmy Gallagher's statement that they "all every time the Dodgers come into their park", the Phillies relased all their fury on six Brooklyn pitchers and downed the Brooks twice 7-6 and 8-4. The pair of victories marked the first time Philadelphia had beaten the Dodgers at Shibe Park since Sept. 10, 1944.

New York's largest crowd of the season—72,320 paid—saw the Yankees and American League-leading Boston Red Sox divide a doubleheader.

Limited to Two Hits

Three hits by catcher Hal Wagner, which drove in as many runs helped the Red Sox to a 7-5 victory in the first game while Lefty Joe Page, limited the Sox to two hits in the abbreviated second game which the Yankees won 9-1.

Hal Newhouser, 20-game winner, went down to his fifth defeat when Chicago White Sox trounced Detroit's Tigers twice, 3-0 and 4-3. The second game lasting 12 innings.

Bobby Feller was called in as a relief pitcher as Cleveland earned a split with St. Louis Browns, winning the second game 4-3, after the Browns had won the opener 3-2.

The collar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates overcame a 3-1 Chicago lead to nose out the Cubs 10-9 in the first game of a doubleheader then they came from behind with two eighth inning runs to earn a 4-4 tie in the nightcap, halted by Pennsylvania's curfew law.

After Johnny Sain registered his 12th victory for Boston Braves with a 10-2 triumph over New York, the Giants came back to win the second game, 9-6. A three-run homer by Sid Gordon in the ninth broke up a 6-6 tie.

Bobo Newsom gained his 10th victory of the season, 6th seventh for his new Washington team, when he defeated his former Philadelphia Athletic teammates 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader. The A's came back to pound three Senator hurlers for 15 hits and a 12-5 victory in the second game.

Windsor Qualifies For Finals in Nat. Sandlot Congress

London, Ont., Aug. 12 — (CP) — Windsor Auto Wreckers qualified for the finals of the National Sandlot Baseball Congress here Saturday by edging out Toronto Columbus Grads 2-1 in a semi-final game at Labatt Park. They were to meet Stratford Nationals, undefeated in this Congress competition, Saturday night but were rained out. They will meet this night to decide the championship.

Windsor to date has lost one game, while Stratford has lost non. If Windsor should win tonight the teams will be even and the issue will be decided in a second game Thursday night.

In a Saturday semi-final, Windsor's Al Doumouchelle had the edge on Hap O'Donnell in a tight pitching duel. Doumouchelle yielded only six hits while O'Donnell scattered ten.

A triple by Hodgins followed by singles from Jones and Clark gave the Wreckers their two runs in the second inning. Toronto's lone marker came in the first frame when Goberis batted in Furlong who walked.

The Saturday night washout, first such postponement in Congress play here in three years, was fortunate for Windsor. It will enable Al Doumouchelle, who has accounted for two Windsor victories to take the mound. Harry Fisher is expected to take on the hurling chore for Stratford.

Propaganda Machine Working in Canada Says Premier Drew

Fort Frances, Aug. 12 —(CP)— Premier Drew of Ontario said in an address here yesterday that "a propaganda machine is now operating in Canada deliberately misconstruing matters of great importance to the whole of the country."

The Premier, visiting Fort Frances on the third day of a three-week tour of northwestern Ontario, said: "The time has come for frank talk on the misrepresentation going on, calculated to give all of Canada, and particularly the western provinces, a false view of Ontario's position in current relations with the federal government."

Mr. Drew referred to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and said: "It is not fair to the whole of Canada for individual stations of this network to distort the issue of Ontario, the other provinces and their relations with the federal government . . .

"I asked the CBC for three periods of half an hour each, but was told that I could have only one period of 30 minutes, which is not sufficient to give the complete figure. I was told by CBC officials that this would set a precedent, yet the Toronto Daily Star has been getting two periods a day for two years."

Mr. Drew said there was "no single influence in Canada so destructive to national interest" as "the Prairie newspapers." They had "systematically" misrepresented the Ontario position in the recent Dominion-Provincial conference.

He mentioned specifically the Winnipeg Free Press and other newspapers of the Sifton group.

Previously the winner of the Kansas City Open and the Durham, N.C., Open, Frank Strazahan of Toledo yesterday copped the western amateur golf championship at Duluth, Minn.

Don McNeill of Orange, N.J., yesterday defeated Gardner Mulloy of Florida in five sets to win the Eastern Grass Court tennis championship at South Orange, N. J.

CHAPTER VI

It might be the one and only trip of her life. She might spend the rest of her days paying for it. But it would be, glorious and daring. Or, at least, part of it. More and more of her spare hours were devoted to reading fast and fiction relating to travel, and anything, everything. Vino's old atlas she carried to the office and hidden behind the desk for ready reference. Jacqueline Anthony because a confirmed globe-trotter with a tolerant smile for acquaintances who observed and twitted her good-naturedly about her hobby.

There was but one trouble. If only there were some way to speed that cash reserve in the saving bank. It was a chance remark from old Martin Jacobs that showed her the way.

Jacqueline knew very little about Mr. Jacobs, save that his association was somewhat irregular in an elderly man; he carried a stick and wore a flat silk hat; calls were usually prolonged by an attempt to chat and a little heavy gallantry.

"How would you like to make some money?" had been his unexpected question to the stenographer. "You could use it, I dare say?"

"Of course," was Jacqueline's cautious reply.

"Do you ever invest in stocks, my dear?"

"No, sir."

"I'm amazed! You're probably the only girl in the city who does not." Mr. Jacobs lowered his voice. "Let me give you an inside tip. Watch an industrial called Southern Furnace. Something nice is going to happen to it. Buy some shares and hold them. You'll thank me, my dear girl."

Jacqueline pondered the information; she ventured some discreet questions to Archibald Potter, the first time she had an opportunity.

"So the fever has caught you, Miss Anthony?" Mr. Potter was tolerantly amused. Yes, he had called hearing Southern Furnace mentioned favorably. It might be good for a flier. Why didn't Miss Anthony talk to Falk and Dennison. She might tell Grant Dennison that Potter sent her.

Miss Anthony did. And a spirit of grand recklessness, Jacqueline invested a goodly share of her bank account in Southern Furnace stock.

Mr. Jacobs was right. Southern Furnace forged slowly but surely up in price. Jacqueline sought the market reports early and often. She checked and rechecked the other for possible error. The backs of many envelopes and various bits of paper were covered with calculations. Very satisfactory in the main. Not huge profits, but they seemed so.

Irrationally, she purchased another modest block against Grant Dennison's lukewarm advice. It was evident that the latter was somewhat cool at Southern Furnace when an ambition to lead the retreat. Martin Jacobs, who, apparently, was in on some letters about that time, photo-plated the idea by remarking was amiss. "I," he hinted mysteriously, "am buying in all I can get. Hold your shares, my dear. Don't worry." Jacqueline held on and worried. Southern Furnace kept on going down. Almost in desperation she decided to have a talk with Dennison and learn the worst. He was not in when she called.

Today, he called upon her. The great dream suddenly had vanished into oblivion. Reduced to ash, in the devouring maw of Southern Furnace.

And, now, Jacqueline Anthony had gambled her future. On a wild and unheard-of flyer. For what? Was it matched-at security? Paying for it with herself.

After all, the future could not be so hopeless as it had seemed in those moments following Mr. Dennison's departure. She must have been panic-stricken. She still had her health and her work. Was it some dreadful trick of fate then?

Things of that sort never happened in real life. When she saw Mr. Cutter again she would find that it all had been a hoax. If only she never had to see him. She couldn't run away, though. She needed the Bayard worst than ever. She would tell Mr. Cutter . . .

"What? . . .

In some fashion, the day dragged to an end.

At six o'clock, she was in a quandary. She decided to give the cafeteria a wide berth, and make decision later. She put fifteen found her with a tin tray in hand staring aimlessly at arrays of food held on the counter. She finally selected chicken croquettes with cream gravy, a concoction she particularly loathed.

Jacqueline selected a table in a far corner where she could watch the door. There she nibbled nervously at the croquettes, tried to interest herself in the newspaper and stole a frequent glance at the lagging clock hands. She gave up finally and signed for Mr. Cutter.

Jacqueline breathed more easily. She would give him until seven. The paper was read now, save for the sports and financial sections. She avoided that last carefully.

"Hello, there," remarked a pleasant voice. Jacqueline looked down over a well heaped tray, was Lawrence H. Cutter of Montreal.

"So sorry I'm late." He deposited the tray on a table. "Didn't realize it was quite so late. I've been busy . . . with our contract."

Jacqueline achieved a faint "Oh" in response to Larry Cutter's breezy reference to their dealings. After all, was he what he meant by that "contract". In the face of it, the bride-to-be's formal greeting—the one she believed she had prepared—evaporated.

There was something very compelling about this man, an easy assurance in all that he said and did. Even in the cut of her he arranged his food in a methodical semi-circle and eased himself down before the display with a sigh of satisfaction.

"I'm still getting a big kick out of civilized grub," he told his companion with a boyish grin. "You don't seem to be doing so much yourself. Is there something I could get you? More coffee? Some dessert to keep me company?"

"Oh, no. Thank you."

Jacqueline instinctively secured her check, slipped it into her lap and her left writer. At least she would have the satisfaction of paying for her dinner.

"Are you through, today?" Larry's glance had travelled to the open newspaper beside Jacqueline's plate. He was attacking a thick slice of roast beef with apparent relish.

"I don't know," she lied faintly.

"Sucker game, as I figure it," Larry observed genially. "I never dabble in it. But I suppose I'll change my mind when my mining stocks climbs on the big board. If it turns out to be as good as I think, I'll slide from under at the first fair figure. We will let someone else do the worrying over the ticker tape."

Jacqueline started at his use of the word "we," but made no reply. After all, what was there to say? She nodded suddenly that she had made a mistake sitting with her face to the room. Happily, there were a few patrons left.

Larry ventured a few commonplace remarks as he proceeded leisurely through his meal. Jacqueline's replies were even more commonplace. She was busy wondering what Mr. Cutter would say after dinner, how he would introduce the dreaded topic. She felt thoroughly helpless—like a prisoner awaiting sentence.

She was not kept in suspense long. Larry summoned a bus boy and had the table cleared. Then he dragged out his inevitable briar and filled it carefully.

"Sorry I haven't a cigaret, Miss Anthony. May I send the boy for some?"

"I have a pack here."

Jacqueline produced it gratefully. Perhaps a cigaret would give her the air of composure she so badly needed. Mr. Cutter's lighted match spared her an exhibition of unsteady fingers.

"I supposed it will be all right to talk here," he suggested, after his pipe was in action. "I thought we might prefer it to the mezzanine. It was still raining cats and dogs when I came down here . . ."

"This is all right . . ." Jacqueline managed. Where was her will power?

Through a faint haze of smoke she watched Mr. Cutter burrow in an inner pocket. "Here we are," he announced gravely, spreading a paper on the table and carefully smoothing out the folds. "It doesn't look very good, I'm afraid . . . But I think you can read my writing. I've tried to cover the points we discussed today."

With

Instead of proferring the document, Larry laid his hand on it and removed his pipe from his mouth. His dark eyes were fixed intently on Jacqueline's face.

"There is one matter we should go into first," he decided thoughtfully. "Everything I've told you stands, . . . and more. But I've got to be very fair. You see, Miss Anthony, if I can . . . I told you that I didn't want to know anything about you and, perhaps, that is unfair. I'm thinking about your family . . . Do you mind if I ask about your parents? Are they living?"

"My father is." Jacqueline felt more like a prisoner than ever. Oh! The witness stand now.

"Is he here in the city?"

"No . . . I don't know exactly where he is. "Whatever made her say that!

"Oh," Larry offered contritely.

"I'm away just now. He, . . . he's an inventor." Jacqueline felt she must offer some explanation. Mr. Cutter might think that Vince was in jail, or some other unexplainable place.

"Any brothers or sisters?"

"No."

"Just your father, then . . ."

Jacqueline caught a hopeful inflection. But, you see, it occurred to me that you might have some one dependent upon you. Then it would be only fair to take them into consideration."

He picked up the paper and cast it a final worried glance. "If I have overlooked anything, you don't hesitate to say so."

He reversed the paper and pushed it across the table rather hesitantly . . . Jacqueline stared down at it. It's surface was covered with blurred lines that gradually proved to be a man's flowing handwriting. Vigorous script. There were paragraphs, boldly-numbered. She forced herself to pick up the sheet and start reading.

Cutter sat watching the expression of her face, dragging on his pipe with quick little inkales of breath.

It was like reading something in a dream. But there was no mistake in the meaning of those numbered paragraphs. They set out plainly that Jacqueline Anthony would become the wife of Larrimore H. Cutter, in consideration of certain agreements by said Cutter.

Miss Anthony was under no obligation to relinquish her maiden name, the mode of living. Save as she saw fit. The same freedom existed with regard to any association with the "said Cutter" during the life of the agreement. The marriage seemed rather an incidental thing. After six months, if she so desired, Miss Anthony might extend the terms . . . Or tear up the contract and be free.

It all was quite as she recalled the earnest oral account. All except . . .

A sudden color suffused her cheeks. She shook her head and looked up with determination showing in her blue eyes.

DUTTON IGNORANT

Calgary, Aug. 12. (CP)—If a foreign power used passports for fake hockey players to cross the International border, as charged by an Ottawa newspaper, it must be a ploy pioneered Internationally, hockey figure in Calgary knew nothing about it.

He is Marvin (Red) Dutton, president of the National Hockey League, who said "I don't know anything about spies using hockey players as passports into the United States."

The only spies connected with hockey I ever heard about or suspected are team managers looking over each others players and clubs.

Most of the inhabitants had fled to safer areas when reports of a recurrence of the disaster. Many of the buildings which withstood the first shock, crumbled during the 40-second tremor which rocked the city.
